Emergency cabinet powers lapsing after the Second World War were revived in different form with the outbreak of hostilities in Korea. The ministers were given almost unlimited powers to direct the economy and other aspects of Canadian life. A one-year extension met with strenuous opposition in the Commons this spring, but it carried.

The government's use of emergency powers in one case this year—that of banning Canadian ships from sailing to Communist Far East ports—evoked this Parliament's first instance of Liberal members voting non-confidence in the government. John L. MacDougall (Vancouver-Burrard) and A. H. Jeffery (London) voted for a Progressive Conservative motion censuring the government for use of the emergency powers with Parliament in session.

Later, a third Liberal—John S. Sinnott of Springfield, Man —voted non-confidence in the government over its wheat price policy.

TAKE SETBACK

The government ranks took another setback in the closing days of the last session—seventh of the Parliament—when a Liberal member resigned his seat after disclosures that he had been trading cheques with a contractor doing government work.

Austin E. Dewar, back-bencher from the Saskatchewan riding of Qu'Appelle, said he had not made any profit from his transactions and had committed no conscious wrong-doing. He announced he will be running again in the general election.

Mines Minister Prudham, who represents Edmonton West, also came under fire from some opposition members because a company he owns bought about $100,000 worth of Edmonton property from the government-owned Canadian National Railways without tenders being called.

But Mr. Prudham rejected demands for his resignation—apparently with cabinet backing—and told opponents they would have to wait until the election to try to unseat him.

Another move touching specifically on the commons—and setting federal precedent—was legislation to provide $3,000-a-year pensions for long-service members of the lower house.

Commons membership will be boosted, as of the coming election, under a redistribution of seats based on the latest census. The number of seats goes from 262 to 265, with some provinces gaining and some losing. The 22nd House will be the largest since Confederation.

No. 1 among measures adopted during the sittings of the 21st Parliament were the successive budgets, alternately boosting, shuffling and reducing taxes.

The 1953 budget called for an all-time high of $4,473,000,000 in spending but brought tax reductions on the basis of higher national incomes. The personal income and corporation taxes were cut, and the $2.50-a-year licence fee for radio receivers was wiped out. Tax reductions were estimated at $237,000,000 for the current fiscal year.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

Another enactment calculated to touch most Canadians now or in the future was the inauguration of universal old age pensions at 70. Federal-provincial pensions will be paid between 65 and 69 on the basis of need.

Veterans' pensions also were increased, along with those for their dependents.

Two major royal commissions operated during this Parliament. One dealt with the arts and sciences and the other with transportation.

In implementing recommendations of the first, Parliament put into effect a system of grants to universities and started off action on the establishment of a national library.

The transportation commission recommendations led to the creation of a national policy of equalizing freight rates and to a $7,000,000-a-year federal subsidy to lower rail charges on goods moving between the east and the west.

Two significant measures were adopted by Parliament in the labor field. One banned discrimination in employment or in union membership on the ground of race, color or creed. The other extended unemployment insurance coverage to persons who become sick after being put out of work.

EMERGENCY MEASURES

In 1952, emergency measures were required to cope with an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease among cattle in Saskatchewan, threatening Canada's livestock trade. Eradication measures got rid of the disease, and producers were compensated from the federal treasury for their losses. The U. S. border, closed for a year to Canadian animals, was reopened last spring.

On the political side, the 21st Parliament was marked by the greatest majority of any government in Canadian history. The 1949 election saw the return of 190 Liberals in a House of 262 members. The standing at dissolution:

Liberal, 181; Progressive Conservative, 48; CCF, 13; Social Credit, 10; Independent Liberal, one; Independent, four; vacant, five.

TOUGH DEBATES

Despite the preponderance of government members, tough debate on many issues marked every session. At the last one, the spotlight was held much of the time by opposition charges based on the report of Col. George Currie alleging maladministration in the army works service.

Another hot and heavy debate came in December, 1951, when the Progressive Conservatives fought against the outlawing of the practice of manufacturers dictating the resale price of their goods. The government threatened to apply the rarely-used "closure" method of shutting off a debate, but eventually got its measure through without resorting to it.

ALBERTA FLOODS—The most devastating flood in the history of Lethbridge, in southwestern Alberta, has forced evacuation of 150 persons, flooded the city's powerhouse and cut water supplies to less than half of normal. Torrential week-long rains swelled the Oldman River, which overflowed its banks across farm lands, highways and railroads.

Japan May Provide Market For Low-Grade B.C. Logs

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C. (CP)—An experiment which may result in a new 6,000,000-board-foot market for British Columbia lumber annually has started here with preparation of a shipment of low grade logs to Japan.

As evidence of new Japanese vigor in world trade, the freighter Yayo Maru was due here today to load 1,000,000 feet of the logs at the Columbia Cellulose Company Ltd., Rae Johnson, company woods-manager, announced.

If the logs are found satisfactory in Japan, regular shipments of this type will be made, opening "an entirely new and considerable outlet for B. C. lumber," said Mr. Johnson.

Cedar logs, with the exception of first grade quality, had been a drug on the B. C. market, although a high percentage of the lumber is logged in this northern area in the normal course of operations. The timber is unfit for pulp-making but is cut in the course of logging for pulp woods, such as balsam, spruce and hemlock.

ACCUMULATE LOGS

Mr. Johnson said some 6,000,000 feet of this type was accumulated by the Columbia Company and the same 20 small logging operators along the northern coast with which the firm does business.

"Earlier, we were able to sell or exchange these logs in the south, but we can't get rid of them at all," he said. "So we have been granted an export licence. If this experiment works, we'll be able to absorb all the cedar cut by the small operators as well."

The test shipment will be used in Japan for home-building, for timbers, rough siding and panelling. The Japanese buyers will decide whether the texture of the lumber and other qualities will meet the required standard.

"If the lumber meets the standard, we can pretty well depend on a market," said Mr. Johnson. "It will not be sold at any great profit but would well pay for the operation."

This will be the first waterborne shipment of cedar logs from Prince Rupert and the first such shipment of any kind of logs to the Orient from here.

Incidentally, the B. C. Lumber Manufacturers' Association recently announced that B. C.'s waterborne lumber exports had dropped 3,000,000 feet from March to April.

Old Marmora Store Changes Hands

MARMORA (ENS). — Arthur Sweet has sold his store and business to Charles Kelly who took possession on Wednesday.

The bakery and grocery business was first established by the late William Sweet in 1901 in a store at Main and Madoc Sts., where the Pentecostal Church now stands. The present fine block on Forsyth St. was completed in September, 1921.

On changing to the new building the name was changed to William Sweet & Son, the former's son Arthur becoming a partner at the time.

William Sweet passed away in April, 1922, but the business has been carried on ever since under the name William Sweet & Son.

Both Frank and Jennie Sweet, brother and sister of Arthur, have been associated with him in carrying on the business since 1922. Arthur will continue to assist Mr. Kelly until a new baker has been secured.

Exhibitors Find Trade Fair Worth While

TORONTO (CP)—The sixth Canadian International Trade Fair ends today after a successful two-week run.

It brought together the buyers of about 60 countries and the sellers of 27 countries. It provided a show window for the products of five continents. On the three public days, it gave the man in the street a glimpse of the wares of far-off lands in what was billed as "a trip around the world in miniature."

As the largest of the trade fairs held here by he Canadian government since 1948 drew to a close, many thousands of square feet of exhibiting space were already booked for next year.

The international gathering in three big buildings on the Canadian National Exhibition grounds on Toronto's western waterfront stirred criss-crossing currents of trade.

A German at the fair found some Belgian pots and pans he had never seen in Europe, inquired about them, and planned to order some when he returns home. A man from the Dominican Republic, seeing the same Belgian display, bought 48 dozen.

GETS 37TH ORDER

A United tates manufacturer of a $5,000 grinding machine came to Toronto with hopes of selling a couple in Canada. By mid-week he had written out his 37th order.

A new Canadian plant will go up soon near Montreal because a Dutch manufacturer of prefabricated building parts found enough interest at the trade fair to convinc him there is a market for him in Canada.

M. J. Doody, representing a Canadian subsidiary of a U. S. firm with a new system of welding, said he signed 262 orders ranging from $50 to $1,000 and obtained 3,100 business leads in both Canada and the U. S.

Besides pening up new sales fields in North America, the fair also showed some overseas manufacturers what to avoid in catering to the wants of Canada and the U. S.

LEARN THEIR MARKETS

A representative of an Irish firm said he found North Americans "too unsophisticated" to take to his hand-made goods.

The Japanese found no market for their textiles although there was interest in their toys. Almost everyone found Canada, in the midst of industrial expansion, an ideal place to sell machine tools and heavy equipment.

AEC Funds Slashed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The atomic energy commission budget was slashed Thursday as the House of Representatives appropriations committee approved an administration cut of $500,000,000 in AEC funds and added a few whacks of its own. The commission, which received $4,124,621,500 from congress this year, would get only $1,057,781,000 for the next fiscal year starting July 1 under a bill sent to the House floor for debate next week.

Council Reports Satisfaction County Home

Members of the Peterborough County Council on Thursday decided to go out and see for themselves how the Peterborough County Home on the outskirts of Lakefield is managed. After a thorough inspection that took all morning they came back satisfied that the Home is being efficiently run and the residents there well cared for.

Albert McConnell and his wife, Lila, are the new superintendent and matron at the Home, and their work since they took over a couple of months ago drew praise from all members of the county council.

Reeves James Gifford of Ennismore Township and William E. Griffith of Belmont-Methuen Township were sponsors of a motion commending Mr. and Mrs. McConnell for their work.

WELL LOOKED AFTER

"I don't see how any fair-minded person could say, after inspecting the Home, that the residents aren't well looked after," said Reeve Griffith.

Warden Ernest J. Leeson agreed.

Reeve Rork Ferguson said he thought that the barn and other outbuildings should be painted so the Home would look more attractive. And Reeve Dick Stewart of Otonabee Township suggested that a sign be erected so that passersbys can identify the Home.

There are 20 men and women at the Home which is located on a 20-acre farm. Last year the weekly cost per resident was cut by $3 a week. This was largely because of the beginning of the Old Age Pension without means test which resulted in extra revenue for the Home. Weekly cost per resident in 1952 was $6.52.

The plan is to improve North American air defences. Volunteers learn charting process in plotting room.

County Takes Havelock Road

More than a mile of roadway in Havelock has been taken over as a county road extension.

Warden Ernest J. Leeson, Reeve of Havelock, was successful in this request on Thursday afternoon. He was backed by a letter from the village council.

"We feel in Havelock that we should have some consideration," he said. "We pay the same rate as anybody else into the county roads system and yet we get nothing for it. We have no bridges but we pay the bridge rate. True, we get the county grader, but we pay the present rate."

The new county road extension includes all of George, Quebec and Ontario Sts., and all of Concession St. from Ontario St. to Highway 7. It runs slightly more than 5,400 feet.

Warden Leeson's motion was seconded by Reeve William E. Griffith, of Belmont-Methuen township. An amendment to have the matter laid over until all the particulars could be investigated —proposed by Reeve James Gifford, of Ennismore township, and Deputy-Reeve Dave McIntyre, of Otonabee township—was defeated.

Acceptance of the Havelock roads as a county road extension depends on the approval of the Department of Highways.

Cauliflowers, English Inns Discussed In Bylaw Trial

Cauliflowers and old English inns were discussed in city police court Thursday as two charges under city bylaws were heard.

The question of cauliflowers came up when the court heard a charge against Harry McKnight of placing or exposing goods on the street in front of his grocery store at 684 Armour Rd.

PC Bert Howden gave evidence that he found several boxes of plants in front of the store between the sidewalk and the travelled portion of the street on the afternoon of May 15.

He said he asked McKnight to move them and McKnight said they would be moved by 6 o'clock. Asked by Defense Counsel Trevor plants among them, PC Howden Clarke if there were any tomato said he believed there were.

"Were there any cauliflowers?" asked City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, who prosecuted.

"I don't know," the constable replied.

ASKS DISMISSAL

Mr. Clarke then moved for dismissal on the grounds that McKnight was charged with exposing "foods". But this proved to be an error in the wording of the information and Mr. Clarke submitted there was no evidence as to who had exposed the plants on the street.

Mr. Clarke also argued that there was provision in the bylaw for one hour for "opening, emptying or taking in" goods, but Mr. Huycke submitted that this referred to opening boxes, crates or bales.

The magistrate ruled that the provision did not refer to the section under which McKnight was charged and adjourned the hearing until June 22 for further argument by the defense.

Whether or not the words "carrying on business" in a city bylaw refer to serving customers or permitting them to be on the premises proved to be the crucial point in a charge against Bruce Brooks of keeping his premises "Jerry's Inn" at 405 George St. open after midnight.

Evidence of PCs William G. Scott and Arthur Beardsmore was that they had seen two persons enter the premises at 12:25 a.m. May 17 and they had gone in at 12:35 and found seven people inside. Two of them stated they had entered at 12:20 and been served.

EVIDENCE FLIMSY

"I submit the evidence is flimsy," Brooks said. "Maybe two peole entered and they happened to get served. We're not in the habit of breaking the bylaw."

"I'm putting this case on the ground that it's just like the old inns in England and the beverage rooms where they're required to close on time," Mr. Huycke said.

"I've heard hearsay evidence in this court that customers in beverage rooms order several drinks before closing time and then stay around drinking them," the magistrate said.

"I'm referring to the old English inns where the proprietor calls 'Gentlemen,' a bell is rung and that's it," Mr. Huycke said.

"You would say that 'carrying on business' does not mean serving them, it means permitting them to be on the property?" His Worship asked.

"Yes. He should have his premises closed by midnight," Mr. Huycke said.

"I'd like to see some cases on that phrase," His Worship said, adjourning the hearing until June 18.

Erroneous Position Delays Power Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prentiss M. Brown, chairman of Detroit Edison Company, says an "erroneous" position taken by the federal power commission is holding up the proposed pooling of Michigan and Canadian power.

Brown, former Democratic senator from Michigan, Thursday urged the Senate commerce committee to pass a bill that would knock down the FPC contention.

The bill, by Senator Charles Potter (Rep. Mich.), would exempt foreign sales of power by a company not engaged in interstate commerce from regulation by the FPC.

Brown said such legislation is necessary for a planned hookup of Detroit Edison's steam-electric system and the hydro-electric system of Ontario.

Fear Costs Market Threat

BIGWIN INN, Ont. (CP)—The Canadian pulp and paper industry, which accounts for about one of every seven dollars earned by Canadians, faces vigorous competition in world markets, the president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association said today.

R. M. Fowler told the 37th annual meeting of the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada that the industry must concentrate on cutting costs or lose out in the export market.

In a speech prepared for delivery at this Muskoka area summer resort, he said:

"I am convinced that nothing can stop the advance of this industry over the long run, but action taken now can profoundly improve our position or retard our progress over the short run."

In the last two years, pulp and paper exports accounted for 23 per cent of all Canadian exports. Canadian newsprint now totals 81 per cent of all newsprint moving in international trade.

But costs, including government levies and wage rates, have risen. He suggested that it would be "the part of wisdom for labor in its own long-term interests to consolidate its gains and refrain from adding to costs of production that are already too high."

2 Unions Pledge No Raiding

DETROIT (AP)—Two large labor unions—one CIO, the other AFL—signed a "solidarity" pact Thursday pledging no raiding of each other's membership, and close cooperation in collective bargaining.

The accord was reached between the CIO-United Auto Workers and the AFL-International Association of Machinists. They claim a combined membership of more than 2,000,000 workers.

Walter P. Reuther, president of the CIO and UAW, called the agreement "virtually unprecedented" in American labor history.

Announcement of the signing was made jointly by Reuther and IAM president Al J. Hayes. It has been approved by the governing bodies of both unions.

LONDON (Reuters)—A flying triangle jet airliner has been designed to carry more than 100 passengers through the stratosphere from here to New York in less than six hours—and return the same day.

It puts Britain "six years ahead of any competition from the United States," Sir Miles Thomas, chairman of British Overseas Airways Corporation, said today.

The Avro Atlantic—with delivery dates set for 1958—will fly nonstop from London to New York, cruising at more than 600 miles an hour at 40,000 feet. It will carry between 90 and 113 passengers.

The astronomer, identified as Prof. Tikhov, 78, said vegetation on the planet Venus, where it's hotter, would be orange or red due to heat rays' reflection.

The actual winner of the sixth annual race, a handicap event, will be determined after Saturday noon, the deadline for finishing, on basis of speed and equipment of the planes and actual flying time. Stop-over time does not count.

The winner gets $600 of a $2,000 purse and the Eddie Rickenbacker Trophy.

Einstein Says Intellectuals Should Refuse To Testify

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Albert Einstein said in a letter made public Thursday that "every intellectual" should refuse to testify before a United States congressional investigating committee.

The letter was received by teacher William Frauenglass, who faces loss of his job for refusing to testify before the Senate internal security sub-committee.

In his letter, dated May 16, the physicist said in part:

"The reactionary politicians have managed to instill suspicion of all intellectual efforts into the public by dangling before their eyes a danger from without.

"Having succeeded so far they are now proceeding to suppress the freedom of teaching and to deprive of their positions all those who do not prove submissive, i.e., to starve them.

SHOULD REFUSE

"Every intellectual who is called before one of the committees ought to refuse to testify, i.e., he must be prepared for jail and economic ruin, in short, for the sacrifice of his personal welfare in the interest of the cultural welfare of his country.

"This refusal to testify must be based on the assertion that it is shameful for a blameless citizen to submit to such an inquisition and that this kind of inquisition violates the spirit of the constitution.

"If enough people are ready to take this grave step they will be successful. If not, then the intellectuals of this country deserve nothing better than the slavery which is intended for them."

WOULD RALLY EDUCATORS

Frauenglass, a teacher for more than 23 years, said he wrote to Einstein at Princeton, N.J., May 9, asking for a statement to help "in rallying educators and the public to meet this obscurantist attack."

His congressional appearance, Frauenglass said, stemmed from lectures he gave six years ago for teachers. The course, "techniques of intercultural teaching," was criticized by a committee witness as being "against the interests of the United States."

Frauenglass said he based his refusal to answer committee questions regarding his political affiliations "on principled constitutional grounds."

The New York City charter states that any city employee may be fired if he refuses to answer official questions by pleading possible self-incrimination under the fifth amendment to the Constitution.

Rust Resistant Wheat Has Few Chromosomes

WINNIPEG (CP)—Alberta-born Robert McGinnis has a way with chromosomes.

Working in a laboratory at the University of Manitoba, the bespectacled, University of Alberta graduate is manoeuvring the chromosomes of wheat cells to produce a variety that is completely rust resistant. Rust is the worst enemy of bread wheat.

The secret lies in the number of chromosomes in a cell. Wild wheat varieties that are highly rust-resistant have only seven but they are also of low commercial value. Bob is busy crossing these with domestic varieties of high commercial value with 21 chromosomes but a low resistance to rust.

He has worked two years on the project and expects to clean it up in about four more—if he's lucky.

His first problem was the sterility of his first hybrid wheat, the cross between a wild variety and the domestic durham.

He solved this one by treating the sterile wheat with a drug called colchicine which gave the sterile chromosomes fertility and allowed priced remedy. Colchicine costs $9 him to continue crossing the hybrid with other varieties. It was a high-priced remedy. Colchicine cost $9 a gram—seven times as much as gold.

He has since crossed the hybrid with ordinary wheat twice but several more crosses will be required to eliminate undesirable qualities without losing the rust-resistance. By that time the problem will be for the cerealists in their field plots.

Bob is the only cyto-geneticist at the rust laboratory and is studying for his doctorate at the university in his spare time. He is adept at handling the microscopic camera and has identified and photographed rust spore chromosomes for the first time in history. It is important knowledge about a dangerous enemy.

MARMORA (ENS).— The annual dinner of the Holy Name Society of Sacred Heart Church was held in the Parish Hall with an attendance of more than 100. Catering was by the Catholic Women's League of the parish.

President Charles Lajoie, following the Royal toast, gave the annual report. The Rev. J. A. O'Neill, parish priest, introduced the guest speaker, the Rev. Dr. J. A. Bethany WI Hears History Of World Organization

BETHANY (ENS).—The Women's Institute were entertained at the home of Mrs. Leslie Challice in Cavan.

The roll call was answered by "A program I would like for the future," and the suggestions received will be featured during the coming term. Further progress was reported in connection with remodelling the town hall basement and installation of kitchen equipment. The Coronation dance to raise funds for this project netted $35.05 and a donation of $25.00 was acknowledged from the Ladies Orange Lodge.

The Associated Country Women of The World will meet for Canada Day in Toronto in August and five members from the Bethany Institute are delegated to attend. Mrs. William Armstrong, Millbrook, president of East Durham district, attended the meeting and spoke briefly on the district annual meeting at Baliieboro.

JURY DUTY

Mrs. Armstrong also urged that through local branches of Chambers of Commerce, the WI enquire more about jury duty for women and study what is required of those serving on a jury.

Mrs. Armstrong also spoke on the conservation of natural resources: "It should be the concern of every citizen to see that our natural resources are preserved. Soil conservation keeps top soil out of lakes and streams and helps reduce floods. Contour plowing has proved a help in this respect. Reforesting is another conservation method."

Mrs. A. H. Monk gave a paper on the history of The Associated Country Women of the World and constituent societies. The year 1797 is the first recorded date of the foundation of an organization of farm women. In that year Finland recognized the Agricultural Women's Organization.

By the end of the 19th century, rural women's organizations were springing up, quite unknown to each other, in Germany, Canada and Scandinavia. In the years that ensued a few imaginative and courageous women followed a star which was to link millions of countrywomen in one grand international organization.

The first Women's Institute was formed at Stoney Creek, Ont., in 1897. The first clearly visible step towards an international organization was taken in 1923. In 1929, 23 countries were represented at an international conference of rural women's organizations in London, England. In 1930 the first national conference was held in Holland and interest continued to grow. This year the conference will be held in Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto. "The Associated County Women of the World have an important task. There is no other organization that can so bind the people of the world together," the speaker concluded.

Mrs. T. Jennings entertained with several songs, playing her own guitar accompaniment. Mrs. T. S. Gault read a poem "Casey At The Bat." Mrs. Challice gave a demonstration of how to make bound buttonholes as taught in the girls' sewing class. Mrs. A. H. Monk was the winner of the lucky chair prize. Mrs. D. Nill, president of Cavan WI, spoke briefly of work in her own branch.

The singing of the National Anthem closed the meeting. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Rupert Woods, Mrs. H. Bristow, Mrs. R. W. Price and Mrs. T. Jennings served lunch. Mrs. T. J. Jackson expressed the thanks of the members to Mrs. Challice for the use of her home, to the visiting speakers and all who had assisted. There will be no meetings held during July and August.

Actually, it was a member of parliament, who was not speaking for the government but expressing his views that missionaries should no longer be allowed to teach Christian doctrine. The Indian government gives freedom to all to teach their religion so long as force is not used.

Mrs. Butler showed an exhibit of handiwork from India and Mrs. M. E. Hobbs showed the miniature African village done by her sister's, Miss Edith Clarke's, CGIT group.

THE MOVIE COLUMN:

Vaudeville Return Limited Believes Comic Danny Kaye

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD AP)—Can the old two-a-day vaudeville come back?

"I'm afraid not," says its leading practitioner of modern times, Danny Kaye. The comic has played to sell-out audiences at New York's Palace, the London Palladium, the Curran in San Francisco and other noted theatres.

His example has stirred hopes that bigtime vaudeville might again rise to the glory which it held in the first three decades this century. Every sizeable city had at least one vaudeville house and som etimes more. Those days will not return, says Kaye.

"There aren't enough situations for an actor to appear 50 weeks out of the year, as in the old days," he remarked. "You can only play a vaudeville show in certain big cities.

NOT ENOUGH ACTS

"Besides, there aren't enough acts to go around. The only ones who have tried to do vaudeville on the old scale are myself, Judy Garland, Jack Benny and Betty Hutton. That isn't enough to keep a circuit going."

Despite his pessimistic outlook, he was enthusiastic about vaudeville for those who can do it.

"It's the greatest business in the world. It's even better than the old two-a-day. You don't have to do two shows a day—only matinees on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Otherwise you only do one show a night."

His "one show" is a rigorous workout, however. Kaye stays on stage for an hour and 40 minutes of dancing, singing, telling jokes and generally cutting up.

But, as anyone who has caught his act will testify, he certainly enjoys his work.

VERY PROFITABLE

It's not only fun, but profitable.

Amazingly so, as Kaye admits.

"Take a show like 'Oklahoma!'" he observed. "It represents an investment of perhaps $250,000 to $300,000. It has a cast of perhaps 40 to 50 people and carloads of scenery and costumes. It can play a theatre in San Francisco and make $45,000 a week, which is good business.

"Then I play the same house. I carry my whole show in one small suitcase. I take along five vaudeville acts and no scenery. This show can draw $50,000 for the week."

Kaye has earned such fantastic figures wherever he plays. In his 14th and last week during his recent stand at the Palace in New York, he drew $55,000. His share of the receipts has been reported in excess of $25,000.

Mrs. Bruce Charlton, treasurer, reported a balance of $107. The business was in charge of the president, who asked that the reading reports be brought up to date and handed to Miss Oro Dunford, the new literature secretary, who replaces Mrs. W. H. Tonge. Mrs. Brown also stated that Miss Irene Madill, literature secretary for the Missionary and Service Club, had books at her home for missionary reading that could be borrowed by WMS members.

Comfort bags are being prepared for shipment to a leper colony and Mrs. Percy Spence, Mrs. Hilliard McCracken and Mrs. Brown were appointed a committee to be in charge of them. Members were asked for donations of sewing needles, toys, wool, etc., to be used in filling the bags.

A birthday box will be used as a means of raising funds, it was decided. Tea was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Ora Dunford and Mrs. Tanner.

They were in frocks of green and mauve net over taffeta and they wore matching floral caps and carried nosegays of white 'mums and pink carnations. The groom was attended by Allan Hutchinson. Ushers were twin brothers of the bride, Fred and Edwin Anderson, and Larry and Marshall Fallis.

The reception was held in the parish hall with the bride's mother receiving, dressed in powder blue and wearing white accessories and a corsage of red and white roses. The groom's mother was wearing navy and white ensemble and she had a similar corsage of roses.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and the United States, the bride wore a Queen's blue dress with white hat and accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Ball will live on the groom's farm at Millbrook.

Denim No Shrinking Violet But Now Fashion's Queen

To those women who work either in a home or at the office, a sturdy wardrobe is vitally important. We wear our clothes hard and seem to have less and less time to take care of them. So we have a vested interest in fabrics which promise beauty and extra performance.

For this reason, women who must work hard but who must also look smart, are extremely interested in the radical change which has come over the material called denim, in the last decade.

Yes, denim is really going places and winning the hearts of Canadian women for its smart styling and sturdy wearing qualities. Proof of denim's wearing qualities was conclusively tested during the last war when over 100,000,000 yards were worn by U.K. forces.

Denim no longer shrinks as it did 20 years ago. Then it was a stiffish, dark blue fabric which nobody really enjoyed wearing except in work overalls or smocks. Today denims are smart enough to travel in or pretty enough to wear for dining and dancing. And there are a host of "separates" designed in denim, which range from swirling skirts to coverall jackets.

Twenty years ago, this material shrank almost three to five inches per yard. It used to be that farmers and carpenters bought their overalls several sizes too big, expecting that they would shrink. They shrank all right — like the proverbial "socks on the rooster."

The first wave of the magic wand occurred in the mid-thirties with the appearance of the Sanforized label on work clothes. This meant that these denims would no longer shrink out of fit. For the first time work clothes could be bought in correct sizes. Workers applauded. So did the dairies and factories, service stations and other large companies.

Dude ranches have the claim to fame for first attracting the fair sex to wear this sturdy fabric. Soon all sorts of slick ranch fashions appeared. Then denim stopped being suburban and became cosmopolitan. Women began to bring the denim of the cowboys into their home territory. They started to wear it for active sports.

Soon this sturdy pioneer in fabrics marched gallantly through the 40's with more and more popularity. Lighter weight versions of the material appeared and it was dyed to pastel shades. Now the latest innovation is white denim.

THE SOCIAL SUCCESS of denim is due to no fashion leader's whim. This former working clothes fabric sparkles in the best circles now because the Sanforized label gives assurance that it will not shrink out of fit. Formerly it used to shrink as much as 12 to 14 per cent. Glitter trim can go safely into the wash.

Now whether it's morning, noon or night, there's a denim style to meet the need of the most discriminating woman. Yes, they're wearing denim all around the clock. They love it because it washes so well, and providing it has the Sanforized label, washes without shrinking. They know they can do anything in denim — wash the car, paint, or abuse the material in a multitude of ways. And it comes out of the washtub looking smart.

Methods of washing denim have come a long way too. You just have to pitch it into the washing machine, along with the rest of the wash. An occasional dip in plastic starch is a good idea if you prefer the garment crisp. Just sprinkle and iron damp. The result will be a garment as pretty and fresh as a bright spring posy.

Local Buyers See Fall '53 Fashions

A number of retail women's clothiers from Peterborough attended the first showing of fashions and fabrics for fall 1953 presented by the Toronto Dress Manufacturers' Guild at the King Edward Hotel Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

They report little that was extremely new but much that is smart and wearable, in fact they found the entire show in line with the conservative taste of Peterborough women.

The new materials had slightly different textures with a fleecy but glossy effect and the coats followed the full hanging silhouette. One of the most beautiful was a wrap-around style. Cashmeres were still favorites in fitted coats. Camel hair turned up in an interesting winter suit.

A boat neck, one-piece boucle dress with sequin trim from the show is expected in shortly and will likely be a favorite for the holiday traveller. The dress and jacket is to carry on throughout the day and in the late day dresses will continue to have a shoulder bolero covering a bare top.

It was the first time that this particular show has included examples of children's wear.

Country Women To Meet Aug. 12-23

TORONTO — How country women the world over can take a more active part in international work will be the theme of the seventh triennial conference of the Associated Country women of the world in Toronto August 12-23, it has been announced here. Delegates are expected to attend from 25 different countries.

Since its beginning more than 50 years ago in the small Ontario village of Stoney Creek, the Womens Institute idea has spread around the world. Now the international organiaztion of rural women, the A. C. W. W., which was formed in Stockholm in 1933, has grown from being a group of women informally promoting world-wide goodwill and friendship to being the responsible spokesman at the United Nations for more than five million women around the world. The agenda during the ten crowded session-days in Toronto will spotlight this modern role of the Association.

Round-table discussions will deal with the problems and programs of rural women in less developed areas, techincal assistance programs for rural women, education or rural youth to a better world understanding, and ways and means of spreading information about the U. N. and its agencies.

Recognizing that the production of food is agriculture's particular contribution to peace, delegates will study the economic problems of people living on the land. Other sessions will deal with conservation, adult education programs and the widespread international exchange programs fostered by the A. C. W. W.

Short Hairdos Hit With The Stars For Summer Wear

The short hairdo has hit Hollywood with the impetus of a new craze. One of the most ardent enthusiasts in Janet Leigh, who has cut her beautiful blonde hair in the new Italiain boy bob.

The summer hairdos are designed for coolness, versatility and a change of personality. In all events, the summer shorties are casual. Many young Hollywood stars are cutting their hair short, uneven and frequently changing their part. Many people change their part for their scalps sake, but more often it is the desire to come up with a new self.

Make - up expert Walley Westmore cautions, however, that the older women keep her hair length no shorter than the tip of her ear. For the fortunate who have curly hair the close crop is a blessing. A quick brushing frequently during the day will keep the coifure looking just right. All this requires is frequent shampooing and constant brushing. The less fortunate can get permanent waves and help themselves along by setting their own hair in fat curls.

The new trend of cutting one's own hair with a cuticle scissors is not highly recommended. Hair cutting should be done by an expert.

The new hairdo calls for a minimum of makeup to continue the all over fresh casual appeal. With hair brushed away from the face, the eyes often have a more wide-eyed look. Westmore also cautions against any eye shadow for daytime wear.

The Italian trend of casual hair styling is perfect for basking in the sun and surf diving. However, even though the hair is short, be sure you protect it from sun and salt water.

Urge 'Look Twice' Before Spending On A Luxury

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario women were urged Thursday to look twice before spending the family pay cheque on a luxury item.

The advice came from Mrs. Clifton Graban of Ottawa at a meeting which re-elected her president of the Ontario provincial branch of the Canadian Association of Consumers.

She said women are largely responsible for luxury spending because they usually hold the family purse strings.

Mrs. Graban said federal statistics just released on luxury spending "alarm and stagger one." She said Canada's liquor bill last year was the largest in history, with Ontario the leading province at $228,000,000 for liquor consumption.

"We are spening more for jewelry than for education."

The Association's membership increased 75 per cent in Ontario last year, said Mrs. Graban.

Chosen vice-presidents were Mrs. U. Jones, Oshawa; Mrs. Alan Collard, Ridgeway; Mrs. W. B. Harvey and Mrs. E. G. Pleva, London; and Mrs. Herbert Gordon and Mrs. W. P. M. Kennedy, Toronto.

DOROTHY DIX:

Young Man From Europe Thinks Girls Mercenary

DEAR MISS DIX: In my country young people in love don't care very much for money; they think true love is the best thing to insure happy married life.

What does the American girl want from a man? I've been in this country fifteen months, and am now in the Army. So far I haven't met an American girl, but I do understand that unless a young man has money, girls won't go out with him. I'm 21, and would like very much to know how to become acquainted with the young ladies here. Do you think my qualifications of good character, personable looks and good education would appeal to them?

LEO

ANSWER: You have certainly been misled if you believe that our girls are concerned more with money than with good character. They are as much interested in love as girls anywhere else in the world. However, the fact that money is important to married life cannot be ignored. One may wax poetical and declaim that the world is well lost for love, but rent and food can be purchased with nothing but money.

ENCHANTMENT OF DISTANCE

Perhaps, in your case, distance lends enchantment to the view, for I'm sure if you stopped to give an honest evaluation of your native land's economy, you would have to agree that young men and women there give at least as much importance to money as they do here. Our girls are far from mercenary, and the fact that you haven't met any you like might indicate that you expected too much of them in other ways. Naturally if you're looking for a Hollywood glamor girl with home instincts, you won't find one readily, but if you really want to meet the fine girls of whom we are so proud, put a little effort into your search—in the right direction, be sure—and you'll be rewarded. As a starter, try the U.S.O. near your camp.

DEAR MISS DIX: I was married five years ago at the age of 15. I have a four-year-old boy. My husband is in service and is stationed in Germany. A few days ago I had a letter from him saying that he had fallen in love with a German girl and wanted a divorce from me. He says if I refuse his request, he can get the divorce without it. I wrote back saying that I would not give him the divorce. Was I wrong?

MRS. R. W.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are right to refuse the divorce, and are to be commended for your efforts to keep your family together. Your husband apparently isn't able to cope with problems as well as you, and when he was lonely, he turned to the first available person for comfort. He probably isn't in love at all but simply thinks he is. If your letter fails to bring him to a realization of his mistake, have your clergyman write him. Contacting a chaplain in Germany, with an appeal for his intercession, may bring results. In any event, hold your family together by refusing the divorce.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 14, and like a boy of 16. We went together for six months, then suddenly he broke off with me. Now, I have found out he is going with another girl. My friends tell me he still likes me and is just stringing the other girl along.

DESPERATE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Perhaps your friends are just stringing you along. If the boy cared more for you, there's no reason why he should be more attentive to someone else. The remedy here is a new boy friend for you.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a junior in high school, and associate with a fine group of boys and girls. The trouble is that the boys treat me like a sister. They play games and joke with me, but that's as far as it goes. I'm never asked for a date. How can I make them take more than a brotherly interest in me? Please send me your leaflet, "The Way to a Boy's Heart."

V. J.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You didn't give me your name and address, consequently I'm unable to send the leaflet you requested. As for your problem, I assure you that in spite of your distress, you are quite lucky. You have no difficulty capturing the interest of boys, which is the first and big step in acquiring popularity. Continue being as friendly as you are, and the dates will soon come.

Readers' Friday Column By Mary Moore

Question: Would you have any recipes for rhubarb? Such as jams, preserves, puddings, beverages, wine. My husband and I have such an abundance drowing this year we want to use it up as soon as it matures . . . Mrs. Robert W. R.

Answer: I hope you saw the recipe for Rhubarb Sauce in last Monday's column.

RHUBARB CONSERVE—Gather young, tender rhubarb and after washing, trimming and draining, weigh it. To each 1 lb. rhubarb allow 2 lbs. sugar, 1 orange, 2 lemons, ½ to 1 cup blanched almonds, and ¼ teaspoon salt. Cut rhubarb into 1-inch pieces but do not peel it. Peel the oranges and lemons and boil the skin in 1 cup water 5 minutes. Discard the water and seeds and chop the skin and pulp. Chop the almonds. Combine rhubarb, orange and lemon pulp and skin, and sugar and salt. Heat slowly until sugar dissolves, then boil rapidly until it becomes somewhat thickened. Add almonds, boil ½ minute, then pour into sterile jam jars or sealers and seal.

STRAWBERRY AND RHUBARB JAM — Wash, drain and hull berries. Wash and trim young tender rhubarb and cut in 1-inch pieces. Use 1 lb. rhubarb to each lb. berries. To each 2 lbs. combined fruit allow 1½ to 2 lbs. sugar, Cover the rhubarb with some of the sugar and allow it to stand for an hour or so to extract some of the juices. Crush berries and mix with the remaining sugar, then mix with rhubarb. Heat slowly until sugar dissolves, stirring. Stir while it boils 15 minutes or until somewhat thickened. Pour into sterile jars or sealers and seal.

RHUBARB PUNCH

(Serves Ten)

Cut clean rhubarb in small pieces. Measure 4 cups and add 4 cups water. Cook until very soft and strain through cloth. Add 2 cups sugar to juice and grated rind of 1 orange and 1 lemon. Bring to boil. Remove from heat and add ½ cup orange juice, 1-3 cup lemon juice, ⅛ teaspoon salt Chill. When ready to serve add an equal quantnty of ginger ale and 1 or 2 ice cubes to each glass.

RHUBARB CRUNCH

Crumb Mixture: Mix together 1 cup sifted flour, ¾ cup raw oat meal, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, and into them blend ½ cup soft or melted butter until crumbly. Press half of this into a buttered 9-inch baking dish. Cover with 4 cups diced rhubarb. The Syrup Mixture: Mix together 1 cup sugar and 2 tablespoons cornstarch and stir in 1 cup boiling water until thick. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Pour this over the raw rhubarb in dish. Cover with remaining half of crumb mixture. Bake at 350 degrees Fahr. for 1 hour.

LETTER: I have been interested in your recent resipes for fig bars . . . I was surprised to see no mention of lemon in the filling. My dough is much the same as yours but my filling is: 1 cup chopped figs (Smyrna ones are best), ½ cup brown sugar, grated rind 1 lemon, 1 cup boiling water, 2 tablespoons flour. (Mix the flour with the sugar, stir in the water and add the rind and figs, and cook until jam-like.) I add a little lemon juice too until it tastes or smells right.—Mrs. L. M. G.

ANSWER: Thank you for this variation of fig bar filling.

QUESTION: Please give me recipe for chili sauce made from bought canned tomatoes. We have eaten all the chili sauce I made last fall from tomatoes picked in our garden. Now the whole family are yelling for more. We do not like the bought kinds. Too hot.—Margaret S.

ANSWER:

CHILI SAUCE

(From Canned Tomatoes)

Four and one-half 28-oz. tins tomatoes, 6 peeled medium onions, 3 seeded green peppers, two cups chopped celery (some leaves may be included), 1½ cups sugar 2 tablespoons salt, 3 cups vinegar, 3 teaspoons each whole cloves and whole allspice, 4 3-inch sticks cinnamon. Tie spices loosely in cheesecloth bag and add to all remaining ingredients. Cook slowly uncovered for 2 hours or until thick. Remove spice bag and pour into sterile jars and seal.

NOTE TO "HOT" CHILI SAUCE LOVERS: If desired, vinegar may be increased to 4 cups and whole cloves and allspice to 4 teaspoons each.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

15,000 Canadians Confined To Beds Or Wheelchairs

By JOAN BARBERIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

One in every 20 persons in Canada has some form of rheumatism or arthritis.

Of these, about 15,000 are confined to beds or wheelchairs with one or another of the various forms of the disease.

Rheumatoid arthritis is the most serious type, and its main victims are housewives between 20 and 40 years of age. The Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society was formed five years ago to fight this widespread ailment, one of the major achievements being 44 mobile physiotherapy units across the country.

HELPFUL HINTS

The society has advice to help the partially disabled to run their households, which may also prove a time and strength - saver for others.

For instance, it takes three times more energy to stand than to sit, and use of a chair or kitchen stool is advocated. It should have adequate back support and a foot rest. Mount wheels on back legs of the stool 2½ inches above the floor so that it can be tilted and wheeled about easily yet stand firm when in use.

A lap board which can be pulled out like a bread board to provide a working surface should be about 25 inches from the floor. Measure the work chair, or stool, so that the elbows are the same height from the work board when sitting as when standing. This should give greater comfort.

The door on the refrigerator should open on the side nearest the work counter or table so that food may be brought out without moving around the equipment. A small tea cart or table on wheels also reduces needless trips

Consider weight when purchasing cooking pans, mixing bowls and other kitchen articles.

USEFUL GADGETS

Keep an eye out for such things as egg beaters which may be operated by one hand; pot lids for use by weak fingers; long-handled dippers; rolling pins, slicers and graters for use with one hand. Rubber suction cups are excellent to hold mixing bowls steady.

Place by the main work centres ing centre — the equipment and in your kitchen—stove, sink, mix-materials you use for each.

Take other short cuts. Cook many vegetables unpeeled and make one-dish meals to cut down preparation and clean - up time. Drop biscuits or cookies will save you the rolling and handling of dough that goes with most baking.

The size of a kitchen is an important factor for the handicapped. A woman working from a wheel chair needs a fairly large kitchen. A small "L" shaped kitchen is recommended for those who have trouble walking.

A handy-man around the house can think up many ways to help a disabled person in the kitchen. Revolving corner shelves, like lazy Susans, put otherwise useless corner space to excellent use and are simple to make.

Above all, don't be too fussy. Practice what the Arthritis and Rheumatism Society calls "a little intelligent neglect."

Sponsored Broadcasts Important Church Issue

TORONTO (CP)—The 97th general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada ended Thursday after eight days of business.

Dr. John McNab, editor of the Presbyterian Record, and spokesman for the church, said he felt the assembly accomplished much this year on behalf of the church.

He said probably the most important decision to come out of the assembly was the one to ban radio and television sponsorship for religious broadcasts.

Dr. McNab said advances have been made to the church by sponsors to duplicate the sort of TV program made popular in the United States by Bishop Fulton J. Sheen of the Roman Catholic Church.

"The assembly feels that such programs should be for the glory of God and not for the benefit of sponsor's products," said Dr. McNab.

Senators Seek Definition Damaged Wheat

WASHINTGON (AP)—Senators today sought a more precise definition for wheat unfit for human consumption.

A judiciary sub-committee directed its staff counsel to confer at St. Paul with M. W. Thatcher, president of the Grain Terminal Association, and other grain industry leaders on a new definition for tariff purposes.

Here's the problem:

Under tariff laws, wheat having 30 per cent or more of damaged kernels is designated as unfit for human consumption. Such wheat comes into the U. S.—chiefly from Canada—at a duty averaging 7½ cents a bushel as compared with 21 cents for better-grade wheat.

In the last three years some 60,000,000 bushels have been imported from Canada, adding to an already heavy American surplus.

Such wheat is supposed to be used only for animal feed and industrial purposes.

MADE INTO FLOUR

But senators have found that this low-duty wheat—which by food and drug law regulations is fit, nutritious and palatable—has been blended by millers with higher-grade wheat and made into flour.

So, Senator Clinton Anderson (Dem. N. M.) said, the U. S. government has been deprived of import payments rightfully due it. Additionally, the flour made partially from this grade wheat has been exported under the international wheat agreement and some millers have been paid a subsidy, the committee found.

The decision to try to devise a new definition for damaged wheat comes as the sub-committee considered a bill by Senator Milton Young (Rep. N. D.) and Anderson. It would prohibit the blending of wheat imported as unfit for human consumption with wheat suitable for human consumption.

This legislation would call for a $5,000 fine for each offence or imprisonment for two years or both.

Liberals Name Major Candidate

VANKLEEK HILL (CP) — The second of the two Liberal Associations in the consolidated Glengarry - Prescott riding Thursday night nominated W. J. Major as its candidate in the forth-coming federal election.

Mr. Major, of nearby Green Valley, now is Liberal MP for Glengarry riding. The ridings of Prescott and Glengarry were merged last year for the federal election.

Mr. Major's nomination follows the nomination Tuesday of Raymond Bruneau of nearby Hawkesbury as the other of the consolidated ridings "official candidates."

Mr. Bruneau, now Liberal MP for Prescott, drew unanimous support from the other Liberal Association in the consolidated riding.

One speaker at Thursday night's nomination meeting was George J. McIlraith, Liberal MP for Ottawa West and parliamentary assistant to Defence Production Minister Howe.

The two Liberal Associations so far have refused to combine.

Safety Lessons Help To Reduce Accidents

KINGSTON (CP) 8 teaching some motorists how to drive safely has reduced automobile accidents by 50 per cent, C. W. Gilchrist of Ottawa, managing director of the Canadian Good Roads Association, said Thursday.

Addressing a meeting of the Ontario traffic conference, he said this development demonstrated how education helped one aspect of the traffic problem. It was logical to expect education to be of benefit in other ways.

Privately operated driving schools may be found in most large Canadian cities. A few communities, including Kitchener, give driving courses in the secondary schools.

Detroit Pastor Top Presbyterian Official

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — Rev. Samuel Carson Weir, pastor of a suburban Detroit church since his ordination 24 years ago, took over today as the top official of the United Presbyterian Church of North America.

Dr. Weir, a native of Washington county, Pa., was elected moderator or president of the church's 95th general assembly without opposition and by unanimous vote Wednesday night. He succeeds Dr. James Leon Kelso, a professor at Pittsburgh-Xenia seminary, Pittsburgh.

Woman Dies At 104

TORONTO (CP)—The funeral was held Thursday of Mrs. Chris Chreston, who would have been 105 in August. She came to Canada 35 years ago from Greece, where her late husband was philosophy professor at Salonika University, and for six years lived in Brandon, Man.

Secretary To GBS

SIMCOE (CP) — Mrs. Kenneth McDonald Buffin, 48, the former Winifred Jean Andrews, died at her home Thursday following a lengthy illness. A native of Scotland, she at one time was a secretary at the American Embassy in London and secretary to George Bernard Shaw.

LARGEST SHIP OF HER TYPE in the world, this Greek Line tourist liner recently launched in Glasgow, will make her maiden voyage to Montreal in October. It is expected the 612 foot ship will be named Queen Frederika in honor of the Queen of Greece. The liner carries 1,228 passengers, all but 138 of them in the tourist class.

GLACIER HITS HOSPITAL

OSLO, Norway (Reuters) — A hospital and two other buildings were destroyed and at least two persons were killed when a glacier broke loose Thursday and crashed on the Norwegian coal-mining settlement at Longyearbyen, Spitsbergen.

Uranium Fields Draw Off Labor Supply

TORONTO (CP)—The lure of the uranium and nickel mining fields is drawing labor from the gold mines of Northern Ontario.

In the southern part of the province, radio and television factories and plants making plastic goggles for three-dimension movies are engaged in a hunt for staff.

This was announced Thursday by the national employment service in a report on the Ontario labor situation.

It said an upsurge in home building has resulted in a spurt of activity for sawmills.

LAY OFF WORKERS

On the other hand, the farm implements industry has laid off workers in Toronto, Brantford and Welland. Textile mills in Guelph, Woodstock, London, Toronto, Hamilton, Cornwall, Walkerton and Carleton Place also report layoffs.

A new company has been formed near London to make radio and TV cabinets. A Cornwall furniture plant has altered its production line to include such cabinets. Furniture factories in the Kitchener area are operating at peak capacity and have expanded staffs.

Workmen Rescued After Cave-in

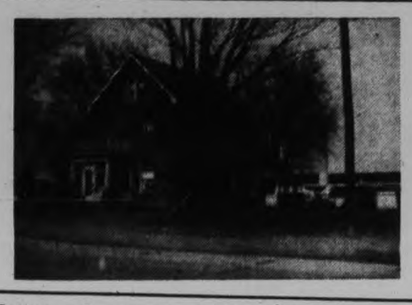
BRIGHTON (By Staff Reporter) —Two men were rescued from a nine-foot-deep trench Tuesday morning when the earth wall of the trench caved in and buried them waist deep.

Both were rushed to the local medical clinic for X-rays which revealed that Reginald Chase, 32, had suffered a broken leg. Roy Dusenberry, 46, escaped with a shaking up and was back at work shortly after the accident. Both are town employees.

The cave-in occurred shortly after wor had begun for the day at 8 a.m. on a 150-foot trench for laying a new sewer service. Heavy rains the night before had softened the earth and added to its weight sufficiently to breakk Chase's leg. One wall of the trench gave way pinning the two men to their waists beneath the mud.

They were pulled out by Town Commissioner Elton Simpson, Jim Dunkley, Ernest Irvine and Nick Findel, all of whom were on the spot at the time, engaged in digging the trench.

Chase's leg was set by Dr. A. J. Andrews and Dr. W. W. Wilson. Chase si recuperating at home.



Starving Mobs Raid Kwantung Storehouses

HONG KONG (AP)—The independent newspaper Sing Tao Jih Pao said today starving mobs—victims of Red China's worst floods in years—are raiding storehouses and homes for food in northern Kwantung province.

The newspaper said Canton newspapers conceded this week that the floods are the worst since 1915 and the government appealed to the people for relief.

Steel Plants Grant 8-Cent Raise

Expect Steel Price Will Go Up About $3.50 Ton

PITTSBURGH (AP)— More than 350,000 employees of U.S. Steel Corp. and four other big steel producers began making 8½ cents more an hour today. Within a short time it is expected all 600,000 CIO United Steelworkers members in basic steel, will have similarly fattened pay envelopes.

Big steel, pace-setter of the industry, granted the increase on Friday in matter-of-fact fashion. There was no fanfare.

The increase was made effective at once. The employees of U.S. Steel and the four other companies had been averaging from $2.06 to $2.16 an hour.

Within hours after U. S. Steel had signed the pact affecting 170,000 of its employees, the others fell into line.

FOLLOWS SUIT

Bethlehem Steel Corp., second biggest producer, agreed to the raise for its 80,000 workers. Then came Republic Steel which has about 45,000 USW members. Youngstown Sheet and Tube, 20,000, and Jones and Laughlin, about 40,000, followed suit.

The quick settlement came well in advance of the day when USW members could strike. They were entitled to walk out July 1 if their demands were not met.

Most observers believe the basic price of steel will rise about $3.50 to $4 a ton. No longer bound by government controls, steel producers can increase prices at will.

The agreement with U. S. Steel also calls for elimination by July, 1954, of a five-cent hourly pay differential between the company's higher paid workers in northern states and those in the south. Next Jan. 1 the differential will be cut by 2½ cents and July 1, 1954, the remaining 2½ cents will be eliminated.

Of the four other firms which signed with the USW, only Republic has southern operations and will be affected by the differential agreement. The union estimates it has some 50,000 members in the south, mostly in the Birmingham and Gadsden, Ala., area.

Begin Campaign Oust De Gasperi

ROME (Reuters)—A quiet but determined campaign to unseat Premier Alcide de Gasperi began Friday among rightist members of his own Christian Democratic party.

The rightist faction fears that unless he is removed from the job he has held for the last seven years, he will move to the left in an effort to give Italy a stable government. There is a possibility, they said, that de Gasperi may seek an "understanding" with Pietro Nenni's left-wing socialists.

The faction would prefer de Gasperi to move to the right in a pact with the Monarchists but they see little chance of this. The premier has clearly shown his dislike of taking Monarchists into a coalition.

De Gasperi began a series of conferences Friday with political leaders to seek a way out of the election impasse. Many political leaders warned the nation is in a similar position to that which led to Mussolini's Fascist regime in 1922.

Now as then, the centre bloc finds itself caught squarely between extremists on the right and left. A move in either direction might eventually lead to the destruction of the centre group by the extremists it takes into its house.

Hail 2 Feet Deep On Neustadt Streets

NEUSTADT, Ont. (CP)—Hail piled up two feet deep along this village's main street Friday. Residents used shovels to clear away the marble-sized pellets which struck squarely in the centre of the community 30 miles south of Owen Sound, but left surrounding districts untouched.

Weather officials said the storm was part of a freak disturbance that zig-zagged over southwestern Ontario, disrupting hydro service in some sections of the town for three hours. Bolts struck a high tension sub-station at Wallaceburg, throwing circuit breakers out.

Hydro in nearby Sombra and in Chatham township, was cut off for three hours.

GETTING THEIR GOAT —Millie, the goat, doesn't seem too worried about the weed, Goat's Beard, which has spread across the city. She'd rather kiss little Sharon Yeatman who holds a bunch of the weed. County weed inspector, Melville Johnston warns that the weed must be stamped out in the city before it overruns the county. At present the weed is just growing its "beard", the weed's yellow flower. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Traffic Chaotic As Crowds Try See Queen

LONDON (Reuters) — Crowds lined the road from London to Windsor today as the Queen drove to her country castle for the weekend before setting off to keep a round of far-flung post-Coronation appointments.

It was the last time the crowds in the capital would see the Queen for three weeks. On Monday she will be at the Coronation naval review off Spithead. Then she will spend a week resting at Windsor and attending the Ascot races. Later this month she will make a state visit to Scotland.

The thousands started forming along the 23-mile flag-decked route to Windsor from dawn this morning. They waited under leaden skies, standing in an intermittent drizzle.

Other hundreds of thousands flocked all the way into London, tieing up the capital in a fantastic traffic jam of buses, cars and special coaches. They edged bumper-to-bumper through every main street.

Taxi drivers leaned on their horns as perspiring traffic cops tried to sort out the muddle. Many people left buses and taxis and decided to walk.

Chartered buses converged from all over the country, bringing in sightseers anxious to tour the Coronation processional route.

The confusion increased as the tourists coming in bucked thousands more trying to get out of London after a fortnight of celebrations including the Coronation and the Queen's frequent drives and state functions.

The Queen gave one last big Coronation party Friday night, receiving 2,000 guests under the sparkling chandeliers of Buckingham Palace's state ballroom.

Try For Ride In Cruiser 4 Teen-Agers Recaptured

TORONTO (CP)—Four teen-age girls who broke out of Toronto's Mercer reformatory Thursday were recaptured on Friday night after three of them tried to hitch a ride on a police cruiser. Shirley Godfrey, 17, and Sally Lambert, 19, both of Hamilton; and Marlene Saari, 17, of Fort William, were arrested at nearby Oakville when they flagged down the police car. The fourth girl, a 15-year-old juvenile from Brantford, was recaptured in her home town.

Although they escaped in reformatory uniforms, they wore street clothing when picked up.

Police quoted the girls as saying they had money, but that they had stolen neither it nor the clothes. They quoted one girl as saying "some people are suckers for a sob story."

WANTED CIGARETTES

They told police they fled the institution to "get a bottle of pop and some tailor-made cigarettes." They are allowed hand-rolled cigarettes at Mercer.

The four escaped by smashing a heavy screen with an electric floor polisher. They placed two benches end-to-end to climb the high prison wall.

Police said they have discounted a theory that any of the four girls were involved in the holdup of a Preston woman Friday.

The woman, Mrs. Wilhelmina Mailloux, said two girls forced their way into her home and helped themselves to food and $2 after threatening her with a butcher knife.

Officers quoted the girls as saying they hitch-hiked rides to Hamilton Thursday night and were given money by persons with whom they rode. The four left Hamilton Friday and were hitchhiking their way back to that city Friday night when they were arrested.

Ask Increase In Agriculture

ROME (Reuters)—The International Federation of Agricultural Producers today ended its nine-day conference here with a call for parallel increases in production in industry and agriculture.

The 200 delegates, representing 28 countries, passed a resolution saying "the greatest potential for the marketing of a constantly increasing industrial production lies in raising the purchasing power of that vast number of agricultural producers whose incomes are very low."

The conference also called for:

Progressive reduction of trade barriers; stabilization of farm prices through international commodity agreements on the lines of the present International Wheat agreement; distribution of food surpluses through an internationally financed agency; and world food reserves.

Canadian delegates said they were specially interested in the proposals for international commodity agreements, the world food reserve and an international commodities authority.

W. J. Ball of Regina said Canadian farmers had favored international agreements since 1931, when Canadian delegates came here for the first attempts to draft an International Wheat Agreement.

Gas Gangrene Strikes In Flint

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—Symptoms of dangerous gas gangrene Tuesday threatened at least 19 victims of Monday's ruthless tornado.

Dr. L. V. Burkett, Genesee county health commissioner, said it may be necessary to re-examine all of more than 700 surviving tornado victims.

Another death overnight brought the toll to 113.

Burkett said "four or five" of 19 patients at Hurley Hospital had been diagnosed definitely as suffering gas gangrene. All 19 have been isolated.

Burkett said there had been two amputations as a result of the infection.

First signs of the disease were discovered Thursday. It comes from bacillus carried in the mud and dirt which the tornado hurled against the victims, imbedding particles under the skin or in wounds.

The 113th death was that of Sharon Katherine Berdan, 10, Flint.

SIX PEOPLE HURT

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP)—Six young people, ranging in age from 10 to 19 years, were seriously injured Friday night when the group was struck by a car on the bridge over the Thames river at Kent Bridge 12 miles east of here.

Will Wonders Never Cease!

Russians Blame Themselves Going Too Far In Germany

BERLIN (AP)—The Russians did the unprecedented today and blamed themselves for "errors" in over-communizing East Germany.

The Red army's official newspaper Taegliche Rundschau said editorially that the former Soviet control commission, now replaced by civilian rule, "must also share blame for failures."

Until now, the East German Communists have been forced to do all the breast beating in the Moscow drive to impress the West of its peaceful intentions.

The self-criticism by the Russians was not explained in detail. It had the odd corollary however of implying that High Commissar Vladimir Semyenov, directing the peace drive, was finding fault with what Vladimir Semyenov, ex-political adviser, did in the past. Before he took the top job here less than two weeks ago, Semyenov functioned for seven years as the mainspring of policy behind the Soviet occupation.

PEOPLE'S ARMY TOO

West Berlin heard, meanwhile, that the Soviet zone's frantic efforts to de-communize and then demand German unity had spread to the "People's Army" and also had taken the form of purge inside the party ranks.

German sources reported that the 125,000-man army had been ordered to demobilize the equivalent of four divisions, about 40,000 men. All officers are to be retained, however.

Socialist circles were informed also that the Communists had cracked down on upwards of a hundred party officials, singled out to take the blame for being too enthusiastic about collective farming and other repressive programs which East Berlin now says are being abolished. These reports said 84 leaders of the collective farm system have been arrested in the last two days, along with other government employees.

As the Red bosses swung their "get together with the West" campaign into high gear, workmen in East Berlin tore down signs and posters that once proudly proclaimed "The building of socialism." Everything Communist once came under this heading.

5,000 Reds Attack Dozen Points

Chinese Attempting To Gain Pre-Truce Ground

SEOUL (AP) — More than 5,000 Chinese Reds attacked at a dozen points along a 50-mile front in central Korea today, driving Allied troops from main-line positions in one sector.

United States and South Korean infantry battled hand-to-hand with Reds who stormed into United Nations trenches and hurled back most of the attackers.

But AP correspondent Milo Farneti reported from the front that one sector of the main Allied line was hastily shifted southward after Reds grabbed vital fortifications.

Farnetti said Allied tanks, flame throwers and guns cut down hundreds of the charging Reds, but the momentum of the attack carried some Communist troops into Allied trenches.

This was the third straight day of heavy pre-armistice attacks by the Reds. The latest assaults centred on UN lines running through the former Red stronghold called the "Iron Triangle."

Bitter fighting was reported from White Horse mountain above Chorwon east to the Pukhan river.

BIGGEST BLOW

The day's biggest Red blow was aimed at U. S. 3rd Division units who have beaten back two days of attacks against Outpost Harry, 10 miles northeast of Chorwon.

A full regiment—about 3,000 men—slammed into the outpost today, but withering fire from the U. S. forces stopped the assault cold, the 8th army said.

The army estimated that more than 3,400 Chinese were killed or wounded in attacks on Outpost Harry in three night assaults. Hundreds more Chinese have fallen in raging battles to the east where today the Reds shoved Allied troops from main-line positions in one sector.

Farnetti reported that savagely attacking Chinese occupied the northern slopes of Outpost Harry at one time during the pre-dawn struggle. Some of the Reds stormed into American trenches.

B-26 light bombers roared to the aid of South Korean soldiers battling the Reds on the east-central sector. The bombers used radar to unload high explosives on the Communists.

Northwest of Kumhwa, about 1,000 Chinese hit South Korean fortifications about midnight.

The South Koreans mounted a counter-attack behind tanks about three hours later. The vicious fighting was continuing when the last report was received before 5 a. m.

Savage fighting also raged near Capitol hill, where more Chinese attackers grabbed an Allied outpost.

Find Stolen Car "Up A Tree"

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A police tow wagon went out to pick up a stolen car Friday, then reported back to headquarters that the car was up a tree. It was.

Ace Russell, operator of a swap shop, became tired last March of the car taking up needed space in front of his store. When police did not remove the car, he hoisted it 20 feet into the air to hang from a tree.

That's where it was when the tow wagon finally came around to check on the car.

"I've got an unusual complaint here," the tow wagon operator radioed back to the central complaint bureau at police headquarters. "There's a stolen car up a tree."

"Proceed to Charity hospital for your next assignment," the radio operator answere. "They've found a wonderful cure for sunstroke."

Switzerland Decides Serve On Commission

BERN, Switzerland (Reuters)—The Swiss government announced today it has decided to accept an invitation to serve on a five-nation neutral commission to supervise repatriation of war prisoners in Korea.

The other invited nations—India, Sweden, Poland and Czechoslovakia—have already accepted.

The Swiss federal council originally delayed its decision because of South Korea's opposition to the proposed armistice.

GIVEN NEW JOB — J. W. Pickersgill, Clerk of the Privy Council, has been named secretary of state, it was announced by Prime Minister St. Laurent, Friday. His main job, however, will be "junior minister" to St. Laurent.

See Pickersgill Possible Liberal Leader

OTTAWA (CP) — John W. (Jack) Pickersgill, for years a civil servant known to relatively few Canadians, has suddenly emerged as a possible candidate for the leadership of the Liberal party.

The 47-year-old clerk of the Privy Council leaped into the cabinet from the ranks of the civil service Friday amid some indications that both he and Prime Minister St. Laurent might be regarding him as a future party head.

Long one of the most powerful men in Ottawa behind the scenes, Mr. Pickersgill came out into the open political arena as secretary of state, succeeding F. Gordon Bradley of Newfoundland. The Oxford-educated minister will represent Newfoundland in the cabinet.

The prime minister Friday lent some support to the idea that Mr. Pickersgill might be being groomed for the top job in making public correspondence concerning Mr. Bradley's resignation.

JUNIOR MINISTER

In a letter to the former state secretary, Mr. St. Laurent wrote that he plans to lighten routine state department duties so that he could call on Mr. Pickersgill "as a junior minister to assist me."

He went on to say that he expects Mr. Pickersgill to "devote a larger proportion of his time to assisting me in the performance of the many and varied tasks which the prime minister necessarily has to perform."

Observers here also consider that, to leave his recent job, Mr. Pickersgill must have had in mind inducements beyond those normally going with a ministerial job.

As clerk of the cabinet, he was established permanently with a $15,000-a-year position, the rank of deputy minister and a substantial pension on retirement. As minister, he gets just $3,000 more in pay and is faced with the uncertainties of politics, besides losing his pension rights.

Therefore followers of the political scene here have little doubt that Mr. Pickersgill will be somewhere in the running when a successor is being chosen for Mr. St. Laurent, who said yesterday he expects to stay on the job for some time after the election.

Other leading contenders are believed to be Finance Minister Abbott, External Affairs Minister Pearson, Health Minister Martin and possibly Immigration Minister Harris.

Confirm Election August 10, Begin Campaigning

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal election will be Monday, Aug. 10. The campaigning starts right away. Cabinet set the date Friday, confirming advance speculation on the first August voting day since Confederation. Most party leaders at once announced plans for a fast start on vote-collecting tours of the country. Nomination day will be July 27 in 244 of the 265 seats; July 13 in 21 remote seats. Prime Minister St. Laurent whose cabinet brought about dissolution of the 21st Parliament as of today, will go to the hustings with his keynote speech June 22 at Windsor.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, announced he will open in his home town of Guelph, June 19.

GETTING JUMP

Getting the jump on the chiefs of both the major parties, M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, headed west by train Friday night to launch his campaign Monday in the Saskatchewan riding of Maple Creek

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, has been campaigning provincially—and successfully—in British Columbia and is expected to open up in the West shortly.

In announcing the election date at a press conference Friday after a day-long cabinet meeting, Mr. St. Laurent made known two previously-forecast changes in his cabinet and seven appointments to the Senate.

The grey-haired head of the government, 71, also said he expects to stay in office for "quite some time" after the election.

This was an evident reply to some reports that Mr. St. Laurent, who will be conducting his second general election, might retire soon after it. The prime minister, formerly a prominent Quebec lawyer, has been in the cabinet since 1941, as justice minister and external affairs minister before succeeding Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King in 1948.

TAX CUTS UNLIKELY

Another announcement by the prime minister was that pre-election tax cuts are unlikely, even in view of a Korean armistice that might lead eventually to lower defence spending. Mr. St. Laurent said he expects to go along with

'Poor' Little Old Man Saved $250,000

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—An eccentric, little old man who saved string and old light bulbs also saved money—$250,000, it was disclosed in probate court Friday.

Huge balls of twine and thousands of old electric light bulbs were found in the home of Elmer John deCastro when he died last Jan. 13.

All who knew deCastro believed he was penniless. The shabbily dressed old man—he was in his 70s—was given food by neighbors. He also got free meals in restaurants.

DeCastro had not worked for the last 20 years. He walked the streets, his main hobby the collection of the bulbs and twine He would explain that the metal base of the bulbs would some day be valuable; the twine always would be useful.

The official inventory of his estate disclosed that he had $155,100 in cash in a bank safety deposit box; $1,082 in a bank account and stock holdings with an estimated value of between $75,000 and $100.000.

Big Day On East Side

FDR's Granddaughter Weds Italian Immigrant's Son

NEW YORK (AP)—For a granddaughter of the late president Franklin D. Roosevelt and the pianist son of an immigrant Italian barber it was the biggest day of their lives.

It was the day that they—Sara Delano Roosevelt and Anthony di Bonaventura—became man and wife.

But for the humble east side Manhattan neighborhood their marriage Friday had the glitter, and the promise, and the hope of which dreams are made.

Miss Roosevelt, 21, heiress to a $50,000,000 fortune of her stepfather, John Hay Whitney, came from the estate world of Long Island to the simple realm of east 12th street.

There, in the neighborhood where the 23-year-old bridegroom had grown up while his father ran his three-chair barbershop, she entered the Roman Catholic Church of Mary Help of Christians.

With her were Whitney, who has adopted her, and her mother, the former Betsy Cushing. Mrs Whitney was divorced from the bride's father, James Roosevelt, a son of the late president. Neither Roosevelt, who is in California, nor Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the president's widow and Miss Roosevelt's grandmother, were present. Mrs. Roosevelt is out of the country.

Moments before the arrival of the couple and their families there had been the influx of the guests—from the bride's world uptown, from the bridegroom's world downtown, and from the music world where this romance grew.

Roars of jubilation echoed in the canyon-like streets, with some 2,000 persons wistfully watching from tenement windows, fire escapes and roof tops. Torn paper fluttered to the pavement.

Inside the small church the two, who had met about a year ago while they were students were united in a double ring ceremony.

The couple said their vows before the altar rail, rather than at the altar, since the bride is not a Roman Catholic.

Ask Scientists If A-Bomb Upsets Weather

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atomic scientists are being polled to see if they have any evidence—contrary to what experts have already said—that atomic tests have caused bad weather.

Chairman Gordon Dean of the atomic energy commission said Friday and AEC is "firmly convinced" that atomic explosions in Nevada "have not contributed to the adverse weather this spring."

But he has asked the general advisory committee, leading scientists who advise the commission, for their views.

This action was in response to a request by Rep. W. Sterling Cole, (Rep. N. Y.) for "reassurance" that the AEC has done everything possible to make sure the tests did not influence the weather.

Tornadoes in unusual, perhaps record, numbers have struck many parts of the country this year, causing much death, injury and damages.

The experts said that "the recent weather disturbances in the United States resulted in the main from unusual movements of warm, moist air masses from the Gulf of Mexico colliding with cold air masses moving down from the Pacific and Canada."

Freak Storms Across Ontario

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Freak hail and electrical storms struck a zig-zag path through Western Ontario Friday night, disrupting hydro services in some centres, while other communities enjoyed uninterrupted sunshine.

Hail as large as bird's eggs pounded the main street area of Neustadt for half an hour, ruining many flower gardens and stripping leaves off trees. The hail was piled up in places between 18 and 24 inches deep.

Six transformers were struck by lightning in Paris, cutting power in some sections between two and three hours. Lightning entered the Wallaceburg high tension station, blowing fuses and throwing out circuit breakers.

Wallaceburg was blacked out while hydro users in Sombra and Chatham township were in darkness for three hours.

Bus Driver Trapped In Vehicle For Hour

AURORA (CP)—Bus driver William Adam Storey, 28, of Toronto lay injured and unnoticed in his bus for almost an hour early today when the vehicle plunged over a 100-foot embankment four miles south of here.

Storey, whose bus was carrying no passengers at the time of the accident, was found by a passing taxi driver. He suffered facial lacerations and chest injuries.

Storey told police his bus hit a soft shoulder, tore out 30 guard rail posts, returned to the pavement, flipped over on its side, skidded 50 feet, then turned upright again and went over the embankment, finally crashing into a cement culvert spanning a small creek at the bottom of the slope.

Police Guard Judge After Phone Threat

NEW YORK (AP)—A telephoned threat to police early today sent a bomb squad racing to the Park avenue apartment building tenanted by federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman, who sentenced atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg to the electric chair.

No bomb was found, but a special guard detail remained at the 16-storey building. Police said Judge Kaufman and his family were out of town.

Shortly after 1 a. m. EDT an anonymous caller phoned police. A male voice said:

"A bomb has been placed in the building at 1185 Park avenue. It will go off in one hour. The Rosenbergs will blow up Judge Kaufman and his family."

Top Ukrainian Dismissed By Red Leaders

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet press disclosed today that the top man in the Ukrainian Communist party has been dismissed from his post. He is Leonid Melnikov, first secretary of the Ukrainian organization since 1949 and an alternate member of the Soviet Communist party's praesidium.

Melnikov's ouster was announced in a communique at a meeting of the Ukrainian party's central committee in Kiev. It said the committee had named A. I. Kirichenko, formerly second secretary, to succeed Melnikov.

The communique said the ousted chief was charged with failing to provide leadership, with mistakes in selection of personnel and errors in carrying out the party's policy toward non-Russian nationalities.

It said big mistakes in the republic's collective farm policy had been discovered. But the root of Melnikov's trouble appeared to be the nationalities question.

FORGOT TO CHANGE

He was accused of a policy of Russification particularly in the western districts of the Ukraine, and with suppressing the Ukrainian language in higher schools in these districts. Under his leadership, it was charged, persons from other regions of the republic were appointed to leading posts in the western areas.

Soviet newspaper editorials have been stressing the friendship of the various nationalities of the Soviet Union. The trend appears to be in the direction of exposing and dismissing any persons guilty of carrying out policies which might undermine this friendship.

The communique also made clear that Alexander Korneichuk, a well-known Ukrainian writer, has acquired considerable authority in the republic's government and party. It said that Korneichuk, identified as first deputy premier of the Ukraine, had been elected to the bureau of the party's central committee.

SHIFT IN POLICY?

The ouster of Melnikov may indicate a shift in Moscow's policy towards non-Russian minority peoples in the Soviet Union.

There have been many reports of unrest in the Ukraine, the site of a strong separatist movement since the 19th century. Many Ukrainians collaborated with the Germans during the Second World War.

CGE Excavates Hole To Fill With Gravel

Canadian General Electric is working on a unusual project. They've dug a hole big enough to hold four or five houses in the steel storage rea of their punch press building, and are now in the process of filling it up again.

There's method to the madness, however. The hole was once the site of a swamp. The swamp was filled when the building went up but no provision was made to hold the tons and tons of steel that occupy the area.

Under the tremendous weight, the floor of the building began to sag. The wood block floor had to be removed, the concrete foundation blasted away and the whole area dug out.

Now, after truckload after truckload of earth has been carried away, truckload after truckload of gravel is being brought in to fill the hole. After reinforcing steel, concrete and wood block flooring is replaced, CGE will have heard the last of the swamp.

Raid Apartment Of Sharpshooter

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—Police have raided the apartment of sharpshooter Miguel Gomez Aguirre, whom they said had been ordered by terrorists to assassinate President Peron with a high-powered rifle fitted with telescopic sights.

Police said today that Aguirre, a well-known marksman, had fled before the raid but they seized his rifle, other arms and a large quantity of ammunition.

A search at a farm in Buenos Aires province to which Aguirre was thought to have fled led to the seizure of another arms cache, police said.

Police have been rounding up for several weeks persons alleged to be plotting against Peron and his government.

Nomination Day Set July 27

OTTAWA (CP)—Nomination day in the federal general election will be July 27—14 days before Aug. 10 polling—in 244 of the 265 constituencies.

It will be July 13—28 days before election day—in the other 21, which are large, scattered ridings.

These 21 include Cochrane, Kenora-Rainy River and Port Arthur in Ontario.

Lay Off Workers

MONTREAL (CP)—Officials of Canadair Ltd., said Friday approximately 1,500 of its 13,000 workers will be released because of cancellation of a $100,000,000 contract by the United States Air Force. The USAF notified Canadair Thursday of its decision to terminate its contract for T-36 twin-engined crew trainers.

Drew, Coldwell Criticize Election Date, Charge Many To Lose Vote

OTTAWA (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, Friday criticized the government for calling an election Aug. 10. Both leaders said that harvesting and vacationing will make it difficult for many Canadians to vote or give proper study to the election issues. Mr. Drew said the government chose "the very worst date in the whole year," charged it with "trying to drive the nation in blinkers," and announced he will open his campaign in Guelph, next Friday night, June 19.

Mr. Coldwell said the election results may not be as representative of the will of the people as they should be, but that, were it not for the inconvenience of the date to many Canadians, the CCF would welcome an election at the earliest possible date.

Mr. Drew's statement said:

"One date will suit the candidates of our party as well as another. . . . That does not dispose of the fact, however, that for Canadian voters generally, the government has chosen the very worst date in the whole year.

WORST PERIOD

"July and August . . . are the warm, growing months when the farmers are busier than at any other time in the whole year They are months of great heat when those living in cities and towns are urged by the government itself to go to the lakes, the oceans, the rivers and the country generally for needed health and recreation.

"This date will make it extremely difficult for many people to vote. . . .

"Having treated parliament with contempt, they (the government) now treat the people with even greater contempt. Having hidden the truth from Parliament, they now seek to hide the truth from the people."

MANY TO LOSE VOTE

Mr. Coldwell's statement said:

"The calling of the general election on Aug. 10 will disfranchise many thousands of Canadians.

"In the big industrial centres, I understand, many plants will be closed during the first two or three weeks in August to give employees an opportunity for relaxation at various holiday spots. Teachers and others will be on vacation at distant points. Many will be unable to return to vote.

"Then, too, thousands of farmers will be harvesting hay, fruit and other early crops."

Local Berries, Collie Pups Sell On Market

Many a child's face beamed with excitement this morning at the open market when they saw five two-month-old white and brown collie pups on sale for the first time this year, and begged eagerly for their parents to buy one of them.

Local farmers flooded the market with two or three-month-old pigs since the price of pork has skyrocketed during the last couple of weeks. They were asking from $16 to $18 a pig, considered a good buy.

Flowers again this week were another big seller and bunches of iris were being sold for 50 cents and boxes of pansies, snapdragons, marigolds, petunias and stocks were selling three for $1.

Home-grown strawberries made their first appearance this year and were selling for 55 cents a quart and went rapidly. According to farmers this is going to be a bad year for strawberries in the Peterborough district and they will be quite scarce due to the exceedingly damp weather of the past few weeks.

Garden vegetables were selling rapidly and bunches of onions, radishes, asparagus and lettuce were selling for 15 cents and six-quart baskets of carrots for 35 cents and new carrots 60 cents a basket.

Eggs were up five cents this week and farmers were asking 65 cents for grade A large and 70 cents for oversize. Potatoes were selling at $2 for 75 pounds of foundation A. For the small potatoes, 25 and 35 cents for a six-quart basket; and 40 cents for 10 pounds of new potatoes. Six-quart baskets of apples were selling between 65 and 85 cents.

The Lakefield Cub Pack were selling urns for 35 cents for Decoration Day. A truck load of two-and-a-half cords of cedar firewood was sold for $25.

Maple syrup was still up, and jobbers were asking $5 a gallon.

Jury Decides Immigrant Can Be Tried

FORT FRANCES (CP)—Finnish immigrant Niilo Karjailainen Friday was found to be sane and fit to stand trial here for the murder of Mrs. Kauko Tuusa, 28. Three psychiatrists had presented conflicting opinions regarding the ability of Karjailainen to stand trial.

The trial started Tuesday but broke down Thursday when the defendant refused to answer questions of his lawyer.

The jury deliberated only about 10 minutes before returning the sane verdict.

Karjailainen is charged with the fatal shooting of Mrs. Tuusa and Nesteri Raininen who were slain at a pulpwood camp north of Atikokan, April 7.

Mrs. Karjailainen testified Friday that her husband suffered severe pains in his back and headaches and, preceding his arrest, had spent four weeks convalescing from an operation for a double rupture.

Karjailainen had suffered wounds while fighting in the Finnish Army against Russia. Immigrating to Canada in November, 1951, he underwent first an appendectomy and then an operation in connection with the inflammation of the brain attack.

Mrs. Karjailainen said he worried about his health and, on the night of the double murder, he sat with his head down on the rear step of their cabin for a long time.

MARKHAM (CP)—A four-year-old girl whose heart stopped beating while a small growth was being removed from her arm was revived by heart massage in a doctor's office here Friday.

Mary Lou Percy had been given a local anaesthetic by Dr. R. M. Pilkey as he prepared for the minor operation of removing the growth. When the child's heart stopped, Dr. Pilkey made an incision in her chest and began massaging her heart until regular beating started again.

She was taken to the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto where her condition was described as "quite good."

International Events Making Course Of Adenauer Difficult

By GASTON COBLENTZ
(New York Herald Tribune News Service)

BONN. — Trouble is piling up for 77-year-old Chancellor Konrad Adenauer with West Germany's national elections only about 11 weeks off.

Instead of being able to go before the electorate with his foreign policy crowned by success, the outlook is that his program for revival of West German independence will be in a state of stagnation during the height of the electoral campaign.

Current international events are conspiring to make his position difficult. First of these was the gradual slowdown of the move toward Western European integration. One aspect of this has been the failure to ratify the six-nation European Army treaty and the Bonn peace contracts. These pacts were to have liquidated the Allied occupation of the Bonn republic and set up large West German armed forces.

SO FAR FAILED

Since there is no longer any prospect of their being ratified before the elections, Chancellor Adenauer will be forced to concede that all his labors have so far failed to establish West German sovereignty.

A second development hurting him is the limited change in Russian tactics toward the West and the growing prospect of a four-power East-West meeting. Because he is devoted to the idea of aligning West Germany inseparably with the other Western democratic powers, Dr. Adenauer's political enemies are striving to depict him as a man who wants to perpetuate the division of West Germany from East Germany.

This will be one of the loudest cries against him by the powerful Social Democrats. They will seize upon every possible Russian gesture to accuse Dr. Adenauer of balking the re-unification of Germany and perpetuating the enslavement of 18,000,000 East Germans on the other side of the Iron Curtain.

In these circumstances, the recent emergency flight to Washington by Herbert Blankenhorn, one of Dr. Adenauer's two chief foreign policy aids, went off like a lead balloon.

Mr. Blankenhorn obtained assurance from President Eisenhower that Chancellor Adenauer will be fully consulted on German problems during the coming American-British-French meeting at Bermuda. But the great part of the West German press pounced on this. Newspapers asked whether Dr. Adenauer had achieved so little when he himself visited Washington in April that it was necessary to obtain a special new promise that he would not be left out in the cold.

However, Dr. Adenauer is also understood to have been seeking other assistance from Washington to strengthen him during the coming election struggle. The Chancellor has been Washington's white hope in Germany during his four years in office; he has been one of the leading champions of everything the United States has sought to achieve in Europe; accordingly, he has the right to feel that the American government will want to help him.

One matter on which this kind of assistance is being sought is the burning issue of German war criminals. About 800 war criminals and other military prisoners are still held by the three Western allies, about one-third of them by the United States. Almost all these prisoners are regarded as innocent and even as heroes by a large part of the German public.

Dr. Adenauer would like to get a bilateral American-German board into operation immediately to grant a series of clemencies before the election. This would undoubtedly be of importance at the polls.

Furthermore—the details are not yet fully clear—Dr. Adenauer would like the United States to support at Bermuda some important new gesture by the Western Allies to raise the prestige of his government.

Dr. Adenauer and his associates have in mind, for example, the possibility of changing the title of the present Western High Commissioners to "Ambassador" as a new sign to West Germans that the Western occupation is on the way out.

It will be legally difficult, however, to reconcile a step of this nature with the fact that the Bonn peace contracts and the European Army treaty are still unratified.

Finance Minister Abbott's last budget tax changes.

The prime minister, speaking to about 40 members of the parliamentary press gallery in his office after the long cabinet meeting, announced these changes in his ministry:

1. Works Minister Alphonse Fournier, 60, of Hull, Que., Liberal floor leader in the Commons, moves to the Exchequer Court of Canada. As a justice, his salary will be $14,400, compared with the $18,000 of a cabinet member. He was not replaced for the time being.

2. State Secretary F. Gordon Bradley, 65, one of the chief Newfoundland architects of that province's entry into Confederation in 1949, shifts to a $6,000-a-year Senate appointment.

STATE SECRETARY

3. John W. (Jack) Pickersgill, 47, former political strategist with Mr. King and Mr. St. Laurent and more recently the non-political $15,000-a-year clerk of the Privy Council, becomes state secretary

Mr. Pickersgill, a sometimes controversial figure because of opposition claims that he operated politically while clerk, was sworn in Friday.

Mr. St. Laurent, in making public an exchange of correspondence between himself and Mr. Bradley dated June 8, made it known he had informed Mr. Bradley then of Mr. Pickersgill's pending appointment, after receiving the minister's resignation on the ground of ill-health. All three were in London at the time.

The prime minister told Mr. Bradley certain arrangements will be made to lighten state department duties so he can call on Mr. Pickersgill "as a junior minister to assist me."

Mr. St. Laurent did not elaborate on this except to say he thought some state department duties might be moved to other departments such as justice.

The prime minister also said he will be looking for further help besides Mr. Pickersgill. He will ask W. G. Weir, of Neepawa Man., chief Liberal whip, to become his parliamentary assistant—a job that has been vacant since Walter Harris of Grey-Bruce left it to become immigration minister a couple of years ago.

Mr. St. Laurent said Mr. Weir has turned down the job once but will be asked again to take it after the election, if the Liberals are returned.

INTERESTING CHANGES

Among the other appointments he announced Friday, major interest was on that of Commons Speaker Ross Macdonald, 61, who represents Brantford to go to the Senate. There is some possibility Mr. Macdonald may become the government leader in the upper House and, automatically, a member of the cabinet.

In event of a Liberal win, Mr. Macdonald most likely would be succeeded by Rene Beaudoin, 41, of Vaudreuil-Soulanges, Que., deputy speaker, under the practice of alternating the speakership between English and French members.

Besides Mr. Macdonald and Mr. Bradley, there were these Senate appointments, cutting the vacancies in the upper chamber to a dozen:

J. A. Bradette, 67, Liberal member of the Commons for Cochrane, and former deputy speaker; Leonard Tremblay, 57, deputy Liberal whip, from Dorchester, Que.; Sarto Fournier, 45, member for Maisonneuve-Rosemont who has headed some major Commons committees; Aurele Leger, 58, member for Kent, N.B., and John J. Connolly, 47, Ottawa lawyer.

Mr. Connolly is the only new senator who has never been a member of the Commons, though he is a former executive assistant to Hon. Angus L. Macdonald and Hon. Douglas Abbott when they were navy ministers. Mr. Macdonald now is premier of Nova Scotia.

NO MORE SENATORS

Mr. St. Laurent indicated no more senators will be appointed before the election. While he expressed confidence of winning the election, he suggested that—should the Liberals be defeated—it would be a good idea for the new government in power to be able to name some of its own adherents to the Senate. In the 102-member House, there now are only eight Progressive Conservatives in the opposition.

At his press conference, Mr. St. Laurent said the Aug. 10 choice was made because it would enable the enumeration of voters—getting their names on the list of electors—to be done during June. A fall election would have had the enumeration run into Labor Day.

It was believed, too, that another argument against a fall date was the government's intention of holding a fall session of Parliament. It wanted the election well out of the way before summoning the members here, and it also wanted it as quickly as feasible after the Coronation.

In the last election of June 27, 1949, Mr. St. Laurent brought the Liberals home with the record-breaking total of 190 seats out of a House that then had 262 members. It now has 265.

At dissolution, he had a total of 181. Standing of the other parties: Progressive Conservative, 48; CCF, 13; Social Credit, 10; Independent Liberal, one; independent, four. Five seats were vacant.

Mr. St. Laurent boiled down to two words his answer to one of the key press conference queries: What in his view is the chief issue of the election?

"Good government," Mr. St. Laurent answered.

Rhee Asks U.S. To Sign Defence Pact

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

SEOUL (AP)—President Syngman Rhee has called on the United States to sign an immediate mutual defence pact with South Korea to halt bitter anti-armistice demonstrations that erupted into sporadic violence today.

Even as Rhee asked his people to soften the fury of their demonstrations, another senior government official told the Allies they could pull out of the war if they wish.

And staff officers put the finishing touches on a truce agreement which could end nearly three years of fighting within a few days.

Rhee, in written replies to a newspaperman's questions, said "I need something concrete to show the people that our security has been guaranteed and that (a defence pact) will help." President Eisenhower offered Rhee a joint defence pact after the impending armistice is signed.

GAIN ADDED FURY

The seething demonstrations gained added fury in their fifth straight day.

U.S. soldiers fired over the heads of school boys who stoned an army wrecker, fist and rock fights erupted, youngsters stormed barbed wire barricades.

Milling crowds continued to shout—"Unification or death . . . Drive north. . . ."

Rhee again asserted his violent opposition to the armistice—which may come in a few days—in answer to questions from Rolf Lamborn, correspondent for the Stockholm Tidningen.

Calling the truce a "flagrant sell-out" of his country, Rhee said the United Nations now is "going to wash its hands of the Korean entanglement."

Although not saying so outright, the 78-year-old president intimated an immediate defence pact would go a long way in winning him over.

GREAT ENCOURAGEMENT

"If the U.S. government is ready to conclude a mutual security pact," Rhee wrote, "it will be a great encouragement to our people so long as it is not conditioned as it is, by so perilous an armistice."

At the same time, the RoK defence ministry — some of whose officers have called for South Korea to continue the fighting — cancelled all military leaves "in view of the grave emergency." All service personnel were restricted to their bases.

In Seoul, barbed wire barricades were thrown up in front of Allied correspondents' billets where 1,000 disabled war veterans staged a sit-down strike.

Some 400 to 500 young Koreans rushed Seoul's Chosen Hotel where Allied officers are billeted and pushed open one of the huge wooden gates. But after a dozen youngsters ran a few feet into the compound, they quickly marched off.

At Pusan, some 400 demonstrators cheered on by 1,000 spectators broke through barbed wire blocking roads near the American embassy, shouting that the roads were part of Korean territory. Korean firemen sprayed hoses on the mob, which quieted once past the barbed wire.

The South Korean National Assembly met secretly Saturday morning and informed sources said the legislators decided to recess for 10 days starting Monday to direct demonstrations.

Father-Son Team From Cobourg Hold Top Posts

The old cliche, "like father, like son," applies in more ways than one in the Drewry family of Cobourg, Ont.

Lt.-Col. F. R. Drewry has been promoted to Deputy Director General of Dental Services with rank of Colonel, while his son John has been promoted to the rank of Lt.-Col. He is Canadian liaison officer at Fort Munroe, Va.

A second son, Capt. F. W. Drewry, MC, was killed in action during the Italian campaign, and a third son, Robert V. Drewry, Victoria, B.C., also served with the artillery during the last war but was too young to go overseas.

JOINED IN 1929

Col. Drewry joined the Reserve Army in 1929 and commanded the 22nd Medium Battery of Cobourg for three years during which time the Governor General's Trophy for efficiency was won.

At the outbreak of war, Col. Drewry, an U. of T. graduate, joined the Dental Corps with the rank of Captain. He was appointed Major in 1940, and Lt.-Col. in 1942, serving some time with No. 4 Training Command, RCAF, in England. He returned to Canada in 1943 and has since held appointments in Calgary, Trenton and Ottawa.

His son, Lt.-Col. John Drewry, was educated at Cobourg Collegiate and joined the 14th Field Battery, RCA, in September, 1939. He received the DSO for gallantry in action while serving with 4th Field Regiment. He attended Staff College in Camberly, England, and has held posts at Picton and St. Hubert, Que.

Mills Work Below Capacity Fowler Tells Convention

BIGWIN INN—Although Canada's pulp and paper industry is still operating at a high level of activity, mills are no longer working at full capacity, the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada was told Friday.

R. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association and a former resident of Peterborough, said "the icing is off the cake" for the industry.

High costs are responsible for a decline in production, the speaker said, and "if profits are to achieve fair and reasonable rates, costs must be slashed."

Because it is mainly an export industry, it must face vigorous competition in world markets, Mr. Fowler pointed out, adding that "Canadian costs are not fully competitive with those in other producing countries.

He complained both government and labor costs are considered too high by the pulp and paper executive. Profits for 1952 were lower than those of 1951 and in '53 are expected to be lower yet.

"It will be an empty achievement if government charges attain record levels on wood that does not have to be cut or if labor rates are advanced for men that are not working," he concluded.

Hasty Pees Try New Way For Unit's History

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, an Ontario Reserve Army unit familiarly known as the "Hasty Pees", is attempting something unique in the way of regimental histories.

Rather than follow the usual formula of dates and operations, an editorial committee aims to weave the story of the average infantry soldier of the Second World [illegible] unit history.

Actual writing of the history is being done by Canadian author Farley Mowatt of Picton, well-known for his novel "The People of the Deer", and articles in Canadian and American publications.

At the present time, Mowatt and his wife are in Europe retracing steps the "Hasty Pees" made during the war. This task will take them across Sicily, Italy and Northwest Europe as well as many places in the United Kingdom.

Prior to making the trip, Mowatt visited towns which contributed men to the regiment during the war. These included Peterborough, Belleville, Picton, Trenton, Marmora, Bancroft and Madoc.

The editorial committee hopes to have the complete volume off the press and ready for distribution in time for the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment's 1954 reunion.

A preface to the history is being written by Lt.-Col. Lord Tweedsmuir who comanded the unit in the Mediterranean theatre and is now a member of the editorial board. Other members of the board are Maj.-Gen. Howard Graham, Col. D. C. Cameron, and Lt.-Cols. Max Porritt, G. Allen Ross, A. A. Kennedy and S. Young.

Reporter Frees Man Accused Of Murder

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A man accused of murder walked to freedom today because a police reporter refused to believe a lie detector and five witnesses.

Police said Paul Joseph Altheide, 26, could thank reporter Gene McLain of the Arizona Republic for his release.

Altheide had been accused of murder in the robbery slaying of Nathan Hutoron, 55, in his tailor shop Jan. 24. He was to go on trial Tuesday, and the state said it would ask the death penalty.

But charges were dropped after McLain's month-long investigation proved Altheide had been in Fabens, Tex., 28 miles east of El Paso, when Hutoron was murdered.

Altheide had maintained it since his arrest in February. Only McLain believed him, until Capt. George U. Young Jr., chief of Phoenix detectives, agreed to take a 1,200-mile trip to Fabens to check the alibi.

CONVINCED OF INNOCENCE

"He's innocent," Young said after ward. "I'm convinced of it."

Young said three witnesses, supported by documents, confirmed Altheide's presence. He and McLain took their evidence to William Mahoney, county attorney.

At the request of Mahoney, his chief deputy and prosecutor Dan Cracchiolo, Judge Henry S. Stevens dismissed the murder charge.

Altheide, after 137 days in custody, was visibly shocked at the news.

"Thank you very much," he repeated over and over.

Young said the prosecution witnesses picked Altheide from the police line-up because they had seen mug photos of him as a suspect before. He said the lie detector test was taken at McLain's desire, but that a footnote to the expert's report only made the reporter dig harder for the truth.

The expert had written that Altheide possibly is a psychopathic personality, and in that event the lie detector test is useless.

All are relative veterans in public life by comparison with Mr. Pckersgill, but the new minister is regarded as one of the most astute political figures in the country.

Before moving into the non-political area of the cabinet clerkship, he was special assistant first to Prime Minister Mackenzie King and then to Mr. St. Laurent. As such, he had a big hand in drafting both Liberal legislation and party strategy. Both prime ministers leaned heavily on his detailed knowledge of politics in every corner of the country.

Now the old school (middle left photo), which is immediately south of the new school, is used for manual training classes; these classes will be held in the new school next term. Large windows, indirect lighting and spot-lighting on the blackboards help students read questions and problems written there by teacher Helen Stapley, of Stirling (middle right photo). The school principal is Douglas Thurston (lower left), of Dunsford, near Lindsay, but he is leaving for Port Credit where he will be assistant principal of two schools next year.—(Examiner Staff Photos).

Goodfellow Opens School

HASTINGS (ENS)—The Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Minister of Public Welfare for the Province of Ontario, officially opened Friday night the modern Hastings Rural Public School. Cost of the school was $90,000.

At the program which accompanied the opening, C. M. Baker gave the welcoming address on behalf of the school board, and Reeve J. R. Jones introduced the members of the school board. The Rev. J. A. Patstone, of St. George's Anglican Church, led in prayer. The Rev. N. Cole offered his congratulations.

A piano was donated to the school by Mrs. S. Whitred, representing the Home and School Association, and a movie projector was presented by Iden Bonds, Sr., on behalf of the Canadian Legion. Principal of the school D. M. Thurston issued a vote of thanks on the part of the staff and pupils.

The main speakers were the Hon. Mr. Goodfellow and Col. S. A. Watson, assistant superintendent for elementary education in Ontario. L. C. Sutherland, inspector of public schools, also offered his congratulations. Dr. Fred Robertson, MP, also spoke.

The program was interspersed with musical selections including a solo by Margaret Baker, a piano duet by Marilyn and Elaine Hess and a choral number by the school pupils. Lunch was served by members of the Home and School Association, with Mrs. Maud Brown, a former teacher, and Mrs. E. Chambers, vice-president of the Home and School Association of Ontario, in charge.

USED SINCE APRIL

Actually the new school has been in use since April 21 of this year. It took nine months to build.

The school is a one-storey yellow-brick structure with four classrooms, designed especially to allow plenty of light to enter through the glass-brick windows, which stretch the length of the rooms. There is a manual training room in the basement, but as yet it isn't finished and classes are still being held at the old school.

The classrooms will hold from 35 to 40 students. There is indirect lighting in all rooms with spot-lighting on the blackboards and all the metal desks are moveable.

The hall floors are done in inlaid linoleum, with the hall border and wash-room floors done in terrazzo. The ceiling is lined with acoustic tile and the classrooms and teachers room are done in asphalt tile. The walls of the halls and classrooms are painted in pastel shades, with no two rooms having the same color scheme.

The playing field is directly behind the school and is expected to be sodded sometime this summer.

At present the school is filled to capacity, with 140 students. It is staffed by three women teachers and the principal Douglas Thurston, who teaches grade seven and eight. The other three teachers are: Miss Helen Stapley, who teaches grades two and three, Miss Dorothy Watson grade one and Mrs. Arthur Warrington, grades four, five and six. The music teacher is Albert Hazell and Morley Smith is the manual training instructor.

SCHOOL BOARD

Clifford Baker is the chairman of the School Board and the rest of the board are: Everett Hess, Arthur Orr, Fred Scriver, Jack Snowell and Carl Oliver.

The principal, Mr. Thurston who is a graduate of the Peterborough Normal School, has been principal of the old school for the past four years, but is leaving in June to take over as assistant-principal of two public schools in Port Credit

The $90,000 required to build the school was raised from a provincial grant and debentures.

Mrs. Levi Glenney conducted the program which opened with a hymn. A reading was given by Mrs. J. B. McKague. Mrs. Glenney gave a paper and Mrs. Donald Ducie gave a humorous reading. A short talk on Queen Mary was given by Mrs. Glenney.

Mrs. M. Grills reported on the convention at Kingston, where she was a delegate. The meeting closed with a hymn and prayer led by Mr. W. Glover.

Seven People Trail Blaze Yukon Cruise

DAWSON, Y. T. (CP)—The challenge roared by Arctic rapids got an answer from seven Americans who are roller-coasting down the Yukon river in something new in the way of a summer cruise.

The six women and one man told of their experiences with the white water when they stopped off at Dawson overnight on a 712-mile kayak voyage from Whitehorse, Y. T., to the Alaskan community of Circle. Fairbanks, Alaska, is their final destination.

Highlight of the first part of the trip, they said, was shooting the Five Fingers rapids of the Yukon. It was "such an exciting adventure" in fact, that they hoofed back a few miles and did it a second time.

CASE OF SNIFFLES

The only setback on the first lap of the trip was one bad case of the sniffles.

Those who set out from Whitehorse June 1 were Mr. and Mrs. Martin Wood, Florence Rucker, Florence Robinson and Celia Hunter, all of Fairbanks, and Susan Hall and Muriel Thurber, both of Seattle.

Six of them shared three 10-foot flatboats, which resemble Eskimo kayaks. The boats are completely covered except for the cockpits and are propelled, when there aren't any rapids around, by double-bladed paddles.

The bad cold was caught by Miss Hull, a lab technician. She came as far as Dawson in a five-foot, single-seater kayak but will finish the trip by automobile after treatment here.

TRAIL BLAZING

They call it a trail blazing voyage. The idea, they hope, can be developed into a tourist trip in following summers for travellers with a yen for the unusual.

Most members of the party have had considerable experience in Arctic travel. Miss Rucker and Miss Robinson have been doing scientific work at Point Barrow, the most northerly tip of the Alaska peninsula, and Miss Hunter is manager of the Fairbanks office of the Alaska Travel Service.

The strange flotilla approached Dawson 10 days after departing from Whitehorse and got some amazed stares from Dawsonites who happened to be along the waterfront at the time.

The travellers camp on river bars whenever the fancy strikes them, visiting river settlements, taking pictures and investigating historic sites.

Only once did the mariners abandon their means of travel. They found the wind too strong on Lake Labarge so they hitch-hiked across the 32-mile stretch of water on the steamer Whitehorse, en route to Dawson on its first voyage of the season.

Major Selling Wave Jolts Market After Four Weeks Steady Decline

By GORDON MACKINNON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

After four weeks of steady decline, stock markets were jolted this week by a major selling wave that sent most stock averages to their lowest point in two years.

The slump was the third to hit New York recently, but Canadian markets had withstood their effects fairly well until last Tuesday. However, reacting in their well established pattern, Canadian markets finally observed the New York trend.

Some Wall Street observers blame the administration's "tight money" policy for many of the market's present woes. It is said that such a policy tends to force interest rates up, thus discouraging investors who operate on credit.

Other students of the market say that the recent record low in long-term government bond prices has increased their yield to a more attractive level and drawn many investors away from the stock market. The low volumes in current sessions are cited to support this argument.

SUGGEST THEORY

Another explanation for the New York sell-off is suggested by the Dow-Jones theory, which holds that if stock averages break through certain "resistance levels," a bearish pattern is indicated. Brokers say that when rails fell below their "resistance level" of 101.63 this week, many buyers who follow the Dow theory automatically sold.

In Toronto, the liquidation drive appeared first in a group of uraniums, then broadened to include the Bathurst, N. B., base metals and western oils.

The down signal was given a week ago Friday when Gunnar began its three-day tumble which chopped about $4.00 off the stock's quoted price and carried with it companies with adjoining claims in the Lake Athabaska region of northern Saskatchewan.

Western oils joined the parade when they plunged more than five points Tuesday and Wednesday.

Base metals and industrials also received sharp set-backs.

CHIEF TARGETS

In Montreal, chief targets in a general decline were papers, industrials and combined. Recovery signs appeared Friday as the market steadied in light trading.

Selling pressure eased late Wednesday in Toronto and Thursday witnessed a moderate recovery. Western oils came back most strongly as they recouped about half their losses during the previous two sessions. Friday saw the return of the familiar easier market.

The seriousness of the Toronto sell-off becomes apparent when it is noted that more than 50 per cent of the week's volume of 15,934,000 shares was concentrated in Tuesday's and Wednesday's sessions. Last week's turnover was 12,520,000 shares. Montreal markets moved 240,597 industrials and 2,257,488 mines, compared with the previous week's total of 188,090 industrials and 1,701,478 mines.

The Toronto stock exchange's weekly index showed industrials down 4.56, golds down .72, base metals down 3.13 and western oils down 2.88.

Montreal statistics had banks down 0.15 at 33.36, utilities down 1.1 at 93.5, industrials down 4.1 at 184.4, combined down 3.1 at 154.1, papers off 15.46 at 660.38 and golds down 1.58 at 57.27.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off $1.30 at $105.50.

2 Girls Hold Up Housewife In Galt

GALT (CP)—Mrs. Wilhelmina Mailloux of nearby Preston was held up Friday at knife-point by two teen-aged girls believed to have escaped Thursday night from Mercer reformatory in Toronto.

The girls forced their way into Mrs. Mailloux' home, threatened her with a butcher knife and proceeded to make themselves sandwiches. They then stole $2 and cut the telephone wires before escaping.

Four girls escaped from the Toronto reformatory and police said they believed the girls had changed their prison garb for dresses stolen from clothes lines.

Ottawa Man To Stand Trial In Lalonde Death

L'ORIGNAL, Ont. CP)—A 22-year-old Ottawa man Friday was committed for trial for murder in connection with the slaying last month of Anthony Lalande, 35, a trucker of nearby Bourget.

Anthony George Lehaie, who, police said, walked into headquarters in Ottawa May 16 and told them he killed Lalande, was committed for trial at the October assizes.

An 18-year-old Ottawa girl who termed Lehaie her "boy friend" told the preliminary hearing she saw Lehaie standing near Lalande's body on the morning of May 6 with a knife in his hand.

Louis Capello said she and Lehaie lived for some days at the Bourget house owned by Lalande. She had been awakened by a scream about 5:15 a. m. May 6 and had rushed into Lalande's room and found Lehaie standing near the bed with a knife in his hand.

TOOK MONEY

She had taken money from his hand and put it in her pocket.

"Then. . .I looked at the man on the bed and his eyes seemed to be looking at me. He was covered with blood and there was blood all over the bed and on the walls."

Miss Capello was asked what happened as she entered the room. She shrugged her shoulders, glanced at Lehaie and said: "I tried to stop him but it was too late. The damage was done."

She said that she and Lehaie had been friendly for two years. The two had met Lalande in an Ottawa restaurant in April and had agreed to live with him at his home at Bourget. An arrangement was made whereby Lehaie would work in Ottawa and would pay Lalande $15 monthly for room and board.

WAKENED BY SCREAM

She said Lehaie and Lalande went away in Lalande's truck on the evening of May 5 to pick up scrap metal. They had returned at 9:30 p. m. and the three chatted for half an hour until she and Lehaie went up to the bedroom they occupied together. Later she had been awakened by the scream.

Miss Capello told this story of events following May 6:

Lehaie changed his blood-stained clothing for clean clothes from Lalande's cupboard. Then the two drove in Lalande's truck 35 miles to Ottawa. They remained together, sleeping under bridges and verandas, until May 16, when they saw a newspaper report of a slaying.

The two then went to confession at Ottawa's Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception.

Then "we talked for a while, then George told me to go home because he was going to give himself up. He left me and I went to my home."

Police said May 16 Lehaie told them he killed Lalande. They quoted him as saying "we had an argument and I stuck a knife into him."

TORONTO (CP)—The Presbyterian Church in Canada Friday vetoed a suggestion that the church "discipline" its members in marriages with Roman Catholics.

The suggestion was made by Rev. V. W. Raison of Calgary at the final session of the church's 79th general assembly Thursday. It was turned down by church commissioners.

The Battle Is Joined

Great fault has been found with the Government for calling a summer election; some people have foreseen that this will cause inconvenience to voters who are on vacation; others have represented it as a crafty governmental ruse literally to disfranchise voters who will be too busy in the fields to go to the polls. All such talk is thoroughly familiar to every Canadian over twenty-five. No government has ever called an election at a time which its opponents considered convenient. But it is also asserted that the Government is so panic-stricken by revelations of its extravagance and incompetence that it has called an election hastily, lest worse befall. This allegation is also standard practice in every well-conducted Canadian election. We are glad that things are shaping up so well for the contest, and we expect that things will be pretty lively within a fortnight.

* * *

It will be interesting to see what ground is chosen for the fight. The Liberals will, of course, make the most of their record, which is now of eighteen years duration. The Progressive Conservative party will certainly charge the Government with extravagance and incompetence. The CCF will, as always, make its appeal to those who fear hard times. But although such charges are showy, and give opportunities for rhetoric, they are not first-rate election issues. Governmental extravagance only takes hold of the public mind when there has been a major scandal, and there has been none. Hard times are only frightening when they are imminent, and Canadian prospects have never been better. We must expect to see an election fought on party programs—and that means party promises.

* * *

In a country with an expanding economy these promises are bound to be attractive. Every one of the three parties can offer a great deal, knowing that if it is elected it will be able to fulfil a considerable part of what it has promised. We cannot imagine that the voters will be deceived by any promises that great reform programs can be put into effect, while at the same time taxes are substantially reduced. Anyone who has paid any attention to politics knows that it is not in the nature of any government or any party to reduce expenditures when money is easy to get. Canada is rich at present and the people have money; no government is going to miss the chance to get as much of that money as it can, and spend it to increase its own glory. The question which each voter will have to ask himself is simply, how does he want his money to be spent?

* * *

In writing the foregoing it is not our intention to minimize the importance of party government. We desire only to point out that there are certain respects in which all parties and all governments are alike. We will go further: the trend of the times carries all parties in the direction of a moderate welfare state, and any hope of calling back the nineteenth century in Canada is doomed to failure, just as any hope of establishing an advanced socialism in Canada is contrary to the desire and temperament of Canadians in 1953. All three parties must work within a fairly narrow field of social advancement. The interest of their programs will lie in the means they propose of bringing such advancement about. And it is in those proposals that their experience and their generalship will be revealed.

* * *

Canadians are a politically astute people, and a review of our political history shows that in choosing its Dominion governments the electorate has shown a degree of acumen which any country might envy. The core of this acumen is an ability to weigh promises against probabilities, to assess the personalities of men in political life, and a faculty which can best be described as an instinct for betting on the right horse. What the outcome of the approaching election will be we have not, at present, any idea. The Liberal party is in a favourable position, but it could be unseated by brilliant generalship on the part of the Progressive Conservatives. We confess that we do not think that the CCF has any chance of forming a government, though there is always the chance that a freak result would leave the balance of power with them. Within two or three weeks the political picture will be much clearer, and the electorate will have begun to make up its mind.

Yellow Lines On The Chemong Road

The city police have set up what is commonly called a "speed trap" on the Chemong Road hill, north of the old city boundaries. We do not know whether they are yet prepared to spring the trap, outlined by two broad yellow swaths painted a tenth of a mile from each other across the highway. Anyway, the "traps" should more politely be called a method police have of gauging (from hidden positions or not) the speed of passing cars. We cannot disapprove of such methods generally, because nothing less seems likely to convince some drivers that they should not drive at fifty, sixty or seventy miles an hour into and through the city (for instance, on Lansdowne Street). We understand that other thoroughfares within city limits are similarly to be marked.

Citizens are well as strangers will object, however, to the "trap" as presently set up on the Chemong Road, Highway 7. Few people and certainly no strangers, realize as they come down the hills from the little red country schoolhouse that they are within the city limits. There are no signs to show it. Indeed, after both trap lines have been passed by a city-bound driver, he sees at the old boundary large signs which tell him that the speed limit is now 30 m.p.h. and that he is entering the city. That is nearly a mile below the first yellow line across the highway. Between them is a big cautionary sign —the old one—marked "Slow" to indicate the city is being approached. The only change apart from the new yellow lines is, north of them, two ordinary small signs which read "30" and not "50". That is new. On the strength of these small inconspicuous notices, do the city police intend to arrest drivers spotted (in the new check zone) going more than thirty? If they do, they will be acting unfairly. From all appearances, that stretch of highway is still in the country, and the speed limit is fifty.

Before the trap is sprung on motorists between the yellow lines, the city should get its signs in order.

We hope, by the way, that the city police, so quick with their yellow lines, will be as vigilant in checking speeding trucks at midnight and two in the morning as they seem prepared to be against daylight cars. Trucks race down the Chemong Road hill and through Lansdowne Street in the middle of the night at seventy miles an hour. If the police are having at such times a well-deserved sleep, citizens within ten blocks of these thoroughfares are suffering an undeserved awakening.

Coronation Souvenir

Today our usual Weekend paper includes an extra supplement, a souvenir of the Coronation. We are pleased to provide it to our readers, not only because it is a memento of the great occasion, but also because it is, we consider, rather a fine one.

It has two special distinctions. Its photographs in full colour are the first to appear in any Canadian publication, and they form a complete picture of the most salient points of the Coronation. They are not merely a snippet. Secondly, our Weekend photographers in London have secured scenes which television and American and British photographers have not given Canadians. They show the Canadian armed contingent marching down Whitehall; the RCMP parading by the crowds, and Canada House in Trafalgar Square bedecked for the great day, with the State Coach passing it. Finally, we like, and hope our readers will like, the photographs, also in colour, of the human aftermath: the Calgary woman with her helmet and two flags, the Canadian naval cadet in Piccadilly, the cheerful crowd in a London pub that evening, and then at midnight, floodlit and fireworks-illuminated Trafalgar Square.

We are proud to be able to give our readers this memento of the Coronation in full colour so soon after the event.

NOTE AND COMMENT

We were sorry to read of the death of Roland Young, the movie actor. He could play a drunk better than anyone else on the screen, though he was a lifelong teetotaller. Which proves something, but we aren't quite sure what.

A press despatch from Bonn, Germany, referring to recent peaceable moves by Russia and satellites, states that "Communist concessions may torpedo rearmament." Dear, oh dear! What greater horror can be imagined?

Mr. St. Laurent, speaking at Oxford, said that he was ten years old before he realized that all fathers do not speak French, and all mothers English. If every Canadian child were in that position what a different country this would be!

Twenty years from now, observes the Kingston Whig-Standard as it raises its far-seeing eyes from a history book, its city may observe the three hundredth anniversary of its founding by Frontenac. Perhaps by then age will have given the Whig enough myopia to enable it to see the statue it now proposes for that distant occasion. A fore-[illegible]ed statue of Frontenac.

Two Great Physicians

By MARGARET HEIDEMAN

SHORTLY after the First World War, two eminent surgeons, one in England and the other in the United States, were engaged in doing literary service for two of the great physicians of all time. The English surgeon, a man of parts like his more famous brother, was Geoffrey Keynes who was engaged in editing and compiling a bibliography of the works of Sir Thomas Browne. The American surgeon, Harvey Cushing, was recording all the data he could find about the life of Sir William Osler while his friend was still a living memory. All personalities involved, especially Browne and Osler, link past and present in a remarkable chain of literary friendship.

✧ ✧ ✧

A RECURRING theme in the record of Sir William Osler's life is his constant reference to the writings of Sir Thomas Browne. Osler had long been familiar with Browne when he is glimpsed through Cushing's biography as a thirty-year-old professor medicine at McGill, rebuking one of his students, a fellow-boarder, for reading physiology in bed. Osler warmly commended the habit of reading in bed, but he stated firmly that only literature, never medicine, should be read there by physicians. This was the opportunity for him to introduce his student to the delights of Sir Thomas Browne's Religio Medici as he himself had been introduced by Father Johnson at Trinity College School.

✧ ✧ ✧

THROUGH the next forty years, until the final glimpse of the dying Osler amusing himself with "the beautiful obliquities of the Religio Medici," there are constant references to the inspiration Browne's writings gave him and to the delight he derived from gathering together a matchless collection of books which Osler described as "the literary works of medical men and the medicated works of literary men," now an important part of the Osler Library at McGill University.

✧ ✧ ✧

RANDOM glimpses of the intervening years show Osler making a "pilgrimage" to Norwich to see the mementos of Sir Thomas Browne in the church of St. Peter Mancroft and in the Norfolk and Norwich Hospital; searching Leyden University register for the signature of a matriculant about the year 1633 named Thomas Browne; using Browne as the subject for a lecture in Boston or London; quoting in major addresses at Harvard and Oxford the worlds of his "lifelong mentor," that "amplissimus vir"; searching over the busy years to complete his collection of Browne editions and manuscripts begun with the purchase of a modest copy of the Religio Medici in 1867 when he was eighteen and in his first year at Trinity College, Toronto.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE basis of such a devotion makes an interesting subject for speculation. Browne studied and practised medicine in the period when science wore two faces, one still looking back to the Middle Ages and the other looking forward to the great advances that were to snowball during Osler's lifetime and afterwards. Browne was too far above average to be considered typical of his age, but he shared the ability of many of his contemporaries to enjoy both views. His insatiable curiosity about new discoveries did not diminish his interest in every phase of ancient learning. In a letter to a young physician who sought his advice, Sir Thomas urged the young man to study well his Galen and Hippocrates and also to make himself master of Dr. Harvey's piece about the discovery of the circulation of the blood, "which discovery I prefer to that of Columbus."

✧ ✧ ✧

BROWNE could describe the world one time in mediaeval terms as "an hospital, and a place not to live, but to die in," another time in Renaissance terms as "this splendid and courtly world." He could dwell lovingly on details proving or disproving the existence of the phoenix, or urge his son, Dr. Edward Browne, to experiment on the digestion of an ostrich with pellets of iron wrapped in dough.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE most casual acquaintance with Sir Thomas Browne readily reveals the qualities of man and physician which so appealed to Sir William Osler. Browne did not refer to truth, but to "truths and verities." He sat in the centre of his circle and regarded all the points on the circumference. Against a background of profound learning, this detachment was countered by minute observation of the physical world and the physician's attachment to humanity. In a period that was as troubled and confused as our own, Browne could, in Osler's words, "mingle the waters of science with the oil of faith."

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS detachment and this flexibility were cultivated in his own life by Osler as a necessary balance for the physician's involvement in humanity. He himself practised the correlation of the study of medicine and the reading of literature, and he urged his students to do likewise. Both Browne and Osler shared a profound sense of humour of the kind that is often incomprehensible to ordinary mortals. When troubled times and deep personal tragedy came for Sir William Osler, as they had come to Sir Thomas Browne more than two and a half centuries before, an appeal to the chief of his "old friends in the spirit" across this gap of time could strengthen Osler in his equanimity and discretion.

Unconsidered Trifles

Old Mose, who often did odd jobs for a doctor in a small southern town, had spent the day laboriously waxing the latter's car. When it was time for the workman to call at the house and collect his pay, the doctor said "Did you do a good job, Mose?"

"Good job," snorted the old man. "Little bit ago a sparrow flew out of a tree and tried landin' on that automobile—and wham! His po' little feet skidded out from under 'im and he done went flat as a pancake!"

Macpherson had invited his friend McTavish to have a drink.

"Say when," he said, hopefully, and poured a wee drop into the glass. McTavish was silent.

Cautiously, Macpherson poured out another drop. Again silence from McTavish.

"Did you heard about the fire at George's?" said Macpherson suddenly.

"When?" asked his friend, innocently.

Macpherson put the bottle down with a sigh of relief.

THE BEAR THAT TALKS LIKE A MAN

South Africa's Creeping Menace

By JOHN WORRALL

MANY years ago an enthusiastic rock gardener of South Africa's Eastern Province wanted a specimen of jointed cactus for his garden. So he imported one from Mexico. If was a fine plant and it flourished and spread. He gave his friends plants from the mother stem. They also grew and flourished.

From that simple beginning sprang a creeping menace that is today seriously threatening the land heritage of South Africa —the menace of the jointed cactus.

In the fine grazing lands of the Eastern Province the cactus has been on the march for nearly fifty years, and has already engulfed more than two million acres.

It is spreading fast, faster than man can control. Since 1934 efforts have been made to stem the growth of this deadly plant, but they have failed. In twenty years it has quadrupled the territory over which it has undisputed rule. And so rapid is its growth that reinfestation of cleared areas has almost kept pace with eradication.

Now the Union's agricultural authorities are to take a hand — if it is not too late. The Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Le Reux, has called a conference of farmers, agricultural officials and scientists in the Eastern Province to find ways and means of intensifying the battle against the weed.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN East London recently, Dr. C. H. Neveling, Secretary for Agriculture, warned farmers that the cactus would have to be exterminated if South Africa was to be safe. He said that biological control had failed, and it was feared that mechanical control would also fail unless it could be done on a huge scale, and that might strain the financial and labour resources of the Union.

"The time has arrived," he said, "for the public to be made aware of the devastating consequences to the country of the spread of this pernicious, noxious weed."

One of the problems now being faced is that no laboratory has yet found a chemical that will kill the cactus.

Meantime, the plant is still to be found in hundreds of rockeries where innocent collectors, not knowing the menace of its terrible spreading powers, have planted it.

It was reported that only recently in Pretoria a householder was planting a hedge of the jointed cactus to keep out his neighbour's children.

The cactus is not the only voracious weed innocently introduced into the Union by keen gardeners. Immense sums of money were spent only a few years ago on the eradication of the prickly pear, which also came from Mexico.

Many years ago six or seven species of wattle were brought from Australia. This was found to be ideal for holding down sand and for rapid growth as shade trees. Now the wattle threatens to engulf whole areas of the Cape Province, and to choke all the rivers from Swellendam to Humansdorp.

It was pointed out here recently that the jointed cactus, and similar weeds, are diseases. They are parasitic organisms that proliferate grossly on a suitable host (the soil of the Eastern Province), choking out useful organisms and making the soil dead to man and beast.

Government By Groups

(OTTAWA CITIZEN)

FRANCE continues an object lesson to the world that government by fleeting mergers of minority groups means confusion and instability.

At a time when the Prime Ministers of Britain and France and the President of the United States should be working with their associates and officials on details of the "Big Three" conference in Bermuda, France has no first minister. The man who as prime minister agreed in behalf of France to this meeting was defeated the same day. A succession of group leaders have failed in their efforts to form a government acceptable to the Chamber of Deputies.

France has had 18 governments since the war, each resting on a temporary coalition of groups no one of which has the strength to govern alone. Invariably the coalition breaks down on some question of legislation or policy, and the groups are shuffled again —with presently the same result.

There is no provision in French law for dissolving the Chamber and Senate between the fixed dates of general elections, and of course the [illegible] is no assurance that a vote of the people now would give any party a clear majority over all the others.

By contrast the two-party system (to which in the main Canada adheres, with some passing jaunts into fields that look greener than in experience they prove) has many and outstanding advantages.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

By faith Noah, being warned of God of things not seen as yet, moved with fear, prepared an ark to the saving of his house; by the which he condemned the world, and became heir of the righteousness which is by faith. (Heb. 11:7.)

✧ ✧ ✧

These are the generations of Noah: Noah was a just man and perfect in his generations, and Noah walked with God. (Gen. 6:9.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And the Lord said unto Noah, Come thou and all thy house into the ark; for thee have I seen righteous before me in this generation . . . For yet seven days, and I will cause it to rain upon the earth forty days and forty nights . . .

And Noah went in, and his sons, and his wife, and his sons' wives with him, into the ark, because of the waters of the flood . . . And the flood was forty days upon the earth; and the waters increased, and bare up the ark, and it was lift up above the earth. (Gen. 7:1,4,7,17.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And God remembered Noah, and every living thing, and all the cattle that was with him in the ark: and God made a wind to pass over the earth, and the waters asswaged . . . and Noah went forth, and his sons, and his wife, and his sons' wives with him. (Gen. 8:1,18.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Hearken to me, ye that follow after righteousness, ye that seek the Lord: look unto the rock whence ye are hewn, and to the hole of the pit whence ye are digged . . . Hearken unto me, my people; and give ear unto me, O my nation: for a law shall proceed from me, and I will make my judgment to rest for a light of the people. (Isa. 51:1,4.)

Dog vs. Postman

(The Times, London)

The intelligent dog must get as tired of jokes about postmen as the intelligent man who does of jokes about mother-in-law. Nevertheless the vulgar dog, the dog in the street, persists in resenting the postman who brings to the door his master's letters or still worse his parcels.

The matter has even grown so serious that the postal authorities in Switzerland have issued to the 10,000 postmen they employ some official advice on how to make friends with dogs.

The first rule laid down, though intrinsically admirable, is a little like that given to the smaller of two boys in a street fight, "Go in and win." Whatever else the postman does he must never show fear or distrust: rather he must talk to the dog in a friendly way and call him by his name. Yet it may be that he does not know his enemy's name. In France many people have the practical but prosaic habit of calling their dog merely "chien". If that is so in French Switzerland well and good, but any dog whose name is really Toutou or Medor would surely regard it as an insult.

If the dog is not soothed by these blandishments it is laid down that a bone or sausage will work wonders. But unless the state provides these bribes it will come very expensive for the postman.

There is yet one further piece of official counsel; in extreme cases the postman should crouch like a prize-fighter, take cover behind his post-bag, look his foe between the eyes and sharply exclaim "scram". There may be some magic in this sound, but the prudent postman will probably wait for a later post and a braver colleague, inscribing meanwhile on the undelivered letters the excusing words "Dog loose."

Refashioning Gog and Magog

(BBC Bulletin)

Over three hundred years ago, when the Lord Mayor's Show was held in the City of London, four strange giant statues made of wicket and pasteboard, images of the last survivors of a race of giants said once to have inhabited England, were carried in the procession through the streets. Then in one sad year only two figures were seen, the other two having been eaten by rats, and in 1666 came the Great Fire of London. After it there were no statues left, but as Londoners had grown fond of their giants, called Gog and Magog, two new rat-proof ones of wood were made. These were too heavy to be carried in procession and remained on show at Guildhall, where they survived until the blitz on London destroyed them in 1940. Others are now being carved and these will be ready, it is hoped, in time for the Coronation. Their sculptor, David Evans, is busy on them in his workshop.

Magog is complete except for the decoration, but Gog is only half-finished. Magog has a halberd and shield and Gog is abundantly armed with poleaxe and spiked ball, a bow and a quiver full of arrows. The two huge figures, over nine feet high, weigh half a ton and are carved in lime wood, and Mr. Evans is doing his best to make the statues in line with their predecessors, having read and digested a passage from an old book in the Guildhall Library. In this a citizen of the period addresses the Lord Mayor on the subject of replacing the statues and says, "But oh, my Lord Mayor and Aldermen, see to it that they are not refashioned by any of the devotees of the new art but by some hand which will piously model them on the lines of their illustrious prototypes." In Willis's view Mr. Evans has succeeded in this task.

Dozen Eggs for Seven Cents, Grocery Shops Sold Liquor: Peterborough In The '70s

(Ed. Note: This interesting account of Peterborough in the seventies was written a dozen years ago by a former resident of Peterborough who has died since. We print them almost unedited from the typewritten manuscript. They are personal memoirs, and subject to the writer's prejudices, views and sometimes unprecise memory of the events and people of eighty years ago. The Examiner does not vouch for their accuracy of detail).

GROCERS

There were about 35 grocers in Peterborough in the eight counties a large number for its population. Lush and Elliott were three doors south of Simcoe St. on the west side of George. Johnny Maloney was next door South. Barney Morrow was next door south. Harry Lush later on became mayor. Barney Morrow became registrar of deeds and his son, Fred Morrow succeded him and Johnny was appointed to the Civil Service. John Cameron was on the East side of George St., about five doors south of Simcoe St. John Cameron carried a large stock of tea, mostly green tea was sold there. This site was formerly Francis Logan's chain store.

A large chain grocery with branches in Toronto, Peterborough Hamilton, London, Chatham, Stratford and many other points. These were chains in those days, Logan's chain grocery opened up in Peterborough on Water St. about 1840, about 1845 moved to George St. Logans headquarters were at Dixie. Frank Smith was manager of the Peterborough shop.

In 1849 Frank Smith went to London, in 1867 to Toronto and became Senator and Sir Frank Smith a member of Sir John A. McDonald's cabinet, president of the Toronto Street Railway, the Consumers Gas Co., the Dominion Bank, the London Canada Loan Co., the Home Bank, a director of the Grand Trunk Railway and many other enterprises and head of Sir Frank Smith and Company, Toronto and London wholesale grocers.

Frank Smith and James Austin started the Dominion Bank. James Austin was its first president, Frank Smith its second president. Frank Smith died in 1901 and his estate was the largest probated in Canada up to that time.

Kidd's grocery was on the North East corner of George and Brock, later on the Post Office occupied this site.

OTHER GROCERS

In 1869 Garvey, Kent and Smith opened in Peterborough on the East side of George St., one door south of Simcoe. Later on the firm was Garvey and Kent, then John Garvey Co., and later on Garvey's Limited. In 1878 they moved next door, to the corner shop, now a bank. In 1882 they moved to 341 George and built a wholesale warehouse in the rear. Garveys did a large business with the lumber camps and sent travelling salesmen to the surrounding places.

Garvey's were agents for Tates British refined sugars. Tates are still the largest sugar refiners in the world for Hagerman and Elder, now the American sugar refining company. Canadian sugar refineries were closed down in the counties, they could not compete with the foreign refiners, agents for MacDonalds tobacco, the Imperial Oil co., (coal oil had a large sale with the wholesale grocers at that time.) Agents for Hiram Walker and Sons and many other lines—nearly all grocers sold liquor. In 1877 the Dunken Act passed in Peterborough and Garveys opened a warehouse in Ashburnham. The Dunken Act was not in force in Ashburnham.

In 1878 the courts quashed the Dunken Act and Peterborough went back to liquor.

SCOTT ACT

In 1885 Peterborough county passed the Scott Act, and Peterborough town had the Scott Act for three years, no liquor sold in Peterborough and John Garvey took over Sir Frank Smith's London business and operated the liquor end of the grocery business from there. The Scott Act did not carry in London., Kingston, Toronto and some other places. It appears the Scott Act was not a success in Peterborough; times were hard in Peterborough during the Scott Act.

George A. Cox, Joseph Flavelle and C. W. Sawyers were the sponsors of the Scott Act and they all left Peterborough shortly after it came into force. It was said the McKinley Act was to blame rather than the Scott Act for the hard times. The United States refused to buy Canadian goods.

Eggs went to 7c a dozen, butter to 8c a pound and everything in proportion. James Hogan and Co., had the best groceries on Hunter St. James Hogan was about six feet nine inches. Other grocers were Peter Connell and Co., J. L. Mitchell, John H. Glass, Charles A. Alexander, Bob Green, J. H. Bailey and Co. Joseph Butler, C. Butler, R. Johnson R. Lippert, John Cook, M. Fee, John Fitzgerald, Maxwell Hall, F. J. Lynch, Ed Hill, W. Keever Bros., W. F. J. McBain, M. Burns, B. Ostrom, W. H. Wrighton, Wall Bros., Stephen Payne, Charles Richardson, J. S. Stone, George Schneider, James Campbell. Rubidge and Shaw also had a tobacco shop. In Ashburnham, H. Collcutt had a brewery and also owned the pleasure boats on the river.

Henry Bennett was a cooper, Clark and Johnson were tanners, P. and E. Clancy were blacksmiths also John Craig. David Curtis made bricks, William Faucett had a carding mill. The grocers in Ashburnham were L. Glover, C. Young, J. C. Sullivan and Garveys. L. Glover had the first grist mill, Morley Forsythe had a foundry, J. Z. Rogers had a sawmill, G. E. Rogers a flour mill, John Stevenson made canoes.

J. Swanston ran the only hotel in Ashburnham, Wm. Ward had a planing mill. Ashburnham was not part of Peterborough then.

Peterborough had two auctioneers, W. H. Kendry and Charles Stapleton. Manitoba and the northwest were then opening up.

WATERWORKS

There were no waterworks until the early eighties, every home had a pump, also many shops, especially liquor shops. Both Henry Owens and George Taylor employed many hands. On our street, Brock St., many houses had nice pumps and each day the hired man would pump water up to a large tank at the top of the house, this supplied water for the kitchen, the laundry and the bath, and for sprinkling the lawn. Not many had a bathroom, few had furnaces, and those who had, usually burned wood in them.

There were no electric motors, the fans in confectionary shops were run by small steam engines. No power elevators, the elevators were run by hand power, and the elevator weights would lift a light load. Some houses had their kitchen in the basement and a small hand elevator, a dumb waiter brought the food up to the dining room.

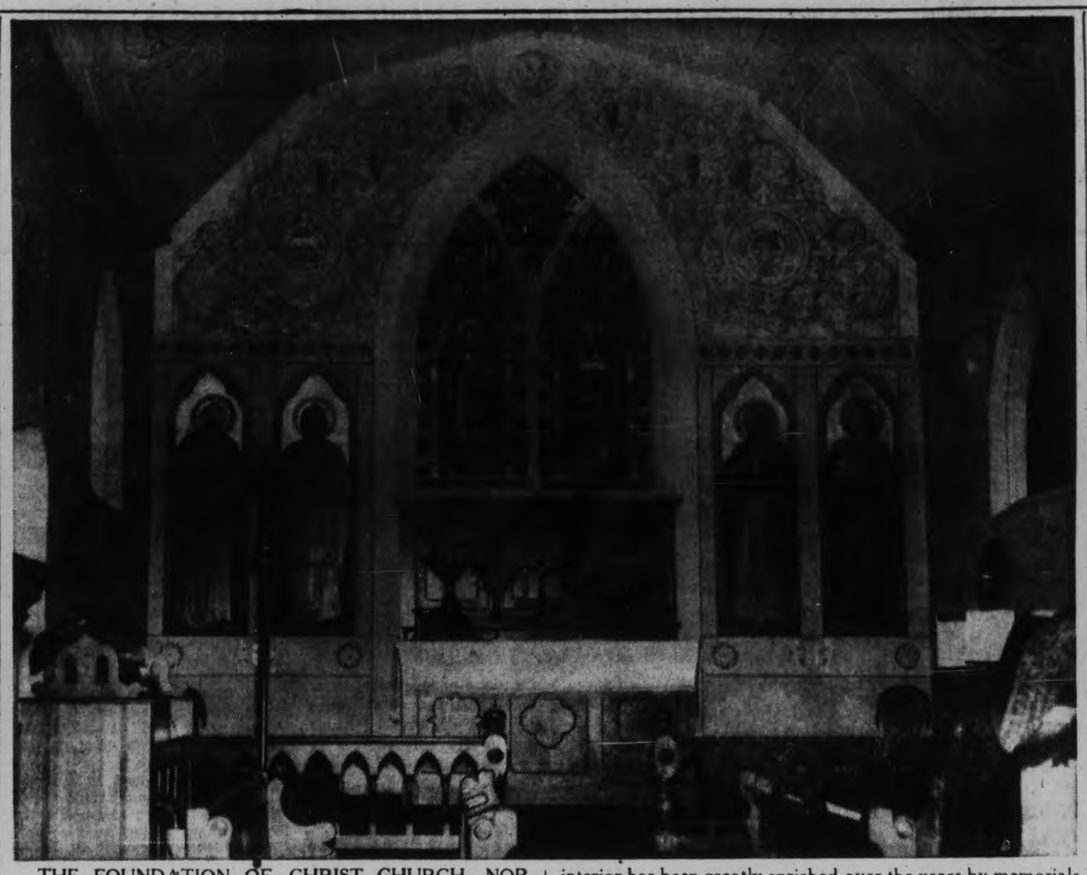
F. Westcott had a pottery, made crocks and jars, stone jars were not made in Canada, Westcott's were clay.

THE MILITARY

There were many British retired army officers in Peterborough and nearby Lakefield, among them General Haultain and Colonel Haultain; and Col. Haultain was federal member for West Peterborough at Confederation and after.

Col. Haultain was the father of Separate schools. Peterborough and many other places had a majority of Roman Catholics, before the British immigration started in the forties and fifties and sixties. There was no provision in the first draft of the Confederation Bill for Separate Schools and Col. Haultain had Protestant Separate Schools incorporated in the Act of Confederation and the Roman Catholics under Henry Magee, insisted on equal rights for the RC's and got it, and in Ontario now there are Protestant Separate Schools, Roman Catholic Separate Schools, and Coloured Separate Schools. Many boys and girls in the counties went to Private Schools. The writer went to Vanettes School on London Street, there were about 50 pupils, both boys and girls.

TRENT CANAL



The Trent Valley Canal was started more than 100 years ago and citizens of Peterborough were led to believe that the largest grain boats and ore carriers would pass through the Trent Valley Canal, from Lake Huron to Lake Ontario; that was never realized. A Federal election would be in the offing, and work could be started and when the funds voted by Parliament would run out work would cease, until more funds were voted by Parliament, and frequently that would be about the time another election was due.

No doubt a great saving could be made if large boats could pass through the Trent Valley Canal from Huron to Ontario. About November 1879 a wagon load of dynamite for the Trent Valley Canal left Peterborough for Burleigh Falls, two men and a team. They left about 6 p.m., and about four miles north of Peterborough at the bottom of a hill it was said the wheel came in contact with a large stone; a toe, a finger, a bit of the harness found about a mile away was all that was located of the outfit. Farm houses were weakened and much damage done.

There were pleasure boats on the Otonabee river and scows attached for dancing, the Golden Eye and the Whistle Wing, later called the King Fisher, ran to Idyl Wyld, and other points on the river, they had accommodatoin for hundreds. The dock was on King St., and when the O. & Q. (the CPR) bridge was built, the dock was moored south of the bridge, and the river at King St. became a swimming hole, gradually trunks or bathing suits were not worn.

HARRY G. SIMPSON, Reeve of East York in the new Metropolitan Toronto, native son of Lakefield, a story of whose life work was told in last Saturday's Examiner. In an accompanying photograph, W. Gardhouse recently appointed Clerk of the Metropolitan city, was shown in place of Reeve Simpson. Mr. and Mrs. Simpson and Mr. Gardhouse were photographed as a group at the Metropolitan Council inaugural at Queen's Park. Through an unfortunate inadvertence in the handling of the pictures before they reached the Examiner, those of Mr. Simpson and Mr. Gardhouse were transposed.

THE FOUNDATION OF CHRIST CHURCH, NORWOOD, was laid in 1853, but it was not until 1860 that the church doors opened for the first service in the present building. Structurally, the church is the same as it was nearly a century ago, except that the chancel was added in 1891. The interior has been greatly enriched over the years by memorials and gifts. The chancel, shown here, is entirely hand-painted and its sanctuary wall bears four life-sized figures of SS. Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, done by Thomas Brown, of Willowdale, some 37 years ago.

First Century Of Norwood Church

By COLLETTE FERGUSON

The tolling of the bell in the spire of the Anglican Christ Church, Norwood, Sunday, calls a congregation to the 100th anniversary observance service of the building of their church.

This same bell, which was one of the earliest gifts to Christ Church, has pealed out its call to worship and announced with its ringing royal births, weddings and deaths longer than the lifetime of any of the present members of the church.

The congregation it summons will walk on the same floor and sit in the same pews as the first congregation ever to attend service in this church. They will receive holy communion from the same communion vessels.

Christ Church was not opened in 1853, but that was the year the foundation of the present building was laid. It is the anniversary of the beginning of a place for divine worship that will be celebrated by the congregation of approximately 150 members.

Norwood 100 years ago was a far cry from the busy and growing village of 1,000 persons that it is today. A few houses were scattered around places of business and meeting such as Keeler's Mill, a tavern owned by Robert Hartley, about two stores and a Methodist Church.

TRAVELLING MISSIONARIES

The members of the Church of England, who had settled in the village and district, were ministered to by travelling missionaries who worked out from Cobourg. They had no church building nor did they have regular services, until the Rev. Mark Burnham, of St. John's Anglican Church, Peterborough, started conducting services every two weeks in the village.

The parish decided to build a church, and in 1853 the foundation was laid on land donated by Peregrine Maitland Grover. The same year, the Rev. John Hinton became the first resident clergyman. Before the building was continued, Mr. Hinton was transferred and again Mr. Burnham came out from Peterborough. He was still in charge of the parish when the church doors opened for the first service in 1860.

Five years later, Norwood, Westwood and Hastings formed a parish under the Rev. Michael A. Farrar. In 1876, the parish of Belmont was added to Norwood and Westwood under the care of the Rev. John Gibson.

FULL PARISH

The last major change in the parish came in 1951 when it attained independence as a full parish. Previously it was a mission parish receiving financial aid from the synod of the diocese.

The ministers who were in charge of the parish since Mr. Gibson left in 1899 were the Rev. John Bushell, the Rev. J. McKee McLennan, the Rev. Edgar W. Pickford, the Rev. N. H. Noble, the Rev. F. J. O'Connor Fenton, the Rev. E. W. G. Worrall, the Rev. R. E. Lemon, the Rev. F. J. Pitts and the Rev. P. A. Rickard.

LITTLE CHANGE SINCE 1853

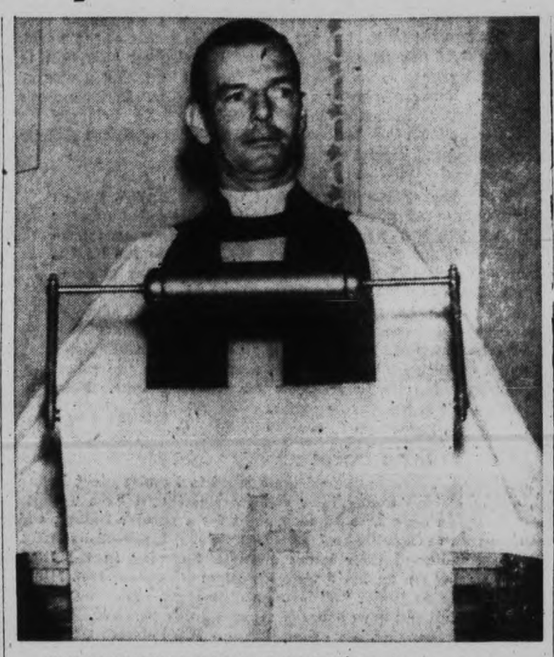
The Christ Church building, with the exception of the addition of a chancel in 1891, has not changed since it was opened. But over the years many gifts in the form of memorials have added much to the beauty and impressiveness of its interior. Among these gifts are the east window which was installed in memory of Peregrine Maitland Grover; a cement font in 1898 by Mrs. David Plewes which was replaced in 1946 by a carved oak font in memory of Louisa M. Hawkin, her husband and daughter; and a brass eagle lecturn in memory of John Gibson, Harriet M. Grover, Thomas Maitland Grover and George Alexander Grover.

During the anniversary, other gifts will also be dedicated. The Parish Guild is presenting a new solid silver communion set; the Junior and Girls' Auxiliaries, two cruets; and the Sunday School, a baptismal shell.

UNUSUAL BAPTISTRY

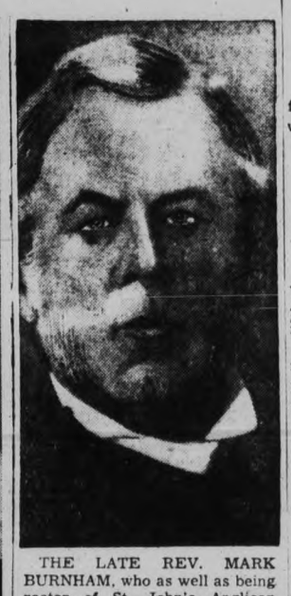
In addition to its age, this small church has two other features of distinction. As members of the congregation take their places Sunday they will pass the baptistry at the rear of the church, which was once the square family pew of the Grover family and was situated at the front of the church. The Rector, Mr. Peasgood, says that this is the only pew of its kind he knows of in Canada and that there are very few to be found like it in England.

The second outstanding feature is the entirely hand-painted chancel and sanctuary which includes the four life-sized figures of evangelists Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, painted on the sanctuary wall by Thomas Brown, of Willowdale, approximately 37 years ago. In 1951, these figures were retouched by Mr. Brown's son, with the assistance of his son.



The anniversary services Sunday will be conducted in the morning by the Rev. N. H. Noble, former rector of the parish, and in the evening by the Rev. John McKibbin, of Campbellford.

MONTH OF CENTENARY



In addition to these services, the parish is dedicating a month's church activities to centenary observances and celebrations. These have included, and will include, special services on Sundays during the month and a confirmation service June 17, which will be conducted by the Rt. Rev. A. R. Beverley, Lord Bishop of Toronto.

A centennial banquet was held June 10. The speaker for this occasion was the Rev. David Lemon, of Stayner, the son of a former rector of the parish.

Norwood now boasts of seven churches within its boundaries. Six of these churches will be voicing greetings and congrautlations to the seventh, Christ Anglican Church, which today is the oldest church building still in use in the village.

THIRTEENTH RESIDENT RECTOR in the hundred years of Christ Church, Norwood, the Rev. H. E. Peasgood is this month directing the centenary celebrations of the parish, and special services are being held Sunday.

THE LATE REV. MARK BURNHAM, who as well as being rector of St. John's Anglican Church, Peterborough, was in charge of the Norwood Parish when Christ Anglican Church was opened there in 1860.

Your Garden:

How To Get, Prepare And Employ Humus

By HENRY PREE, NEA.

What is humus?"

This is one of the most common garden questions asked. Humus is the most important soil constituent and our most valuable natural resource, even more valuable than minerals or water power.

Without humus your garden soil would be dead and unsuited for growing plants. Humus helps and improves thin, sandy soils by giving them more body, and improves heavy, stiff clay soils by loosening them.

Humus may be any organic or nonmireral materials which may accumulate in a soil naturally, such as leaf mold in the woods, dead grasses or weeds, or peat, formed by the dying of water plants in ponds and bogs, and their accululation on the bottom.

However, gardeners must work it into garden soils in the form of manures, peat moss, compost, green manures resulting from cover crops, lawn clippings, sawdust, or many other substances. A soil well fortified with humus is usually rather dark in color, friable and porous. And to make a soil more valuable the gardener must not forget that ample drainage is likewise necessary.

Sandy topsoils drain naturally but clay topsoils seldom drain well because of an impervious subsoil. So the deeper you work the humus into the soil, the better it will drain.

The best humus the gardener can use is rotted manure, but manures are not readily obtainable, and rather high in price. And, since leaf mold and compost are usually difficult to accumulate in quantities sufficient to improve the soil, the gardener can resort to peat moss which is accessible, not expensive, and so easy and pleasant to use. Peat moss, plus fertilizer, is all a humus should be. It is porous, noncaking, and may be dug into the soil at any time of the year.

For the established garden peat moss may be used as a protective mulch during the growing season, and then cultivated or turned under to increase the humus content of the soil. As well as eliminating weeds a peat moss mulch protects plant roots from the drying effects of sun and wind.

The soil never hardens and cakes and the roots with ample air and moisture are always feeding and growing, thus better plants, flowers and vegetables will result. Consequently, one of the gardener's never-ending tasks is to keep his soil supplied with humus, no matter what kind.

Several of the recently introduced soil conditioners are worthwhile additions to the top-soil because they prevent, to a large degree, caking of the surface soil. Try one but do not expect a miracle.

Working humus into the soil will improve the chances of your having a good garden.

GARDENING QUESTIONS

Q—What causes the buds of my Gloxinia plants to turn black and drop off? The plants grow vigorously, many buds appear but few bloom.

A—Bud drop is generally caused by excess soil moisture and having the crown, or growing point of the plant too wet. Gloxinias like a loose soil and perfect drainage. Water only as often as necessary to keep the soil moist, not soggy.

Q—What sort of soil is best for raspberries and how far apart should the plant be set?

A—Raspberries prefer a deep sandy loam although they can be grown successfully in any good garden soil. Set the plants in rows six feet apart and two to two and one half feet apart in the row. As soon as the crop is harvested each year all canes which produced fruit should be cut loose to the ground and burned.

A·F·I·E·L·D with NICK NICKELS

That fishermen are individualists is all wrong.

Watch the flurry when word gets around that Joe Blow has just landed a whopper at the Narrows and before you can crank your motor fifteen other boatloads have beaten you to the spot. They sit for hours after that and catch nothing while Joe smiles and quietly tools off home. It couldn't be that Joe was at the right spot at the exact time a foraging fish school went by, oh no; Joe was just lucky and the country is fished out anyway.

Not only moved by mass psychology they even dress alike. I noted two visiting couples at the Boat Livery the other day. The two wives in white linen hats, checkered windbreakers and blue denim pants, clutched identical spinning rods in their left hands while the husbands in duck-billed caps, checkered windbreakers and denims wrassled the kicker onto the boat. They whirred off up the River, two men in the stern and their wives side-by-side amidships, bent on derring-do.

Gone are the days when one used to see a single paddler pushing his canoe along easily with a trolling line in his teeth and coming home later with a couple of dandies in the canoe bottom. No fanfare, no snapshots, just quietly cleaning them behind the icehouse.

The day of the individualist fisherman is gone for ever.

Infested Eden

Visited Milt Cornish's farm east of Norwood this week where he proudly pointed out three spring-fed ponds on his property. A Hereford breeder of long experience—herdsman several years with the Col. MacAlpine Estate near Fenelon Falls—he was delighted with these natural watering places.

But there is always a serpent in paradise.

Milt has been missing more than ten goslings in as many days in the pond nearest his house. His boy found the trouble, a large snapper feeding royally on the young birds. The turtle got its neck stretched from a barn beam for its greed.

They'll Tamararck 'er Down

Mythical lumberjack Paul Bunyan is acting as host at the Peterborough Lumber's annual picnic on June 20 at their Cavendish Mill on Mississauga Lake. Apparently the camp cook is going to slaughter and serve up Paul's famous ox, Babe, for the cookhouse meal, or, a reasonable facsimile of same. Besides having a lot of fun the main subject to be settled is where the Blue Snow fell last winter.

If you want to get in on the argument phone Mrs. Martel 4655 for ring-tableside seats. In case of rain the big do will be held a week later June 27. The starting time is 2 p.m. in either case.

They Wanted Walnuts

Was talking to Roy Sanderson of Bailieboro at the Millbrook Spring Show on Wednesday who chastised me mildly about a story I did last fall on his Walnut Farm and the general overabundance of walnuts in the village.

The story was alright but somehow it was picked up by the New York Times and Roy started receiving scores of letters from all over the continent, people wanted anywhere from a few nuts to a bushel for planting.

Neither he nor any other villagers could do anything about it for there were none to be had. When I was down there most of the private yards had been raked clean, large piles of leaves and nuts mixed, and were burned shortly after.

It is hoped that the nuts will be harvested this fall.

Have heard of some good pickerel pickings up and down the Trent system this past week but none to top guide Bill Revoy's wife down at Crowe Lake. Fishing with a minnow that a rock bass gobbled to act as lure snagged her a 29-inch, nine-pound walleye. Her husband and two friends in a boat nearby took eighteen fish of average size in three hours.

Scientists are going too far for the average home garden potterer these days. They are manufacturing some devilish brew called Gigantium, or something, that smells like the leachings from a charnel house. When a few drops are applied to wobbling plants, watch out!

An application to five of our pet Scarlet Runner bean plants that are supposed to eventually screen our paw-tio have me standing by through each night with a double-bitted axe to hew the writhing vines down to the ground.

If my eye sockets look like two holes burned in a blanket these mornings, only science is to blame.

Brooklyn Downs Chicago Cubs In 7-4 Triumph

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleveland's Bobby Feller, seldom a fireball against New York Yankees, today draws the tremendous task of trying to stop them from winning 16 straight. Under normal conditions Feller isn't the pitcher you would pick to beat the Yankees, especially when they are in a winning mood. Even in the days when he was Rapid Robert, he never completely solved the New Yorkers. They are the only outfit in the league with a lifetime edge over him, having beaten Bob 36 times in 65 decisions.

But conditions aren't normal in the American League. The Yankees not only are threatening to run off and hide, they've already done it from at least six of the seven other clubs.

Only Cleveland holds a wisp of a chance—barring a complete Yankee collapse. Before Friday night's 4-2 loss, Cleveland manager Al Lopez pointed out that his club trailed by 7½ games considerably later than this last season and then climbed to first. But Al conveniently omitted that the Indians didn't win.

INDIANS BEHIND

Today's game has to be the big one. The Indians are 7½ behind and they have two more coming up with New York Sunday. The season is one-third over. Cleveland can't afford to let this series slip by without gaining some ground.

The Indians haven't been hitting recently and Friday night was no exception. Their two runs were homers, by Dale Mitchell and Hank Majeski, but they got only four other safeties. The Yanks, as usual, had one big inning. They scored three runs in the seventh on four singles and a pair of walks. Whitey Ford, lifted during the rally for a pinch-hitter, won his seventh straight.

The National League lead changed hands for the fourth time in two weeks as Milwaukee split a doubleheader with Pittsburgh, losing 4-2 and winning 11-2 while Brooklyn defeated Chicago Cubs 7-4. Brooklyn now leads by half a game.

St. Louis whipped New York Giants 3-1 and Cincinnati surprised Philadelphia 4-1. Jackie Collum of the Redlegs allowed the Phillies only six hits.

EDGE WASHINGTON

In other American league games Detroit edged Washington 2-1; Boston nipped Chicago 4-3 and Philadelphia ran St. Louis Browns' losing streak to 11 with a 5-3 triumph. Jim Delsing of the Tigers hit the last pitch of the ninth for a homer to give Detroit their victory.

Eddie Mathews smashed his 19th home run and two triples in the first Milwaukee—Pittsburgh game and Johnny Antonelli gave up only four hits but a single by Danny O'Connell and an error by Bill Bruton allowed the Pirates to get a pair in the seventh inning to win.

The Braves roared back with 10 runs in the first inning of the nightcap on nine singles, permitting Max Surkont to coast to his eighth victory.

Brooklyn blew an early three-run lead against the Cubs, then rallied against Sheldon Jones for two runs in the fourth and one in the seventh. Jim Hughes, in relief, picked up his first victory.

Athletics Clip Orillia 14-12, Lead League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines Athletics took over top position in the Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association with a 14-12 win over Orillia West Yorks Friday night.

In the only other game of the evening, Fergus Thistles easily defeated Brampton Excelsiors 10-7. Hamilton Tigers and Peterborough Trailmen were rained out.

A rally in the final quarter by St. Catharines netted them six goals and the game. Orillia had led the first three-quarters by scores of 4-2, 8-4 and 12-8.

Top marksman for the winners was Davies with three while Skip Teal and Ted Howe each netted two apiece.

NOTCHES 3 GOALS

Tony Dimico notched three goals for Orillia to be the leading man. Leo Teatro and Bruce Webster each collected two counters.

Fergus led their home game all the way with quarter scores of 6-1, 9-2 and 14-5. There were no penalties.

Don Campbell led the Fergus attack with four goals while Don Daer and J. J. Hill got three each. Brampton's top scorer was Al Garbutt with three. Singles were netted by Nick Ferri, Don Cahmbrian, Gord Steele and Bruce Dodds.

Tonight, Mimico is at Brampton and West Yorks at St. Catharines.

DOUGLAS, Isle Of Man (Reuters)—Ray Amm, 25, farmer from Southern Rhodesia, won the Isle of Man senior tourist trophy motorcycle race in record time Friday.

Amm's victory made him the fifth rider to complete a tourist trophy double—he won the junior event last Monday.

Riding a Norton, Amm completed the 264-mile death-defying course in two hours 48 minutes 9.1 seconds at an average speed of 93.85 miles an hour.

Jack Brett of Leeds, England, also on a Norton, was second in two hours 49 minutes 3.8 seconds at 93.74 miles an hour.

Bauer made the announcement at the official dinner of the club that won the Allan Cup championship this year.

Coach Rafferty piloted the third-place team in this year's league standings to a succession of playoff triumphs and then to the Allan Cup.

Remember When

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jimmy Braddock jumped from the relief rolls to the world's heavyweight boxing championship by winning the decision over titleholder Max Baer in 15 rounds at New York, 18 years ago tonight. The New Jersey battler, then in dire financial circumstances, scored one of the biggest ring upsets in years. He lost the title to Joe Louis two years later, in 1937.

Jimmy Carter Gets TKO Victory To Hold Lightweight Crown

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Carter, with stolid face and cut right eye, crumpled toe-dancing George Araujo with his solid body punching Friday night to hold his world lightweight championship by a technical knockout victory in 2:16 of the 13th round at Madison Square Garden.

Carter weighed 135, Araujo 132½.

Referee Al Berl signalled an end to the contest as the 22-year-old challenger from Providence, R.I., sunk to the floor under a thumping right that doubled him up. The 29-year-old champion from New York twice floored Araujo for counts of two and three in a ninth-round explosion that broke the fight wide open.

Up to the ninth there were times when it seemed the nimble challenger might be able to dance his way to the championship.

CARTER PURSUER

Always Carter was the pursuer, grimly plodding after his man.

Lashing out with sudden fury in the ninth, Carter crashed home a hook to the body. As Araujo fled toward his own corner, the champion drove a long right to the point of the jaw. Araujo sank suddenly without warning. He was up at a count of two but obviously in trouble.

Carter seemed determined to end it there as he pressed the attack, dropping Araujo with another right to the chin. This time Araujo took a three-count.

Another smashing right to the jaw halted Araujo in confusion and he stood in a daze as the bell rang to save him.

Up to the ninth, Araujo was leading on the official cards. But that numbing bombing took all the spring from his legs.

Berl and judge Harold Barnes scored it 7-5 in favor of Carter up to the 13th. Judge Bert Grant had it 8-4 for Carter.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Big Bill Tilden died the other day in the States, and the death of the famous former tennis champion of the world brought back memories to many of the Golden 20s. Such athletic greats strode the scene then as Jack Dempsey, Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Red Grange, Suzanne Lenglen, Jim Thorpe (a veteran then), Strangler Lewis, Paava Nurmi, Johnny Weismuller, Howie Morenz and many, many more. They set marks that still stand. Tilden belonged with them. He had his faults, but not on the tennis courts of the world. Art Daley had this recent item in the N.Y. Times: "It's best to remember Tilden only as a tennis player, the brooding genius of the courts. Never was there a more gifted player. Perhaps that's why he was short-changed in other qualities. He belonged to sports' Golden Age, the glorious decade of the 20s when the athletic gods patrolled this mortal sphere."

Pro hockey is ending its deal with the CAHA, though it may take two years for this to be felt in so-called amateur ranks. The NHL has been giving $2,000 for sponsored amateur clubs and the minor pros $1,000 a club to the CAHA. Besides subsidizing junior "A" team in Canadian playoffs. They hope to work out a new agreement and ask the amateurs to streamline executives and cut down an administrative and travelling expenses. Sponsored players' lists will be cut, too. It may be a good thing for promising amateur puckists in the future, and it'll make pro scouts pick only the better prospects for money tryouts. More again on it as the picture clears.

Pats of Peter's borough

Junior OLA Pats postponed their jaunt to Dundas night before last, owing to boys taking their exams. But they'll have Toronto Green Gaels on deck here Monday night for a regular fixture, and will then trek to Oakville on June 19. This squad, piloted by Doug. Miller Jr., indicated their latent strength Saturday in the local box by yanking out an 11-10 victory against Brampton, 1952 Minto Cup and Canadian junior "A" lacrosse champions. They won it in the west last fall and have hopes of repeating this semester. They'll have to jolt Pats and St. Kitts first, though. The Peterborough pack looks right promising now.

* * * * * *

Speaking of St. Catharines, the gutted-stick scribe there can't be persuaded that Moon Wootton is the best senior OLA goalie in the business. He always hailed Bill Whitaker as tops and, since Bill hung 'em up, the writer there figures either George Johnston of Yorks or Doug Flavelle of Athletics as best. Wootton helped tremendously in winning three straight Mann Cups in a row, at Owen Sound once and twice here the past two years. He was twice voted the most valuable player in Mann Cup playoffs (in '51 and '52) and has regularly been named goalie of the first OLA all-star team, including last season. What must one do to be rated the best lacroses goalie in the country?

Came The Rains Again

Moon was obscured by drippy clouds last night and the OLA game betwixt Hamilton and Petes was washed out ere it started. Unfortunately, the Tigers left Hamilton before word could be sent as the officials here kept hopeful that the weather might clear, but that rain around supper time really fixed things. Radio announced at six that the game was on, so the two teams and some fans showed up, but 'twas a greasy Miller Bowl awaiting them, and the tilt had to be postponed. That was the second senior lacrosse postponement here so far this season and these games could hurt later in a hot race as they're squeezed into a fairly tight schedule. Locals go to Mimico Tuesday and have Yorks here Friday.

The circus is coming to town. Yes, Kiwanis Club is bringing in King Bros. and Cristiani circus next Wednesday and youngsters from six to 80 will view the street parade and the show later. Folks flock in from out of town to see the big animals. As a kid we wormed our way in one way or another—toting buckets of water for the elephants was the hard way of doing it—to many a circus and midway. Alwas enjoyed the tent boxing or grapple shows staged at midways years ago when some local (?) husky with a Brooklyn accent would accept a challenge to take on the travelling pug. Big Gene Hurtubise crossed 'em up once, much to the dismay and ensuing pain of the paid performer. But then few grapplers in Canada could pin Gene when Peterborough's strong man was in his prime.

Australia Collapses On Second Day

LONDON (Reuters)—It was a bowlers' benefit at Nottingham Friday in the second day of the first English - Australia test cricket match, with 13 wickets dropping for 184 runs.

Australia collapsed soon after lunch, their last six wickets going for six runs, to end with 249 on the scoreboard. England replied with 92 runs for six wickets at close of play, needing eight to avoid the follow on.

Alec Bedser took seven Australian wickets for 55 runs. He thus brought his aggregate of test wickets to 189, equalling Sid Barnes' record for England.

When England batted, fast-bowler Ray Lindwall spearheaded the Australian attack, taking three for 35.

Australian Captain Lindsay Hassett got the first century of the test, with 115. He and Keith Miller put up a fourth-wicket stand of 109.

Captain Len Hutton added 43 for England before being caught by Ritchie Benaud. Reg Simpson and Denis Compton both were out for zeros. Trevor Bailey and Godfrey Evans were still at bat when stumps were drawn early on account of bad light.

The pitch was wet from overnight rain at Trent Bridge when Hassett and Miller resumed their overnight stand. They added 80 before Miller was caught by Tevor Bailey. Bedser clean-bowled Hassett seven runs later, after lunch, and the rest of the Australians went down like sitting ducks.

Hutton started for England with Don Kenyon, but Kenyon was caught by Hill after getting only eight in his first test appearance.

Middlesex 300 for nine declared. Leicestershire 93 and 151. Middlesex won by an innings and 56 runs.

Two Horses Renew Feud

NEW YORK (AP)—A pair of three-year olds born on the opposite sides of the railroad track—fashionable-bred Native Dancer and Jamie K, son of the little known Crowfoot—renew their feud today in the 85th running of the Belmont Stakes.

Six other colts have been named for the $100,000 added 1½-mile classic. But the race figures to be strictly a two-horse affair when the field straightens out for the last quarter-mile in which many a horse has been found wanting.

The only time Alfred Vanderbilt's big grey and Jamie K, owned by boxing impresario Jim Norris, hooked up was in the Preakness. Then they hooked up with the Dancer finally gaining a neck decision.

It is in expectation of another such stretch duel that upwards of 50,000 fans are likely to pack Belmont Park. Post time is 4:45 p. m. EDT.

Bisons Outscore Ottawa In 11-8 Triumph

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rain and threatening weather disrupted the International Baseball League schedule Friday night, only two games being completed of the five scheduled.

Rochester Red Wings shaded Springfield Cubs 2-1 and Buffalo Bisons outscored Ottawa Athletics 11-8. A double-header between Syracuse and Baltimore was postponed due to rain and Montreal at Toronto was postponed because of threatening weather.

At Springfield, the Red Wings made it two straight in their five-game series with the Cubs.

OUTHIT WINGS

Springfield outhit the Wings 10-6, including two doubles, but couldn't deliver in the pinches against Jack Faszholz, sent down from the parent St. Louis Cardinals a week ago. John Pyecha started for Springfield but was wild and was charged with his second loss against no victories.

At Buffalo, the Bisons jumped on two Ottawa pitchers for nine hits and seven runs in the first three innings to ease the way to their seventh victory in eight starts.

Jack Wallaesa and Eddie Kazak led the early onslaught. Wallaesa drove in four runs in two frames with a double and his third homer since joining the Bisons last Sunday. Kazak clouted two singles and a double in the first three chapters.

Lord's Prayer Not Changed

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — A year's study of the Lord's Prayer by a Presbyterian committee, has resulted in a decision not to change its phraseology for use in the Presbyterian church in the United States.

The general assembly of the church voted recently to accept the committee's recommendations to retain the phrase, "Forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors," and not substitute "Forgive us our sins, as we forgive those who sin against us."

The recommendation was made after thorough study of the biblical, theological, liturgical and ecclesiastical aspects of the issue, the Rev. Donald F. Campbell, Stamford, Conn., said in his report as chairman.

"Every new testament authority consulted agreed that the English words 'debts' and 'debtors' are better and more accurate translations of the Greek words," said Mr. Campbell.

"Furthermore, the emphasis of the term 'sin' in popular usage is positive, commonly suggesting a positive wrong committed, whereas the term 'debts' lays also very strong and proper emphasis on the fact that obligations to God and man have not been fulfilled.

"The words of this prayer have endeared themselves to generations of young and old. The burden of proof rests with those who would change them," Mr. Campbell said.

City Man Hurt In Korea Coronation Day

While the Commonwealth was celebrating the Coronation on June 2, a native of Peterborough, whose mother lives in Campbellford, was wounded in the fighting in Korea.

Mrs. Alta Schweier, of 20 Garry St., Campbellford, formerly of Peterborough, has received word that her 22-year-old son, Pte. Keith Schweier, of the Royal Canadian Regiment, was wounded several times in the foot and in the hand.

Pte. Schweier, who enlisted in January of last year, sailed for Korea in September and was in the thick of the fighting after about four weeks of training. His sister, Mrs. William Hillis (Joan), lives at 339 Aylmer St. Another sister, Beverly, 15, and a brother, Lionel, 13, live at home in Campbellford.

FOUGHT OFF REDS

A few weeks ago, Pte. Schweier was singled out for the part he took in the savage fighting over the weekend of May 2 and 3 when Red Chinese attempted to run rough-shod over Canadian troops.

Schweier and Cpl. Bob Greenaway, of Simcoe, left their bunkers to help a patrol that was picking up Canadian wounded and became surrounded by Chinese. They killed the three nearest and then began carrying a wounded man 250 yards up the line.

When Schweier returned to his gunpit he found Chinese systematically looting the bunkers. One of them was coming out of a bunker carrying his boots so he shot him and took the boots back.

While Schweier and Greenaway were looking for a bunker where they could dig in, they met two Chinese who hurled grenades at them. They were knocked down by the blasts but managed to kill the Chinese.

WANTED—A DOCTOR FOR APSLEY—The Canadian Red Cross Society, Ontario division, established an outpost hospital in Apsley in 1928. From time to time the village has had a resident doctor, but at present the injured and sick rely upon the hospital nurse or the provincial police. The nearest doctor is in Lakefield or Bancroft. The six-bed hospital (top left) work is at present being done by Mrs. Sadie Brown of Peterborough. It is fully equipped. Beverley Harvey (left, lower left photo), watches as Nurse Brown (at right) prepares a bundle of soiled clothing and sheets for the autoclave. Bernice Wease (top right photo) has her hand X-rayed while outside Joan Post (lower right photo) reads the plaque which was placed on the hospital wall when the hospital was established. —(Examiner Staff Photos)

Doctorless Apsley Hospital Passes 25th Year In Service

APSLEY (By Staff Reporter)—If there's a young doctor who'll be finishing his interneship this summer and he's looking for a practice, there's one available to him here—with the modern facilities of a six-bed hospital at his disposal. Although the Ontario division of the Canadian Red Cross Society established an outpost hospital in the village in 1928, Apsley has been without a resident doctor for two or three years. The closest ones are at Lakefield, 25 miles away, and Bancroft, four miles farther, where there is also a Red Cross active treatment hospital with facilities for all types of surgery.

The Apsley hospital is a cheerful, white-sided two-storey building with two wards of three beds each and a child's cot, a nursery with four basinettes, a treatment room equiped with an X-ray machine, and an operating room for minor surgery. The operating room has facilities for general anaesthetics, an instrument sterilizer, suction machine, oxygen tanks, infra-red lamp and an autoclave for sterilizing equipment such as linen and dressings. In case of a power failure, there is a storage battery to supply emergency power to the spot lamp over the operating table.

RUNS HOSPITAL

Miss Sadie Brown, RN, a general-duty nurse from Peterborough, has been in charge at the hospital since April 15. In addition to superintending the hospital, Miss Brown carries out public health duties over an area with a radius of about 10 miles, while the hospital actually treats patients from as far away as 15 miles.

In the absence of a resident doctor, the provincial police are of great help to Miss Brown in contacting doctors in other centres on the radio, particularly Constable Jack McKendry who is stationed in Apsley.

"I don't know how we'd manage without Mr. McKendry's help," Miss Brown said. "The other night he brought some accident victims in about 11 o'clock. About two the next morning I decided one of the patients had to have a doctor right away but I couldn't get through to Lakefield on the telephone. I got Mr. McKendry to radio headquarters at Peterbor-

County Urges Building Pigeon Lake Causeway

LINDSAY (ENS)—Victoria county concil has again passed a resolution asking the federal and provincial governments to investigate the possbility of building a causeway across Pigeon Lake from near Bobcaygeon to the Peterborough county side.

The subject has been broached several times in the past, when local councils in the Bobcaygeon and Verulam area have noted the benefits, especially in tourist business, to be derived from such a scheme.

In 1949, council went on record as approving the idea but no further action has been taken in the past four years.

UPWA HEAD SPEAKS

Fred Dowling, Canadian president of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL), will address the striking Quaker Oats production workers at a meeting Thursday night in the Peterborough Labor Centre. Mr. Dowling will give a general review of the strike that began April 22. Another 130 workers at the Quaker Oats plant in Saskatoon are also on strike.

Percy Seeks Separate High School Area

WARKWORTH (ENS)—Percy township council voted to ask Northumberland-Durham county counicl to form a detached high school area that would include all of Percy except SS No. 9, the town of Campbellford, and the township of Seymour.

The resolution requested that the bylaw be passed by the end of June.

Coronation In Color Feature Of Weekend

Today's edition of The Examiner contains a special Weekend Picture Magazine supplement with 21 color pictures of the Coronation in addition to the regular Weekend features and color pictures.

Shown in all their brilliance are views of the colorful procession, the august ceremony in Westminster Abbey, the cheerful crowds who waited all night in the rain to see the event and the celebrations on Coronation night.

The pictures were selected from among more than 1,000 submitted by 36 of Britain's best color photographers. They were developed in a special dark room set up in London by Weekend Magazine and flown back to Canada on Thursday while Weekend picture editor Philip Surrey made his final selections from among the best of those submitted.

Driver Suffers Cut Head As Car Collides With Train

A Peterborough man escaped serious injury late Friday night although his car was heavily damaged when struck by a CNR train on Rink St.

Dennis Williamson, 22, of 78 Aylmer St. was driving west on Rink St. in heavy rain when the accident occurred. The car was hit on its right side by the southbound train.

Williamson's car was dragged 30 feet by the locomotive and turned around sideways. Damage to it was estimated at $550.

The windows in the car were closed and the car radio playing at the time of the accident.

The driver was treated on the scene by Dr. J. E. Howes for a laceration to his head. Sergeant Andre Dalton and PS William A. Scott investigated.

Three cars were involved in another accident Friday afternoon. Drivers were John Adams of RR 6, Peterborough, Mrs. Alice Barkey of Renfrew, and Roy Mercer of Newtonville.

Mercer was driving east on Lansdowne, slowing down as he passed Lock. Mrs. Barkey behind him also slowed down but Adams, driving at the end of the line, skidded on the wet pavement in attempting to stop and crashed into the rear of the Barkey car.

Mrs. Barkey's vehicle went forward into Mercer's car but the Mercer vehicle escaped damage. Damage was estimated at $600 to the Renfrew driver's car.

A car driven by Raymond Grills of RR 5, Campbellford, was lightly damaged when struck by a car driven by Allan Tucker of 801 Fairburn, Friday. Grills was making a right turn at the corner of George and Charlotte Sts. and stopped to avoid a pedestrian.

Two hit-and-run accidents are under investigation by the detective staff of the police department.

K. C. Levasseur of 420 Cameron and W. L. Wakeford of 95 Lansdowne came out of work at CGE to discover their cars parked on the north side of Albert St. near Jackson, had been sideswiped by an unknown car. Damage was estimated at $150 to Levasseur's car and $80 to Wakeford's.

In the second hit-and-run, a northbound car clipped and broke a 16-inch telephone pole at the corner of Union and Dublin Sts.

Liberals, PCs Ready To Go CCF Undecided On Contest

The announcement that Canada's 22nd general election will be August 10 finds the Progressive Conservative and the Liberal parties in this riding on their marks and ready to go. But the same can't be said for the CCF party. They are not organized for an election and have not yet decided whether or not they will enter a candidate.

A decision by the CCF not to enter a candidate will pose one of the most interesting questions of the campaign: Which of the two major parties will the CCF-ers vote for?

At the general election in 1949 Gordon Fraser, MP for Peterboriugh West and PC candidate, defeated Aubrey (Dit) Clapper, Liberal candidate, by 10,981 votes to 10,738—a majority of 243.

Howard Miles, CCF candidate, polled 2,804 votes in the three-way race. Both the PCs and Liberals are trying to estimate where the majority of these votes will go if there is no CCF candidate. It could be the deciding factor in the election.

Maurice Ketcheson, president of the Peterborough CCF Association, said today that a meeting will be held in the Labor Centre, 8 p.m., Wednesday, with Fred Young, CCF organizer, attending. However, Mr. Ketcheson said that it was unlikely that the local riding association would come to any decision Wednesday on whether to enter a candidate this time.

Both the PCs and the Liberals have been laying the groundwork for the campaign which should be one of the most exciting in Peterborough since 1940, the year that Mr. Fraser was elected for the first time with a majority of 178 over Roland M. Glover.

Early today Mr. Fraser was in his newly-decorated headquarters (163 Hunter Street, a few doors west of George Street) checking the votes' lists. The blue and white sign "Fraser Headquarters" has been erected at the entrance to the store and "Vote Fraser" posters plastered on the show windows. PC election pamphlets have already been laid out for anybody wishing them.

Mr. Fraser also led off with a blast against the date of the election.

"The main reason Prime Minister St. Laurent and his Cabinet called the election date on August 10—the earliest possible date—was because they were afraid the PCs might find out more about their extravagances and waste."

Mr. Fraser will be entering his fourth campaign to represent the electors in Peterborough West. He was first elected in 1940, and again in 1945 and 1949.

The Liberals have been equally quick in securing a party headquarters and getting the election machinery moving. As in 1949 they have the third floor of the old Belmont Club (408½ George Street, a few doors north of Hunter Street). Red posters, indicating "Peterborough Liberal Association" headquarters have been plastered on the windows.

T. J. Carley, QC, president of the local association, said today: "As far as the local Liberal organization is concerned the organization is pretty close to completed and we have received some very encouraging reports from both the country and the city."

Mr. Carley said the Peterborough Liberal Association were satisfied with the date that was confirmed late Friday by Prime Miniser St. Laurent. He said that by that time the CGE workers and most of the Peterborough industrial workers would have finished their vacations.

Maxwell J. Swanston, Liberal candidate, will likely begin his speaking itinerary by July 1, but the active campaign is already on. This is his first campaign in federal politics but he is well known in the city and district. He was Mayor of Peterborough for three years—1949,-1950 and 1951.

A Toronto newspaper columnist notes that mosquitoes "will soon be with us again." It's fair warning. There may be somebody in the city who hasn't been bitten since skeeters first arrived here a month ago.

One Of Those Cats

Cats do the craziest things. With this in mind one dark night this week, a police constable, on cruiser duty with a patrol sergeant, investigated a Peterborough alley in which resided a cat. Possibly to clear the thoroughfare the constable nudged the cat with his foot. It refused to move. He kicked it and subsequently discovered it was one of those black-and-white-stripe type of cats. There is no need to disclose the scene that followed but the constable completed his night's rounds on foot.

Province Makes Fresh Bid To End Strike

A second attempt to settle the strike of production workers at the Quaker Oats Co. plant will be made Monday.

A meeting has been called for 1.30 p.m. at Queen's Park between company and union officials with Ralph Hutcheon of the Ontario Department of Labor acting as conciliator.

Mr. Hutcheon sat in on a similar meeting which lasted two days, June 3 and 4, when it is believed a minor concession or two was offered by both sides under the promptings of Mr. Hutcheon, one of the department's top conciliation officers. He sat in on negotiations when the CGE and Local 524 of the United Electrical Workers reached agreement on their 1953-54 contract two weeks ago after a marathon 23-hour session.

ARRANGED BY UNION

Next Monday's meeting was arranged with J. B. Metzler, Deputy Minister of Labor, by Sam Hughes, Eastern Canadian Director of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL).

Representing Local 293 of the UPWA at the meeting will be Mr. Hughes, William Beggs, the union's staff representative for Eastern Ontario, William Triggs, president of Local 293, Bob Prescott, chief steward, and Herb Hennessey, a member of the executive.

Company management will be represented by James G. Wharry, general manager, Lewis H. Ingram, vice-president in charge of personnel, and Fred G. Ash, general operating manager, assisted by Donald Pyle, labor consultant.

The strike is now in its ninth week with 435 production workers at the Peterborough plant and 130 at the Saskatoon plant of the Quaker Oats Co. seeking concessions from the company.

3 Accidents Caused By One Crash

Car-Truck Collision Starts Series; Man Hurt Slightly

Five motor vehicles were damaged in three separate collisions stemming from a single accident early today on Highway 7, four and a half miles east of Peterborough. Property damage was heavy, but only one person was injured.

All three accidents took place during a heavy rain that cut down visibility on the highway.

Despite the tangle of vehicles, the only person injured was Edward Ayotte, 25, of 78 Sophia Street. He received a bruised right arm and leg and a shaking up, but did not reqiure medical attention.

The first accident was at 2:15 a.m. when the westbound car, driven by Victor Shane, 30, of River Road South, was in collision with an eastbound pickup truck that was pulling a new 30-foot trailer. The truck was driven by Arthur Winchester, 28, of Lucan.

Damage of $600 was caused to the front left end of the trailer, which was brand new and was being delivered from Hensall, Ontario, where it was built, to a customer in Ottawa. The left side of the car received $500.00 damage.

Both drivers told OPP Cpl. Joseph Hanson and Constable Gordon Gray that they were on their own side of the road.

While this accident was being cleaned up a semi-tractor trailer, owned by Motorways Ltd., parked on the side of the highway to let oncoming eastbound traffic by the two damaged vehicles. Flares had been put out, but apparently they weren't seen by Ayotte who was also driving west.

His car crashed into the rear of the large transport and went partly underneath. The front end and grill were both heavily damaged and Ayotte received minor injuries.

Before Ayotte's car could be disentangled a westbound express truck, driven by Frank Fitzrick, 27, of 59 Aylmer Street, crashed into its rear.

Fitzpatrick told OPP Constables Harold Armstrong and Bruce Tillson, who investigated the last two accidents, that he did not see the Ayotte car in time after coming over the brow of a hill to the east.

STANDING IN THE PULPIT of St. Paul's Cathedral, Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill reads the lesson during this week's Coronation Thanksgiving Service in London. Queen Elizabeth, the Duke of Edinburgh and other members of the Royal Family attended the solemn service at which the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Francis Fisher, preached the sermon.

Bible's Influence Topic At Sunday School Rally

FAIRVIEW (ENS). — "English literature is shot through with Biblical references," said Miss Dency McCalla, a representative of the Ontario Religious Educational Council at the Sunday school convention in the United Church on Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Miss McCalla, in her evening address on "The Bible Lives Anew," also said: "If it were not for the faithful week-to-week services churches would be poor indeed.

"We live in a world of disillusionment. The world gropes for something to listen to. To hold on the Bible is a source of Christian faith. Social welfare and social action are a link between God and man." Miss McCalla also spoke on international problems.

The Bible Society translates the Bible in 178 languages of which 43 have never been translated before. One of the latest translations was for a tribe in Africa. Some 800,000 copies of the Bible were sold in Canada alone last year.

TWO SESSIONS

Both sessions were presided over by the president, Braden Mann of Gilmour Memorial church. This convention comprises Smith and Harvey townships and Lakefield village. The convention theme was The Bible, Our Bible, My Bible."

The Rev. D. P. Morris led in the opening worship service and introduced the speaker, Miss Dency McCalla.

A story about the Bible was told by Mrs. Lorne Reynolds of Gilmour Baptist Sunday school.

Miss McCalla demonstrated several new ways of Bible reading in the Sunday school.

The secretary-treasurer, Miss Olive Bell, reported a substantial balance on hand following the year's work.

The president stated that meetings were held in Bridgenorth in the fall in connection with the new version of the Bible. At these meetings five of these Bibles were presented to various members of the convention.

The Rev. D. P. Morris, Mrs. Clifford McIlmoyll and Miss Olive Sidey were appointed to act on the resolutions committee.

The roll call was responded to by 14 Sunday schools and representatives of many of these schools told some of the highlights of the work in their schools.

THREE GROUPS

Miss Olive Sidey led a group on "The Bible In Personal Living." Mr. Kenneth Stewart led a group on "The Bible In The Home," and the Rev. L. E. Downing led one on "The Bible In Culture." Reports of group findings were given by Miss Sidey, Mrs. Elmer Milburn and the Rev. D. P. Morris.

A number of unusual Bibles were in the Bible display. Mrs. Gariepy gave a talk on the display. The Fairview ladies served a supper.

The evening session opened with an informal round-tables conference led by Miss McCalla. Mr. Morris gave a demonstration on had to teach a hymn.

Miss Olive Bell gave the report of the nominating committee and Mr. Morris the report of resolutions committee.

INSTALLS OFFICERS

The officers were installed by the Rev. L. Delaney of Lakefield. The convention welcomed a new Sunday school, that of Rockcroft, reorganized about a year ago.

Mrs. J. R. Hull of Lakefield sang "I Shall Not Pass This Way Again," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. A. Kennedy.

Mr. Kenneth Stewart voiced appreciation of the convention for the untiring efforts put forth by the Rev. D. P. Morris, who is leaving Bridgenorth circuit to retire in Orillia following 50 years in the ministry. Mr. and Mrs. Morris stang a duet "O Perfect Love," accompanied by Mrs. Elizabeth Telford.

The evening session was brought to a close with a worship service by Fairview Sunday school, with Carmen Bell and Barry Wilson taking part and closing prayer by Mr. Morris. Tea and cookies were served.

Officers installed are: President, Mr. Braden Mann; vice-president, Mr. Walter Walker; secretary-treasurer, Miss Olive Bell; girls' department, Mrs. Gerald Harrison; boys' department, Ray Harding; temperance, Mrs. Elmer Milburn; missionary, Miss Olive Sidey; leadership training, all ministers of convention area; directors, Mrs. W. J. Stockdale, Mrs. Clifford McIlmoyll, Mrs. William Blewett, Mrs. J. Jackson and Mr. Arthur Hancock.

Next place of meeting will be in Lakefield Baptist Church.

DISASTER MOVES EAST—Typical of the worst tornado disaster in New England's history is this smashed three-deck apartment house in the Burncoat section of Worcester, Mass. Wild winds ripping through the area left at least 77 dead and hundreds of others injured, many of them in critical condition. This was the third in a series of twisters that hit Nebraska, Michigan and Ohio to leave a death wake of 231.

Fournier Retires After Lifetime In Politics

OTTAWA (CP)—Alphonse Fournier, 60-year-old cabinet minister who handled millions of dollars in government contracts, says he leaves a lifetime of politics with feelings of "sorrow and regret."

"I am most sorry," he said in an interview Friday. "But it has been a long stretch and I do not feel so young. It was time to go."

That was the mood in which the amiable and dapper public works minister, who had spent 27 of his 60 years in the political arena, tendered his resignation and accepted the appointment of a $14,400-a-year Exchequer Court judgeship. As a cabinet minister he got $18,000.

Prime Minister St. Laurent told a press conference that a new works minister will not be appointed before the election. Immigration Minister Harris will also be responsible for the works portfolio.

POPULAR FIGURE

Mr. Fournier, an American-born, Hull, Que., lawyer, was a popular figure on Parliament Hill. In addition to his duties as works minister, he also was floor leader in the Commons, arranging the daily business of the house.

He was a Liberal but he built up a warm friendship with opposition parties. He had a ready smile and refrained from abuse in parliamentary debate.

"I got along well with my party, but I liked the opposition, and I got along with them, too," Mr. Fournier said.

He plans to rest for a few months and then he'll tackle his first love —the world of law—as an Exchequer Court judge "at the call of the court president."

Skin Eruptions

Here is a clean, stainless, penetrating antiseptic—known all over Canada as MOONE'S EMERALD OIL—that dries right in and brings swift sure relief from the itching and discomfort.

Not only does this healing antiseptic oil promote rapid and healthy healing in open sores and wounds but boils and simple ulcers are also relieved.

In skin affections the itching of Eczema is quickly relieved. Pimples —skin eruptions dry up and scale off in a very few days. The same is true of Salt Rheum, Itching Toes and Feet and many other itching skin affections.

MOONE'S EMERALD OIL can be obtained in the original bottle at any modern drug store. Satisfaction or money back.

Indoor Pools Make Champs For US Rowing Coaches

By H. L. JONES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—Crack oarsmen at a number of top United States colleges take to the water every winter, row for hours and never move an inch. The secret: Pool-sized indoor training tanks.

It may be frustrating for the crews but their back-breaking November-to-April routine pays off in the balmy summer days with national and international championships. It is probably one of the biggest factors in turning out title-winning crews.

The indoor pool, a device that dates back to the turn of the century in the U.S. and some parts of Europe, is an effective answer to frozen-over lakes and rivers. A pump circulates the water at various speeds and the movement creates the effect of a shell in motion.

ONE FOR CANADA

The indoor tank may be introduced to Eastern Canada this fall.

Rowing officials from Toronto and Hamilton recently decided to investigate the possibilities of constructing the first Canadian training tank at Toronto. They have been promised an initial contribution of $5,000 from A. Sidney Dawes of Montreal, past president of the Canadian Olympic Association.

A Canadian Press survey of Eastern U.S. colleges showed that Canada can't go wrong if the idea is adopted. Harvard, Yale, Syracuse, University of Pennsylvania and Navy have had specially-constructed tanks for years and they have proved their value—from $10,000 to $40,000—with well-conditioned top-flight crews.

The Navy Middies are Olympic champions. They don't put it all down to tank training, but last year they won every meet on their schedule, took the U.S. national eights championship and whipped Russia by 90 feet—1½ boat lengths —in the Olympic finals at Helsinki.

The American crews also use the indoor rowing machines, such as Canadian crews do, but the tank develops timing and stroke before going through the real thing outdoors. It allows coaches to teach the finer points of the game, check form and wrist action from close range.

WOULD PROVE TIMELY

Availability of such tanks this fall, for instance, could put Canadian crews in good shape for the British Empire Games in Vancouver next summer.

Reports from the colleges indicate that the tanks cost from $10,000 to $40,000 or more for a concrete and wood tank structure, depending on what is wanted. Some are elaborate, some are not.

Basically, the tanks are the same —actually two tanks on each side of a centre platform which supports a replica of a shell complete with sliding seats on runners and outrigger oarlocks. The free-swinging oars reach out port and starboard into the sloped-bottom tanks. The water is deepest where the oars dip near the outside edge.

Most U.S. rowing tanks are rigged for training eights, but can be used for training smaller crews down to single sculls. In some cases the coach sits on a raised platform facing his crew from where he can watch each man closely.

Harvard has been winter-training its classy crews indoors since 1900. Its pool is of reinforced concrete, 22 feet long and 14 feet wide and the two tanks have sloping false bottoms about 2½ feet deep. Thomas D. Bolles, director of athletics, says the "main advantages of a tank are that it enables the coach to instruct individuals in blade work and body work."

Facilities at Penn consist of two concrete tanks about 40 feet long by eight feet wide and 2½ feet deep.

The Pennsylvania tank hasn't flowing water like Harvard. Penn oarsmen use "sieved" oars—a hole cut in the centre of the blade—so they slip through the water more easily.

The Penn tank cost about $10,000. Figures are not available on the original cost of the most elaborate Harvard pools, but present value is placed between $20,000 and $40,000.

Farm, Labor Organizations Urge Appoval Of Seaway

WASHINGTON (AP)—Representatives of farm organizations, co-operatives, Great Lakes cities, labor and civic organizations joined Friday in urging approval of St. Lawrence seaway legislation

The bill, already approved by a Senate sub-committee, now is before the House of Representatives public works committee. Hearings began Thursday and will continue at least four days next week to hear opponents of the project.

The measure, introduced by chairman George Dodero (Rep.-Mich) of the House committee, probably will not be acted upon by his group until after it passes the Senate—assuming that it does.

The bill has administration endorsement. It would provide that the U.S. build the International Rapids section of the proposed 27-foot deep waterway. Canada, partner in the proposed project would build the other sections at a cost of about $170,000,000.

DIRECTLY BENEFITED

J. T. Sanders, legislative counsel of the National Grange, an organization which has supported the seaway for 23 years, said 60,000,000 Americans will be "directly benefited" by the project "at no cost to the U.S. taxpayer."

Similar expressions of support came from the Ohio Kansas and Indiana state Granges, the National Farmers Union, the Wisconsin Federation of Labor, the Detroit and Wayne County (Mich.) Council, AFL, the CIO Textile Workers, port of Milwaukee, Chambers of Commerce of Cleveland and Youngstown, Ohio, the Ohio Valley Improvement Association and other bodies.

The steel manufacturing cities of Pittsburgh, Youngstown, and Wheeling, W.Va., need the seaway, Congress was told.

William E. Fowler, an executive of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., testified before the House public works committee that the seaway would give the steel mills cheaper access to vast iron ore deposits in Labrador.

Two Armed Men Rob Hamilton Hotel

HAMILTON (CP)—Two armed men overpowered bookkeeper George Kuchmey at a city hotel early today and escaped with more than $2,000.

Kuchmey told police he was putting the night's bar receipts and other money in the safe when two men jumped him. He said at pistol point he was forced to open the safe and the men scooped up the money, and fled down a fire escape.

Scores of patrons were in a cocktail bar on a floor below while the robbery took place.

Sorry Two Liberals Nominated In 1 Riding

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Friday it is "unfortunate" that two Liberals have been nominated in the single-seat riding of Prescott-Glengarry for the general election.

"I am sorry they cannot agree on one," he said at a press conference. "It is unfortunate, but then that is their right."

The combined Ontario riding was created last year in a redistribution of seats.

Canadian Bricks Are Larger Than Those Used In States

ANSWERS to often asked Questions:

Brick sizes — Canadian and U. S.

Q: Can you please tell me the difference in size of Canadian and U. S. bricks?

Ans. Canadian brick measures 4" x 2⅜" x 8⅜" against the smaller U.S. brick measuring 2¾ x 2½" x 8". Approximately 5 per cent. more U. S. than Canadian brick is needed to build the same wall.

Removing Cloudiness from Varnish.

Q. Our paperhanger used a steam type apparatus to soften the old wallpaper before removing it. Unfortunately, this had a very bad effect on some of the mahogany stained woodwork in the room, bringing out a cloudy, white appearance on the surface. Despite strenuous efforts to rub this down with turpentine and waxes, it still persists. Have you any suggestions?

Ans. Hot moisture, resulting in efflorescence, can have a very damaging effect on certain types of varnish. In some instances the bloom may be removed by rubbing the wood with camphorated oil, secured at your druggist's. If this won't do the job there's little else that can be done other than complete refinishing.

How to Paint Asbestos Siding.

Q. While the asbestos Siding shingles on our garage appear as good as the day they were put on, my wife now wants a change of color. What type of paint should I use— can I follow the same painting method used to boards?

paint wooden shingles or clap-

Ans. In painting asbestos shingles it is a good idea to add a quart of exterior spar varnish to each gallon of prime coating. This helps kill porosity and suction in the shingles. Finish coat may be a fine quality exterior paint just as it comes from the manufacturer's can.

Cleaning Grease from Brickwork.

Q. We have always been very proud of our kitchen which features an end wall of red brick. Now we have a problem: The range is backed against this wall and over the past three years a considerable amount of grease from cooking has spattered against the bricks. Now, how to bring them back to their original clean red colour?

Ans. You might try washing thoroughly with a solution of trisodium phosphate. If this won't do the job, try scrubbing with a course, dry, wire brush— followed with a srubbing with hot soap and water. If grease stains are too deeply seated to be removed by these methods then the only answer seems to be to paint the bricks.

Damp Proof Courses in Masonry Walls.

Q. Where —and of what materials— are damp proof courses built into masonry walls?

Ans. Damp proof courses are installed horizontally through the thickness of masonry walls resting on a foundation wall, the damp proof course being not less than 1' nor more than 1½' vertically above the highest grade against the building.

The following materials for damp-proof coursing are specified in the National Building Code:

(1) Two layers of natural slate set in cement mortar

(2) Two courses of vitrified bricks (absorption not greater than 3 per cent) set in cement mortar.

(3) Sheet lead not less than 4 lb. per square foot lapped 3" at edges, and bedded both sides in mortar.

(4) Soft temper copper, not less than 7½ oz. per square foot, lapped 3" at edges.

(5) Bituminous hessian-base material, not less than 7 lbs. per square yard.

(6) Bituminous, fibre-base material, not less than 6 lbs. per square yard.

(7) Bituminous, hessian or fibre-base material with metal foil, not less than 8 lbs. per square yard.

Determining Fire Damage to Plaster.

Q. A fire in our recreation room broke down the plaster in one corner where the fire originated. Naturally, the whole room has considerable smoke smudge. Our question is this— is it possible for the plaster in other sections of the rom to have broken down in any way such as the bond —and yet not be visible?

Ans. If heat was intense enough to calcine the plaster it will be soft and chalky. However, if the surface is still sound and hard, it is safe to assume the bond to the lath is not affected. Even though the surface is soft the plaster may be in good condition below the surface, and it would only be necessary to remove the soft material down to where the plaster is solid, then refinish it.

It is difficult to remove smoke stains and soot entirely from plaster as it is usually well ingrained. However, we suggest washing as much as possible off the surface with a weak solution of washing soda, followed by clean water. If it cannot be entirely removed, it will be necessary to seal the plaster before decorating to prevent the stains from bleeding through. A coat of aluminum paint would probably be the most effective sealer.

Safety Measures for Attached Garages.

Q. It would be appreciated if you could supply us with some authoritative information regarding attached garages— what fire precautions are required, allowable door openings, etc.

Ans. The following specifications are taken from the National Building Code for dwelling construction. Before going too far with your plans, however, be sure to check with local building regulations in your own community.

"Walls, floor and ceiling, which separate, a private garage from a dwelling unit, shall have a fire-resistive rating of not less than one hour.

"The floor of an attached garage shall be of incombustible material.

"An intercommunicating door between an attached garage and a dwelling unit may be installed, provided that:

(1) Such door shall be single, tight-fighting and self-closing.

(2) The door shall have a fire-resistive rating which is not less than that of a 1¾" wood slab door.

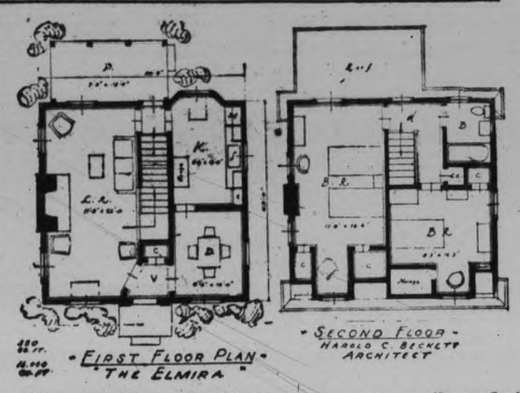
(3) The door sill shall be at least 2 inches above the floor of the garage, and shall be placed on a masonry or concrete curb or step.

(4) Such door shall not be more than 36" in width.

Nailing Plywood Roof Sheathing.

Q. In a recent issue you gave some nailing recommendations for application of plywood roof sheeting. Haven't you called for a larger nail and for more of them than are needed?

C.M.H.C.'s Building Standards specifies 2-inch nails 6 inches on centres along edges, and 12 inches on centres at intermediate bearings. Latest information indicates that a 1¾" nail at this spacing is entirely adequate — Plywood Mfrs. Ass'n. of B. C.



Ans. We stand corrected and hasten to make correction with the following approved recommenations:

Type: Plywood for roof sheathing shall be 5/16" minimum thickness. Unsanded Sheathing grade.

Placing: It shall be applied across rafter spaced not over 16" o.c. with the grain of the face plies at right angles to the rafters and with the ends of the panels bearing on the rafters. As with wall sheathing, a small separation of approximately 1/16" should be left between the panels to allow for any future expansion. To make full utilization of the erection economies possible, those panels which do not need cutting should be tacked in place across the roof to provide a working surface. Fittings at the hips or ridge can then be placed or carried out easily, followed by systematic nailing of all panels.

Nailing: The plywood shall be secured with 2" common nails spaced not over 6" o. c. on panel ends bearing on rafters and not over 12" o.c. on intermediate points.

THE ELMIRA—The Elmira is an attractive Cape Cod Cottage suitable for a narrow lot. To those desiring larger bedrooms and where lot depths do not permit a deep bungalow with the bedrooms on one floor, this is an admirable solution. Exterior is in wide siding, painted white with bottle green trim. A full basement is provided. This is another in the interesting series of artistic and practical houses prepared for readers of this paper by Harold C. Beckett, architect, 52 Chatham St. W., Windsor.

Franco-Canadian Bond Aids Fight More Efficient War

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—Franco-Canadian bonds have acquired a new application here—they helped Canadian infantry fight a more efficient war.

When the Commonwealth division was in reserve during February and March a sector of its former front was held by the French battalion, then serving with the 2nd United States infantry division.

One of the French lieutenants, named Poupard, was a keen patroller. He also was something of an artist. To a relief map he was building he progressively transferred the information his hikes in no man's land produced about the terrain.

VALUABLE CHART

In time the French battalion had an accurate large-scale relief map of its sector, the no man's land ahead, and much of the enemy's territory ahead of that.

As the Commonwealth division prepared to resume operations, liaison visits were paid and during their course Brig. M. P. Bogert, then the Canadian brigade commander, and Lt.-Col. Louis Trudeau, commanding the 1st battalion of the Royal 22nd Regiment, called on Lt.-Col. Francois de Germiny, the French commander.

Poupard's map was earmarked for the French archives but the Colonel liked the Canadians and felt they could find it helpful. His offer to Brig. Jean Allard, Bogert's successor, to lend the map was accepted promptly.

Allard was so impressed with the relief map that he decided the Canadians should duplicate it, keeping the French one only long enough to make their own copy.

And then the two commanders, doubtless inspired by their common Gallic feeling for such things, simultaneously had the same thought.

"You'll keep ours," said de Germiny.

"And you'll take ours for your archives," said Allard.

Russian Sailors Make Quick Visit To House

LONDON (AP)—Thirty sightseeing Russian sailors popped up in the House of Commons today. But they were gone before startled Parliament members had time to collect their wits.

The sailors, crew members from the Soviet cruiser Sverdlov now anchored off Portsmouth for the Coronation naval review, were accompanied by an officer.

They were taken to seats in the Commons gallery but left less than 30 seconds later. Some didn't even have time to sit down.

The Commons was discussing routine business at the time and only a few members were present.

Study Delinquents

HALIFAX (CP) — The Nova Scotia Association of Child-Caring Institutions has formed a committee to consider a special institution for juvenile delinquents. Delegates to a meeting here said there was need of a place where young offenders could be segregated from older law-breakers.

TO HELP FISHERMEN—A Canadian contribution under the Colombo Plan, the Vancouver-built fishing vessel North Star is unloaded at Colombo. The North Star and a sister ship, the Canadian, travelled as deck cargo from Vancouver to Colombo. There, British Columbia fishermen will assist Ceylonese in surveying the fishing potential of the continental shelf surrounding Ceylon. The two boats, together with a trawler, also bought by Canada, will be used in the survey.

Customer's Hat Falls In Sink In Cafe Tilt

COBOURG (ENS).—Magistrate R. B. Baxter declared that police courts were not to be made civil courts in which to collect money when he dismissed a charge against Richard Evans of Port Hope of causing a disturbance in Wong's restaurant on May 5.

Wing Wong, one of the proprietors of the restaurant, said that there was an argument in progress at the front of the restaurant between his father and a group who were arguing about the amount of the bill.

The accused, who was sitting with a group of his own, had shouted for them to "shut up," Wong said. When the accused went to pay his bill, his hat was knocked off and landed in the sink and he refused to pay his bill.

Wong said he told Evans that if he paid the food bill he would pay for cleaning the hat, but Evans declined. He didn't know how the hat was knocked off.

PHONE CROWN ATTORNEY

"Why didn't you phone the police?" asked the magistrate.

"They phoned me instead—and at 1.30 in the morning," commented Crown Attorney Harry Deyman.

Magistrate Baxter asked Wong why he waited three weeks before he laid the charge. Wong said he wanted to charge him with not paying for the food but the justice of the peace said it was a civil matter. The police also refused to lay the charge.

"So you laid the charge because he refused to pay the bill?" asked the magistrate.

Wong did not make a definite reply.

PC Bob Caldwell said he was at the front door of the cafe and heard no disturbance going on inside. All he saw was the hat in the dishwater and Wong picked it out and threw it at Evans.

Henry Wong, another waiter, said that there was an argument about the size of the check between his father and some people at the front. Evans took a poke at Wing and missed, said Henry. He didn't see how Evans lost his hat.

HAT KNOCKED OFF

Evans said he observed the oldest Chinese arguing with some people at the front. When he went up to pay his own cheque, Wing started to push from behind and his hat was knocked off and fell into the sink.

He changed his mind about paying because he could get no satisfaction as to having his hat cleaned. He left his name and address with Constable Caldwell and said he would pay the check when the management had his hat cleaned.

Crown Attorney Harry Deyman said it was significant that the police always responded to a call in years past whenever there was a row in a restaurant. The magistrate said it appeared significant that the police did not lay the charge.

"You get his hat cleaned and leave the restaurant food bill and he will pay it," said the magistrate.

Evans nodded in agreement.

Mediterranean Cruise Ends After 24 Hours

LONDON (AP)—A Mediterranean holiday for 1,000 passengers ended today less than 24 hours after it started—their 24,215-ton luxury cruise ship Chusan limped back into the Thames seriously damaged after an English channel collision.

The liner collided with the 6,165-ton British freighter Prospector, bound for London from the West Indies.

The crash tore a gaping hole in the Chusan's side. The Prospector anchored off the Goodwin sands, down by the bows and her No. 1 hold flooded.

Doctorless

ough and they 'phoned the doctor in Lakefield. Then, at five o'clock, Mr. McKendry was up again to investigate another accident."

In the building, in addition to the wards and treatment rooms, are living quarters for Miss Brown and the housekeeper Miss Stella Plunkett who has been serving with the Red Cross Society for six years and has been at Apsley for the past year.

COMMITTEE CONTROL

Ordinarily, all outpost hospitals in the province are administered by the Ontario division of the Canadian Red Cross Society. But in 1947, headquarters asked some of the larger city branches to take them over and, since Apsley was in the county, the Peterborough branch took over the responsibility of looking after it.

The hospital was not in good condition at the time and, since they had some money left over from war services, they decided to rebuild it. A committee was chosen, headed by Mrs. Charles Ray and consisting of Mrs. Fred Hooper, Mrs. W. R. L. Blackwell and Mr. G. H. Thompson.

Plans were prepared and approved by headquarters and the hospital was rebuilt about the nucleus of the old building, which was itself renovated. The cost was about $25,000 and another $5,000 was spent on furniture and equipment.

The hospital is administered by a Peterborough committee with Mrs. Ray as chairman and composed of Mrs. Hooper, Mr. Thompson, Mrs. H. S. Rodgers and Miss Ethelwyn Dix. Mrs. Blackwell, as president of the Peterborough branch, is an ex-officio member.

Maintenance of the building is the responsibility of Apsley's 18-member hospital board of which Earl Trotter is president, Mrs. Theodore Post secretary and Mrs. Max Tucker treasurer. Mrs. Ray and Miss Dix represent Peterborough on the board.

PROVIDES SUPPLIES

The nursing and housekeeping services, medical and food supplies are provided by the Ontario division of the Canadian Red Cross Society. The linen is made under the administration of the Ontario division and supplied from a central depot to all outpost hospitals in the province. The Peterborough branch provides for repairs and equipment.

The job of maintaining the hospital is the responsibility of the Apsley Red Cross branch which conducts a fund-raising campaign every year in conjunction with the national drive for funds. The branch's quota, which is set by provincial headquarters, covers the cost of heating and hydro and the routine chores which are done around the hospital by William Tucker.

"They'll do anything we want," Miss Brown said. "They take off the storm windows, clean them, put them on, and all sorts of jobs."

An additional source of income is the money which people have donated and which has been put in trust for the hospital.

TWENTY GIVE BLOOD

While the hospital is designed for giving first aid treatment in emergency cases and accommodating patients with minor ailments, it has facilities for providing numerous other medical services to the community. The first blood donors clinic was held there a couple of weeks ago with Mrs. Ray in charge and two doctors and a laboratory technician from St. Joseph's hospital in attendance. Twenty donors showed up to give their blood to the clinic.

In the X-ray room, not only are accident victims checked for possible fractures but monthly chest clinics are held. Miss Brown develops the plates in a dark room behind her office and sends them to the Department of Health in Belleville for examination.

In the basement, where the oil-heating system is located, are supplies of canned goods from provincial headquarters as well as jars of dextrose solution for intravenous feeding. Stocks of plasma and dried blood are kept upstairs in the operating room.

COVERS ALL DISTRICT

In addition to supervising the hospital, Miss Brown does public health nursing among the more than 60 pupils of schools at Owenbrook, Glenalda, Lasswade and Mount Julian and about 200 at the new Apsley public school which provides grades 9 and 10 for pupils of the district.

All this sounds like a large order for one nurse to handle. In fact, there used to be both a day nurse and a night nurse. But Miss Brown admits she likes it.

"They've been grand to me here," she said, speaking of the people she serves, "and the hospital is well-equipped for a small one. But it's too bad there isn't a doctor here."

Well, Doctor, how does it sound to you?

Wives Decide To Strike Back At Husbands

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—The wives of 42nd street north struck back at their rebellious husbands with contract demands of their own Friday.

Twenty-five husbands led by J. L. Caldwell, 63-year-old railroad conductor, signed a petition Thursday saying they wanted better terms at home.

Their plaint added up to less lawn mowing and more fishing.

Mrs. Caldwell said the wives were asking their husbands to be neater around the house, "so we won't have to do so much cleaning up after them."

PLAN ULTIMATUM

The ladies planned an early meeting to decide on the exact terms of their own ultimatum.

How about her husband, who started the whole thing? What was planned for him?

"Well," said Mrs. Caldwell, "he isn't going fishing this weekend as he had planned. We are going to Panama City, Fla., together Tuesday."

Caldwell's demands for the men included tasty meals when husbands work late. He said he was tired of preparing his own late snacks.

Mrs. Caldwell let folks know that the ladies would have the last word, though.

"We're going to run Mr. Caldwell for dog catcher," she asserted grimly.

China To Reap Large Benefits When Fighting Ends In Korea

By ROBERT FRANKLIN
London Observer Foreign News Service.

HONG KONG. — An end of fighting in Korea is expected to bring China material and political advantages.

A truce will probably result in a relaxation of European trade restrictions, despite objections of the United States, it is believed here. It appears likely that it will also lead to friction between Britain and the United States—and that is a principal objective of Peking's propagandists.

For some weeks the Communist press in Hong Kong has been campaigning for lifting present trade controls once an armistice has been signed, and it seems certain that trade with China will pick up sharply once there is an armistice.

FAIL TO MEET DEMANDS

It is now established that Russia and her European satellite nations are not able to meet all China's current capital equipment needs. In making concessions at Panmunjom, China clearly has been influenced by the need for freer trade and a period of peace for industrial construction.

In addition to giving China access to crucial markets now forbidden, a truce will rid the nation of the crippling expense of war at a time when all its resources and energy are needed for the industrialization program. It will free at least 1,000,000 men for more constructive labor.

Although it appears certain that the Chinese now are anxious for an armistice, China will come out of the war immeasurably stronger in every respect than when Mao-Tze Tung's armies moved south across the Yalu River in October, 1950.

And although China is not expected by observers here to embark upon further military adventures in the foreseeable future, a settlement in Korea certainly will not impede in any way the slow but sure march of Communism in Asia. Diplomatic sources here are saying that it may reasonably be said that whereas the bitter three-year war ended in deadlock, China won the peace.

Brenden Macken Retires, Jars Cup Hopes

By MAX McMAHON

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's hopes for victory over Mexico in this year's Davis Cup matches suffered a setback Friday night with the announcement that Brendan Macken, the country's No. 1 tennis player, has retired from international competition.

But up-and-coming youngsters from British Columbia, Ontario and Quebec now have another berth to shoot for. The whole policy of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association for some years has been to build young players into international competition calibre.

Bren and No. 2 man Lorne Main were certain of spots on the team. Henri Rochon, ranked No. 5, has not said whether he will be available for competition this year. He played with Macken and Main last year, but hasn't played much this season.

The 30-year-old Macken said the rigorous work of getting into shape for big-time competition and demands of business were too much to allow him to carry on.

QUESTION MARK

Big question mark now is brother Jim of Vancouver. Jim is currently playing in the Pacific Northwest championships, but hasn't said whether he would be available for the team. He ranks No. 3, but pressure of business did not permit him to play on the Davis Cup team last year.

Dr. Georges Leclerc, last year's non-playing captain, said: "We are sorry to see Bren leave international competition. We were counting on him to win matches for us and we'd still like to see him play if it was possible to make him change his mind."

Dr. Leclerc said the best prospects to fill the team's vacancy seem to be Paul Willey, No 4, of Vancouver; Lawrence Barclay, No. 6, Vancouver, and Bob Bedard, No. 7, Victoriaville, Que.

Don Fontana and Jim Bentley of Toronto could be considered prospects, but they are not ranked among the top 10 in the country and their showing between now and selection date would have to be outstanding to rate them berths, Dr. Leclerc said.

WAIT FOR RESULTS

Selection will be made after results are known from the Pacific Northwest championships, the Toronto Cricket Club invitation tournament June 22 and the Quebec provincial championships June 29.

Dates of the Canada-Mexico matches are July 17, 18 and 19 at the Mount Royal Tennis Club in Montreal.

Brendan Macken, a seven-time Davis Cupper, has competed in nine cup ties, winning six singles matches and losing nine—the losses against some of the world's top players—and in five doubles matches failed to score a win.

Last year he became the first Canadian for some years to defeat a United States team member when he downed young Bob Perry.

After that match Macken said: "a win against Perry is going to look awfully good on my record when he is wearing the Wimbledon crown."

MOST NOTEWORTHY

Most noteworthy of his singles triumphs was his five-set shocker against Billy Sidwell of Australia, ranked among the top 10 in the world at that time.

He has won the Canadian singles and doubles championships and last year swept all three titles—singles doubles and mixed doubles—in both Quebec and Ontario.

With Main he once went to the quarter-finals in the doubles of the all-England championships at Wimbledon.

Hogan Showing Signs Of Weakening In Tourney

By WILL GRIMSLEY

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — Golf's imperturbable little master, Ben Hogan, showed signs of weakening Friday and a couple of hardened pros jarred his early grip on the 53rd United States open golf championship.

In an exhausting round which lasted four hours and 50 minutes, the three-time champion crambled home with a second-round 72, even par, which gave him a halfway score of 139.

Two strokes back—with two taxing rounds scheduled today for the showdown—are socking Sam Snead one of Hogan's longtime adversaries, and the veteran George Fazio.

The unpredictable Snead sank an 80-foot pitch shot on the final green for a three-under-par 69, which brought the slammer three strokes nearer the lead.

The 40-year-old Fazio, who with Lloyd Mangrum lost a playoff to Hogan for the title in 1950, added a steady 71 to a previous 70. He is ready to jump in the moment the pace-setter falters.

IN FOURTH PLACE

In fourth place at 143 came another old campaigner, Mangrum, the 1946 champion, who fashioned a 70 for the second round. Jay Hebert, a surprise contender from Erie, Pa., and former assistant pro at Oakmont, followed at 144, and then came Dick Metz, a touring pro for 27 years, with 145.

Hogan turned in an erratic 36-36 over the 6,916-yard, par 37-35—72 Oakmont course. Regarded as the greatest putter in the game, he three-putted two greens and had trouble with his irons.

Hogan, who won his title in 1948, 1950 and 1951, took a similar two-stroke lead into the final day a year ago only to lose his hold and watch the championship go to a rank outsider, Julius Boros.

Boros, the forgotten man of this 53rd tournament, matched Hogan's round with a par 72, despite some faulty putting, but found himself eight strokes back at 147.

The field today is reduced from its present 150 to the low 50s and ties for that position. The cutoff point was 153, so players shooting that and under qualified for the final rounds.

Barely making it at 153 were such top figures as Jim Turnesa, the PGA champion; Ed (Porky) Oliver, the 1952 runner-up; former champion Lawson Little and Australian Peter Thomson.

Execution Stay Request

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Robert Jackson today turned over to the full U. S. Supreme Court a request for a stay of execution of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, the condemned atom spies.

Counsel for the Rosenbergs explained the plea at a 45-minute closed hearing before Jackson in his chambers. He then decided to submit the request to the full court at its regular Saturday closed conference.

The husband and wife are to be executed in New York's Sing Sing prison next Thursday night.

The Supreme Court has refused three times to review the Rosenbergs' conviction, and Chief Justice Fred Vinson on May 26 refused to stay the executions.

No indication was given when the full court would make known its decision on the stay request. The tribunal's Saturday conferences sometimes run into the late afternoon or early evening.

Reach Agreement With Bus Drivers

KITCHENER (CP)—A spokesman for the Kitchener public utilities commission today said agreement had been reached on practically all points of a dispute between itself and members of Local 304, Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers (CIO-CCL).

The 100 bus drivers and mechanics employed by the PUC line which serves Kitchener and Waterloo scheduled a strike for May 29 when the commission refused to recognize the union's right to bargain for the employees. However, the walkout was called off when the PUC showed signs of a compromise.

Meetings between the union and the commission have been held regularly since the time and "substantial progress" made toward a working agreement. Main issue in the dispute still is recognition of the union.

Still Riding Macau Ferry

HONG KONG (AP)—Michael Patrick O'Brien, the man without a country, still rides the ferry Lee Hong between Hong Kong and Macau—cooped up in the stuffy six-foot-square brig.

Authorities in this British colony say O'Brien unquestionably could win freedom from the brig if any lawyer filed for a writ of habeas corpus. But so far no one has taken this step to free O'Brien from a long humid summer in the tiny cage deep in the ferry's lower deck.

O'Brien has been sailing the 40 miles between here and Portuguese Macau daily for almost nine months. He climbed aboard the Lee Hong in Macau Sept. 18, 1952, after a trip from Shanghai with identity papers furnished by the International Red Cross. Neither Portugal nor Britain will recognize the papers and O'Brien can't leave the ferry.

Last March 21 he had an argument with the ferry captain and was put in the brig. He's been there since.

FOR PARENTS ONLY:

Laughter In Your Home Often Dissolves Tension

By NANCY CLEAVER

David McCord once pointed out that humor was a very special and excellent kind of art and should be appreciated for the rare stuff it was. Parents in their eagerness to do a good job in bringing up their children sometimes forget the importance of laughter in family life. It is a bond between the members of a household. A laugh often dissolves tension and misunderstanding. Stephen Leacock, that prince of Canadian humorists, whose Nonsense Novels and other books are such fun to read aloud, once made this observation, "Humor springs best from happiness . . . a jail is no place for it."

Every child goes through a scrap book stage and a family book of jokes and cartoons is fascinating to compile. It is also a very nice sort of book to loan to a friend who is convalescing.

EVEN a tiny child loves a joke. Nonsense songs and rhymes are good fun.

LIMERICKS

Making up silly limericks is a past-time which has provided laughter for countless people. Some families have great fun indulging in this indoor sport. There is a delightful Pocket Book of Humorous Verse with a number of anonymous limericks which conclude with this one:

There was an old person of Leeds,
And simple indeed were his needs
Said he: "To save toil
Growing things in the soil,
I'll just eat the packet of seeds!"

Thackeray once said that people who do not know how to laugh are always pompous and self-conceited—Possibly that is one reason so often the affected, self-important individual is shown up in a humorous story.

Today's parents, many of them, realize that they do not have to pretend to be perfect in their child's eyes. They can even laugh at their own mistakes! The children in a family are fortunate indeed if either mother or dad can pass on to them the willingness to look for the funny side in an unexpected mishap instead of bemoaning their bad luck, or blaming some one else.

AMUSING PEOPLE

It is a rare gift to be able to amuse other people—really amuse and not bore them! There is a saying in the Koran: "He deserves Paradise who makes his companions laugh." When a youngster gets to the stage when he really wants to occasionally tell a funny story to the family, Dad and Mother should be willing to "lend an ear"! There is nothing so annoying as the parent who is too busy to listen, or too serious to appreciate humor.

Real humorists are born, not made, but anyone can cultivate the attitude of not taking themselves too seriously and laughing at minor set-backs instead of moaning over them. It is impossible to continue to be tense and anxious and to laugh wholeheartedly too—and laughter often restores one's perspective. Long years ago Horace said: "Mingle a little folly with your wisdom." In a similar strain La Rochefoucauld made this observation, "Who lives without folly is not as wise as he thinks."

The nonsense in many Mother Goose rhymes appeals to children. What else can account for the popularity of Edward Lear's

"The Owl and the Pussy Cat
Went to Sea
In a Beautiful Pea-Green
Boat"?

A sense of humor is an individual thing and different families react quite differently to the same comic situation. But there can be no question of the value of laughter and fun in the home. Think over the last month—has laughter echoed often in your household? Or is life such a serious business that fun and nonsense are completely crowded out? If that is so, it is a great pity. "I wonder," boasted Charles Kingsley in a letter to his wife, "I wonder is there is as much laughter in any home in England as in ours?"

St. Paul's Party Rained Out, Move To Church

"It did it for the Queen, too," was the philosophic remark that did a little to brighten the sad situation which had to be met by the Flower Committee of St. Paul's Ladies' Aid, Friday afternoon when rain ruined the annual garden party.

The garden party was all arranged on the lawn at Mrs. O. M. Steer's home, Inverlea St., and ready to go in an hour's time when rain began to fall. Conveners' husbands came to the rescue with trucks and cars and in unbelieveably short time had moved the properties to the church.

"The London Fair" opened at the scheduled hour, but under cover which sheltered some 200 attendants while they visited a variety of booths and enjoyed floor show entertainment.

Major portion of the ballet, "Coronation of the Flowers," was presented by Miss Caroline Littlefield and company to the enjoyment of this crowd.

The royal purple and gold were the colors used to decorate the booths, and flags encircled the Sunday school auditorium where chairs were placed for the guests' convenience.

Purple and gold iris predominated in the tea table bouquet and the tea cloth was of gold silk damask. Tea pourers were Mrs. D. Miller and Mrs. D. W. Clark and Mrs. Hubert Eastwood and Mrs. J. J. Craig.

Convener of this affair was Mrs. Hal Bletcher. Mrs. Noel Rishor was in charge of properties and Mrs. Cameron Craig the tea room convener.

The flower booth was convened by Mrs. R. W. Buchanan, the Caledonian market in charge of Mrs. H. Hamilton, the candy table under direction of Mrs. Howard Shields, and Mrs. H. Mason was in charge of "white elephants."

Mrs. R. B. McWilliams operated children and they were also in a "fish pond" which charmed the vited to a special party "at the zoo" where animal crackers, milk and cookies were served. Mrs. Howard Perry took charge of this department.

Fair guests were welcomed by Mrs. Steer and Mrs. C. G. Boyd.

MR. AND MRS. W. H. LOWES of Mount Pleasant celebrate their diamond wedding anniversary Sunday at a reunion of their entire family at home. Mr. Lowes, 91, was a farmer in Cavan until his retirement 25 years ago.

Mt. Pleasant Couple Mark 60th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. W. H. Lowes and his wife, the former Margeree Ann MacDonald will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary in Mount Pleasant on Sunday.

Mr. Lowes was born in Cavan township in 1861 and farmed there for some 60 years, retiring to Mount Pleasant a quarter of a century ago. He will be 92 in October. His wife was born in Manilla and was raised by her grandfather, James McPherson, after the death of her parents.

They were married in Toronto at the home of the bride's uncle and the Rev. Dr. William Patterson performed the ceremony. Mr. Lowes still remembers with a twinkling eye, the "short sermon" promised by Dr. Patterson.

The couple have three children: two sons, Bruce Lowes of Detroit, and Hubert Lowes who works the family farm in Cavan. The daughter, Bertha, is married to Harry Jamieson and also lives in Mount Pleasant. There will be a reunion of the entire family on Sunday to celebrate the Diamond anniversary.

Mr. Lowes attributes his healthy old age to the fact that although he owned two cars in his lifetime, he never learned to drive. "Always had one of the boys or their wives to drive me anywhere I wanted to go. They're all good drivers".

Both he and his wife are solid members of the Mount Pleasant United Church.

Mr. Lowes was part of a family of nine (four boys and five girls), and is the last surviving member. He maintains that in those days children were able to get together and enjoy themselves, a few whistles bringing the whole group together, but now there is no one outside of the owner and possibly hired man on the farms.

Mr. Lowes attended the Franklin Public School and of the 80 who were on the roll he can only recall six who are living. He has been a Sunday School teacher himself for some 30 years, also superintendent for a time, and elder in the United Church of Mount Pleasant.

Mrs. Lowes has been associated with the Women's Institute for 59 years, being the only surviving charter member. She was given a life membership 12 years ago.

The old couple are still very lively and quick of mind, both recelling past incidents with ease and making fine conversationalists. No doubt all their neighbors of the town and countryside will join with the family on Sunday to wish them all the best on their 60th wedding anniversary.

Former Polish Lawyer Takes Red Cross Home Nursing

TORONTO (CP) — A former Polish lawyer, Mrs. Mary Kindler, wanted to become more thoroughly acquainted with Canadian women so she took up Red Cross home nursing.

Recently she was one of 285 women to receive awards from the Red Cross at ceremony here.

Mrs. Kindler's work in Poland was mainly concerned with children's guardianship and delinquents. During the war she was active in the underground and afterwards spent two years in Sweden doing industrial work.

She married a lawyer who was serving with Polish troops in England and later they came to Canada. She says she was embarrassed because she could not speak English. "I was so happy when I first learned to say 'thank you very much' that I said it on every occasion," she said.

She studied hard at the language and took a course in accountancy at Ryerson Institute. She speaks German and French as well as her native Polish. She holds a position in one of the court offices at city hall.

Now that she has finished the six-month course in home nursing she is thinking of voluntary service in the fall.

"All we want is to be good Canadians and to be happy in this wonderful country," said Mrs. Kindler.

Cavan Pair Wed 50 Years; Farm Homestead

Leslie Moore celebrated today with his wife, the former Anne Gertrude Veals, their golden wedding anniversary with their relatives and friends at their home, three miles east of Millbrook.

Mr. Moore is the third generation of an Irish immigrant family that migrated to Cavan township in the early 1800s from the county of Cavan in Ireland and pioneered a 100-acre farm, which the Moores are farming today.

Mrs. Moore is the daughter of the late John Veals and the former Rebecca Killaly and was born and raised in Cavan township and grew up with Mr. Moore.

Previous to their marriage in 1903, Mr. Moore worked for three years in a flour mill in Rochester, N.Y., as a miller. Mrs. Moore jointd him in 1903 and they were married in the first Methodist Episcopal Church by the late Rev. Charles E. Hamilton. At that time one didn't require a marriage licence to get married.

Following thir marriage they remained in Rochester for three years and Mrs. Moore obtained a job as a secretary. In 1906 they moved out west to Moose Jaw, where Mr. Moore worked for the CPR for two years as a carpenter. Then they moved to Vancouver for another two years. They returned to the Cobourg district, which is just outside Moose Jaw in 1910 and lived there until 1934, when they returned to the homestead at the request of Mr. Moore's brother, who wanted to retire.

They drove all the way from the west in a 1928 Ford without any trouble, and Mr. Moore still drives it today.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore worked the farm up until five years ago and now they rent it. They spend most of their time visiting friends and taking care of their flower garden now they are retired.

Mr. Moore is a former member of the Orange Lodge and they are both members of Centreville Presbyterian Church.

Actually Mr. and Mrs. Moore were married 50 years ago Tuesday and their friends and relatives in the district held a party for them Tuesday night at the Centreville Community Hall and they were presented with a matching chesterfield and chair.

Among the gifts received from relatives and friends is a special scroll of congratulations from Provincial Secretary Arthur Walsh, and a telegram from the Governor General, the Hon. Vincent Massey, wishing them hearty congratulations and another telegram from the acting premier of Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore haven't any children. Their closest relatives are Mr. Moore's two brothers: W. H. Moore of Moose Jaw, Clair Moore of Peterborough and his three sisters: Mrs. Andrew Huggins (Margaret) of Millbrook, Mrs. Way Byres (Anna) of Peterborough and Mrs. Telbert Barthwell (Charlotte) of Belleville.

New Minister Guest Speaker At St. Paul's WMS

The June meeting of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Auxiliary of the WMS was held Friday afternoon with Mrs. J. Hubert Eastwood presiding. The Rev. Gilbert Smith, who recently came from Ireland to be minister of St. Giles Presbyterian Church was the guest speaker.

Mr. Smith commended the women on the work they were doing and reminded them of the remarks made by Her Majesty, the Late Queen Mary, during the war, "The women are doing a mighty work and it is time someone told them so."

The speaker explained that the first successful missionary effort was in Europe and the first convert was a woman named Lydia, who listened with her head, but made her decision with her heart. She was baptized and all her household also.

Mr. Smith told a story about Dr. Laws of Livingstonia, who when sleeping in a tent one night was awakened by the scraping of the claws of a lioness on the seams of the tent. The seams held and later Dr. Laws went to the makers of the tent in Greenoch and discovered that the work was done by an elderly woman in the country. He went to her to thank her for her efficient workmanship which had saved his life.

He also told a story showing the genuine hospitality in Ireland. A woman, who had been thanked for her kind hospitality in her home said, "I haven't very much to give, but God didn't give me so little that I couldn't share it with somebody else."

In his concluding remarks the speaker expressed the gratitude of the people of St. Giles for the gift of money which had made possible the purchase of land for the church building which is to be erected in the south part of the city and also for the piano which is now begin used in services.

Mr. Smith was introduced by Mrs. E. H. Howson and thanked by Mrs. Eastwood.

DOROTHY DIX:

Young Husband Admits He Neglected His Mate

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young man of 25, a resident of the West Coast, where I have built up a flourishing business. I married a girl from the East, and while I loved her dearly, my work took most of my time and I neglected her. She went back for a visit, and, I know now, never intends to return. Perhaps my experience may prove a lesson for other ambitious young husbands. B.A.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUSINESS VS. WIFE

ANSWER: Perhaps the situation isn't quite as hopeless as it seems. Your visit to her home, to plead your cause, may be fruitful. If she realizes that business has finally taken second place in your life, she may be at least willing to give you a second chance. A fine business is something to strive for, but a fine marriage is of much more importance. It does seem to me, however, that your wife could have been more co-operative, realizing that the work was for her ultimate good, too. A wife must stand by her husband through business adversities and successes; she can't remain forever merely an adornment in his home.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Recently you published a letter from a wife who discovered her husband's infidelity by opening his mail. I know the party was referring to me, and I'd like her to know that her husband is still seeing me regardless of her interference. I thought it was against the law to open someone else's mail. I suppose you will be afraid to print this.

E. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: On the contrary, I'm afraid to print nothing. You sure are pleased with yourself, aren't you? One would think, from your tone, that husband-stealing was a feat to be proud of. What makes you so fussy about someone breaking the law? Or haven't you heard that adultery is a crime in all 48 states? Incidentally, the letter published did not refer to you, so I'm afraid you are disappointed on that score. I'm only sorry that there are two women as contemptible as you and the woman who was the subject of the letter in question. Gloat over your victory while you can; the day of reckoning will be a bitter one for you.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For a year and a half I've been going steady with a boy my age, 16. We have talked of marriage, which would take place in the distant future, since we are both going to college. I'm sure I love him but what puzzles me is that I don't have a goood time when we're together. On one occasion when we broke up, I went with another boy and enjoyed myself much more.

UNDECIDED

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The solution for you, my dear, is to give up going steady. You've been going with the same boy since you were fourteen, which is altogether too young to make so definite a choice. Let him know that you are going to accept dates from other boys because you are not sure of your feelings toward him. That's the fairest arrangement all around, and you will be much happier with it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been happily married for 18 years, but several months ago I had three dates with a man from my office. I am very much ashamed of myself for going out with him, and wonder if I should tell my husband about it.

ROSE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your guilty conscience is the price you pay for an indiscretion, but there's no reason to burden your husband with it, too. Once he knows you accepted a date with another man, no matter how innocuous the occasion, he'll have difficulty trusting you completely again. Profit from your lesson, and resist temptation in the future.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a divorced woman with two children and living on a limited budget. I go out on special occasions and would probably go more frequently if it weren't for the added expense of a baby sitter. Sometime ago I met a very fine man whose company I enjoy very much but I often make an excuse when he extends an invitation for the evening. Lastn ight he asked me point blank why I refused, and I told him the truth. He said that paying for the sitter would be a minor expense for him, and he'd be more than glad to take care of it. Would I be wrong in letting him pay the sitter occasionally, under these circumstances?

LORETTA

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since the cost of the baby sitter is merely another item in an evening's expenses, I see no reason why your escort shouldn't pay it.

Havelock P.S. Hold Parents Night

HAVELOCK (ENS)—The public school held its annual "Parents Night" on Wednesday when the pupils presented a very fine program to a large audience in the town hall under the supervision of their respective teachers, with every room providing a portion. The vocal numbers were under the direction of Albert Hazel, of Campbellford, the school director of music. Principal H. Hunter officiated as chairman and each teacher announcing the number from their own room. A short address was given by J. Calnan, chairman of the Board of Education.

The program was as follows: Room 1, Kindergarten—Dramatization of "Jack and Jill" by the morning class with Teddy Parnall as Jack and Betty Menzies as Jill. Dramatization of "Hey Diddle, Diddle" by the afternoon class with Carol Firlotte, Lorraine Watson, Donnie Sagriff and Bobbie Smith as the characters.

These numbers were followed by four choruses by the entire class.

Room 2, Grade 1—A chorus by the class—"Our country's name is Canada." Solos were sung by David McKenzie, Marie Robertson, Bonnie Rutherford, Bobbie Watson. There were two choruses by the class with Gary Bedore and Judy Calnan taking the solo parts; a recitation was given by Carol Dafoe, rhythm exercises brought this room's portion to a close.

Room 3—This room opened its part with a chorus by the whole class, followed by two dances: Gypsy dance by Margaret Ellis, Joan Hoard, Iris Watson, Carolyn Clarke, Tom Adley, Wayne Gordon, Allan Corneil, Neil Watson. Slovak dance by Bertha Watson, Phyllis Bullock, Marilyn Brewer, Lois Smith, Gordon Wood, Gordon Fitzpatrick, Neil Watson, Barry Pomeroy.

A play entitled "Cinderella" was then presented with the following cast: Gwendolyn Hall, Linda Parnall, Linda Youmans, Jean Hoard, Tom Adley, Neil Watson, Allan Corneil, Barry Pomeroy, Gordon Wood, Gordon Fitzpatrick, Joan Hoard.

Room 4, Grades 4 and 5—Selections were played by the kitchen rhythm band comprising all of grade 5 and part of grade 4. A play "Absolutely Nothing" was presented by grade 4 with the following taking part: Brian Clarke, Sonya Robertson, Margaret LaLonde, Clare Miles, Clifford Ellis, Richard Chiles, Gary Goadsby, Jackie Rodgers. The whole group then sang two numbers.

Room 5 (grade 6)—This grade sang two full choruses "Ballad of Cousin Mike" and "Land of Glad Tomorrow." The girls from the group sang a chorus and there was a choral reading "The Pirate Don Durk of Dowdee."

Room 6 (grades 7 and 8)—A short play "The Paper Don't Say" was presented by Marie West and Arnold Adams.

The girls from grades 7 and 8 put on a march drill; "The Toy Soldiers" with two choruses, "There's Something About a Soldier" and "Tipperary." A duet was sung by Jo-Ann Kennedy and Doris Newman and two choruses by the full group.

Following the program the audience went to the school where the work of the pupils was on display and the teachers in their respective rooms to confer with the parents.

Readers' Saturday Column by Mary Moore

Attention Readers: Because of lack of space I often have to mail readers the information they are requesting. This is impossible if they do not give me their names and addresses, and silly as it may seem sometimes they do not. Please enclose a stamped envelope too.

QUESTION: I received your lovely letter and tried the cookies and baked beans. My husband liked the beans so much he wants them often . . . before I ask my question am giving you a meal we had from leftovers: Mashed potatoes, onions, carrots, leftover meat, cababge, beans. Cook ½ cup white beans till done. Add the other ingredients all cooked, and 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, salt and peopper. If you have a can of tomato soup put that in as it comes from the can . . . this takes care of all my leftovers and I have a fresh start on Sunday . . . Last Friday my husband brought home a snapping turtle . . . I left it in salt and water overnight, then in the morning cooked it, first in bakin soda, then washed it, put it in more hot water and cooked like a chicken for supper and was it good! Have you any ideas on how to make a nice dish as we are getting another one in a week. Can you give me some good ideas for it?—Wilhelmina.

ANSWER: You nearly had me puzzled. I certainly have never cooked a turtle and want to compliment you for tackling it. However I did find the instructions in my files for Turtle Soup.

TURTLE SOUP

It must be alive. Drop turtle into boiling water and let stand 5 minutes (just as you do live lobsters). Since you have prepared one I will not go into the involved method of cleaning head and feet and removing shell. Cut the meat into small ¼-inch dice—you should have 1 pound; 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, grated rind ½ lemon, 2 teaspoons onion juice, and 1 tablespoon mushroom catsup or ¼ cup cooking sherry. (If sherry is used it is added just before serving). Add enough cold water to cover the meat, cover and simmer ½ hour. Thicken this with 1 tablespoon browned flour rubbed to a paste with 2 tablespoons soft butter. If desired 1 can of consomme diluted with 1 can of water may be used instead of cold water.

You also asked for cookies using bran.

BRAN-FIG COOKIES

Two cups bran, 1 cup whole wheat flour, 1½ cups sour milk or buttermilk, 4 tablespoons soft butter, 3 tablespoons dark corn syrup or molasses, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspons baking powder, pinch of salt and enough sifted white flour to make dough of rolling texture—it should be soft. Cream the butter into the sugar, then add all remaining ingredients. Chill dough, then roll out. Cut into rounds. On half the rounds place 1 or 2 teaspoons

Fig Filling: Cook slowly ½ cup each finely choped raisins and figs and water, for about 15 minutes. Thicken with flour paste of 2 teaspoons flour and 2 tablespoons water, Cool before using in cookies. Press top cookie on bottom cookie at edges, sandwich fashion. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr.

QUESTION: For some time I had a recipe for almond bars, but have lost it. I remember all the ingredients: brown sugar, margarine, rolled oats, blanched almonds but have forgotten the exact amounts. There was no flour in them and they kept well. The recipe made 24 bars.—Mrs. Blanche S.

ANSWER: I'll have to admit failure on this, for I do not have a recipe for bar cookies of any kind that does not call for eggs and a small amount of flour. I would be glad if readers would come to my rescue. If you have a bar cookie as Blanche describes please send it to me in care of this paper.

GRANT—In loving memory of Donald Grant, who was killed June 13, 1952.
His last parting wish
We would like to have heard
And breathed in his ear
Our last parting words,
Only those who have lost
Are able to tell,
The pain in the heart
In not saying farewell.
—Lovingly remembered by "Sis," brother-in-law Don, nephew David, nieces Judith and Debby.

GRANT—In loving memory of our beloved son, Donald H. Grant, who was killed one year ago today, June 13, 1952.
He is gone but not forgotten
And as dawns another year
Since death its gloom, its sahdows cast
Short and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved,
The blow was great the shock severe
Only those who have loved can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
The flowers I place upon his grave
May wither and decay
But the love for him who sleeps beneath
Shall never fade away.
—Lovingly remembered by his Mother and Dad and family.

KILLINGBECK—In loving memory of a dear husband and father William A. Killingbeck of Hastings, who passed away 19 years ago, June 13, 1934.
The world may change from year to year,
And friends from day to day,
But never will the one we loved
From memory pass away.
—Always remembered by wife and family.

Hiccoughs For Five Years But Man Can Still Joke

By GRAHAM BERRY

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Five years of hiccoughing at the rate of at least once a second have robbed Jack O'Leary of his vitality but not of his will to live.

The emaciated former market manager can even muster a wan grin as he quips, "if I ever woke up without 'em I'd think something was wrong with me."

It was June 13, 1948—five years ago today—that Jack, now 27, began what undoubtedly is the longest siege of hiccoughs on record. Shortly before, his appendix had ruptured and he wasn't expected to live. From time to time since, as his weight dropped from 136 to a mere 77 pounds, many persons believed his days were numbered.

But not his mother. Mrs. Margaret O'Leary remains steadfast in her faith that "somehow, somewhere, some day he will recover."

"The doctor says I shouldn't build my hopes too high," she says. "But I build them real high."

KEEPS PRAYING

As the spasms continue like hammer blows on his nervous system, Jack says, "I keep praying." The young man, who before he became ill had planned to become a Roman Catholic priest, attends 6 a.m. mass every Sunday.

"Prayer has done a great deal for him," says Mrs. O'Leary.

In the last few months Jack has improved slightly. Although his chest and back muscles still ache from the monotonous, jarring spasms, he has gained a pound. He weighs 78.

He is able to retain food for an hour, instead of only 20 minutes. He still can't keep food down, but his diet has expanded to include beets, ground beef, chicken, turkey and hot tea.

For a long time, he could only eat peas, carrots, warm water and toast.

He doesn't know how to feel hungry.

More than 200 doctors have used medicines, electricity and even hypnotism on Jack without results.

Unable to sleep longer than an hour, he spends much of his time reading.

Committed For Trial On Charge Of Rape

LINDSAY (ENS) — Arthur George Fairfield, 32, of Lindsay, was committed for trial Friday on the charge of raping a 19-year-old English immigrant girl who was boarding at the home of his mother. Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan called only three witnesses at the hearing: the girl, Dr. C. S. M. Service, the examining physician in the case, and a friend, who was first to hear the girl's complaint.

The offence allegedly occurred May 24. The girl testified she had come from church on that day, Fairfield's mother being out, prepared her meal, and gone to her room to read, when Fairfield came to the house, found her and committed the offence.

H. E. Richardson, for the defence, offered no evidence, but argued that not enough evidence of rape had been introduced to gain a commitment. Magistrate Gee differed with the defence. The victim of the alleged assault had been in Lindsay since last July. She moved to the Fairfield home to board only two-and-a-half weeks before the incident.

Frees Three Nazis

COPENHAGEN (AP) — King Frederik IX has freed three Germans serving 20-year terms for war crimes during the 1940-45 Nazi occupation of Denmark, the justice ministry said Friday night. They are Guenther Pancke, commander of the SS and Gestapo in Denmark; Horst Issel, leader of a Nazi counter-sabotage group, and Georg Renner, chief of Gestapo headquarters at Aarhus, Denmark's second largest city.

Favor Continuing Hospital Trust

LINDSAY (ENS) — Victoria county council went on record Friday as favoring continuation of the Ross Memorial Hospital as a trust when the new addition is completed. It also approved a request from the board of governors for two additional members from the county, and appointed representatives of the two southernmost townships to act in this capacity. The matter was introduced by Warden Vincent Fee, a members of the board of governors. With little discussion, the members of council first voted in favor of the trust type hospital. Frank Weldon, county clerk and secretary of the hospital board, explained some of the features of both trust and civic hospitals, and also outlined the progress being made by the hospital enlargement committee.

Members of council then turned to the request for more members on the board from the county and agreed with the warden that more representation would be desirable in light of the fact that the county and town will be asked probably for a large part of the building funds. After some discussion on this point, Reeves Sherman Moore and

Five Documents Involved In Election

OTTAWA (CP)—Five formal documents were involved Friday in the procedure of calling a general election.

Two were passed by the cabinet, and the other three were issued by Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, governor-general.

First, the cabinet recommended to the governor-general that Parliament be dissolved.

Then, it recommended that a new Parliament be summoned and that an election be held.

When these were transmitted to the governor-general, he first issued a proclamation dissolving Parliament as from today. A second royal proclamation ordered the election and named the polling day.

The final proclamation from the governor-general summoned Parliament to meet Oct. 15. This is only a matter of form.

Another series of orders go out from the chief electoral officer, Nelson Castonguay. These are the election writs approved by the governor-general in his election-calling proclamation.

Selwyn WA Honors Minister And Wife

SELWYN (ENS)—Mrs. Charlie McIlmoyl was hostess to the Selwyn United Church Women's Association on Thursday afternoon.

The meeting was in charge of the vice-president, Mrs. James McConkey, and she also gave the Topic entitled "Gardens". The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Donald Raddon.

Rev D. P. Morris led in prayer.

A card of thanks was read from Mr. Walter Preston and family for expressions of sympathy and flowers received at the time of Mrs. Preston's death.

The main item of business was whether or not to hold a strawberry festival but the motion was declined so there will not be a festival this year.

The W.A. honored Rev. and Mrs. Morris before their departure the end of June, by presenting them with a handsome table lamp. Mrs. Evans Blewett read a short address and the presentation was made by Mrs. Edward Preston. Mr. Morris spoke on behalf of his wife, and thanked the ladies for their kindness.

The meetings for July and August are cancelled, and the September meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. James McConkey.

Refreshments brought a pleasant afternoon to a close.

Painters, Composers To Get Scholarships

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hookey Association this year will provide overseas scholarships for young Canadian painters, composers and theatre students, it was announced Friday.

Scholarships range from $500 to $2,000 and are offered to young Canadians qualified for advanced studies abroad.

The awards were first offered by the Canada Foundation, a national cultural body, and have been repeated each year since. To date 13 students from all parts of Canada have been enabled to study abroad under the scheme.

Extending Area Of Subventions

OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet decided Friday to extend the area of federal treasury subventions on the movement of Maritime coal into central Canada.

Mines Minister Prudham said in an interview the government will restore a $1.75-a-ton maximum subsidy on the rail haul of coal moving to Ontario after being landed at Montreal by water from the seaboard area.

The action is expected to benefit Nova Scotia mines almost exclusively, chiefly those in Cape Breton.

At present, there is a subvention on coal moving by rail all the way to Ontario, but only about 2,000 tons were transported under it last year. The bulk of the westbound movement from the Maritimes goes by water to St. Lawrence river ports.

Wrong Approach To Church Union–Riley

TORONTO (CP)—The Very Rev. C. E. Riley, chairman of the Church of England extension committee, said Friday a proposal by the Presbyterian Church in Canada that Protestant denominations agree on where to place churches in new communities is "the wrong approach to church union."

The Presbyterian proposal was made by the church's general assembly at a meeting here earlier this week.

"The problem won't be solved that way," Dean Riley said "You can't hand over 100 convinced Anglicans to the Presbyterians and 100 convinced Presbyterians to the United Church."

Spokesmen for the United Churh and the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec said the Presbyterian recommendation would provide a basis for discussion of a growing problem.

MUST AGREE

The Rev. G. D. Johnston told the Presbyterian assembly earlier that Protestant denominations must agree on defining areas to "prevent the system of planting at a crossroads the churches of three denominations."

Dean Riley said the Church of England recognized this problem, but that the Church of England had no solution to offer beyond the possibility of union with the United Church.

Dr. Gordon Sisco, secretary of the United Church of Canada, said his church would meet at any time with other Protestant denominations to work out methods of establishing churches in new housing areas.

Seek Appointment Of Road Commission

KINGSTON CP)—Appointment of a royal commission to "determine the responsibility of the federal government in the development, improvement and maintenance of Canada's highways," with specific recommendations as to financial aid was sought Friday by the fourth annual conference of the Ontario Traffic Safety League.

Delegates said they felt it was time Ottawa "kicked in" with substantial financial assistance both for the development and maintenance of Canada's roads.

Members said they would approach the Ontario Good Roads Association for support and it was also suggested members of Parliament from Ontario be notified of the league's stand.

In another resolution, the conference reiterated a previous stand that the Ontario government establish a system of speed zoning throughout the province.

Don't Expect Harvest Interfere With Voting

TORONTO (CP) — The federal election Aug. 10 will come in the middle of the grain harvest, but it is not expected many farmers will be kept from the polls, a farm spokesman said Friday night.

J. A. Ferguson of Port Stanley, vice-president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, said more urban voters will likely miss balloting because of holidays than farmers because of the harvest.

"We've had elections in June and various other seasons when farmers were busy and it didn't keep them from voting," he said.

Main farm activity during the early part of August is harvesting of grain crops.

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—Circulation at Lakefield Public Library showed a slight drop over last month when 1215 books were given out. This month's circulation was 1133, reported librarian, Mrs. J. W. Ridpath, at the meeting held this week. The drop was mostly in the adult section.

The Movie Column

Drama Film Tunes Stealing Show

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The movies are again inspiring a volume of popular records, but it's not because of musicals. The dramas are doing the selling.

Film musicals used to bring forth a number of hit songs and records. But something has happened. For one thing, the scores for movies haven't produced the singable tunes of yore. Also, the music business has become a topsy-turvy world in which inane jingles, cornball tunes and shouting singers in echo chambers have become hits.

Now comes a new wrinkle. The scores of dramatic pictures are producing songs and records that click. This is nothing new. In the old days, movies used to have theme songs that were played over and over again for a haunting effect.

Then there was the still-popular "Laura." The background theme of the picture, written by David Raksin, was lyricized by Johnny Mercer, and the song became a hit.

CURRENT FAVORITE

The current favorite is "Where is Your Heart?" which is billed as "song from Moulin Rouge." The Percy Faith record has topped the record selling, juke box and disk jockey lists for several weeks.

"Anna," by the Italian star, Sylvana Mangano, is another top seller. It is from the Italian film, which has been dubbed into English. Another hit is "Ruby," as done by Richard Hayman and Les Baxter. It is taken from the Jennifer Jones-Charlton Heston film, "Ruby Gentry."

A popular orchestral number is the haunting music from "The Bad and the Beautiful," recorded by David Rose. A newcomer to the hit lists is "Return to Paradise," the music from the Gary Cooper film made in the South Pacific. It is available in versions by Rose and Percy Faith, among others. The theme from Charlie Chaplin's "Limelight" is also catching on.

The ballad from "High Noon" is still getting a play in the record business. The academy award helped to revive it.

Maybe these tunes will help get rid of that blankety-blank Doggie in the Window.

Steal Furs, Jewelry

MONTREAL (CP) — Furs and jewelry valued at $17,000 were reported stolen Friday by thieves who struck at two locations.

Simon Weisberg, proprietor of the Star Fur Mfg. Co., told police that thieves apparently climbed 10 flights of stairs to reach his premises. There they broke through a door and made off with $10,000 worth of fur coats. Mink jacket valued at $4,000 and $3,000 worth of jewels were reported stolen from an apartment on McTavish street.

Liner, Freighter Crash

LONDON (AP) — The British luxury liner Chusen collided with the British freighter Prospector Friday night in the English channel. A spokesman for the Peninsular and Orient Line, owners of the 24,215-ton liner, said she suffered heavy damage above the water line and was returning to London. He said there were no casualties. The 6,165-ton Prospector also was reported heavily damaged.

Find Suicide's Body

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Missing from his residence since May 26, Stefin Gic, 68, was found dead Friday on the embankment of Mill creek. His death was ruled a suicide by hanging.

MARGINAL MAN—Italian Premier Alcide de Gasperi (centre) walks past a battery of photographers as he enters the Christian Democrat party headquarters in Rome. In two days of tallying national votes, Italy could not give decisive control of Parliament to de Gasperi whose margin is too slim to run the government. He has denied rumors he will resign.

Cormorants Change Island Into Most Desolate Spot

By KINGSLEY BROWN Jr.
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP)—When cormorants first came to lonely Duck Island in the late 1920s, fishermen looked upon them as a good omen. They soon changed their minds.

As catches decreased they vacated their fishing shacks on the verdant island, never to return. There was talk of errie happenings on the island and the more superstitious blamed the wraith-like vultures of the sea.

Left to the cormorants, Duck Island became a rookery and the birds, which Milton once likened to Satan, transformed a virtual garden of Eden to a desolate isle ruled by nearly 3,500 glossy black fish-eaters.

LARGE ROOKERY

The island, about four acres in area, is two miles offshore about 40 miles from here on the eastern shore. Ornithologists say the rookery is probably one of the largest on Canada's Atlantic coast.

In propagating their species, the cormorants killed everything. As nests were added and vegetation absorbed tons of excrement, lush undergrowth died and was blown into the sea. Coniferous trees shed their needles and bark and now protrude, grey and grotesque, above rapidly vanishing topsail.

There is no fresh water. Only visitors are gulls, seals and the occasional hunter seeking some off-season practice. Laws protecting the ugly, voracious birds are not enforced because their value is doubtful. Tests have proven, however, they will eat trout or salmon only when starving.

The nests, seven and eight to a tree, consist of a large mass usually four to six in number, are laid in spring. They are bluish-white but discolor quickly. Cormorants are hatched blind with an inky black skin and their first plumage is blackish - brown above and creamish below.

LIVE ON FISH

In three years they become adults, with bodies two feet long, jet black plumage glossed above with bronze, a vicious yellow-hooked bill and orange-black webbed feet. They live entirely on fish.

There are two types of cormorant, commonly known as "shags" in the Atlantic provinces. The European stays all year and the double-crested only for the summer months.

A crack fisherman, the cormorant can stay under water for minutes. There was a time when fishing with cormorants was popular. The birds, taken from nests and tamed, were kept from swallowing the fish by a strap fastened about their necks.

In old England it was so much in vogue that one of the officers of the royal household was "master of cormorants."

OVERSEAS VISITOR to Great Lakes ports is this Netherlands ocean freighter unloading at Toronto. Like many other foreign-flag ships now seen in these inland waters, it was built especially for the St. Lawrence river route.

Foreign Flag Shipping Grows On Great Lakes

By JAMES MONTAGNES

TORONTO—One dream of the backers of the St. Lawrence Seaway project is the flow of sleek ocean liners and cargo ships from overseas that will head through the waterway bound for North America's inland ports.

But already the cargoes of Europe and North Africa are coming direct to those inland ports in foreign-flag ships from across the Atlantic.

With the Seaway still on paper, the docks of cities on Lakes Ontario, Erie, St. Clair, Huron and Michigan will handle more international shipping this year than ever before. The traffic has been growing since 1946. There were 360 foreign trips in and out of Toronto alone in the 1952 season.

These ships bring practically all of the British and European automobiles now sold in cities close to the Great Lakes. They bring steel and heavy machinery from England, France and West Germany for Canada's construction boom.

They bring textiles, wire, glassware, chemicals, toys, prefabricated houses, tin, tea, olive oil, wines, sewing machines, marble and grass seed—not only to Toronto but to Cleveland, Detroit, Milwaukee and Chicago as well.

Their season begins in mid-April, when the ice goes out of the locks that join the St. Lawrence with Lake Ontario, and lasts until the locks freeze up again.

To reach the Great Lakes ports, ships must go through 26 locks along the St. Lawrence, limiting their length to 250 feet.

In the U.S. Senate, a foreign relations sub-committee has approved a bill to authorize U.S. participation with Canada in constructing a 27-foot channel in the international rapids section of the river between New York and Ontario. The administration is also in favor of the idea.

Until the Seaway project embracing the rapids is a reality, however, no really big ships can make the inland voyage.

But when international traffic into the Lakes opened up again after World War II, foreign shippers began building new ships that could make the trip under present conditions. Today ships from eight foreign lines, flying British, Netherlands, German, French and Swedish flags, ply the Great Lakes.

At Toronto, the skipper of the first ship into port when the ice goes out of the locks receives a tall silk hat, and it's always gone to a U.S. or Canadian captain. Now they've added a token prize for the first foreign-flag ship in, too—an inscribed brief case. This year it went to the Motorship Avon, out of Southampton, England.

When a European ship is due at Toronto, word spreads fast among Canada's recent immigrant arrivals. Many of them are there to greet the freighter when it docks, for in addition to the industrial cargo, there may be household goods from the homeland.

And if not, there will be friends from the old country among the crew.

Man Pleads Guilty In $45,000 Theft

Dual Purpose Field Day At Ruth Farm

The Dual Purpose Shorthorn Breeders' field day last Saturday at the farm of Edmund Ruth in Emily township attracted a large attendance in sunshine and pleasantly warm weather.

Among the visitors welcomed by Mr. Ruth after the potluck picnic dinner were: George McGibbon of Lachute, Que., president of the Canadian Dual Purpose Shorthorn Asscoiation, who was accompanied by Mrs. McGibbon; Leonard Trotter, Madoc, vice president; Harry Snyder of Waterloo; Wilson Gemmell of Peterborough; John Bent of Omemee who imparted advice to new breeders from his long experience; LeRoy Brown, Lindsay, agricultural representative in Victoria county.

Others were from Tamworth, Drumbo, Elmvale, Hagersville, Kitchener, Princeton, Millbrook and elsewhere. Master of ceremonies was E. H. Stoltz, fieldman for the association.

JUDGING COMPETITION

Marlowemay Farm's dual purpose herd, augmented by the new sire acquired by Mr. Ruth, was in show form. Four classes of the Shorthorns were selected for judging. Results were:

Competing women: 1, Wilda Clark, Uxbridge; 2, Myrtle Fee, Omemee; 3, Margaret Hunt of Drumbo; 4, Mrs. Harry Snyder, Waterloo.

Men: Russell Drsydale, Elmvale; Alan Patterson; O. A. Ruth, Omemee; Ronald Darling, Peterborough.

Juniors: Allan Sullivan; Emmett Fitzgerald and Mary Ruth, tied; Michael Sullivan; Bert Chatten; Allan McCamus, John Clark.

The four classes were: mature cows, heifers, bull calves and senior bulls. The correct placing was decided by Leonard Trotter, Austin Parnell of Drumbo and John Bent.

Gordon Hancock of Peterborough auctioned a six-month-old calf from the Sanford herd of Mrs. L. A. Humphries, Meadowvale. Top bidder was John Clark of Uxbridge at $210. John is only 10 years old, but his father is transferring the new hefier to John's name.

Francis Way of Tamworth presented the prizes for the various events. They included: gallon cans of paint, white and aluminum; 50 and 25-pound bags of calf meal; motor oil; Texaco motor grease; thermos bottle, cannister set, ball point pen, and other articles.

The refreshment booth on the farm grounds was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Franks.

2,100-POUND BULL

Weight guessing contest was won by Alan Storey, prize a gallon of aluminum paint. The Ruth bull weighed 2100 pounds.

Persons coming the farthest: Russell Oliver of Paris and Ross Sibbick of Princeton.

Youngest person: the six months' old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Drysdale, Elmvale.

Oldest person: Mrs. Elizabeth Skuce of Lindsay.

Oldest person present who milked a cow by hand that morning: Ira Switzer, Omemee.

The races for children were directed by Mrs. Thomas McCamus of Cavan, and Mrs. Harold Clark of Uxbridge.

Ponies were provided for the youngsters to ride on during the afternon. Practical addresses rounded out a fine program. The hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Ruth completed the success of the field day. Those who had come from a distance enjoyed a cup of tea before leaving for their homes.

This is the first year that a medal has been given for a scholarly article, the award going to Dr. Ward. Dr. G. E. Forest Fires On 500-Mile Prairie Front

Expect Most Damage In Saskatchewan, Rain Helps Some

EDMONTON (CP)— Forest fires were burning today over a 500-mile front in Western Canada, some of them in a dancing wall of flame advancing relentlessly through green northlands.

Starting from the twin towns of McMurray and Waterways in northeastern Alberta, scattered fires have been reported in a straight line through Saskatchewan to north of Flin Flon, Man.

Light rain Saturday and Sunday helped check a series of blazes which threatened to snuff out McMurray and Waterways, 300 miles northeast of Edmonton, where flames had moved in on three sides. But a blistering pall of black smoke rose higher in Saskatchewan, about 150 miles north of Prince Albert.

LIGHTNING FIRES

Small lightning fires also were reported at many northern Manitoba points. No accurate check could be made of the number of blazes in the three provinces' north country, desert-dry after weeks without rain.

Thousands of acres have been consumed, much of it in desolate muskeg and marshland. Some officials feared the worst destruction in northland history if rain did not come.

Little drizzle fell over most of northeastern Alberta and throughout Saskatchewan during the weekend and more rain was predicted over the entire fire front today.

The 1,000 residents of McMurray-Waterways were prepared to flee when rain swept the area. However, the hazard still was high with flames within four miles of the towns and one fire at Waterways still out of control.

MOST DAMAGE

Most damage was expected in Saskatchewan's Lac la Ronge district, 150 miles north of Prince Albert. A fire at Portage la Roche, just within the Saskatchewan boundary east of McMurray, had burned through more than 20,000 acres.

Millar Knutson, a staff photographer for the Prince Albert Herald, said all he had seen for the last few days was "fire and more fire." He reported a fire at Waden Lake, 30 miles from Lac la Ronge, covered an estimated 30 square miles Sunday.

Raging fires also were reported at Big Otter lake, 180 miles north of Prince Albert; at McIntosh lake

Armada From World's Navies Reviewed By Queen Elizabeth

SPITHEAD, England (Reuters)—The Queen sailed up and down long ranks of warships from all the world's navies today in the sea-going section of Britain's Coronation festivities—the Royal naval review. She and the Duke of Edinburgh stood in a glass-enclosed bridge in the converted frigate Surprise, reconditioned to serve as a Royal yacht for the day. As they passed each of the 206 ships from 22 nations, including Canada, the assembled crews broke into cheers. Naval guns boomed out a salute as the Queen's ship nosed between buoys to enter the massive armada anchorage in Spithead, the channel between the mainland and the Isle of Wight.

The ships were lined up in orderly ranks, flags fluttering from every mast, as far as the eye could see.

500,000 WATCH

On high land along the shores an estimated 500,000 people looked on through numberless pairs of binoculars and telescopes. Many had slept out overnight to be sure of a good vantage spot.

Elizabeth stood weaving in her saluting cabin. She wore a white coat trimmed with navy blue cuffs.

Aside from Britain herself, the Canadian representation was the largest from the Commonwealth countries. The carrier Magnificent, 8th ship to be reviewed, led the contingent which included the cruisers Ontario and Quebec, destroyer Sioux, the frigate Swansea and La Hulloise, plus the government icebreaker D'Iberville.

Sixteen aircraft from the Magnificent will take part in the flypast.

The United States Navy's representative, the heavy cruiser Baltimore, flying the flag of Vice Admiral Jerauld Wright, commander-in-chief of U. S. naval forces in the eastern Atlantic and the Mediterranean, was resplendent in flags from stem to stern.

So was Russia's cruiser Sverdlov.

The scene reminded many local onlookers of the 1944 invasion fleet which mustered in the same historic neck of water for the assault which broke Germany.

Earlier today the Queen had received the senior officers of the ships taking part on board the Surprise. Among those she was

Rioting Convicts Holding Deputy Warden, 9 Guards

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP)—Armed with meat cleavers and knives, rioting convicts at the New Mexico penitentiary today seized deputy warden Tahash and nine guards as hostages. Warden Morris Abram said the convicts, in a note addressed to him, demanded that Tahash and six prison guards be fired.

Governor Edwin L. Mechem, who arrived at the prison soon after Abram announced the riot under way about 11 a. m. EDT, said he was told Homer Lee Gossett, notorious for "Houdini" escape attempts, was a leader of the uprising.

PREVIOUS RIOT

The 69-year-old prison last was the scene of a riot less than seven months ago when 14 convicts seized eight guards at knife point in a demand that they be allowed to escape. That riot was quelled after 20 hours.

All available state police officers were called on today to reinforce the prison guard force.

Gossett three months ago was convicted and sentenced to a second life term for murder in the slaying of prison guard Filemon J. Ortiz in an escape attempt in June, 1952.

Abram said the convict rioters demanded that Tahash and six guards be fired because they are "too tough."

The convicts promised that none of the hostages would be hurt unless the rioters are injured.

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice H. D. Anger of the Supreme Court of Ontario died in hospital here Sunday. He was 65.

Appointed to the Ontario bench last year, he was Canada's first deputy rentals administrator in 1940 and 1941 and enforcement administrator of rentals in 1946. His home was in Ottawa.

Mr. Justice Anger was the author of many Dominion statutes on rental control. He was awarded the Order of the British Empire for his work with the wartime prices and trade board during the Second World War.

Born at St. Catharines, he was graduated from the University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall law school in Toronto. He served overseas during the First World War as a lieutenant with the 53rd Welsh Division.

In 1947 he was appointed a member of the department of justice and became senior counsel for the federal department of trade and commerce.

Toronto Faces Building Tie-Up

TORONTO (CP)—The tie-up of millions of dollars worth of construction in Toronto and the lay-off of thousands of workers was threatened today by a strike pending at four of the city's major ready-mix concrete and builders supply firms.

Unless a settlement is reached in the seven-month-old dispute by next Monday, some 550 members of the Truck Drivers' Union (AFL-TLC) who are employed by the four firms say they will walk off their jobs. The companies involved are McKay-Muldoon, Canada Building Materials, Dual-Mix Concrete and McCord's Concrete.

The strike deadline was set after employees rejected compromise proposals contained in conciliation board reports. They are sticking to a demand for a 15-cent-an-hour increase retroactive to Dec. 9, and a one-year contract.

About To Be Fired, Becomes President

BOGOTA (AP)—About to be fired, Colombia's army chief Lt.-Gen. Gustavo Rojas Pinilla made himself president Saturday night in a lightning bloodless coup. He named a 13-man cabinet to rule under military control until "clean elections" can be held.

The coup, in which not a shot was fired and which went off like clockwork, caused hardly a ripple in the usual week-end calm that prevails in this capital high in the Andes. No extra troops or police were seen in the streets Sunday.

Ousted President Laureano Gomez was placed under arrest in his home. Unofficial reports that could not immediately be confirmed said he may be given a passport to leave the country.

France May Have To Depose Absent King Of Cambodia

SAIGON, Indo-China (AP) — French circles said today that France may have to depose King Norodom Sihanouk if he does not soon end his self-imposed exile in Thailand and return to his Indo-Chinese kingdom of Cambodia.

The 31-year-old monarch and an automobile entourage of 27 persons suddenly popped across the border Saturday and arrived in Bangkok Sunday. The monarch said he hoped to force France to grant fuller freedom to his Communist-threatened kingdom.

Before departing, the king transferred full power to his prime minister, Pen Nouth, who remained in Cambodia's capital, Phnom Penh. The king gave no indication he intended to abdicate.

In Bangkok today, a spokesman for the king said he had fled to prevent an anti-French revolution, and to lead a crusade to rally world opinion which he hoped would force France to grant his country independence.

A communique issued by the Cambodian legation in Bangkok said that Thailand, which has been sympathetic towards Cambodia's bid for independence, would be asked to take the subject before the United Nations.

French officials here expressed fear the king's flight would touch off uprisings by Cambodian ultra-nationalists, as well as by strong underground forces of the rebel Communist-led Vietminh.

They said all major Cambodian demands already had been satisfied and the king only three weeks ago had told France's high commissioner Jean Letourneau, "There remain some points to settle but they are only of secondary importance."

70 Die In Rush At Dance Hall Fire

SAO PAULO, Brazil —(AP) — About 70 persons were killed early Sunday in a mad rush from a second-storey dance hall after a fire broke out in a dry goods store below.

Estimates of the death toll varied from 63 to 70. Another 70 persons were injured.

When the club director told the crowd of 300 the building was on fire, the dancers pushed toward the single narrow stairway. Some fell in the frenzy and the stairway became clogged.

The police said later they found a solid pile of bodies on the stairway. Only a few had died from burns. The rest suffocated or were trampled.

Enemy Makes Advance 2 Miles Deep

Largest Red Offensive In Two Years, S. Koreans Reel Back

SEOUL (AP)—Thirty thousand Communists ripped into Allied lines today, breaking through as deep as two miles in the mightiest Red offensive in two years.

Two South Korean divisions on the east-central front buckled under an assault by two fresh Chinese divisions—about 20,000 soldiers.

A few miles to the west, another 10,000 Reds pierced Allied lines in several places before they were halted in bloody trench fighting by United States and South Korean infantry.

U. S. airmen flying shuttle missions dumped more than 2,225,000 pounds of bombs on the flaming 40-mile front. Smoke of battle could be seen for 60 miles.

GREATEST DRIVE SINCE '51

It was the greatest Red drive since the 1951 spring offensive, and apparently intended to gain the Communists as much ground as possible before the impending armistice.

Fighting raged throughout the day and last reports described it as "fluid"—meaning in full blast and undecided.

The Communists engulfed Capitol hill and Outpost Texas, south of Kumsong, and had the South Korean 5th and 8th divisions reeling south toward the Pukhan river.

Dispatches from the front painted a bloody picture of reckless Chinese pouring over a 3,000-foot peak which dominates the area held by the two RoK divisions.

PUNISHMENT MOVE?

Some Allied officers considered the offensive a Communist move to punish the South Koreans, whose government has threatened to drive to the Manchurian border if a truce is signed. There was a possibility, too, that the Reds wanted one final victory before an armistice for prestige purposes.

The nearby Pukhan river and the great Hwachon reservoir, 25 miles south of the main battle area, presumably would block any sizeable Red advance.

Lt.-Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, 8th army commander, went to the front for a first-hand inspection, after warning his troops in a Sunday broadcast that the impending armistice would not in itself mean an end to the war. He urged them to be ready to fight at any time if the Reds break the armistice terms.

LAUNCH COUNTER-ATTACK

South Korean troops launched a counter-attack at the eastern end of the main Communist push and forced the Reds off an outpost known as Anchor hill. Fierce fighting raged on nearby heights The RoKs also smashed a Chinese assault on Christmas hill, farther east.

To the west of the two embattled RoK divisions, fighting slackened after infantry of the U.S. 3rd and South Korean 9th divisions cut up an attacking force of Reds near the "Iron Triangle" and Outpost Harry. The Chinese made lighter thrusts elsewhere, mostly on the east-central front.

Indians, Tigers Swap Players

CLEVELAND (AP)— Cleveland Indians today made a four-for-four player swap with Detroit Tigers, giving up shortstop Ray Boone and three pitchers for pitchers Art Houtteman and Bill Wight, catcher Joe Ginsberg and second baseman Owen Friend.

The three pitchers the Indians sent to the last-place Tigers in what the Tribe's front office called "a straight player trade" were veteran Steven Gromek, rookie southpaw Al Aber and Dick Weik, a righthander off military leave who has not pitched this season because of a sore arm.

Houtteman, 26-year-old righthander, has a 2-6 record this year and a lifetime mark of 53-63. Southpaw Wight, who is 31, is 0-3 this year and has a career record of 51-71.

Boone, with Cleveland since 1948, currently was hitting .241 but had been benched for George Strickland.

The deal, on the final day of the player-trade deadline, followed Cleveland's loss of four straight games here to the league-leading New York Yankees.

Dollar Reserves Drop

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's official reserves of gold and United States dollars declined by $82,500,000 during May to $1,761,200,000, the Bank of Canada statistical summary for May showed today. Officials explained that the major factor in the big drop was the government's use of $75,000,000 in the exchange fund to repurchase that much worth of government bonds sold in the New York market in 1948.

Fire Destroys Third Of Village

ST. NEREE, Que. (CP)—A third of this tiny agricultural village, 38 miles southeast of Quebec City, was levelled in a seven-hour fire Saturday night.

Sunday morning found 101 persons, including 51 children, homeless; a 67-year-old man dead, and material loss estimated at about $300,000.

The partly-burned body of Joseph Laprise, the church organist, was found in a vegetable garden in the rear of his house. He died with a crucifix and a statue clutched in his arms.

The village convent for 65 boys and girls was destroyed, along with 17 houses, four stores, two garages, a small blacksmith shop and a half-dozen sheds.

4 TOWNS SEND HELP

The church, vestry and presbytery and another house were damaged before firemen from four neighboring towns could stop the quick-spreading fire.

"There were so many sparks, they came at us in clouds," said Rev. Lorenzo Cote, the aging, white-haired parish priest. His coat and cassock were burned by flying sparks.

Mayor Georges Laprise, brother of the dead man, said lack of water pressure in the village waterworks system hindered firefighters. Villagers used fire extinguishers to fight the blaze until equipment was brought from Levis, Que., to pump water from a small stream nearby.

Mayor Laprise said he would try to have the village council vote $20,000 for improvements to the system.

NEED NEW CONVENT

"But first of all we'll have to build a new convent for the children."

All that was left standing of the $33,000 school was the chimney and a statue of the Virgin Mary on the front lawn. The four Sisters of perpetual Help, who ran the school, left early Sunday for their mother house at nearby St. Damien.

The children were to start summer holidays next week.

Mayor Laprise also said he hoped to obtain government help for the villagers who lost their homes. Most of them carried little insurance.

The fire started in the summer kitchen of Alphonse Lapointe's home in the rear of his dry goods store.

Toronto Cyclist Killed In Bangor

BANGOR, Me. (AP)—A woman motorcyclist from Toronto was killed and a male companion from the same city critically injured today when their bike collided with a U. S. Air Force pickup truck.

Dead on arrival at Eastern Maine General hospital was Marilyn Alkern of Toronto.

Robert Cocking, also of Toronto, was on the danger list at Dow air force base hospital.

The truck driver and four passengers, all air force personnel, escaped injury.

Police said the airmen told them the motorcycle smashed into their left rear fender as the truck was making a right turn into a yard.

Can't Go It Alone In Economic Field Pearson Warning

HANOVER, N.H. (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson of Canada, speaking in the presence of President Eisenhower, said Sunday no western power can "go it alone" in the economic field any more than in the military fields because the former might well be the decisive one in the cold war. He said the greatest threat to the alliance of Atlantic states lies, paradoxically, in the Pacific, in conflicting attitudes towards the upsurge of communism in Asia.

Mr. Pearson did not repeat his last week's statement at Harvard that any U.S. attempt to oust Red regimes in Asia would get scant support but he did say the problem raised by them is "so grave that if we do not achieve agreement in our approach to them, our unity will be weakened and prejudiced."

In an address prepared for Dartmouth College's commencement exercises, he hailed Eisenhower's recognition of the fact that no nation can "go it alone" any more. But he added that the western nations must not only "go it together" as military allies but in economic harmony too.

(Canada has protested at U.S. trade barriers that have hit Canadian dairy and other products and is concerned about the possibility of more.)

HONORARY DEGREES

Both Mr. Pearson and the president received honorary degrees.

Mr Pearson said the West would have to be on the military alert against communism for years but the decisive issue might lie in the economic field.

The Russian "peace offensive" might bring opportunities. They should be exploited.

"But it may also bring new tests and even dangers which will call for steadiness and patience. Military force is only one weapon. . . There are other weapons, less obvious but no less powerful which will be employed in the hope of dividing us.

"One is the economic weapon. We must see to it that disunity arising out of economic nationalism does not do the job that military force has so far been unable to do. Here, too, we must 'go it together'."

Russia Prepared To Be Israel's Friend

MOSCOW (AP)—Informed persons here express the belief today that it is only a matter of time before the Soviet Union offers to re-establish diplomatic relations with Israel.

Such a move would be in line with a series of recent Moscow steps to normalize relations abroad, as demonstrated by the Soviet decision to exchange ambassadors with Yugoslavia. Yugoslav-Soviet relations never were entirely severed, despite the expulsion of President Tito's Communist party from the Cominform.

One straw in the wind was the appearance in Moscow recently of the Israeli basketball team, which took part in a European tournament. The team was warmly received. One source said that although this was just a basketball tournament, "it is going to help re-establish relations between Israel and the USSR." The Soviet Union broke relations with Israel early this year after a bomb explosion at the Soviet legation in Tel Aviv.

Time Bomb Wrecks Theatre Balcony

BELFAST (AP)—A time bomb early today wrecked the balcony of a Northern Ireland motion picture theatre which advertised that films of the Coronation would be shown next week.

The blast took place in the Svoy theatre at Newry, County Down, about 40 miles from Belfast. No one was injured.

Police believe that the bombers attended the theatre Sunday night, and at closing time hid themselves in the building. The explosive charge apparently was placed inside a girder, in a position to do the greatest possible damage.

Two-Car Crash Kills 3; 9 Others Hurt

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Three persons, including a teen-age girl who was engaged to be married early next month, were killed Sunday night and nine others were injured when two cars collided on a highway five miles east of here.

Dead are: Mrs. Ethel Rubach, about 55, her daughter, Marlene, 17, and Mrs. Robert Keane, 19, all of Windsor.

In serious condition are Simon Hakin, Detroit, and Nick Sfeir, Buffalo, N. Y.

Others injured are: Ron Barkley, 19, Mrs. Elizabeth Tripney, about 50, and Rose Dunn, 16, all of Windsor, who are reported in fair condition; and Mrs. Simon Hakin, her daughter, Mary Hakin, Anthony Baltusitis, 31, and Mrs. Baltusitis, 28, all of Detroit, who are also reported in fair condition.

Barkley was scheduled to marry Miss Rubach, his high school sweetheart, July 4.

Six persons were travelling in each car.

IDENTIFIED BY FRIEND

Mrs. Rubach and her daughter were dead before they reached hospital. They were identified early today by a friend. Mrs. Keane died shortly after being admitted to hospital.

The six Windsor residents, including the three dead women were out for a Sunday evening drive at the time of the accident. The six United States residents were driving in the second car which was believed headed for Detroit.

More than 250 cars were held up for an hour until police and wrecking crews cleared the tangled wreckage of the two cars off the highway.

Hospital officials said Sfeir is suffering head injuries and shock. Barkley is suffering lacerations and internal injuries but his condition is not considered serious. Injuries suffered by the others were not determined.

Plan To Make Japan Arsenal

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times says today Japanese industrialists have developed long-range plans to restore the country "to its position as the arsenal of Asia."

The report, from Tokyo by William J. Jorden in the first of two dispatches on plans for Japan's revival as a major producer of arms, says:

"In answer to questions from United States Army authorities concerned with the problem, exhaustive studies of Japan's present and future arms production capacities have been completed by the Japanese.

"One of the most elaborate, and still largely secret, surveys was conducted by the defence production committee of the Federation of Economic Organizations, an influential group representing Japan's largest industries.

"However, because there is strong sentiment in Japan against any form of rearmament, top government officials, including Premier Shigeru Yoshida, have seen fit to acknowledge only that such studies were 'being made.'"

First Time For U.K.

British Sub Crosses Ocean Submerged

LONDON (Reuters)—A British submarine, the Andrew, surfaced today near the English Channel after making an under-water voyage across the Atlantic from Bermuda, it was announced tonight.

The vessel used "snort" breathing apparatus for the whole trip, the admiralty said.

The Andrew came to the surface off the southwestern approaches of the channel before dawn.

The "snort" (or snorkel) breathing device, developed by the Germans late in the war, allows submarines to travel just under the surface of the water. It is a tube which sucks in air and blows out exhaust from the engines.

The admiralty said it was the first time a British undersea vessel had crossed the ocean, submerged all the time.

The U. S. Navy has experimented widely with the device. A U. S. submarine remained submerged for two months with 23 men aboard in a test this spring.

The amiralty did not disclose how long the 2,500-mile Atlantic trip took.

The submarine had been operating with the Royal Canadian Navy.

It is believed that it was the first time any submarine has crossed the Atlantic underwater without surfacing.

Train Kills Trio On Trestle

Group Were Fishing Near Bradford, Missed Warning

BRADFORD (CP)— Three persons fishing from a railway trestle froze in panic Sunday when a Toronto-bound passenger train roared down upon them. Too frightened to jump or run, they died under the wheels.

Killed on the bridge over the Holland river 36 miles north of Toronto were Mrs. Glerer Goodman, 47, Max Title, 29, and his wife, Annette, 27, all of Toronto. Another member of the fishing party, George Haberbush, said he owes his life to the fact he went to buy bait at a neighboring boathouse.

SHOUTED WARNING

Haberbush said he heard the train when he was paying a boatman for the bait. He shouted a warning to his friends and saw them die only 25 feet from the end of the bridge.

"I screamed to them to run for their lives or jump into the water," he said. "I was thunderstruck when I saw them freeze with panic.

"With the train rushing towards them, I saw young Title put his arms around the two women. They were huddled together like that when the train struck them."

Quick Truce Signs Observed

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

MUNSAN (AP)—Signs of a quick truce increased today even as Communist armies to the east smashed south in a stretch-drive offensive.

Although reasons behind the 11th-hour Red attack left observers mystified, these developments pointed to an imminent armistice:

1. Word leaked out that staff officers writing the last details of an armistice have struck no snags.

2. Allied and Red liaison officers met in secret for 19 minutes. A spokesman said only that they met to discuss administrative details, but they could have arranged for the next meeting of the main truce negotiation delegations, which have been in recess a week.

3. Troops and supply trucks poured into this base camp as the Allies rushed preparations for the huge prisoner exchange to follow an armistice.

4. Lt.-Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, United Nations field commander, warned his 8th army by radio that the impending armistice would not end the war in itself and told the soldiers to stay ready to fight if necessary. He said the "possibility of an armistice has increased to the point that we must consider what a signing would mean . . . ."

Douks Burn 16 Buildings

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Retaliation written in flames has followed the sentencing of a Sons of Freedom Doukhobor convicted of arson.

The terrorists struck in darkness Sunday, burning 16 buildings in the Doukhobor settlements of Krestova, Goose Creek, Appledale, Winlaw and Perry's Siding.

RCMP said the new incendiary raids were organized in apparent retaliation after convicted arsonist Paul Popoff was sentenced Saturday to a 14-year penitentiary term.

Appearing before Mr. Justice H. S. Wilson in assize court at Nelson, Popoff was convicted of burning a $45,000 planer mill and a Doukhobor community hall. Both fires occurred last year.

Cold Weather Tip

LONDON (CP) — Reports received here claim the British Everest expedition wore lipstick during the worst parts of the climb. The climbers found the lipstick, a clear red shade, was the best means of guarding against lips being chapped by cold and wind.

Joint Exercise Tests Defences

OTTAWA (CP)—A "large-scale" joint exercise will test Canadian and American fighter defences simultaneously in July, it was announced Sunday.

Exercise Tail Wind is the second manoeuvre of this kind but it should find Canadian air defences, at least, in considerably better shape than they were for exercise Sign Post of a year ago.

RCAF statements have indicated that the Canadian radar system should be pretty well in full stride by this fall while a year ago only a few stations were starting operation.

Following the Sign Post pattern, Tail Wind will launch "aggressor" forces — probably including the Comet jet transports —against the joint defences and see how both make out.

It will be bossed by the two top fighter defence airmen on the continent, Gen. Benjamin Chidlaw and Air Vice-Marshal A. L. James who head the air defence commands of their two countries from Colorado Springs, Colo., and St. Hubert Airport, Montreal, respectively.

The RCAF said it will commit auxiliary or reserve squadrons and other units in summer training as well as "all elements" of the air defence system including fighter squadrons, control centres, the ground observer corps, radar and other ground units and the army's anti-aircraft command.

Fires in northern Manitoba were not considered too serious, but rain was needed badly. No fires were reported in southern Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta.

District Farmers "Jailed" In Ashtabula Festivities

News that a group of Peterborough farmers were recently locked up in Ashtabula, O., is confirmed in a letter from Herc Paulino, Judge of the Municipal Court, who sends a factual account supported by a newspaper clipping.

Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, and his companions drifted into the celebration of the Sesqui-Centennial anniversary of the settlement of the community, at the end of a day's touring of rural Ohio.

Judge Paulino writes:

"Members of your Crop Improvement Association arrived here for an over-night stay, and as they ventured on the streets after supper they were picked up by Keystone Kangaroo Cops and brought into the Kangaroo stockade jail which was built on a flat truck. They were sentenced to be locked up in the jaws of a pillory, for the reason that no one of them had been issued a permit either to shave or to raise a beard, and were found beardless upon our streets. Of course, this was all in fun and apparently all of the members of the Association enjoyed their visit to our city and their association with the many bearded men of this community."

Imagine Ford Warren, manager of the Bank of Montreal, in the festive tumbril, with Ralph Garbutt, Robert Armstrong, Roy Sanderson, and other leading citizens of the Peterberough countryside going along with the act of the Sesqui-Centennialists.

The Ashtabula Star-Bacon reports: "After checking into thier hotel, small groups began drifting out into Main Ave., only to be nabbed by Keystone Cops. The firts four "arrested" and "placed in jail" quickly turned "informants" and directed "police" to other members of their group. Herc Paulino, Kangaroo Court judge, said all the visitors joined in the fun of the mock court.

"They even pulled me into jail when I went to lock up some of the prisoners. 'His Honor' said it would be a long time before those Peterborough folks forget this "bearded city."

In that comment Herc Paulino repeated the words of Roy Sanderson: "We'll never forget Ashtabula. They gave us a demonstration of hospitality that will always remain with me. One man invited a couple of us out to his home. Others landed up at the Elks club, but it is too long a story. Hospitality is more than a gesture with those people, at least, in their celebartion mood. They did something about it. It was a grand interlude in our trip."

Some of the Ashtabulans knew Peterborough and the Kawartha district. They gave conversation a fishing turn.

"If the men who told me they were coming up here this year and we're going to look in and say hello, if they come, I don't know when I'll get the harvest off," Roy Sanderson said.

Now that Mr. Sanderson lives within view of Rice Lake and also in one of the more attractive properties in the district, any of those Kangaroo Keystone Kops who find their way to the Sandeson place will likely be repaid in full measure.

'We can say it positively, the 39 of us will never forget Ashtabula," Mr. Sanderson remarked.

MAY REQUIRE REVISION

Front-line officers said the Communist gains were so great that the line of demarcation between the opposing armies, supposedly being worked out by truce negotiators at Panmunjom, may have to be revised.

By terms of the proposed armistice, each side is supposed to pull back two kilometres—about 1 miles—within 72 hours of the signing, leaving a 2½-mile wide "buffer zone."

More than 500 Allied warplanes plastered the front-line target area, sending smoke and dust nearly 9,000 feet high. Even B-26 light bombers, normally used at night or in cloudy weather, joined the Sabre jet fighter-bombers, Thunderjets, Pantherjets, Corsairs, Skyraiders and Mustangs.

At times the planes lined up four deep waiting the call to dive into the smoke.

In a demonstration of aerial superiority Sunday, Allied fighters and bombers flew a record 1,600 sorties, without loss or damage to a plane. It eclipsed the previous record of 1,525 individual flights Aug. 29.

U. S. Sabre jet pilots reported they destroyed two Russian-built MiGs and damaged three others Sunday.

Prices Edge Lower In Market Trading

TORONTO (CP)—Priced edged lower in light early-afternoon trading today.

Industrials continued Friday's gently easier tone with fractional price changes in almost all cases. Golds were mixed to lower. Base metals gained index-wise as key stocks advanced. Western oils slipped back in two out of three issues traded.

Three-hour turnover of 1,164,000 shares was the lowest since May 19.

Uraniums and New Brunswick base metals attracted some interest but prices dipped. Gunnar, Nesbitt Labine, Chimo, Brunston and Brilund topped the losers with drops ranging to 30 cents. Observers said that mid-morning selling pressure erased the Bathurst base metals' early gains.

Weakest industrial sections were steels, banks, papers and textiles. De Havilland stepped back $4 after recent cancellations of aircraft orders by the United States. Canadian Dredge and Dominion. Bridge has losses of more than $1. On the upside were manufacturing companies and miscellaneous industrials.

Golds weakened after a firm open. Senior producers like Lake Shore and Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves led the mild decline.

The softer trend in western oils was headed by Canada Oil Lands, Great Plains and Britalta, the first two dropping to new lows. Canadian Williston and Sapphire were among the small group of winners.

Higher - priced base metals pushed forward under the leadership of Consolidated Smelters, Falconbridge and Noranda. Dominion Asbestos led the lower - priced stocks with a 24-cent gain. Labrador was a standout as it spurted up 55 cents.

2 Development Roads To Be Finished Soon

The two development roads that the Department of Highways is working on in Peterborough County should be finished this year. Ewart Marston, the department's engineer, said that there is enough money in the kitty to do them both this year.

One is the six-mile road from Chandos Post Office to Glen Alda in Chandos Township which is already 70 per cent done. The other is the 17-mile Church Line in Galway-Cavendish.

They will likely be completed before the department takes over any more roads in the county, Mr. Marston said. Under the development road scheme the department temporarily takes over the road, does the widening, eliminates curves and grades, and generally improves it. Then it hands the road back to the municipality to maintain.

'Helping Experiment' Excuse For Assault, Man Jailed

Joseph Huard, 189 Lake St., came out with an excuse in magistrate's court today that staggered everyone. He told court he had been furthering a government experiment the night he got drunk and sent a comrade to the doctor's for 16 stitches.

Magistrate W. R. Philp tried an experiment, too. He sent Huard to jail for four months definite and one month indefinite to see if he could keep the accused out of trouble.

Huard was up on a third offence drinking while interdicted charge and a more serious charge of assault occasioning actual bodily harm. Victim of the assault last June 6 was Carl McAvoy of Port Hope.

McAvoy was hit over the left eye with a beer bottle after Huard invited him outside the armory.

"He didn't seem drunk," McAvoy said. "There was no argument . . . I don't know why he hit me unless it was for my money."

Huard had a different story to tell.

"I've been taking the antabuse treatment," he explained. He went on to say how he was affected with one shot of whiskey just after a dose of the drug.

Having run out of antabuse two days prior to a regimental reunion he decided to take a few drinks at the armory, "Just to see what would happen." After "a couple of pints of beer" and "a shot of whiskey," Huard "didn't remember a thing."

He woke up in police cells the next day.

Because he knew what would happen when there was lots of antabuse in his system, and because he didn't know what would happen when there wasn't any, he took a few "to further government experiments and see how liquor affected me once antabuse was out of my system."

As a result of his findings he publicly, before the magistrate, crown attorney, deputy chief of police, a few other assorted officials and a crowded courtroom, swore off liquor.

Crown Attorney Bradshaw called this story "nothing more than a convenient cloak."

introduced to was Capt. O. Rudakov, skipper of the Russian vessel. She spoke to him through an interpreter for about a minute.

The sun shone over the channel but a stiff breeze swept away the smoke of the gun salutes as the Royal yacht rounded the 42,500-ton British battleship vanguard to sail down between the lines of carriers, cruisers, destroyers, submarines, frigates and other craft.

Vanguard, at the head of the assembly, was the only battleship there, for the ships on parade represented the modern conception of naval strength—speed rather than size.

Tonight the ships will light up strings of light and a huge fireworks display will be held.

RECALLS PAGEANTRY

The British and Commonwealth ships represented about one-third of their navies' combined strength. In addition, 50 ships represented the British merchant and fishing fleets and a large number of yachts of all sizes stretch around the fringes of the anchorage.

The review reflected the changes in naval tactics since the late King George VI visited the fleet following his Coronation in 1937. Then battleships dominated the scene and aircraft carriers were still something of a novelty. This time nine carriers were in the British line.

The anchorage recalled centuries of naval pageantry.

King Henry V inspected his fleet here in 1415 when bound for the continent on the expedition climaxed by the English victory over the French at Agincourt.

Two Climbers 20 Minutes On Top Everest

THYANGBOCHE MONASTERY, Nepal (Reuters)—The only two men ever to have conquered Mt. Everest told how they embraced each other on the icy summit and had a "good look" at the world below before descending 20 minutes later.

Sitting in this snowbound refuge inhabited by Buddhist monks, Sir Edmund Hillary, the 33-year-old New Zealand beekeeper knighted for his achievement, said June 6:

"I felt damn good at the top. It was a beautiful day with a moderate wind. As we got there, my companion threw his arms around me and embraced me."

GUIDE VERY HAPPY

And the face of Sherpa guide Tensing Bhutia, 39, who conquered the 29,002-foot mountain with Hillary May 29, creased into a winning smile.

"I was very happy and not particularly tired," he said.

The lean guide, known as the Himalayan "Tiger of the Snows," was asked if he would like to tackle the same assignment again.

"No, no, not again," he said. "Seven attempts are enough. But I would like to go to K.2 for I think that it can be climbed."

K.2—Mount Godwin Austen—is the world's second highest peak at 28,250 feet. A United States expedition is making a bid this year to scale it. The mountain is in the Karakoram range of the Himalayas in Pakistani territory.

HAD FINE VIEW

"We had a fine view from the summit of Everest over all the Himalayas and Tibet," Tensing said. "We could see the northern route which expeditions used before the war. It was quite black —no snow, just rock."

Sir Edmond said he planned to return to bee-farming in New Zealand after a visit to Britain with other members of the expedition.

"I'd like to come back to the Himalayas again," he said.

The tall, lean mountaineer, who served in the Royal New Zealand Air Force during the war, said he and Tensing remained "about 20 minutes on the perfect summit."

"I took photographs of Tensing hold a string of flags—those of the United Nations, Britain, Nepal and India," he said.

Sir Edmond, who has made four Himalayan expeditions in three years, said: "Below us the country was like a map—especially interesting to me as I had climbed over most of it.

MOST IMPRESSIVE SIGHT

"The most impressive sight was Lhotse (a 27,890-foot subsidiary of Everest), followed by Kanchenjunga (28,166 feet), and we could see for out over Tibet."

The New Zealander said he and Tensing set out from Camp 9 (27,900 feet) at 6:30 a.m. and reached the south summit about 2½ hours later.

"The final ridge (from the south summit to the main summit) was of high apline standard, and we finally got to the top at 11:30 a.m.," he said. "We had a good look around before starting the descent. But the oxygen was running short and we came down to the South Col in five hours."

The South Col (25,850 feet) is a pass separating Everest from Lhotse; it was the site of the expedition's advance camp.

Sir Edmond said he had found nothing at the summit that would help solve the mystery surrounding the disappearance in 1924 of George Leigh Mallory and Andrew Irvine, both members of the British expedition of that year. Mallory and Irvine were last seen on the final ridge heading for the summit.

Flint Woman Wins International Air Race

NEW SMYRNA BEACH, Fla. AP)—Mrs. Edna Gardner Whyte, Flint, Mich., nurse, Saturday won the all-women's international air race.

Seventeen of the 18 pilots who started in the race from Welland landed here Friday. The other crash-landed en route and did not finish.

But officials of 99s Inc., organization of women pilots in the United States and Canada, waited until the Saturday noon deadline anyway to announce a winner.

They figure the winner on a handicap basis.

Mrs. Whyte bettered her handicap by one hour and 28 minutes. Mrs. Miller Henderson, Flint. was her co-pilot.

Their Cessna 140 was fifth to land here at the finish of the 1,150-mile race. They came in Friday morning.

LANDED FIRST

Edith Long, Charlotte, N. C., brought her Beech Bonanza down first—one of three to make the flight all in one day—but she didn't even figure in the nine places announced.

Corrected handicap times gave second place to Eleanor Davis, Arlington, Va., flying with Jeanette Graham, Falls Church, Va., as her co-pilot. She bettered her estimated time by 58 minutes 46 seconds.

Third was Ruth Thomas, Knoxville, Tenn., who soloed and had a plus time of 47 minutes 5 seconds.

Next in order were Geraldine Cobb, Ponca Cith, Okla.; Beverly Belfry, St. Catharines, Ont.; Elaine Mogelvang, Lockhart, Fla.; Nancy Cooper Moore, Alexandria, Va.; Mayetta Behringer, Corpus Christi, Tex.; Bobby King, Houston, Tex.

Miss Belfry was accompanied by Dorothy Rungeling of Fenwick, Ont. Other Canadian competitors were Phyllis Noble of Guelph and her co-pilot, Betty Smithan of London, Ont.

South Korea Sees New Red Invasion

SEOUL (AP)—South Korea's defence minister, Shin Tai Yung, today called the Communists' new offensive in Korea a drive for positions to prepare for "another invasion of South Korea after the armistice."

"Since the armistice talks began about two years ago, all the enemy was doing was to prepare for renewed attacks," Shin said in an interview. He added:

"What the enemy wants is a few more ground positions before signing an armistice, thus preparing already for another invasion. . . . This is enough to prove the enemy's insincerity . . . and yet the Allies are going to be deceived again."

Sunday Schools Hold Convention

WARSAW—(ENS)—The Dummer Township Sunday school convention met Friday evening in the Presbyterian church with the Rev. Arthur Morgan of Bowmanville as the OCCE representative.

Dr. Munro led the devotions. Mr. Morgan demonstrated interesting ways of Bible reading in the Sunday schools. He also showed how to teach a new hymn.

Mr. Morgan spoke on the convention theme "The Bible, Our Bible, My Bible." He said the lack of Bible knowledge today isn't the fault of the Sunday schools, but of the homes. The Sunday school teacher cannot teach the Bible until it becomes "My Bible."

Following are the officers for the year: Honorary president, Dr. Munro; president, James Hawthorne; vice presi., Ralph Hamilton; sec. treasurer, H. Telford; children's work, Mrs. H. Payne; intermediate work, Mrs. Ralph Hamilton young people's work, John Kidd; adult and home dept., Russel Graystock; leadership training, the Rev. H. K. Wright; missionary, Miss M. Neville; temperance, Mrs. M. Drain.

The triple trio of the Warsaw school sang special music. Tea and cookies were served. Next year's convention will be in Warsaw United Church.

Spend Hundred Billion On Korean War Phase

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has spent about $101,740,000,000 in the last three years on rearmament and the Korean war, the defence department estimated today.

During that time, Congress has granted the military about $155,579,000,000 in new obligational authority—the right to contract for material and service.

With the help of the $101,740,000,000 expenditure, the defence department has formed a force of about 3,500,000 men, started reequipping and expanding the number of weapons for the air force, army and navy and fought the Korean war. This expenditure does not include money used by the atomic energy commission for atomic bombs.

The occupants of the cars escaped injury and there was an estimated $400 damage to both cars.

Mr. Crowley was informed that he would be charged with failing to stop at a red light. Constable W. G. Scott investigated.

Cabinet Changes

Several more vacancies have been filled in the Senate. Two appointments in particular—both foreseen—arouse interest. The able Speaker of the House of Commons, the Hon. Ross W. Macdonald, has been elevated to the Upper House. It is a richly-deserved appointment. Mr. Macdonald has conducted the Commons debates with discretion and intelligence in both languages—having purposely studied French so that he could be truly Speaker in the two official tongues. All parties have respected his judgement and knowledge of parliamentary procedure. The other Senate appointment of special interest is that of the Secretary of State.

* * *

The Hon. Gordon Bradley, member for the Newfoundland constituency of Bonavista-Twillingate, was Secretary of State since Newfoundland entered the Confederation. Not one of the strongest members of the St. Laurent cabinet, his removal to the other House clears the way for the appointment of John W. Pickersgill, and also opens the Newfoundland riding to Mr. Pickersgill. The new Secretary of State is one of the shrewdest and brightest political figures in Canada. As principal secretary to both Mr. King and Mr. St. Laurent he has been a power behind the Prime Ministerial chair. His appointment last year as Clerk of the Privy Council and Secretary of the Cabinet—a senior civil service appointment—did not lessen his intimacy with Government policy and his influence on it.

* * *

Mr. St. Laurent has already stated that one of the reasons for Mr. Pickersgill's appointment to the Cabinet is that the new Minister of State may assist him even more directly than formerly. Mr. Pickersgill thus enters the forefront of the political arena. He will seek election in Mr. Bradley's riding. He is not a Newfoundlander, nor indeed is his figure well-known to the voting public in other parts of Canada. His power has formerly been behind the scenes. We shall watch Mr. Pickersgill's emergence into elective public life with keen interest.

* * *

Another Cabinet change is the resignation of the Minister of Works, Mr. Alphonse Fournier. Mr. Fournier goes to the Exchequer Court. Though Minister of Works since 1942, Mr. Fournier did not distinguish himself in office. His removal provides another opportunity for strengthening the Cabinet, should the Liberal Government be re-elected. The Prime Minister has said he will not fill the vacancy until after the elections.

An Exciting, Dangerous, Complicated Age

University graduates across Canada have been going out these last several weeks, newly fortified by their diplomas, to enter the world of affairs. Before one group of them—the graduating class of the University of Manitoba—Hume Wrong considered a question natural in the circumstances: "Are you more fortunate to be entering now on your careers than were the graduates of my generation, forty years ago?" Mr. Wrong is qualified to take a wide as well as intense look at the situation which confronts today's graduates. He has served in many posts at home and abroad in the Department of External Affairs; he is now Canadian Ambassador to Washington and will shortly return to Canada as Under Secretary in the department.

Mr. Wrong said that the question, asked forty years ago, would have brought an unhesitating Yes, you are more fortunate than your fathers and grandfathers before you. Before the Great War of 1914 this positive, confi[illegible]ude towards life and the belief in "progress" was neither a philosophy nor a religion: it was rather a climate of opinion. Climates are fickle. Much has been gained technically and materially during the last forty years, but wars, conflicting ideologies and economic disaster have dissipated the old confidence that man can be wholly master of his fate; the sense of security which people had before 1914 has been shaken or lost.

"The present atmosphere is certainly a trying one in which to live. It warps the judgement when what is most needed of every citizen is that he should be alert. It is trying for those about to enter on their careers because of the uncertainty with which the future is surrounded. It is even more trying for older people to have seen so many of their hopes shattered."

Mr. Wrong did not preach pessimism; he felt that what has mainly happened has been a shedding of illusions. The state of international relations is not leading inevitably to war; but neither is perpetual peace inevitable. Crises recur, political problems are rarely wholly solved; there are no neat panaceas.

Mr. Wrong's cautious answer to his question whether this is a good age for graduates to enter on their adult careers, was this: "It is an exciting age, a dangerous age, and a terribly complicated age." The transformations which have taken place in the last forty years have caused and in part been caused by tribulations which Canadians have witnessed, and nowhere more than in Canada are there greater compensations for the loss of complacency about the prospects of Western civilization.

The new graduates are the heirs not only of the unresolved problems, the new anxieties, the mental discomforts left by an older generation; they are also the heirs of great achievements. Two essentials should condition the inheritance and opportunity: the first is that people must be guided by reason rather than emotion, even though frustration influences the emotions rather than the intellect. Mr. Wrong stressed the importance of this in his Winnipeg address. The second was indicated caustically by Bertrand Russell in an article which appeared in The Examiner on his recent eightieth birthday. Bertrand Russell then wrote: "Man has survived hitherto because his ignorance and incompetence have made his folly ineffective. Now that science has shown us how to make folly effective, we must abandon folly or perish".

Generals Vandenberg And Ridgway

Since the free nations are united in common defence, any weakness in the defence forces is a matter of concern to all of those nations. During the past week, two high-ranking United States generals quietly told questioners they considered two forces inadequate—the planned United States Air Force, and the NATO forces in Europe. The generals were outgoing Air Force Chief of Staff Hoyt Vandenberg and General Matthew Ridgway, retiring Supreme Commander of NATO forces in Europe. The former answered questions before a Senate committee, the latter reported to the NATO Standing Group at Washington.

General Vandenberg said that he considered the reduced air force now planned was not adequate. He refused to answer the question until all reference to President Eisenhower was omitted, which was correct military behaviour, since the President, his Commander-in-Chief, had said the force would be adequate. General Ridgway said NATO forces were "critically weak" and there was no "acceptable prospect of success if attacked." He added that he knows of no facts which lead him to conclude that the military danger from the East has lessened.

Neither of these leaders has appeared as an alarmist in the past. Neither has been unduly talkative, as far as we can recall. Each has held the highest post in his service branch. General Vandenberg thinks the planned USAF should not have been reduced to 120 wings from 143. The facts supporting General Ridgway's opinion are a lineup of 58 Western Divisions—with possible 32 additional small divisions from Yugoslavia—against 315 Russian and satellite divisions.

There may be room for argument over the air force general's opinion, but there is little doubt about Western weakness in Europe. It seems certain, as Winston Churchill said more than four years ago, that Europe "would have been Communized long ago . . . but for the deterrent of the atomic bomb in the hands of the United States." The situation apparently is not much better today. There is thus no present hope that any nation will be able safely to reduce its commitments to NATO, and there is the distinct possibility that these commitments may have to be increased.

Great Coronation Film

The film of the Coronation which has been showing for the last several days in Peterborough is truly a splendid record of a splendid occasion. Faultless in taste, discreet in the use of narrative, with a remarkable harmony of lines, music and cameras, it is both a tribute to the Coronation itself and to the British film industry which so splendidly and excellently made it. The narrative was composed by the celebrated English poetic dramatist, Christopher Fry, and is narrated by Sir Laurence Olivier, great British actor. The colour is magnificent. Perhaps the rain which fell that day accentuated the hues in the sensitized film; at any rate, the colours within and without the Abbey are as rich and true as they must have appeared to the eyes of actual viewers. The whole film is tremendously moving, catching the magnificence of the pageant, the glory of state, the spiritual exaltation, and the power and joy of parade and people. It is a historic film, for its art as for its record of a great event.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It would be easier to get rid of dandelions if every one of them did not have a Chinaman hanging on to the other end of it.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

THERE must be very few churches today that are not equipped with some sort of an organ, whether pipe, reed or electronic. In fact there is something ironic in the special position of the organ in the worship of the church inasmuch as the hydraulus (the "water-organ" of the ancients) was a prominent and strident feature of the Roman amphitheatres, where so many of the Early Christians were cruelly martyred. The hydraulus was a powerful instrument, to judge from contemporary accounts, and there is little doubt that its tone bore little relationship to any existing organs; but it worked on exactly the same basic principles as our modern pipe organs. It is not surprising that the music of the Early Church appears to have been entirely vocal. An obscure and persecuted minority, forced to meet secretly at night, could scarcely be expected to advertise its proceedings with more than a bare minimum of sound: moreover the second coming of Christ was expected hourly to put an end to the existing state of things.

In course of time Christianity emerged as the dominating unifying force of the decaying Roman Empire, and the organ soon found its way into the church, it previous use having been forgotten. The Eastern Orthodox Church, however, resisted the introduction of musical instruments, and to this very day the music of that church is purely vocal. An interesting result of this prohibition of instruments is the predilection of Russian ecclesiastical composers for semi-orchestral effects, which they obtain through the use of bassi profundi and dramatic dynamic changes.

WITH the Reformation opposition again arose to the use of the organ in churches. Fortunately for the instrument Luther was a keen and accomplished musician, who saw no harm in the employment of musical instruments to aid and supplement vocal music in the Church. In Scotland it was otherwise, and for more than two centuries the organ was banned, implicitly if not expressly. The Directory formulated by the Assembly of Westminster in 1647 gave detailed instructions concerning the manner of worship in the Church of Scotland, and the organ was pointedly omitted. The English Puritans followed suit and many fine old organs were destroyed during the Commonwealth period, but the restoration of the monarchy meant the restoration of organs to English (though not to Scottish) churches.

✧ ✧ ✧

AROUND 1790 an Aberdeen congregation sang in church with an organ, though not on Sunday. This innovation met with a stern rebuke from the Presbytery, and the organ was quietly removed. A further attempt was made to introduce the organ into the Kirk, this time at St. Andrew's Church, Glasgow, in 1807, and this developed into a full-scale controversy. The organ in question had been built by James Watt, the famous inventor of the improved steam engine, who had built several organs and made several improvements to the design of the instrument. The original intention was to use it for mid-week practices of psalmody, but on Sunday, August 23, 1807 it was actually used during the Sabbath worship. This started the battle of words, which raged for nearly a year. The Presbytery heard the Minister, Dr. Ritchie, who had been the moving spirit in the innovation, and pronounced that the use of the organ was contrary to church and civil law. Furthermore the action of St. Andrew's congregation was deemed "inexpedient and unauthorized." Dr. Ritchie promised to comply, and the subject was, apparently, closed.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT Glaswegians are made of sterner stuff, and a rejoinder was soon forthcoming, signed by prominent men including the Professor of Divinity at Glasgow University. Further interchanges took place at the official level, and soon it spread to newspapers and pamphlets. The opponents of the organ won this battle, but the campaign was eventually lost. Watt's organ, the fons et origo of all the pother, now reposes in the Old Glasgow Museum, an interesting relic of those stirring times.

✧ ✧ ✧

NOW that the smoke and dust of battle have subsided it is curious to read the arguments for and against the organ that were used by both parties. The prize for casuistry must go to the argument from the pitch-pipe. If, it was said by Ritchie, the precentor is allowed to bring into church a little whistle with which to give out the note for the psalm, how can the organ, which after all is only a "kist o' whustles", be considered unlawful? Another equally quaint argument referred to the Directory of the Presbyterian Church, in which there is no mention of organs: ergo the Westminster Divines were not opposed to their use!

✧ ✧ ✧

AGAINST these and other more substantial arguments the Presbytery was adamant. This was their main line of reasoning. Under the Old Testament Dispensation instrumental music was sanctioned; with the coming of the New Testament Dispensation angels sang over Bethlehem. Vocal praise is thus divinely assigned to the Period of Grace. Instrumental music was sounded in the Temple, but the function of the Temple ceased in Christ, and the use of the instrumental music ceased with it, so far as the praise of God is concerned.

✧ ✧ ✧

TIMES have changed, and the organ is a well-established feature in Presbyterian churches all over the world. Many of them, in fact, possess very fine and large instruments. In our own country the Presbyterian Church in Orillia houses a splendid specimen of the organ-builder's art, though its hundred or so stops are more than adequate for the size of the building. Some pitch pipe!

✧ ✧ ✧

THUS the organ has throughout the long centuries proved its worth in the services of the Church. It has had its ups and downs, but now it is firmly established. There is a shortage, however, of organists. The training required is long and arduous and the financial reward slight in comparison with most other professions. Added to this the conditions of tenure of office are unsatisfactory in many places. The present shortage of organists is comparable to the shortage of teachers, for the causes of the shortage are very similar. I have heard it suggested (by B. K. Sandwell) that organists should band themselves together into a trade union, but I doubt whether this is practicable. The present situation is one that should cause Church leaders as well as organists to think out what steps could be taken to improve it.

Campaign Against Colour Bar

By HUGH LATIMER

NOW that the Coronation is over, the African National Congress in Northern Rhodesia intends to open a widespread campaign to break down the colour bar.

A try-out was made before the Coronation at Broken Hill, the constituency of Mr. Roy Welensky, leading light of the movement for federation of Central Africa, which the Africans oppose. A crowd of one hundred and fifty Africans queued to buy penny-halfpenny stamps in the European section of the post office, and Mr. Dixon Konkola, their leader, wearing a Gandhi badge, wrote a telegram. Nobody was arrested, and the Africans obtained their stamps.

Northern Rhodesian colour bars are not legal, but they exist nevertheless. The bars between separate counters at post offices were pulled down by Government order some two years ago, and where separate buildings had been put up, a hole was knocked in the wall. Yet if an African goes to the "wrong" counter, he is likely to be abused by a European or poorly served by the attendants, most of whom come from South Africa. Shops have grills facing onto the streets where Africans are served; banks have separate entrances; cinemas and hotels do not allow either Africans or Indians to enter at all. On the Rhodesian Railways, both Europeans and Indians buy second-class tickets, but the Indians travel in second-class and the Europeans in first-class coaches. On a train in which I travelled the second-class coach was full up and two young Indians wanted to sit in the first-class seats; the guard tried to have them thrown off the train.

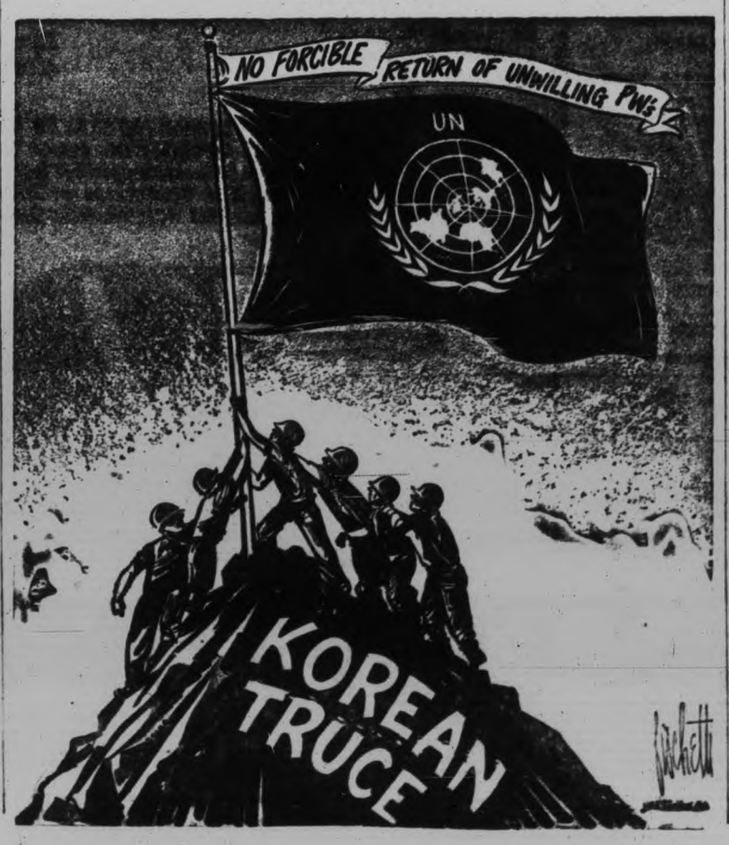
THE CONGRESS objectives are first, post offices; then shops, then hotels. The demonstrators have instructions to be very polite and offer no violence.

This campaign, of course, leads out of the approval of the Federation plans by the British House of Commons. As a first reaction, it is at least realistic. It indicates that the African leaders in Northern Rhodesia, unlike those in islanded Nyasaland, see that if federation is forced on them against their will, they must bend their efforts towards improving the social and economic and political position of Africans in all three territories.

Even more interesting is the direction which this first onslaught is taking. The "traditional" social segregation of Southern Africa might have continued another century, but the day that the Nationalists in South Africa tried to build a policy on it, they ensured that segregation could no longer continue anywhere in Africa by mutual consent.

"Partly we ourselves are to blame," said Mr. Dauti Yamba, Congress official and one of the African representatives at the Northern Rhodesian Legislative Council. "We've been too cowardly before." From now on, Africans will judge European sincerity by their attitude toward this one question of apartheid. Unfortunately it happens to be the demand which white Rhodesians, because of their upbringing, are least able or willing to fulfil. (Copyright)

Queen Of Tonga



(By Robert Miller)

One of the pleasant things about England at the moment is that Salote, the Queen of Tonga, has become one of our national heroines. The English, as I am never tired of saying, love character they even came to like the late Sir Stafford Cripps, though he loaded them with heavier burdens than any Chancellor before or since. But he was a vegetarian and he drank arrowroot and so the English immediately found him irresistible.

The Queen of Tonga is not an eccentric in this sense: she is just magnificently herself. Even if she had not been over six feet high, she would still have endeared herself to the public by her behavious on Coronation Day. Despite the bitter cold and the pouring rain, she drove in an open landau, unruffled and dignified, and wearing the flimsiest of dresses. How could any crowd resist her? One newspaper, I see, has compared her with Boadicea, the warlike Queen of the Britons who was defeated by the Romans. It is a nice picture but an untrue one. There is nothing warlike about Queen Salote. She is wonderfully affable and, as she drove through the streets, gave an impression that she was enjoying everything as much as the crowd.

I do not know whether she is a famous fast bowler in her own country, though I am ready to credit her with every virtue. But no one who saw her in that downpour will ever forget it. She is undoubtedly a very great lady.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Truly God is good to Israel, even to such as are of a clean heart. But as for me, my feet were almost gone; my steps had well nigh slipped. For I was envious at the foolish, when I saw the prosperity of the wicked .... They are corrupt, and speak wickedly concerning oppression: they speak loftily. They set their mouth against the heavens, and their tongue walketh through the earth. Therefore his people return hither: and waters of a full cup are wrung out to them. And they say, How doth God know? and is there knowledge in the most High? Behold these are the ungodly, who prosper in the world; they increase in riches .... When I thought to know this, it was too painful for me; until I went into the sanctuary of God; then understood I their end. (Ps. 73: 1-3, 8-12, 16, 17.)

✧ ✧ ✧

God is not unrighteous to forget your work and labour of love, which we have shewed toward his name, in that ye have ministered to the saints, and do minister.

And we desire that every one of you do shew the same diligence to the full assurance of hope unto the end that ye be not slothful, but followers of them who through faith and patience inherit the promises. (Heb. 6: 10-12.)

✧ ✧ ✧

We then, as workers together with him, beseech you also that ye receive not the grace of God in vain. (For he saith, I have heard thee in a time accepted, and in the day of salvation have I succoured thee: behold, now is the accepted time: behold, now is the day of salvation). (II Cor. 6. 1, 2.)

"Of course it's long—it's rhubarb pie."

The Backwash of War

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

The short-lived invasion of the Far Eastern state of Laos has become history. The world has turned to brighter scenes seeking relief from the grim diet of war and has left the tiny country beside the Mekong to slip from memory. The mystic name of Luang Prabang, the Laotian capital, a few days ago briefly appeared in the midst of the Coronation press releases like an unwelcome ghost; a short announcement stated that a ragged band of fourteen Foreign Legionnaires straggled into the city after a six week two hundred-mile hike through unexpected mountain country and steaming Monsoon-ridden jungle.

The small band, some of them Germans who fought under Hitler and now serving the tri-colour of Hitler's most illustrous captive, is a remnant of the defenders of the first post to fall when the Reds invaded Laos. Fleeing across country the men fought guerrillas in six-foot deep grass and came to grips with wild beasts which could not be driven away from camp with fires for fear of alerting the enemy.

The gallant group received a heroes' welcome in Luang Prabang last weekend. French military authorites rank their feat as one of the most spectacular and outstanding in point of courage and tenacity in the whole seven years of Indo-China fighting. The attention of the world has shifted temporarily to other things, but the backwash of war has much heroism and suffering unproclaimed.

Telephone In Vienna

(New York Herald-Tribune)

The telephone is an agile gadget, but Vienna certainly seems to get more out of it than any other city. The latest service offered to subscribers is dictation for student stenographers. When the proper number is dialed, a voice timed for 100 syllables a minute talks to the caller, who is expected to write down the message, thus improving his shorthand. In addition to this little convenience, telephone users in Vienna are also offered fairy tales for children, recipes for housewives, snow reports for skiers and practically anything else, probably even a Strauss waltz.

How much reliance the Viennese place upon these various services is hard to say. Presumably housewives cook even while the line is busy and children manage to amuse themselves when the telephone is temporarily disconnected. But even so, the Viennese telephonic service conjures up an image of an adventurous if vicarious life, where man, merely by lifting the receiver off the hook, can tread upon the mountain tops and even enter the fairylike land of legend. By comparison, the correct time and the weather reports we get around here look pretty prosaic. It might be interesting to know what Vienna has done about the wrong number problem.

Patchett-Machine Carbine Proved Superior To Sten

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—A few more details about the Patchett machine-carbine, recommended for use by Canadians in Korea, have been released by 1st Commonwealth division headquarters.

The weapon has been thoroughly tested by all battalions in the division as a replacement for the Sten carbine. Brig. Jean Allard, commander of the Canadian brigade, on the basis of the Canadians' tests, has recommended that it be obtained for use in Korea only.

Tests indicated, he said, that the Pachett is superior to the Sten, but still not the answer to the army's search for an automatic weapon capable of good close-in performance, yet of accuracy at distances up to 200 yards.

SAME CALIBRE AS STEN

It now may be reported that the Patchett is a nine - millimetre weapon, the same calibre as the Sten.

Its rate of fire is 550 rounds a minute, about the same as the Sten.

Its slightly - curved magazines hold 34 rounds. They can be loaded by hand, and their roller-bearing platform feeds the round smoothly, reducing stoppages. Loaders are needed for charging Sten magazines, which usually feed improperly, causing stoppages.

WO2. George Maguire of Ottawa, the brigade's senior armorer, who conducted the Canadians' Patchett tests, said:

"At 30 yards it can fire 2½-inch groups, which is as good as a service rifle can do. I've been riddling tin cans regularly with it at 150 yards. The effective range for most nine-millimetre is 125 yards."

OTHER FEATURES

Patchett features which persuade soldiers it is better than the Sten are its appearance, its precision machining, its weight (8½ pounds) and its balance, with or without its 10½-inch bayonet.

The fact that its butt can be flipped under and locked to the barrel, thereby shortening it and making it suitable for both firing from the hip and close-in fighting, is another advantage.

Allard and his staff feel, however, that though for immediate use in Korea it should be bought, it has defects which ought to be corrected before it is adopted for general use in the Canadian Army.

He has recommended that Canada continue her own research for a suitable automatic weapon.

The Patchett is going to be rechristened, too. It is proposed to call it the Sterlong machine carbine.

Plan To Keep Gimmicks In 3D Films

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— Should three-dimension give up its gimmicks? Not on your life, says pioneer 3D producer Bryan Foy.

Most film critics have complained about the tricks of having objects appear to come out into the audience in three-dimensional pictures. Many film makers have argued that such novelties will be discarded in future depthies.

But not Foy, who man who made millions for Warner Brothers with "House of Wax." That film had such items as rubber balls, can-can girls' legs and guillotined heads projecting into the theatres. Now he's dreaming up even more fantastic ideas for his new picture, "The Mad Magician."

AUDIENCE LIKES IT

"The audience is entitled to have some fun, too," he commented. "The ticket buyers like those gimmicks, so why deprive them? Who cares what the critics say?

"Of course, you have to know how and when to use the tricks. For instance we found that it's no good if you just throw something out into the audience. It happens so fast that there's no kick in it. You have to repeat the action—like that bouncing ball on the paddle."

Foy is concocting a wealth of new startlers for his new epic. You can get ready to start dodging yo-yos, because he has found the champion yo-yo man. The champion will be spinning two of the things at you in the picture.

HORROR KEYNOTE

Horror will be the keynote. One graphic shot in the film will show the magician's illusion of severing a girl's head with a buzz saw. But don't go away. The climax of the show will be the interior of a crematorium. I predict it will either be a sensation or else send the patrons screaming out of the theatre.

Some producers think 3D is a passing fancy. Foy says it's here to stay.

"There's plenty of room for all kinds of new mediums," he remarked. "I think 3D will remain good for horror pictures, which is a kind of entertainment the public has always liked. They enjoy being shocked.

"But these pictures have to be done with sincerity. No matter how fantastic the plot, you have to believe in it. My main trouble is finding directors who don't look down their noses at this kind of picture."

Foy is a chunky, fast-talking man who is everybody's idea of a Hollywood producer. It's only natural that he lives show business. He started in vaudeville as one of the seven little Foys with his father, Eddie Foy Sr.

The party was taken to Buffalo and the cruiser towed to a Buffalo marine station.

Bombs In Tunis Cafes Rifles Under Arab Cloaks

TUNIS, French North Africa—Noted while smoking a water pipe, which is passed around the table, mouth to mouth, like an Indian pipe of peace:

A fat Pasha, wearing gay robes and a blue turban, steps out of fancy horse-drawn carriage to warmly greet a lovely (in dark glasses) whose Paris pattern clings to her curves like a court plaster . . . A jeep load of helmeted coppers slowly tools down main stem warning terrorists, who regularly pitch bombs into pro-French cafes, upsetting glasses and generally reducing trade . . .

Visiting American sailors trying to guess the age of veiled women by looking at their exposed eyes; natives guess by their walk . . . Other sailors hire Arab "sheets" to sneak into "Off Limits" Casban after dark . . . Arab men stroll together holding hands; quite proper here . . .

Restaurants empty (through June 15) during daylight hours as this is holy fasting Moslem month of Ramadam . . . No good follower of Allah dare take on cow, water or cigarettes while sun shines . . . A camel caravan stops for the night, pitches tents stenciled: "U.S. Army—First Infantry Division" . . . Won at war surplus sales . . . French ban Tunisian Boy Scouts, say kiddies are "front" for Nationalist propaganda.

Soft shoulder! Almost daily, camels, donkeys and desert travelers step on World War II mines, planted along Rommel's retreat route, and are blasted to bits.

Nationalists carefully comb for mines and other discarded weapons. The powder is siphoned out for home made bombs to horrify French supporters. Rifle and carbine barrels are cut down (like Capone's sawed-off shotguns) and concealed under Arab cloaks.

Today's Thought: Are long forgotten World War II shooting irons providing the arsenal for World War III?

Biography on the back of a menu: His Royal Highness, Sidi Mohammed Pacha, the Bey (Chief) of Tunis. (His wife: "Beya.")

Technically HRH is King of Tunisia. Practically he's a French prisoner in a cocoanut custard palace next to the ruins of ancient Carthage.

The Bey is mad for medicine, poetry, watches. With a private intake of maybe $1,000,000 yearly, his palace houses six doctors, two poets and a thousand watches, many diamond decorated.

The Bey gleefully injects various serums into two favorite dwarfs, hired to make jokes like clowns in a 10th Century monarch's court. Whenever the Bey visits another of his many castles, a bull is sacrificed on the doorstep—despite the high cost of steak.

The French would drip crocodile tears if Bey would drop dead, Merci, because he doesn't dance the Paris political polka, wants independence for Tunisia, and all power for the Bey.

Four things I like about Tunis:

How thrifty white collar Arabs carry their shoes to work, only put on same before entering offices.

How frantically anti-Red are colonial French. They insist: "If communism ever handcuffs Paris we'll cut clean."

How many Arab war waifs, now of voting age, remember fondly GI friendships. One showed me a snapshot of Kansas slogger who died at Gafsa: "He bought me warm clothes."

How politely hack drivers inform you (in French), "Sorry, sir, law prohibits smoking in taxis."

Four things I hate about Tunis:

How some French, crazy-sore at Nationalists, have decided to meet terror with terror through KKK-style "Red Hand" organization.

How sanitary standards would shock a water buffalo. Fly in your soup? Waiter will produce match stick from his vest, flick intruder out.

How laborer's low weekly wages are less than price of solid meal at "European" restaurant.

How those seeking independence scratch innocents in their drastic drive, such as shooting blindly at passing military trucks. The sniper's wild bullet asks no political opinions before entering.

Acting Groups Compelling Broadway Watch Laurels

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the healthiest things about the theatre is that each new season there are several acting groups who make enough fuss and achieve enough success to compel established Broadway producers and playwrights to look to their laurels.

Several such examples are shaping up now in this usually quiet part of the summer, as a prelude to the first Broadway drama and musical premieres in September.

Off-Broadway groups are joining forces in productions ambitiously planned to be hits on Broadway and elsewhere in the fall. A wedding of several of these groups is now under way, starting with an exchange agreement between theatre authorities in four cities: New York, Dallas, Cleveland and San Francisco. Later it is planned to bring other cities into the circuit.

LEADING GOUPS

Leading the groups planning to use Broadway as a showcase for successful stage productions in their home towns and then troupe them to other theatres are two directors. They are Jose Quintero, producer of successful plays in the off - Broadway Circle-in-the-Square Theatre for the past two seasons, and Marco Jones, founder and director of Theatre '53 in Dallas, Texas.

Quintero, a native of Panama, directed one of the New York theatre's top hits, "The Grass Harp." The humorous fantasy by Truman Capote was a sudden failure when first produced on Broadway.

A few weeks ago, Quintero restaged it at the Circle-in-the-Square. Now this fanciful story of small town life is drawing some of the audiences that spurned it when it was first performed in a Times Square playhouse.

A similar thing happened after Tennessee Williams' play, "Summer and Smoke," ran into a blind alley on Broadway. It profited for a year when Quintero took it 40 blocks downtown to the Circle-in-the-Square.

Quintero in New York, Miss Jones in Dallas and theatre leaders in other cities plan to exchange their acting groups. For instance, the performers now playing "The Grass Harp" in New York will move on to Cleveland, San Francisco and elsewhere. They will carry only their costumes. The scenery will be furnished by the theatres in each town.

Yanks Club Tribe In Doubleheader Berra Proves Star

By ED CORRIGAN, Associated Press Sports Writer

Unless Al Lopez is an incurable optimist, he could do worse than give his Cleveland Indians a little talk today—something like this: "We've tried everything to beat those Yanks, but whatever we do, they manage to go us one better. When we streak, they put together a better streak. When we have the pitching, they manage to get the big blow to beat us. When we have the hitting, they outslug us. Let's concentrate on nailing down second place this year and give it another whirl in 1954."

Until a week ago, Lopez still talked pennant. But the clean sweep of the four-game series that ended with a double conquest 6-2 and 3-0 for the Yanks Sunday just about knocked the breath and hope out of the Tribe.

Casey Stengel and his swashbuckling crew now are 10½ games ahead of the Indians with the season not half over.

The Yankees have won 18 games in a row, the third longest winning streak in American League history.

In 1906, Chicago White Sox put together a string of 19 games, and the Yanks of 1947 duplicated the feat. Both won the pennant.

New York Giants of 1916 set the major league record of 26 straight victories.

The crowd of 74,708 saw Yankee catcher Yogi Berra knock in enough runs to win each game. In the opener Yogi hit a home run off Bob Lemon with two on in the eighth with his team behind 2-1. In the second game he clouted a triple in the fourth with two more mates aboard.

Lemon lost the first, and Mike Garcia, who permitted only seven hits, was the nightcap victim. Johnny Sain, Bob Kuzava and Allie Reynolds all saw service for the Yanks in the first game. Kuzava was the winner. Vic Raschi tossed a three-hit shutout in the second contest.

On the subject of streaks, St. Louis Browns lost their 14th straight when they took a twin shellacking from Philadelphia Athletics 4-1 and 3-1. This equalled the Browns' longest losing streak which the 1940 club ran up and is only six short of the American League record of 20 set by Boston Red Sox of 1906 and the Athletics of '43.

The White Sox moved into third place with a pair of triumphs over the Red Sox 6-0 and 1-0. The White Sox now hold a half-game margin over the Red Sox and Washington Senators.

Billy Pierce tossed the first shutout for the Pale Hose, giving up only two hits, and Sandy Consuegra threw the second.

The Senators slugged Detroit Tigers 6-1 behind the strong-arm hurling of Frank Shea.

The see-saw battle for first place in the National League continued between Milwaukee Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers. The amazing Braves edged past the Brooks by winning a doubleheader from Pittsburgh Pirates 7-3 and 8-0.

Don Liddle pitched a five-hitter for Charlie Grimm's lads in the first game and Bob Buhl came right back with a two-hit job in the afterpiece.

The Brooks knocked off Chicago Cubs 6-3 in the opener of their scheduled doubleheader. But in the nightcap they were held to a 6-6 tie. The Dodgers were ahead 6-2 in the ninth when Ralph Kiner smashed a home run with the bases loaded to tie the count.

Ken Raffensberger outpitched Robin Roberts as Cincinnati Redlegs beat Philadelphia Phillies 2-1 in the first game of a doubleheader. The Phils came back to win the second 4-1.

THE GREAT HAND OF ROBIN ROBERTS—This is the right hand of Robin Roberts, the Philadelphia Phillies' hurler who is being called the best pitcher in baseball today by the fans from almost every faction. These are three of the murderous grips which the 190-pound powerhouse uses to deliver up curves (left), fast balls (centre) and sliders (right). The extent of Roberts' control pitching can be seen in the record, where it shows that he has allowed only 18 bases on balls in 95 innings pitched to June 1st. Roberts won 28 and lost 7 in 1952, and might be the man to equal or pass Dizzy Dean's 1934 record of 30 wins for one season.

Royals Sweep Twin Bill From Ottawa

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Royals remained comfortably in the International Baseball League lead, sweeping a Sunday twin bill from the sixth-place Ottawa Athletics.

Tom Lasorda pitched the Royals to a 5-1 victory in the opener, allowing only four scattered hits and fanning seven. Montreal took the abbreviated nightcap 8-4. The victors outhit Ottawa 12-8 and Ronnie Lee, third of four Montreal moundsmen, got the victory.

The Royals lost a Saturday game 6-4 to Toronto Maple Leafs, whose Bobby Hogue held the Montrealers to only two safeties until they got to him in the seventh for another three. Lew Sleater finished the game.

Rochester Red Wings, three games back of the Royals, lost both ends of a doubleheader to Springfield Cubs, 5-4 and 3-2.

Reliefer Tony Jacobs, who took over from George Long in the sixth of the opener, was the winner. Don Elston hurled six-hit ball to chalk up his fifth win in the nightcap.

Rochester edged the Cubs 3-2 Saturday. Starter Floyd Melliere was the winning hurler, but he needed help from Jack Crimian in the ninth. The pitchers gave up a total of seven safeties.

The Leafs and Buffalo Bisons split a Sunday double bill. Paul Foytack pitched Buffalo to a 4-3 opening victory, striking out nine Leafs and allowing only two walks. He was relieved by Milt Jordan in the ninth.

Righthander Don Johnson held Buffalo to five hits in the nightcap, which Toronto won 2-1. He fanned eight and walked none.

Buffalo lost a 3-2 decision to Ottawa Saturday. Bob Trice of the Athletics held the Bisons to six safeties.

Syracuse and Baltimore traded shutouts Sunday, the Chiefs winning the first game 2-0 and the Orioles the second 3-0. Arne Landeck limited Baltimore to four hits in the opener, while Dick Starr held Syracuse to five to win the nightcap.

Baltimore swept a Saturday doubleheader from the Chiefs, 9-2 and 4-2.

Bedser Bowls Into Ranks Of Immortals

By ROBERT JONES

NOTTINGHAM (AP)—Alec Bedser bowled himself into the ranks of cricket's immortals Saturday by taking seven Australian second-innings wickets for 44 in one of the finest performances since Test matches started in 1877.

He not only shattered the might of Australia's batting for a meagre 123, but he gave England a fighting chance of pulling off victory in a day of fluctuating fortunes.

When umpires Dai Davies and Harold Elliott called a halt because of bad light, 15 minutes before the close, England needed 187 runs to win with nine wickets still to fall. They had scored 42 runs for one wicket.

And the game was as open as a barn door. The notorious Trent Bridge pitch was still fairly docile—although a bad spot at one end looked ominous.

Bedser's match analysis was 14 wickets for 99—and that without any help from the wicket.

BEATS RECORD

He beat the Sidney Barnes' English record of 189 wickets in Test matches, came within an inch of equalling the record of Wilfred Rhodes and Hedley Verity of 15 Australian wickets in a match, and now has his sights firmly fixed on Clarrie Grimmett's mark of 216 test wickets.

The morning started badly for England—only 92 on the board and four wickets standing. Those four went fairly quickly, despite a courageous 29 not out by Johnny Wardle, and the innings finished at 144—105 behind.

Ray Lindwall was the wrecker of the innings with five for 57.

Then came Australia's turn.

Unlucky Graham Hole, Hassett, Miller, Harvey and Benaud all fell to Bedser, who at one time took five wickets for 28 runs in 15 overs, and half the Australian side were out for 68 inside 90 minutes.

Doughty Arthur Morris kept plugging away at one end and by the time he was bowled by Tattersall he had made 60—nearly half the Australian total.

ORFU Maps Plans For '53

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Rugby Football Union intermediate section laid plans Saturday for its 1953 season, dividing its nine teams into two groups.

A four-team eastern group is made up of Peterborough, Cobourg, Oshawa and a new Toronto entry which lacks a name. Last season Peterborough won the A series championship and Cobourg took the B series.

The five-team western group takes in Toronto Ryerson, Hamilton and new clubs from Welland, Stratford and Oakville.

Four of last year's clubs did not enter again — Sarnia, Kingston Tanks, Toronto East Yorks and Kitchener. The Kitchener club is moving up into the senior series.

Winner of the ORFU A series advances into the Eastern Canada final to be played Nov. 14 on the Quebec Rugby Football Union field. The East-West intermediate game will be played a week later, in the East.

LAWN BOWLING

Tonight begins the annual Tip-Top Tailors' competitions for ladies and gents.

The draw for the men's first game appears on page 25 of the schedule book and play begins at 7:00 o'clock sharp. The second game will follow immediately. The ladies' games are set for 7:30 o'clock.

As we have had no bowling since Thursday evening let's hope for a fine night tonight and bowlers please be out on time.

And now for Wednesday. That's the date of the open tournament for men's rinks. The main prize is the Strattan Trophy. Last year there were 40 rinks entered and the committee is hoping for as many this year. If you are not on a rink, as yet, it is not too late. Contact A. Black at the greens this evening.

WE WONDER!

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Orfuns' officials have been wondering about staging the odd Saturday afternoon grid game at home, rather than have all home tilts at night under the lights. Cars, cottages and the five-day week have spoiled Saturdays in the summer for sports and the same would apply in the early autumn here, probably, but later in the season— with colder fall weather — Saturday aft might be okay. So long as ORFU games didn't conflict with home high school engagements in the afternoon. At that, Big Four games go weekend afternoons and seem to draw well. Of course, they're played in bigger cities than this, and there aren't the nearby lakes 15 to 20 minutes away by car. Most sports today are played under the floodlights.

* * * * * *

The arcs in the eve have helped baseball survive in many centres but it's up to baseball folks themselves to put their game over the top. We've said it before, and we'll keep right on — more hustle and color are needed if the grand diamond sport is to boom once more. At present, it's having a tough time weathering the storm and has folded in some former good ball towns. Managers, players —especially pokey pitchers—and umpires can hustle a game along and keep fans happy. Bill Corum recently wrote on this subject in the States: "The answer is as plain as it could possibly be. Give the fans a show, something exciting, a chance, something new, and they'll support it. TV or no TV, there still in the same interest there always has been in sports. Give them a real attraction and they'll come out."

Can't Play In Canoes

Rotten weather has hurt the Liflocs a lot locally and they won't show again at home for another week. They go to Oshawa tonight and play in Bowman Villa next Saturday. Game with Whitby here last Saturday was postponed as the park in Riverside was floating. Canoes are too tipsy to play ball from them. Coach Howie Dalton remarked: "Well, we can't control the weather, but there'll be a rash of games one of these weeks as we try to catch up with postponements. At that, I'm just as glad it's happening now as some of our players are busy writing exams." Rain ruined Liflocs' joust with the Petes in Lindsay last Friday, also.

* * * * * *

Floodlit fans will look down from the seats at Miller Bowl tonight—again weather being right— upon the OLA junior "A" hustlers in action. 'Tis Toronto Green Gaels versus Peterborough Pats, who are dubbed that after sponsor Frank Patterson. These same Pats downed the Minto Cup champion Brampton crew here last start, so watch 'em roll from here in. Their June 11 scrap in Dundas was washed out, and they head next for Oakville comes Friday. Schedule winds up in early August, and we look for a great scramble by tomorrow's senior lacrossers from a number of towns during the next month. Pats will be there or thereabouts by the time playoffs arrive.

* * * * * *

Concerning The T-men

Mad as a hatter (as the bareheaded parade strolls by) might describe the Petes' OLA seniors as their tilt with Hamilton here Friday was washed down the drain. That's one they hoped to take and pick up the distance in the race for first place. Nor do they bruise easily from the folding money left off at the turnstiles. Bob Thorpe takes his team into Mimico tomorrow as Brampton plays at St. Catharines. The Toronto West Yorks, who operate out of Orillia this year, come here on Friday and that one should pack in the customers. Yorks humbled our Trailermen here last time these clubs clashed, and might well do it again if the T-men aren't in top form. This schedule goes till nearly the middle of August, with playoffs right afterward.

* * * * * *

Weekend senior struggles showed Brampton picking up traction to take a 17-8 verdict from the rebuilding Mountaineers of Mimico, while the strong St. Catharines Athletics outlasted Toronto Yorks for a neat 14-12 decision. That lengthens Athletics' lead in first place with 18 points while Yorks have 14, and Petes and Fergus are tied in third spot with 12 each. Brampton boasts six, Hamilton and Mimico having just two each. St. Kitts lost but two in 11 starts, the Petes three of nine, Yorks four in 11 and Fergus five in all. Rest of 'em have more reverses than wins. The Saints lead in goals scored with 199, Yorks have 161, Petes 125 and Fergus 161. But Wootton is still tops as Petes have but 95 scored against 'em, whereas the leaders have 110 against, Yorks 133 and Fergus 129.

Toronto Leafs Sign Two New Players

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League signed two new players during the week-end at a cost of $10,000 each.

Also signed was infielder Clam (Scooter) Koshorek, from Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League. In 98 games with Pittsburgh last year, Koshorek hit for a .261 mark.

P-W "A" Team Captures Cricket Match

By C. H. IRESON

Peterborough - Whitaker "A" team defeated the local "B" squad by 172 for six to 39 in a match staged Saturday in the Oval. The score of 172 was for six wickets, inning being declared closed. It was a council contest.

The winners batted first and lost two wickets for nine but then F. Booth was joined by E. Bedford and the pair put on a fine display before Bedford was out at 86, his score being 36 to include a six and four fours. R. Smith (10) was out at 114 and T. Scott (14) helped Booth then to carry the total to 160 when the latter was out for a splendid inning of 90. He was just 10 runs short of the century. He defended well and attacked freely, his total including two sixes and 10 fours. At 161, T. Scott was out for 14. With E. Cotton (8) not out and H. Dibben (4) not out, the inning was declared closed.

A ROUGH TIME

The "B" bowlers had a poor time of it. They used six and wickets fell to K. Illingworth three for 39, F. Dyer one for 28 and E. Rollwagon one for 40.

Facing a total of 173, the losers had a hard time against the "A" attack. Five wickets were down for 24 and the total only reached 39 against the bowling of T. Scott, seven for 16, W. Wright, two for five, and C. Boardman, one for 15.

Booth followed his grand batting by making two great catches, but he was not called upon to bowl.

This was the "A" team's fourth match and win in council play by a good margin. The "B" team has won one and lost two, and these teams will meet again on Aug. 29.

Ben Hogan Wins 4th Golf Open As Hapless Snead Blows Another

By WILL GRIMSLEY

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP)—Unshakeable Ben Hogan made it No. 4 Saturday and hapless Sam Snead blew another one in a pressurized head-to-head battle for the 53rd United States open golf championship.

The leathery Texas master nailed Snead's doom with a dramatic birdie-birdie finish that gave him a final round 71 and a 72-hole total of 283, which shattered Oakmont's heretofore impregnable par by five strokes. His margin over runner-up Snead was six strokes.

Hogan had rounds of 67-72-63-71 around the sprawling 6,916-yard course which plays a rugged 37-35—72. The previous 72-hole competitive record for the layout was 294, set by Willie McFarlane in 1934.

Snead was on the 14th green when Hogan rammed home his five-foot birdie putt on the final hole. He limped in with a 76 for a final score of 289.

DOOR THROWN OPEN

Snead had the door thrown open to him several times during Saturday's exhausting double round. He collared Hogan at the third hole of the morning round, passed the pace-setter by two strokes at the fifth and seemed headed for possible victory when his game suddenly went sour.

He cut Hogan's lead to a single stroke with a par 72 in the morning while Ben took a 73.

But Sam never could catch his old nemesis in the afternoon.

Hogan thus became the third man in the history of this classic to win the championship four times joining Willie Anderson and the immortal Bobby Jones.

The other halfway leaders Lloyd Mangrum, George Fazio and Jay Hebert, faded in the morning.

One over par with two holes to play, Hogan came to the 17th and put the kindling wood shot that projected the ball green 292 yards away.

He was left with a 35-foot putt and finally sank it for his birdie three.

POWERS DRIVE

On the 18th, Hogan powered a drive down the middle and then poked a five-iron shot to the green, five feet from the cup. His putt hit the back of the can.

Mangrum, the 1949 champion from Niles, Ill., finished with rounds of 75-74 for a total of 292. This gave him third money.

Fazio, 40, a touring pro from Clementon, N.J., who started the day tied with snead at 141, two strokes back of Hogan, skied to 77-76 for 294, which placed him in a tie with Jimmy Demaret.

Native Dancer Wins Belmont In Terrific Stretch Run

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK (AP)—A busy summer and fall program was mapped today for Alfred Vanderbilt's Native Dancer, the grey galloper who won the $118,600 Belmont Stakes and clinched the three-year-old championship of 1953.

As horsedom still thrilled over the Dancer's terrific stretch run Saturday at Belmont Park where he caught and defeated Jamie K. by a neck, the Vanderbilt campaign managers were looking forward to more fields to conquer.

"He proved himself to others, but there never was any doubt with me that he was a champion," said Bill Winfrey, who trains the grey son of Polynesian.

"Next comes the Dwyer, then to Chicago for the Arlington Classic," Winfrey said Sunday.

The Dwyer is a 1¼ mile race for $50,000 at Aqueduct July 4, while the classic is a one-mile affair carrying $100,000 in added money.

ONLY 6 HORSES

Only six horses went postward in the 1½-mile Belmont, and it was a two-horse duel between the Dancer and Jamie K. from Jim Norris' Spring Hill farm. It was a duplicate finish of the Preakness May 23, when the grey flyer defeated Jamie K. by a neck.

In the Preakness Native Dancer was leading in the stretch and Jamie K. couldn't catch him. In the Belmont, Eddie Arcaro put Jamie K. into the lead on the final turn after the pace-setting Ram O'War tired, but Eric Guerin aboard Native Dancer did catch the Norris colt in the run to the wire.

Native Dancer's time of 2.28 3-5 was just one second off the track record set in 1942 by Bolingbroke under 115 pounds, whereas the Dancer carried 126.

FOUR-PLAYER TRADE

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Pitcher Virgil Trucks and infielder Bob Elliott were traded to Chicago White Sox for hurler Lou Kretlow, catcher Darrell Johnson and cash, St. Louis Browns announced Saturday night.

Fear Economic Nationalism May Lead World To Disaster

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Countries such as Canada which must export to live have a developing threat on their doorsteps—that of economic nationalism.

This is the policy whereby a country tends to give unlimited protection to domestic industry, even the "hot-house" variety, elbowing imports out of the way to prevent competition.

Exporting countries, hit by this policy, sometimes try to hit back—retaliating with import controls of their own. In extreme cases this could lead to economic warfare, to political distrust, and possibly to economic depression.

That kind of retrograde development could obscure the channels of multilateral trade which gave grown up in post-war years between the free countries of the world. It could lead to a denial of markets for Canada's products and to unemployment for Canadians.

THOUGHT IT DEAD

A lot of countries thought economic nationalism had died with the damaging depression of the 1930s.

But two world figures fear it may be rising again: Pierre Martin of France and our own External Affairs Minister Pearson.

Mr. Martin, president of the 30-country International Federation of Agricultural Producers, told the annual meeting in Rome last week:

"It looks as though the governments have gradually been discouraged by the enormity of the task facing them, as though they now have abandoned the ideals of constructive co-operation which were so excellently defined at the time of the foundation of United Nations.

". . .With international trade channels obstructed, the various policies pursued show an overwhelming tendency towards a revival of that economic nationalism which we had imagined to be dead; and the accumulation of certain excess products by a number of countries is beginning to take on alarming proportions."

Mr. Pearson, speaking Sunday at Dartmouth College, Hanover, N. H., indicated that Communists hope to benefit through economic nationalism, as an alternative to military aggression.

ONLY ONE WEAPON

Military force is only one weappn which can be used against the free countries, said Mr. Pearson. Another is the economic weapon.

"We must see to it that disunity arising out of economic nationalism does not do the job that military force has so far been unable to do. Here, too, we must 'go it together.'

"There would be no surer way to dismember our coalition than to permit the flow and volume of trade between the free nations to start on a downward spiral with countries again resorting to extreme restrictive measures against one another."

ALL BUTTONED UP—London costermongers and their families follow ancient tradition and dress up in costumes lavishly decorated with white pearl buttons. Derby Day is the time when the "pearlies" come into their decorative own.

South Korean President Loves Flowers, Sanitation

SEOUL (AP)—Allied troops reoccupied Seoul in September, 1950, after landing at Inchon and routing the North Korean Reds. A throng of Koreans gathered in the battered capital city to hear an address by their white - haired president, Syngman Rhee.

It was a momentous occasion for the little man who had endured prison torture and 33 years of exile in his long fight against monarchists, Japanese militarists and now the Communists. Many present expected a dramatic, spine-tingling speech from the leathery-skinned graduate of Harvard and Princeton Universities.

Rhee said: "We have returned to our beloved city. Now let's get the stink out of the streets and get some trees on those mountains."

The incident illustrated several points in the character of the 78-year-old president. He is a simple, direct man with no apparent affections, but stubborn in persisting for what he believes is best for Korea.

MANIA FOR SANITATION

He is a passionate lover of trees and flowering things. He has a mania for sanitation.

Today, in the midst of the armistice crisis, he still is exhorting Seoul residents at least once each week to clean up and plant.

His love is for a country in which he was born under a monarchy March 26, 1875; which threw him in prison when, as a Methodist mission convert, he tried to stir up the spirit of democracy; and from which he was exiled, fleeing for his life soon after the Japanese took control in 1910.

He returned to Korea in 1945 after Japan's defeat only to be caught up shortly in a war which kept him moving in and out of Seoul as its fortunes swayed.

Rhee lives in a fine-concrete-and-tile mansion on a Seoul hillside. He spends many waking hours in its spreading, beautiful gardens.

When Gen. Mark Clark flew to Seoul recently for an urgent conference over Rhee's bitter opposition to a truce with the Reds, they held their meeting in the "garden office."

While talking with important guests, Rhee is apt to stop his conversation momentarily while walking over to pull up a weed. He prunes his own trees and hedges and attends to his flowers and shrubs daily.

After a 6 a.m. arising and a light breakfast, Rhee reads newspapers for an hour then sketches Chinese characters on paper with a brush dipped in heavy black ink. His characters spell out such mottoes as "respect Heaven and love humans."

At 8:30 a.m., he goes to a large pond and feeds bread and rice to more than 100 goldfish.

Then he walks to his office and receives reports on the war. He consults with his ministers. By 9:30 a.m., he is back in the garden receiving visitors and giving instructions to his secretaries

Just before noon, he sits down to his typewriter to bang out personal letters or statements Often they are appeals to his people to plant trees, use coal instead of wood for cooking and heating.

Rhee deplores the barren hills of Korea. He flies often to the battlefront in light army planes, scanning the terrain closely.

"On several occasions, President Rhee has discovered tree or brush fires during his trips," said his secretary, Chang Ki Bong. "On each occasion the president made note of the exact location and sent out fire fighters immediately."

At 12:30 p.m. daily, Rhee lunches with his Austrian - born wife, Francesca, 20 years his junior, whom he wed in 1934. He eats what he likes, including chicken, fish, beef and pork. He prefers Western food but occasionally eats rice and some Korean dishes.

After receiving visitors from 2 to 4 p.m. and a 7 p.m. dinner, he listens to the radio. Before retiring, Rhee opens his Christian Bible and reads passages aloud to himself and his wife.

HAMILTON (CP)—Left-wing labor proposed Saturday a five-point program as a means of uniting all labor groups in Canada under one banner.

More than 400 delegates from five independent unions, including three unions expelled from the Canadian Congress of Labor, approved the 10,000-word program.

The unions were the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, the United Electrical Workers, International Fur and Leather Workers, all expelled from the CCL, and the Canadian Textile Council and Canadian Garment Workers Union.

The program called for:

1. Immediate starts on all-Canadian constructions of the St. Lawrence seaway, all-Canadian pipe line, South Saskatchewan power and irrigation project, and completion of the Trans-Canada Highway.

2. An immediate cease-fire in Korea.

3. A policy of free world trade, "free from political conditions and currency restrictions."

HOUSING PLAN

4. A national housing plan to provide a minimum of 150,000 new dwellings each year.

5. Income tax based on exemptions of $3,000 for married persons and $2,000 for single persons earning less than $5,000.

6. A bill of rights "guaranteeing democratic freedoms and civil rights to all Canadians regardless of race, creed, or. . . political beliefs."

7. Labor legislation "to curb employers' anti-labor actions."

Kenneth Smith of Vancouver, president of the British Columbia district of the Mine-Mill Union, said his union, in pressing for 75-cent-an-hour wage increases for Northwest Territories uranium workers, was trying to bring their wages up to those of miners in other areas.

"All we are asking is a wage rate comparable to other mines," he said. "In Sudbury, most of the miners are averaging more than $2 an hour."

Bones Of Famous Dead Moved To Make Room

By JOHN MYERS

PARIS (Reuters)—The bones of the forgotten dead are being disturbed to make more room in the 117-acre cemetery of Pere-Lachaise in Paris.

Remains of some 2,000,000 persons lie in the tombs of Pere-Lachaise, already so crowded together it is sometimes impossible for a visitor to squeeze between them.

For the first time since its foundation in 1804, Pere-Lachaise is the scene of the macabre operation of opening graves to transfer their contents to an ossuary.

The ossuary is being built into the hillside at the foot of the grandoise columbarium which holds the ashes of the cremated. Through its sculptured portals will pass the remains of all those who lie in tombs for which the concession has lapsed.

Grave-diggers have been busy since the beginning of the year opening the abandoned tombs. A magistrate attends each operation, for some of the graves contain jewelry and other valuables.

But Pere - Lachaise is not a gloomy place, as cemeteries go, especially in the spring. Its cobbled alleys lined with acacias and plane trees make it more like a garden than a graveyard.

Nursemaids wheel their charges along the pathways, lovers amble among the tombs, and students read in the quiet.

The medieval lovers, Heloise and Abelard, lie together in a common mausoleum, the oldest inhabitants of the cemetery to which they were brought in 1817 after several earlier moves.

TOMB OF CHOPIN

It is said that the tomb of Chopin, rendezvous of modern lovers, has witnessed the flowering of many idylls.

Two of the most distinguished foreigners buried in the cemetery are two Britons: Oscar Wilde, brilliant but dissolute author, and Admiral Sidney Smith, gallant defender of Acre against Napoleon.

Authors, artists, actors, statesmen rest there by the score. To mention only a few: Moliere, la Fontaine, Daumier, Corot, Daudet, Sarah Bernhardt, Rossini, Bizet and Balzac.

ROYAL SALUTE—Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, return a salute to the troops passing in review on the Mall in London. It was Elizabeth's official "birthday." She and the Duke rode at the head of a procession to inspect the scarlet troops of the Guards brigade—a two-century-old tradition.

Wool Buying Falls Off Trade Balance Hard Hit

SYDNEY (AP)—Falling off of United States buying of wool this year has seriously affected Australia's dollar trade balance.

Wool is Australia's greatest individual dollar earner.

A falling-off in United States purchases primarily is responsible for Australia's current dollar-area deficit of £32,767,000 Australian ($73,398,000) for the nine months' trading ended March 31.

In 1950-51, the "boom year," abnormal demand caused wool prices to jump to more than twice average prices quoted during the previous year.

The U. S. was the second biggest buyer of Australian wool until 1951-52, but in the last nine months has fallen to fifth biggest.

The falling-off in American buying has coincided with withdrawal of Russia from the Australian wool market and a stepping-up of Japanese buying. Japan has risen from seventh biggest buyer of Australian greasy wool in 1949-50 to third biggest buyer in the last nine months.

MAIN REASONS

Main reasons for the falling-off in sales to the U. S. and the cessation of sales to Russia are:

During the Second World War and in the immediate post-war years the U. S. stock-piled huge quantities of Australian wool, some of which is reach American woollen mills only now.

The U. S. has produced vast quantities of synthetic fibres for textiles.

Russia, because of a big increase in her sheep population, has become virtually independent of imported wool.

Total weight of Australian wool produced this year will be a record. Experts believe the Australian sheep population now is about 120,000,000.

Educational TV Moves Ahead

By HERB ALTSCHULL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The educational television people are a happy lot these days.

That's the essence of a report completed here by the National Citizens Committee for Educational Television.

The report was prepared for the committee's co-chairmen, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president of Pennsylvania State College, and Marion Folsom, under - secretary of the treasury. It's a progress report in the world of educational TV. Here's what the committee reported:

Forty seven applications for educational TV permits have been filed with the federal communications commission.

The commission has issued 17 grants for educational TV channels.

One station is on the air, in Houston, Tex., another, in Los Angeles, expects to begin operations within the next two weeks.

ONCE FEARFUL

The educational TV people, once fearful of ever getting their program under way, now are convinced they're in the business to stay. It had been feared that the commercial people would go all out to wreck the movement.

But, said Ralph Steetle, executive director of the Joint Council on Educational television, a group made of seven educational associations banded together to work for the new medium.

Steetle said many commercial groups have actively aided the educational people.

The federal communications commission set aside 244 channels exclusively for educational applicants a year ago.

Steetle said educational people are hampered by raising money and ensuring the kind of programming that will be able to hold its own in competition with commercial channels.

Dr. George Stoddard, president of the University of Illinois, predicts that the educational TV shows will be so good they'll force the commercial people to raise their standards.

For the last 22 years he has been rector of St. James Church in Kingston.

200 Fire Fighters Attend School

PORT COLBORNE (CP)—Two hundred fire fighters and instructors attended a two-day training school of the Niagara District Firemen's Association during the week-end. Thirty volunteer fire departments were represented.

The school was run in co-operation with the Ontario fire marshal's office. E. Barrett, director of fire training, ran the school.

Spy Trap Sprung In Britain Three Yrs. Ago

(Editor's Note: Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, man and wife, are in the death house at Sing Sing prison. Next Thursday night, unless they can win another of many stays, they will be electrocuted. The conspiracy case that led to their downfall and the long legal battle to save their lives is told in a three-part series by Arthur Everett.)

By ARTHUR EVERETT

NEW YORK (AP)—On a winter's day three years ago Scotland Yard inspector Leonart Burt dropped his hand on the shoulder of a German-born scientist at work in Britain's atomic laboratory.

The scientist was Dr. Klaus Fuchs, who had been present at the birth of the first atomic bomb in New Mexico in 1945. His arrest that Feb. 3, 1950, was the first step in cracking an international atomic spy conspiracy that numbered among its plotters Julius Rosenberg and his wife, Ethel.

Fuchs, now 41, confessed his part in the spy plot. He had been a Soviet agent since 1939. He now is serving 14 years in prison, the maximum under British law.

From Fuchs, the trail of conspiracy led the United States federal bureau of investigation to Harry Gold, a Swiss-born chemist in Philadelphia. Gold was arrested May 23, 1950, pleaded guilty and now is serving 30 years. He cooperated with the government.

Three weeks later came the arrest of David Greenglass, wavy-haired $75-a-week machinist who had been a wartime army sergeant at Los Alamos, N.M., where the first A-bomb was produced. Greenglass, born 31 years ago in New York's lower east side of a Russian father, found himself in a tight spot. His life was at stake if convicted of passing atomic secrets to Russia. So Greenglass talked.

WAR EXPLODES

Meanwhile, the Korean war exploded June 25, 1950 as government agents questioned and requestioned the thick-set Greenglass.

In this supercharged atmosphere, July 17, 1950 FBI agents arrested Julius Rosenberg, the brother-in-law of Greenglass. Now 35, the thin college graduate married Greenglass' sister, Ethel, June 18, 1939. She bore him two sons, Michael, now 10, and Robert, 6.

By Aug. 1, the government was able to report it was "getting more information every hour." That information was not coming from Rosenberg, however, as he maintained his innocence and offered no co-operation.

It was Aug. 11 that the FBI seized Mrs. Rosenberg in her $51-a-month New York apartment. A stenographer turned housewife, she, like her husband and her brother, was a product of Manhattan's tenement area. She is now 37.

The Rosenbergs were accused of transmitting military secrets to Russia themselves and through Greenglass, who was pictured as a hero-worshipper of his brother-in-law and a pliable tool in the older man's hands.

PICKED UP SECRETS

Gold, it was alleged, picked up A-bomb secrets from Fuchs and Greenglass at Los Alamos. He identified himself to Greenglass with a torn piece of a Jello box top. It matched the other half in Greenglass possession. Greenglass said his half was given to him by the Rosenbergs.

On Aug. 17, 1950, the government indicted Anatoli Yakovlev, former Russian vice-consul in New York. But it was like indicting a shadow. He had slipped back to Russia in 1946.

Yakovlev was depicted as the sinister link, holding together the urbane Fuchs, the rabbity Gold, the putty-like Greenglass and the bold, snickering Rosenbergs

The government said Yakovlev provided the $500 which Greenglass admitted accepting as the price of his treachery.

On Aug. 18, 1950, the government arrested Morton Sobell, 36, who had fled to Mexico before the Rosenbergs were arrested. But he was deported and United States agents were waiting for him at the border.

NET EXTENDED

Sobell, an electrical engineer, had served the navy as a wartime radar expert. A native New Yorker, his parents came from Russia. He and Rosenberg were classmates at the City College of New York. Sobel, it was charged, took part with the Rosenbergs in the plot to pervert Greenglass and to furnish secrets to Russia. The Rosenbergs and Sobell pleaded innocent to the conspiracy charges.

Oct. 18, 1950, Greenglass pleaded guilty and prepared for the difficult role that doomed his sister and her husband.

All four—the Rosenbergs, Sobell and Greenglass — were charged under a 1917 statue with "conspiring in time of war to transmit to the Soviet Union information concerning the national defence of this country."

The conspiracy was said to have extended from June 6, 1944, to June 16, 1950—which included the tag end of the war when Russia was an ally in the fight against Germany. Nevertheless, such a conspiracy in time of war, even on behalf of an ally, carried a maximum penalty of 30 years in prison or death. In time of peace, the maximum penalty was 20 years.

Much of the evidence against the Rosenbergs was circumstantial. They have maintained their innocence throughout.

Big Three's Next Meeting Spot Colorful Place

By BERNARD BROWN

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—A short - order baedecker for D. Eisenhower, W. Churchill and whoever is the premier of France when the Allied Big Three meet in Bermuda:

The best golf is at the Mid-Ocean Club course but beware of the fifth hole. Lots of water. The pro, by the way, is tall, rugged Archie Compton, who taught King George VI and the Duke of Windsor.

For those who like to paint, the seascapes are especially recommended. But you have to work fast. Pink sands and blue sky remain fairly constant but sea color changes from dark grey at dawn to pink, to deepest greens and blues, to red and gold at sunset.

For those who like to drink, a bottle of bonded whisky goes for about $3, Barbados rum for about $1.30.

40 PER CENT WHITE

For those who like statistics, Bermuda has a population of 37,000 (about 40-per-cent white) 365 islands, many of which a small boy can step over; seven principal islands — Main, St. David, St. George, Somerset, Watford, Boaz and Ireland; nine parishes or provinces; one city, Hamilton, which is the capital; total land area of 19 square miles and an average year - round temperature of 70 degrees.

Transportation: Mostly bikes . . . in 1947, Bermuda sold its only railroad to British Guiana. It was one of the world's shortest. Took two hours for 20 miles . . . autos permitted here only since 1946. Speed limit in country: 20 m.p.h., in towns, 15 m.p.h. Private cars are limited to 14 horsepower. No family may own more than one. It is illegal to import a used one.

Government: Bermuda is the oldest British colony. Its parliament, which consists of the governor and commander-in-chief, Lt.-Gen. Sir Alexander Hood, nine members of the legislative council appointed by the Crown and 36 members of the House of Assembly elected locally, is second in age only to the mother parliament in London.

To vote in Bermuda, you have to own at least £80 ($168) worth of real estate. A voter is entitled to vote in any or all parishes where he owns that much land.

Economics: Tourists spend $24,000,000 a year here . . . the only other source of outside income is the export of Easter lilies. Bermuda no longer exports Bermuda onions.

Capsule history: Named after Juan de Bermudez, a Spaniard who sailed by early in the 16th century . . . until 1609, the islands were uninhabitated.

Four Persons Injured In Collision

HAMILTON (CP)—Four persons were injured in a three-car collision on Highway 20 near Elfrida Sunday.

Mrs. Hilda Marks, 62, of St. Catharines was admitted to hospital with head injuries and cuts. Her condition was reported only fair.

Clayton Fawcett, 49, of Chesterville went to hospital with scalp cuts. Claude Bertrand, 22, of Plantaganet was treated for head and face cuts and Oliva Vaters, 31, of St. Catharines for cuts and bruises.

Police reported a car went out of control and crashed into an oncoming one. A third car, unable to stop in time, collided with one of the wrecked vehicles.

Find Sense Of Adventure But Be Polite In London

LONDON (AP)—Every town you pass through in your life gives you a feeling—grim or gay, depressed or happy.

London is more fun in a fog than most towns are in clear sunshine.

It has a sense of adventure, an air of anything-can-happen. It is the town of the long purpose, and the purpose is to endure. It takes everything in stride, because for centuries it has expected that its biggest problem will be the unexpected. This is why the British rarely show curiosity or surprise.

It is a polite town, one in which the surest way to lose face is to take undue advantage of your position. The waiter always says, "thank you," when he brings a fork or a napkin. But if you bawl out a waiter, everyone in the place will look at you as if you had slapped your wife in public. You don't bawl out anybody out loud in London—you lower your voice, and put an edge in it. The right tone does more than a holler.

Paris is a high sweet note, but London is a deep chord, a music with the heavy beat of time behind it. Paris is a splendor, London is a gray grandeur.

It is a town where they don't tear down ideas or buildings merely because they are old. People here don't think of history only as something that happened to their ancestors; they feel themselves a part of it, and they are a part of it.

It is perhaps the best town in all the world to walk in. So many wonderful shopping windows to look into, so many old winding streets to explore, so many quaint alleys, mews, purlieus, and places to wander in, toy lanes of wonderland—and a flowerbox in almost every window to brighten the dull days.

Did Robert Browning stroll here, his head a tumult of poetry over Elizabeth Barrett? Why, here is the same tavern off Fleet street where Samuel Johnson nourished his spirit.

London is an exciting town, a romantic town, full of the tang and vitality and love of living, where the past is never finished or forgotten, and the future still unwinds in hope. It is a bittersweet town of shine and shower where the breed stands firm in any weather, a town I always like to see and always hate to say goodbye to.

Africa Astir With New Projects Signs Everywhere Of Great Growth

BY A. T. STEELE
NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

After travelling up, down and across Africa, one is tempted to write with glowing optimism about the continent's future. Nearly everywhere there are signs of growth and development. Africa is astir with new projects, some of impressive magnitude.

Unhappily, these material gains are overshadowed in some regions by racial discord. The simple truth is that the biggest problem in Africa today is the problem of human relations. It seems incredible that the white man, despite all the technical skill, administrative talent and capital he has poured into Africa, still is unable to produce a formula for enduring harmony between the black and white races. Until such a formula is found and proved, all predictions about Africa's future will have to be conditioned with caution.

IDYLLIC SORT OF PLACE

Consider Kenya, for example. Two years ago, that British colony seemed an idyllic sort of place for white settlement. It had just about everything conducive to the white man's comforts—a balmy climate, fine hunting and fishing, plenty of cheap labor and, finally, the so-called White Highlands, an area of 12,000 square miles (excluding forests) reserved exclusively for the white bwana's use. Kenya was a place where a fellow of modest means could live like a country gentleman.

It goes without saying that Kenya is not as pleasant a place as it used to be. A few weeks ago, in Nairobi, I heard the wife of a white settler sum up the situation in a few disgruntled words. Shifting the revolver on her hip to a more comfortable position she remarked, crossly: "These Mau Mau chaps are spoiling everything."

SYMPTOMS OF SOMETHING

What the doughty lady was really saying was that the day is past when the white man can have everything his own way in Africa. For whether it is the savage Mau Mau revolt in Kenya, the passive resistance movement in South Africa, the anti-Federation agitation in central Africa, or the demands for self-rule in the Gold Coast and Nigeria, all are symptoms of the same thing—the growing political awareness of the African peoples.

It is not easy to generalize on the situation in Africa. It is after all, a vast continent, with a great diversity of climates, peoples and political systems. The peoples south of the Sahara—the ones we are concerned with in this article—are in all stages of development from the primitive bushman of Southwest Africa to the considerably more advanced Negroes of, say, the Gold Coast.

And each of the colonial powers—Great Britain, France, Belgium, Portugal and Spain—has a different approach to the African problem. Generally speaking, Britain is the most liberal of the five in its colonial policy, though it is necessary to draw a sharp line of distinction between the Englishman at home and the Briton who has settled down for keeps in Africa. The former is likely to be pretty broad-minded in his attitude toward the Africans, the latter narrow but hard-headed with a tendency to judge the African more by his faults than by his virtues.

GOOD DEAL STERNER

Although the French and the Portuguese are probably less color-conscious than the British, they are a good deal sterner in dealing with political opposition from the African side. The French will tolerate political change only within the framework of the French Union. And Portuguese colonial policy, too, is based on the view that Portuguese possessions must remain forever Portuguese.

Within these limits, the French give privileges to a small elite class of educated, pro-French Africans. And the Portuguese, for their part, have a similar satellite element called the "assimilados," or civilized Africans, who enjoy the same rights under the law as the white Portuguese. Through this shrewd technique of playing up to the educated few, the French and Portuguese have found it easier to maintain firm control over the uneducated masses.

The Belgians in the Congo do things a little differently, but they too are firmer than the British in their handling of the Africans, and in their control of political movements. They are ahead of the other colonial powers, in the housing and social services provided for American workers.

BRITAIN HAS MOST TROUBLE

It is a bit ironic that Britain, with a more liberal colonial policy than the others, should be having the most trouble with her African wards. But the changes that are taking place in the Gold Coast, in Nigeria and in the Sudan are almost certain to generate similar movements elsewhere. It can hardly be doubted that the French, the Portuguese and the Belgians will also, sooner or later, have to face a showdown with African nationalism.

The eruptions of the last year have shown that African nationalism is no longer a problem that can be shrugged off lightly. The upsurge is, to be sure, still spotty and rather uncorrelated. But despite setbacks in countries like South Africa, where the draconian measures of the Malan government may keep the black man down for quite a few years, there can be no doubt of the trend in black Africa as a whole. The African, though still immature in many ways, is coming of age politically. He is increasingly restive under white dominance. And he knows that in the long run his superiority in numbers will be decisive.

In Africa south of the Sahara there are roughly 150,000,000 people of color and fewer whites than are to be found in Chicago. And more than 2,000,000 of the fewer than 3,000,000 whites in this vast territory are concentrated in the southern tip of the continent—that is, in the Union of South Africa. Even there, they are outnumbered by the colored peoples by more than four to one. White immigration will perhaps reduce the lead slightly in some places. But in no territory, including South Africa, is there any prospect that the whites can ever gain a numerical superiority.

HERE COMES THE CIRCUS PARADE with Esma Wilson and Vicky Kernan of the King Bros. and Cristiani Circus in the lead. The parade will leave Exhibition Park at 11.30 a.m. Wednesday, moving up George St. to McDonnel, across and down Water to Sherbrooke St., and out again to George and back to Morrow Park.

Penguin Found On Bronx Street

NEW YORK—The first adult Humboldt Penguin ever abandoned on a Bronx doorstep was found by two beer-sellers and turned over to the Bronx Zoo the other day where it was thrust into an air-conditioned cooler with orders to pull itself together.

The normal home of this bird is off South America's southwest coast and nobody knows how it came to be flopping about at the Bronx doorstep where it was found by Joseph Marano and Vincent Parlante.

"What is it?" Mr. Marano said when the thing nudged against his foot as he was about to enter his home.

"It looks like a penguin," Mr Parlante said. "I've seen 'em on television."

Mr. Marano picked up the bird and gave it overnight haven in a box. However, his wife, Delores, is pregnant and the penguin disturbed her. So the next morning Mr. Marano drove the penguin to the zoo.

There it was put in 55-degree temperature in the cooler in the aquatic bird house and keeper Joseph Bell gave it special attention. It gobbled smelts voraciously and this, along with its somewhat emaciated appearance, led zoo officials to believe it has missed a square meal lately.

William Bridges, zoo publicity director, said that the penguin charged around furiously in the cooler and acted upset. It was not friendly to humans, and its inefficient swimming hinted at prestatarcal trouble. Dr Leonard J. Goss, of the zoo staff, will check it over completely as soon as it permits.

If nobody claims it, and it straightens itself out physically, it will join the zoo's colony of resident penguins, two of which are Humboldts.

A Farmer by the name of Mr. Robert Dietch, of Fairlawn, N.J., claims he bought the bird 18 months ago from a sea captain named Shapiro. His attempt to attract the critter by calling "Fish! Fish! Fish!" failed, however, and Mr. Dietch went home to get photographs which he says will positively identify the bird as the one he lost.

"At any rate," he said "finding a Humboldt penguin in the Bronx is the strangest thing that's happened since an Asian goldfronted green bullbul turned up in a backyard in Yonkers some years ago."

Open Press Club Home

OTTAWA (CP)—With Governor-General Vincent Massey signing the guest book, the Ottawa Press Club opened spanking new quarters Saturday, ending a 25-year search for a permanent home. Opening ceremonies were under the direction of club president Bruno Comeau. About 138 club members joined in the celebration.

A retired newspaper editor, Freeman had recently been working on an eight-volume biography of George Washington. He won the Pulitzer Prize in 1934 for his four-volume biography of Robert E. Lee.

Township Wheat 62 Inches High

Wheat 5 ft. 2 in. tall on the field of Hugh McFee, Otonabee township, was shown to the Examiner today by Albert Wildman, McCannan Ave.

"I think it will grow another six or seven inches," Mr. Wildman said. "It is a wonderful looking crop in that height. Mr. McFee has a mixture of timothy, red alfalfa and red clover hay that I'd say will yield three tons to the acre."

In many sections of the county, wheat is only coming to head.

Ground is so saturated with the frequent and heavy rains that tractors here and there bogged down when going out to take off grass for silage. Many farmers throughout the province have had to put a check on pasturing stock to save the grass structure from becoming damaged by the cattle's feet.

The seeding of corn has become seriously delayed. Departmental opinion that Ontario farmers will suffer a loss in millions this year finds support throughout this district.

Manilla Man, 48, Dies In Lindsay After Accident

LINDSAY (ENS)—A 48-year-old Manilla man, Albert Clark, died in Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay this morning of injuries suffered when he was knocked from his bicycle in Manilla on Saturday afternoon.

According to Provincial Police officers at Lindsay, Clark was riding his bicycle on Highway 7 on Saturday afternoon, when he either turned into the side of a panel truck driven by Mrs. Jean Schroader, of Sunderland, or was struck by it as it was passing him.

He was hurled to the pavement, suffering a badly lacerated left arm and a skull fracture. The injuries were diagnosed by Dr. G. C. R. Hall, of Little Britain who attended at the scene.

Clark was rushed to the hospital, but died some 36 hours after the accident. it is still being investigated by Provincial Police officers from Lindsay.

According to Dr. Hall, the victim was the son of Mrs. Jonas Clark, of Manilla.

Newtonville Man Hurt As Car Crashes Bridge

COBOURG (ENS).—A car driven by Dick Martinelli, 22, of RR 1, Newtonville, was badly smashed Sunday on a bridge near Garden Hill. Martinelli is in Civic Hospital with a fracture of the right arm and left leg, and severe lacerations of the face. He was operated on this morning to reduce the fracture. His condition is not serious.

Mr. Martinelli's car had been moving west on the road out of Garden Hill and his car went out of control, hitting the left-hand guard rail and cement abutment. He was unconscious when discovered by an unnamed fisherman.

OPP Constable C. Meadows investigated the accident.

Four Toronto People Hurt As Car Hits Shoulder, Rolls

Four Toronto people were injured Sunday morning when their small English-model car went out of control and turned over in the ditch, six miles south of Peterborough on Highway 28. George Snooks, 63, of 89 Ivy St., Toronto, was out for a Sunday drive to Peterborough with his wife, son and daughter-in-law. As he rounded a curve at Scott's Corners one wheel of the car struck the soft shoulder. He pulled back onto the paved surface, zig-zagged and finally plunged into the east ditch where the car rolled over against a fence.

All four were taken to Civic Hospital by Nisbett ambulance.

Mrs. Emily Snooks, 64, wife of the driver, was the most seriously hurt.

She received cuts and scratches on her face, left hand and legs. Her left shoulder was bruised. She is suffering from shock and although her condition is "good" she will be in hospital for several days at least.

The other three members of the family received out-patient treatment only.

MINOR INJURIES

Mr. Snooks has cuts on his face and a bruised right leg. His son Kenneth, 31, of 169 Nairn Ave., an injured right leg and bruises; and his daughter-in-law, Christine, 28, bruises and a severe shaking up.

The 1952-model car received $1,000 damage as a result of the mishap. OPP Constables Tom Armitage and George Louth investigated.

Early Sunday afternoon a Peterborough family had a narrow escape from death when their car went out of control on Highway 28 at Miller's service station, five miles west of Peterborough. The 1950-model sedan ran into the west ditch and snapped off a hydro pole.

The top section of the pole, broken off about four feet from the top, toppled over and the four wires—each charged with 4,500 volts of electricity—sagged to within a couple of feet of the car in which the four dazed occupants were sitting.

POWER CUT OFF

They managed to get out of the vehicle without injury but were advised not to try and go near it again until a hydro lineman shut off the power. This was done. Power was restored before suppertime.

Driver of the car was Robert W. Armitage, 50, of 203 Park St. He was driving south on the highway and had passed another car when his car went out of control after swinging back into line. It zig-zagged and then struck the hydro pole in the west ditch.

Passengers were his wife, his two children, Jack 13 and Susan 11; and six-year-old Priscilla McConkey.

All were shaken up but uninjured.

Cottagers Face Lack Of Ice For Holidays

Cottagers this summer are going to be faced with the problem of a shortage of ice, caused by an unusually mild winter.

According to ice producers this was not a good winter for freezing in the Peterborough area. All ice that did form was too spongy, and was not worth cutting.

Artificial ice producers at present have enough ice on hand to supply the demand in Peterborough, but are not sure if they will be able to meet the needs of the tourists.

Civic Employees Get Increase Of 18c Hourly

A group of 95 hourly-rated civic employees have been given a general wage increase of 18 cents an hour.

Terms of a one-year contract with the city were approved Sunday morning at a membership meeting of Local 504, Peterborough Civic Employees Federal Union (TLC), bargaining agents for the parks department, sewage disposal, board of works and sanitation department employees.

Harry O'Rourke, president of Local 504, said that the proposals were ratified unanimously by the 54 union members who attended the meeting, held in the recreation room underneath Hunter St. bridge.

The wage increase of 18 cents an hour will be paid to all employees in the bargaining unit and is retroactive to April 1. Following are the schedule of rates:

RATE SCHEDULE

Starting rate $1.10 an hour;
Unskilled work $1.23, reached within 90 days of the beginning of employment;
Skilled work $1.38;
Rate for working foremen $1.48.

The work week remains at 45 hours.

The sewage disposal workers who are on a 24-hour shift basis get two extra days of holidays added to the six they already get in lieu of statutory holidays. This amounts to eight working days added to their regular holidays.

Tentative agreement between the city and Local 504 was reached Tuesday after sessions in the afternoon and evening with R. V. Bradley, department of labor conciliation officer, sitting in to direct negotiations. It is the first contract negotiated by Local 504, a TLC affiliate. Previously the workers had an independent union.

DRAFTS AGREEMENT

Mr. Bradley is drawing up the agreement which will then be submitted to both parties. The actual signing, however, is regarded as little more than a formality now that the terms have been accepted.

Members of Local 504's negotiating committee are President O'Rourke, Willet Cross, Henry Smith and J. C. Sullivan. They were assisted by Jack Kellythorne, TLC representative.

Negotiating for the city when agreement was reached were Acting-Mayor Douglas Miller, Aldermen Harold Rehill and Stanley Longhurst, and City Clerk E. A. (Ted) Outram.

Miss Jory Retires

School Term Ends 36 Years Of Nursing

When the school term ends in Peterborough, this year it will also bring to an end 36 years of nursing in city schools for Miss Mary J. V. (May) Jory.

Miss Jory was employed by the Peterborough Board of Education in 1917, as a nurse for the six public schools in the city at that time.

"In those days I had to walk from one school to another," Miss Jory said today while reminiscing about her experiences as a school nurse. "I walked miles and miles."

"That was a long time ago, and it is hard to remember anything about it," Miss Jory continued.

But there are many men and women in Peterborough who remember this kindly person for whom their health was her major concern. They remember her not only for the care she took when testing their eyes and ears and checking on other health factors, but also for the open ear she always kept for any problems or troubles they had. Through the years she has shown the same concern for the children of these people.

Today Miss Jory drives a car for her work in the four schools where she is in charge of students' health—Grove School, Prince of Wales, PCVS and Kenner Collegiate. The students of the former three schools have been under her keen surveillance for the past five years.

"I love the children and will miss them so much," she said. "I take pride in being able to call all the children in this school (Prince of Wales) by name. A child likes that you know."

Peterborough has been Miss Jory's home nearly all her life. She was born in Norwood, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jory. When she was six months old the family moved to Peterborough. She attended Central Public School and PCVS and matriculated from Albert College, Belleville. Then she returned to Peterborough to train in Nicholls' hospital. She was employed by the board of education immediately after graduation.

Miss Jory was the second nurse to be employed by the board. First was Miss Emma Kennedy who served for three years. Miss Jory was alone in this work for about seven years. A second nurse, Miss Jessie Deyell, was employed then, and about 12 years ago the school nursing staff was increased to three. A part-time or full school medical officer of health has been employed for 33 years.

Miss Jory's retirement ends an era in the history of school nursing in Peterborough. In September this service will be taken over by the city's Department of Health as a result of amalgamation of the city's health services which has been completed.

A tribute to Miss Jory's long and high standard of service was paid today by K. S. Wightman, superintendent of Peterborough Schools.

"Miss Jory has been the mainstay of the public school health service down through the years," he said. "She has been a continuing link all the way through. When new nurses were employed we could always rely on her for an excellent job of supervision. Her long service has resulted in an acquaintance with the people with whom she has been dealing which has been of inestimable value in the work."

Retirement on June 26 will not mean the end of activity in Miss Jory's life. Already she is looking forward to busy days and the opportunity to devote all her time to much-loved hobbies which include music and gardening.

The first three months of the summer will be spent at Go-Home-Bay on Georgian Bay where she has had a cottage for many years. She is extremely fond of sailing and canoeing and the other recreations which go with summer vacations.

"They say I was born in a canoe," Miss Jory grinned," and my old inboard launch is noted up there for being dependable and is often called on for help when modern boats have engine failures."

Miss Jory will continue to live at her home on Gilmour St. in Peterborough and will no doubt continue to find herself approached for advice and counselling for which she was so highly thought of by her charge of the past 38 years.

Commit Man For Trial On Assault

Pensioner Identifies Curve Lake Man As Assailant In Store

Seventy-nine-year-old Charles Smith of Lakefield nodded at a lone figure in Magistrate's Court's prisoners' box today and told the court "I would say that's the fellow over there."

Less than an hour later, Leonard Taylor, 21, of Curve Lake was committed for trial on a charge of robbery with violence by Magistrate W. R. Philp. The charge stemmed from an attack on Smith May 1, as a result of which he was hospitalized and $50 was stolen.

Two witnesses were heard today in the preliminary hearing, which concluded after a morning hearing last week.

In spite of his age, Smith, key witness in the case, answered questions with amazing clarity, and, as defence counsel Edward Fanjoy discovered, sincerity.

"SOMEONE HIT ME"

Telling his story in reply to Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw's questions, Smith said "someone hit me with a hammer and I would say that's the fellow over there in the box." He looked at Taylor.

According to the witness, Taylor had been in the store one or two days before. On the day of the attack, Smith was working on a stove when the accused came in his store.

Smith glanced around behind him, recognized the defendant and looked back down to his work. Taylor was standing directly behind Smith at this time, according to the elderly man's evidence. "That's about the last I can remember."

Smith was carrying approximately $50 with him at the time.

The witness would not admit under cross-examination that he was unsure of the accused's identity. Although he didn't remember what Taylor was wearing at the time, or any other particulars about his clothing or appearance other than that he was young, "about 21," and an Indian, he repeatedly identified Taylor, the man in the prisoners' box, as his assailant.

A Lakefield youth, Neil Wasson, saw Taylor in the poolroom next door to Smith's store, and played snooker with him the day previous to the attack. He saw Taylor obtain some money from another player during the game which the accused subsequently lost and paid for.

CONTESTS EVIDENCE

Mr. Fanjoy did not call witnesses at the conclusion of the crown case but held Smith's testimony could not be counted on in view of Dr. Hugh Gastle's statements last week. Dr. Gastle had testified that possibly Smith's memory would be faulty and inaccurate.

Magistrate W. R. Philp felt, however, that the elderly man's testimony was definite enough to put Taylor on trial.

The accused was remanded on $5,000 bail until the next general sessions of the peace in November.

Shooting Inquest

Crown Attorney Harry Deyman of Cobourg said today there will be an inquest into the cause of death and circumstances surrounding the fatal shooting June 8 of 20-year-old Jack Smith of Manvers township. Smith was repairing some racks on a hay-wagon behind the barn at his widowed mother's farm, five miles west of Millbrook, when he was shot through the heart by a .22 calibre rifle bullet. Ballistics tests made last week in Ottawa tentatively identified the bullet as having been fired from a rifle owned by Ted Zralko, a 19-year-old neighbor of the Smiths. Zralko is said to have been shooting crows at the time Smith was fatally wounded. The inquest will be at 10 a.m., June 30, in Millbrook.

Couple Report On Visit For Coronation

Dr. Ralph C. Honey and Mrs. Honey returned reluctantly, on Saturday, from their Coronation trip to Great Britain.

"We were with Mayor Waddell and Mrs. Waddell in the evening of June 1st," Dr. Honey told The Examiner today, "and the next morning we went up with them to Westminster. They left us to proceed into the Abbey. We had splendid seats just outside the entrance to the Abbey grounds."

"Apparently we were alloted places in quite a large section reserved for people from Commonwealth countries, and it was a memorable experience. Men and women were there from Rhodesia, the East and West Indies, various parts of Africa, and from many other countries."

"It was a most colorful group, particularly in the hues of the native apparel. I couldn't help wondering how they had come, some of them three times the distance we travelled. Their keen interest in the Coronation itself was obvious. It impressed me deeply with the sense of being as Canadians part of a great world wide allegiance.

MOVED TO TEARS

"Some of them, especially women in that large group, were overcome to tears by the emotional climax as the Queen's carriage arrived opposite us, and Her Majesty stepped out to go into the Abbey for the ceremony of her crowning. It was really something too deep for adequate description."

Dr. Honey said he marvelled at the orderly directing of the tremendous crowds in London, a spectacle in itself.

"As one raised on the farm, I was greatly interested, too, in British agricultural procedures, the manifest modernized methods and the extent, particularly in Sussex, where I had an opportunity of observing considerable farm practice.

"I caught a glimpse of Lloyd Grose one evening in Victoria Station, but he was cut off by the crowd. We had good meals everywhere, something one might not anticipate after all the difficulties the people of the homeland have come through."

Beef Prices Expected To Drop Soon

Grass-Fed Cattle Ready In Weeks; Pork To Remain High

Packing-house officials predicted today that the price of beef will drop in the next couple of weeks, when grass-fed cattle become more plentiful.

Wholesalers blame the rise in most on floods in the west, which prevented farmers from getting cattle to market.

Other observers also attribute it to the fact that farmers are holding back their stock to get higher prices and people have been buying more beef since the price of pork increased sharply in the last month.

GLOOMY FORECAST

A further prediction on the gloomier side, was that pork prices, already high, would remain high for the rest of the year. Hog raisers, discouraged by low prices in 1952, cut their stock enough to force prices up.

Pork prices are up anywhere from 10 to 25 cents. Smoked meats— hams, bacon, etc. — are bringing top prices of $1.10 and 95 cents a pound.

Steak is selling for 82 cents a pound and butchers were asking 69 cents three weeks ago. Pot roast is selling at 49 cents and is up 10 cents.

Beef cuttings are 52 cents a pound and are up 13 cents pound. Rump roasts are selling for 79 cents a pound and are also up 10 cents. Hamburg steak is selling at 49 cents up 10 cents as well.

Rhee Warns Reporters To Be Careful

SEOUL (AP)—President Syngman Rhee warned today that he would not tolerate newspaper men who spread accounts unfavorable to the Republic of Korea.

Rhee said in a statement:

"There are some correspondents, both local and foreign, who are spreading accounts unfavorable to the Republic of Korea. Now that our country is facing a national crisis, we warn that we will not tolerate the activities of these correspondents should they continue to evoke international hostility and thereby precipitate our national crisis."

Rhee did not name any correspondents.

He said he had read news reports that American soldiers "caused injuries to our high school girls during anti-truce demonstrations last week, with razor blades and committed other inhuman acts and I an extremely shocked."

However, he continued:

"No matter what they say about them, there are absolutely no Americans who attempt to commit such diabolic acts as to cut the arms of females. Should there be ones who have witnessed Americans perpetrate acts of this nature, they must present proof at the office of the secretary to the president.

MUST BE CAREFUL

"Even if these reports are true, news reporters and editors should be extremely careful in handling accounts of this nature. They should not be careless enough to have these accounts published."

He said any such incidents should be reported to the government for handling.

"Should there be wicked elements who capitalize on these critical hours, incite public sentiment and cause clashes between us and our allies, we must see to it that every one of them is arrested and detained in prison.

"We must make utmost exertion at this time. . . so as not to cause any misunderstanding among our allies. These misunderstandings will prevent us from acquainting the people throughout the world with our intentions."

Rhee's statement did not mention any specific incident.

Mr. And Mrs. Fred Huycke Celebrate 50th Anniversary

WARKWORTH (ENS) — On Wednesday, June 10, two well known and highly-respected citizens of this district, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Huycke, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Huycke were born and have lived in the vicinity of Norham throughout their lives. Mrs. Huycke was formerly Frances Blair, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Perigrine Blair. Mr. Huycke is the son of the late James K. Huycke and his wife Anne Stanbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Huycke were married by the Rev. J. W. Shire at Norham, at the home of her parents, Mr. Shire, now living retired at Picton, was present for this anniversary celebration. Their wedding attendants were Miss Edith Boyce, now Mrs. Charles Osborne of Warkworth, and Mr. Frank Wilson of Colborne, now deceased.

WEDDING GUESTS

Those who attended this celebration who were wedding guests 50 years ago, were: The Rev. J. W. Shire of Picton, Mrs. Charles Osborne of Warkworth, Mrs. C. H. Curtis of Norham, sister of the bride, and William J. Huycke of Norham, the groom's brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Huycke travelled by horse and buggy and train for their wedding trip to Toronto, then by steamboat to Lewiston, taking the old gorge route to Niagara Falls, N.Y. Fears Democrats May Win Control

WASHINGTON (AP)—Representative Daniel A. Reed (Rep. N. Y.) predicted today that if U. S. taxes are not cut this year, the Democrats will win back control of Congress in 1954.

Taking direct issue with President Eisenhower, Reed said a promise to cut taxes "was one of the main pledges made during the campaign" by Republican members of Congress "and the president too." Eisenhower has said he never promised to reduce taxes right away.

"You'd be surprised the way the people resent the failure to keep that pledge," Reed said in a copyrighted interview published today by the magazine U. S. News and World Report.

Reed, in a position as chairman of the House ways and means committee to influence taxes more than any other man in Congress, has been balking at two major provisions of Eisenhower's tax program:

1. A request that the xcess profits tax on business, due to expire at the end of this month, be extended for six months to bring in an estimated $800,000,000 toward balancing the budget. Reed wants the tax to expire on schedule.

2. A request that a 10-per-cent cut in individual income taxes be permitted to take effect next Jan. 1, as scheduled under present law. Reed wants to advance it to July 1.

CMA Announces National Health Plan

WINNIPEG (CP)—A national prepaid health plan, prepared by commissioners representing nine health plans across most of Canada, was announced Sunday by the Canadian Medical Association which opened a five-day convention here today.

The meeting, under the auspices of trans-Canada medical plans, smoothed the way for greater co-operation among member plans and extension of facilities whic now serve 2,000,000 Canadians in all provinces except Newfoundland. The latter is expected to join the master plan.

Dr. E. C. McCoy of Vancouver, re-elected chairman of TCMA, said he hopes the time will come when all nonprofit voluntary prepaid health plans in Canada can be co-ordinated under one government-sponsored body.

SHOULD PAY PREMIUM

Dr. McCoy said the government should pay the premiums of all indigent patients but should not administer the plan. A voluntary prepaid scheme of medical care is feasible and the government should not enter the field of medicine, he said.

Standards required of the member plans are: Approval by the medical profession its home province; they must operate without profit, shareholders or dividends with premiums based on cost of service plus administration; choice of doctor must be by the patient; plans must act as agency between patient and doctor to facilitate payment of medical bills on actuarial premium basis.

Member plans represented included: Physicians Services Incorporated of Ontario and Windsor Medical Services Incorporated.

Demand Official Denial Of Rumors About Princess

LONDON (Reuters) — The mass circulation Sunday newspaper, The People, Sunday called for an official denial of what it described as "scandalous rumors" published abroad about Princess Margaret.

The paper in an editorial spread over three columns of its front page quotes reports from overseas newspapers linking Princess Margaret, 22, with Group Captain Peter Townsend, 38, equerry to the Queen and formerly deputy master of the household. The editorial is headed: "They Must Deny It Now."

Townsend, RAF ace who shot down several enemy planes over Britain, divorced his wife, Cecil Rosemary, last December on grounds of her adultery. He was granted custody of the two sons of the marriage.

No comment was available from Buckingham Palace on the issue.

The usual evening court circular issued by the palace said Townsend accompanied the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh when they left London for Eton Saturday.

The People says in its editorial:

"It is quite unthinkable that a Royal Princess, third in line of succession to the throne, should even contemplate a marriage with a man who has been through the divorce courts.

"Group Captain Townsend was the innocent party in the divorce proceedings. It was he who secured a decree last year against his wife. . .but his innocence cannot alter the fact that a marriage between Princess Margaret and himself would fly in the face of Royal and Christian tradition.

"It is quite certain, therefore, that relations between the Princess and the Queen's equerry have not gone further than is normal and customary between a member of the Royal Family and a devoted servant of the Crown.

"The fact remains, however, that newspaper outside Britain have for weeks printed reports of their forthcoming marriage without meeting with any official denial."

It is estimated that $4,644,390 will be spent on furniture this year by the Hotels of Ontario. A good portion of this large sum will be paid out in wages to lumberjacks, lumbermill employees, skilled craftsmen, and many others associated with the furniture industry. Spending this amount, on furniture alone, contributes to the prosperity of our Province.

It also means a pleasant, restful atmosphere, even greater comfort, and finer accommodation.

Merchants Get Soccer Tilt

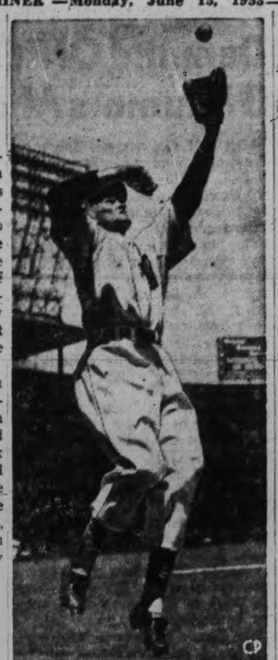
Peterborough Merchants defeated Belleville 3-2 Sunday in a soccer match on the latter's ground. It was a regularly scheduled game in the Eastern Ontario League, a circuit in which the Merchants have dropped but one decision to date. They play the local Scots at seven p.m. Wednesday in King Edward Park, a city fixture, and have Picton here next Saturday in an Eastern League contest.

The weekend game was a keen one throughout, though the players found it unexpectedly warm after the cold weather. Harold Payne sparked the victors' attack with two neat counters, and Bill Downer added the other one. The centre forward for the Quinte crew scored Belleville's first goal, while their other was a gift when the visiting full back accidently scored on his own net.

US Driver Killed In French Race

LE MANS, France (AP)—Tom Cole, a daring, 24-year-old driver from Sayville, N.Y., was killed Sunday as a British team won the 24-hour Le Mans endurance race with a record-smashing performance.

Cole cracked up in his four-litre Ferrari on the hazardous maison blanche curve of the 8.38-mile course. In sixth place at the time, Cole cut too close into the turn and slipped into a shallow gully. Coming out his rear end whipped around and hit a small barrier, causing him to lose control of his car.



Britain's Tony Rolt and C Duncan Hamilton won the endurance classic in a Jaguar with British teams in other Jaguars taking second and fourth place. The winning Jaguar set a Le Mans distance record of 303 laps, totalling 2,533 miles. The winning speed was a 106 MPH average.

KITCHENER JOINS ORFU

TORONTO (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo was admitted into the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union as a fifth team at a league schedule meeting here Saturday.

The club will probably be known as K-W Rams. It will obtain players from Kitchener, Galt, London and Stratford, using Kitchener's intermediate team of last season as the nucleus for the new club.

The new entry will join Sarnia Imperials, Toronto Balmy Beach, Brantford Redskins and Windsor Royals.

The Royals, winless since they joined the union two years ago, have been reorganized and Windsor officials hope to see the turning point in their hard-striving efforts.

Leading the group behind the K-W entry were Don Goodrow, Len Croft and Bruce Burns. They apparently convinced the ORFU executive that the entry had the money, players and park to be a part of the senior series.

Team representatives at the meeting included Norm Perry, president of the Canadian Rugby Union; Gus Scheirs, Sarnia; Frank Gnup, Ernie Churchhouse and Bill Popunick, Brantford; and Ralph Webber and Jack MacDonald, Windsor.

Complicated Playoff Plan For Big Four

TORONTO (CP)—A complicated playoff plan designed to give the first-place club a break in the post-season series will be tried out by the Big Four football union this season. It discards the old two-game, total-points series for a best-of-three plan.

Officials of the Big Four in semi-annual session Saturday came up with a new best-of-three system at an all-day session which touched also on television, American imports and playing personnel. Apart from the playoffs, set for Nov. 18, 21 and 25, no major changes were made.

Officials, shying clear from television, decided its policy would be unchanged. Montreal Alouettes will televise their home games as they did last season, the only club in the four-team circuit to pipe the play-by-play into living rooms.

The clubs will be allowed to carry three imports above the quota of eight up to Oct. 1. At that date they must chop off the three they no longer want to keep. Last season they were allowed as many Americans as they wanted until the eight-limit deadline.

ALLOWED NINE

Under a new regulation adopted this year the last-place club of the previous season—in this case the Alouettes—will be allowed nine throughout the regular schedule.

The new playoff system will operate this way:

The team finishing first in the league standings will have the choice of venue. If the first-place club wins the first game and ties the second it will advance into the Grey Cup final Nov. 28. If the second-place team wins the first and ties the second, a third playoff game will be necessary.

The first-place team can win the playoff with a win and a tie in two games, or a win and two ties in three. The runner-up team must take two of the three games to win the playoff.

GIVEN BYE

If three teams are tied in points at the end of the regular schedule, the club with the highest points scored will be given a bye. The other two will meet in a sudden-death game to decide which will move into the best-of-three playoff.

Officials said a detailed outline would be given later.

Toronto Argonauts' bid to have halfback Billy Bass classified as a non-import was approved. Bass played for the Alouettes in 1948 and then dropped out of Canadian football for one season, after which he was picked up by Argonauts in 1950.

Actually a player to be placed in the category of a non-import must have played four straight seasons.

Saskatchewan Introduces Provincial Jail Revisions

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan has revised the rules and regulations of its provincial jails. The program is aimed at helping prisoners to regain their self-respect, and to provide an opportunity for removing anti-social tendencies that might develop during confinement.

The program will include improved courses for guards and jail attendants.

CHIEF REVISION

One of the chief revisions will be the removal of certain physical punishments. Under the system, certain violations by five-day diet of bread and water; confinement in a dark cell on a bread and water diet for three days; or, in certain cases where a prisoner became violent, restraint by handcuffing him to his cell or placing him in a straight-jacket.

The new regulations will not submit prisoners to these methods of correction. Violations of set regulations now will bring:

1. Forfeiture of any or all privileges.
2. Forfeiture of whole or part of remission of sentence earned.
3. Confinement to the prisoner's cell, or a segregate cell, on a restricted diet.

TO HEAR COMPLAINT

The new rules, announced by Hon. J. H. Sturdy, social welfare and rehabilitation minister, say that "a prisoner shall not be punished until he has had an opportunity of hearing the complaint against him and making his answer."

Included in the revision is the instruction that "no prisoner shall be punished by reducing his diet to bread and water only, by confining him in a dark cell, or by use of handcuffs while he is in his cell."

The improvements are aimed at reducing the "negative approach" to correction and at introducing a sense of responsibility whereby prisoners can readily adjust themselves for the day when they once again enter society.

Wed In Double Ceremony, Couples Married 50 Years

CAMPBELLFORD — (ENS)— Mr. and Mrs. John A. Jeffs of 50 Queen Street North, celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary on Saturday, with Mr. and Mrs. William H. Patterson of Stirling.

Mrs. Jeffs and Mrs. Patterson, sisters, were formerly Misses Gertrude and Ida Scott. They were married in a double wedding ceremony on June 10, 1903, at the vilage of Anson, near Stirling, by the Rev. Richard Duke.

Mrs. Ernest Eagleson, who was one of the original flower girls at the wedding, was one of those who assisted in serving at the anniversary reception at the Jeffs' home on Saturday.

The anniversary reception was held from 2:30 until 5 p.m., and from 7 to 10 p.m. during which time more than 150 guests called to congratulate the two couples.

Mrs. Ray Williams, Mrs. Stuart Carr and Mrs. Clem Milne received the guests and Mrs. (Rev.) D. Mansel Smith, Mrs. Harry Heath and Mrs. Roy Scott poured tea.

Those who served the guests included Mrs. Ernest Eagleston, Mrs. Frank Potts, Mrs. Murray Meiklejohn, Mrs. William Heath, Mrs. Howard Alford, Mrs. Leslie Wilks, Mrs. Charles Fraser, Mrs. Gerald Jeffs, Mrs. Charles Jeffs, Miss Beatty Orser and Miss Joan Jeffs.

Many out-of-town guests were present. These included Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Thomas of Syracuse, N.Y.; and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Scott of Oshawa.

The entire family of the Jeffs were on hand for the occasion. These included Mrs. Helen Potts, Mrs. Irene Stephens, Miss Bernice Jeffs, and Gerald Jeffs, who are all of Campbellford, and Charles Jeffs of Camp Petawawa.

The two couples were the recipients of many gifts, cards and congratulatory messages.

Old Lines Show Through Newest Lingerie Styles

NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (NEA).—"Go," said the editor, "and cover this lingerie show. Find out what the latest fasions are in lingerie. Find out what will be worn in the better boudoirs next fall."

I went. I took many notes. And I got the very strong impression that two of the models were blonde and one was brunette. The brunette swayed when she walked.

As for lingerie, well, they had some slips there and some nightgowns. Consulting my notes, I find that the blonder blonde had the nicest legs in the crowd. Many of the lingerie styles had lace at the bottom and at someplace called the "bodice." The brunette looked just as good leaving as she did entering.

Fancy colors appear to be news in the lingerie field. The darker blonde's legs weren't bad, understand, but the other blonde's were a mite trimmer. The man from the lingerie firm, who was doing the MC-ing, said that colors were big. So was the brunette.

• • •

The colors all had fancy names. But the girls were, unfortunately, anonymous. There was ambrosia brown, firelight red, illusion maize, vision blue, reverie rose, dreamlit aqua, lunar green, lilac mist and frostfire blue. The darker blonde looked best in white.

This year's black isn't that old-fashioned black. They've got a brand new black which the man called "verve black," but it looked like plain old anthracite black to me. It did things for the brunette, and vice versa.

That firelight red, now, is quite something. It is a real scarlet, and if you haven't seen a pretty blonde in a scarlet nightgown, you just ain't nowhere. It's the perfect shade for wearing to a fire.

Nightgowns were displayed in three lengths, and so, come to think of it, were the models. One of them comes down to the knee—the nightgown, not the model—and is called a "sleep coat." It shows off the legs well, especially the legs of that aforementioned blonde.

Then there was a nightgown length that came to about mid-calf. This, the man said, was a "night dress". Looked good in reverie rose, especially when wrapped around a hip-slinging brunette.

And there was the classic ankle-length nightgown. This had no other name. Many of these were sheer and you could see clear through to the other side, plus anything in the middle.

There was a lot of talk about details, which I didn't catch very clearly. I was too wrapped up in other details.

But I did catch some odds and ends like "brushed nylon is growing," "puff sleeves are important," exquisite lace," and "new treatment of the front shoulder." For further information, consult your corsetiere, or whoever sells this paraphernalia.

The man pointed out that some of the slips were slashed at the side for "freedom of movement." I don't know if it was the slashes that did it, but man, the movement sure was free. Another slash and that brunette would have fallen apart.

The darker blonde had a very nice smile. One slip she wore was called the "show-off" slip. It did. There were pyjamas with bolero jackets, which were removable. The models demonstrated this feature, which was mighty generous of them.

There was a piece of equipment called a "shrug," which seemed to be like a bed jacket. One had velvet cuffs and collar. The brunette had a wedding ring, and so did the lighter blonde. Otherwise, they were pretty nice.

That's the lingerie picture for fall. And if the fall is anything like that brunette, thinks should really start moving come September.

Eisenhower Protests Against Book Burners

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, speaking out against "The book burners," said Sunday that Americans must fight communism "with something better, not try to conceal the thinking of our own people."

Eisenhower named no names, but his statement recalled the demand by Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.), acceded to by the state department, that the government withdraw from its overseas libraries books by authors who are known communists or fellow-travellers.

The president said even those with those views we disagree have a right to have their views on record in public places—"or it is not America."

"Don't join the book burners," the president told the graduating class at Dartmouth College in Hanover, N. H. "Don't think you are going to swerve something by concealing evidence that it ever existed, don't be afraid to go to the library and read every book, so long as that document does not offend our own ideas of decency. . .

"How will we defeat communism, unless we know what it is, and why it has such an appeal for men? Why are so many people swearing allegiance to it? It is almost a religion—albeit in one of the nether regions. We have got to fight it with something better, not try to conceal the thinking of our own people."

"And even if their thinking and ideas are contrary to ours," he said, "their right to say them, their right to record them, and their right to have them in places where they are accessible to others is unquestioned, or it is not America."

This was the first of two short talks the president made Sunday in the whirlwind finish to a five-day speaking tour which took him into five states. He also flew over tornado-damaged areas in Michigan and Massachusetts and pledged federal aid the money toward reconstruction.

From New Hampshire, the president flew to Oyster Bay, N. Y., about 30 miles east of New York City, and dedicated the summer home of Theodore Roosevelt as a national shrine.

Belgium, France In Semi-Finals

LONDON (AP)—Belgium and France advanced to the semi-final round of the European zone Davis Cup eliminations Sunday with victories over Britain and Germany.

Both the winners ran up 4-1 margins.

Belgium's ace, Philippe Washer, stopped Geoffrey Paish of Britain, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2, and Jackie Brichant crushed Tony Mottram 7-5, 6-4, 6-0.

France's Robert Haillet upset the veteran Baron Gottfried von Cramm of Germany, 1-6, 2-6, 6-1, 7-5, 6-4. That gave France the required margin, but Paul Remy came back to defeat Angelbert Koch, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2 to make the triumph emphatic.

France thus qualified to meet Denmark and Belgium gained the right to play Italy in the zone semi-finals which must be completed by July 14.

Both Denmark and Italy qualified Saturday.

Decoration Day Service At Bridgenorth

BRIDGENORTH (ENS). — The second annual decoration day service was held at Bridgenorth Sunday afternoon with a very large gathering of spectators present. Congregating at the Bridgenorth United Church and then parading in a group to the cemetery were representatives from the CGIT, cub and scout groups and veterans of the First and Second World Wars. The Salvation Army Junior Band from Peterborough accompanied the paraders. At the cemetery these groups stood at attention throughout the service. The choir of the United Church were also in attendance in a group. The cemetery was beautifully decorated with many colored flowers placed around the graves of veterans who have paid the supreme sacrifice, and residents and non-residents of Bridgenorth who have come to their last resting place. Bridgenorth Cemetery is nearly 100 years old and several graves carry residents of this area dating back to 1857.

The service, conducted by the Rev. D. P. Morris, was in the open air and a public address system carried every word clearly to all the gathering. The opening number by the Salvation Army Band was Hollingside, followed by the singing of O Canada and Jesus, Lover of My Soul and followed by the repeating of the Lord's Prayer in unison. The scripture text taken from the 23rd Pslam was read by Mr. Morris, who followed with prayer for those who have gone before and those remaining behind. The beautiful hymn Rock of Ages was sung preceding the short dedicatory service.

In his message, Mr. Morris mentioned the many beautiful floral tributes and said that flowers have a language of their own that speak for themselves of the sentiments of the remaining loved ones. The lesson was read by veteran W. G. Ray. Sgt. Walter Gatehouse, recently returned from Germany, read the names of the veterans buried here as W. G. Nichols, Norman Young, Percy Cullen, Peter Homer, Carmen English and Frank Moore and also made mention of two other service men who gave their lives for their country and who are buried elsewhere, namely Garth Jopling and David Boath. As a fitting tribute to these veterans who are buried here, a large red poppy was placed on each grave by veterans Tom Record, Chas. Forsythe, Al Crowe, W. G. Ray, Fred King and Harry Young. Two minutes' silence was observed followed by the playing of The Last Post by Trumpeter Alec Cumming of the Salvation Army Band. Veteran Gordon Nicholls lowered the flag to half-mast position during the Last Post and raised it again during Reveille also played by Alec Cumming. The singing of the Queen and the benediction closed the beautiful second annual decoration service for Bridgenorth.

Mary Jane Wharry Weds

Miss Mary Jane Gordon Wharry, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gordon Wharry of Peterborough on Saturday became the bride of Mr. Robert Yankoff Pogontcheff in a very lovely wedding at St. Andrew's United Church, Peterborough, at which the Rev. Henry Cotton officiated.

The groom, who will take his bride to live in Edmonton, Alberta, is son of Mr. and Mrs. Yanko Pogontcheff of Niagara Falls, Ont.

It was a candlelight ceremony at seven-thirty in the evening and the church was decorated with feathery ferns, spirea and white peonies. Mr. Harry Northrop, organist, played the wedding march and during the signing of the register, violinist Mr. Stanley Northrop played a selection, "Meditation."

The bride chose an original gown of stiff white bombazine over sky blue net, fashioned with brief sleeves and a moulded basque offset by a wide, portrait neckline folding into a petal collar. A front inset of chiffon extended about the neckline to form a vee at the waistline and was encrusted with satin-cut beads. The very bouffant skirt billowed to a circular sweep and her fingertip veil of illusion tulle was caught to a matching Juliet cap. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis and white carnations.

Mr. Wharry gave his daughter in marriage and she was attended by Mrs. John Wickham Barnes of Toronto as matron of honor and Miss Louise Leslie and Miss Margaret Jane Loucks, both of Peterborough, as bridesmaids.

The attendants were dressed alike in Cotillion length frocks of turquoise bombazine. The wide neckline featured two deep folds moulded into the finely tucked bodice offset by small set-in sleeves, and the skirts fell into graceful sunburst pleats. They wore petal design caps of turquoise velveteen, highlighted by small sequins, and they carried soft sprays of white daisies.

The groomsman was Mr. Harvey Pickford of Detroit and ushers were Messrs. Ted Pogontcheff of Toronto, Boris Ouzzunoff of Niagara Falls, Robert Gladding of Brampton and Douglas Forster of Oakville.

The reception was held at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club. Mrs. Wharry was wearing a gown of grey-blue chiffon over orchid taffeta with a hat of small purple lilacs and corsage of pink and orchid sweet peas. The groom's mother chose navy blue crepe and a navy straw hat and her corsage was of pink sweet peas.

The bride and groom are travelling to the west coast before settling in their home at 10934, 85th Avenue in Edmonton.

For going-away Mrs. Pogontcheff donned a beige linen dress trimmed with fine white fringe and she wore a beige straw hat trimmed with paddy green, matching green gloves and shoes, and carried a princess style beige coat.

DOROTHY DIX:

Man Rules Young Woman As Though She Were Child

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 21 years old, and ashamed to admit I am living with a young man. He is a wonderful person in some ways, and when he's in a good mood there's nothing he won't do for me. But he's funny in other things. Although I keep the house very clean, he's always finding fau't. If I suggest going out, he says I can go, but I'll find my clothes on the doorstep when I return. I think I love him, but I'm beginning to be doubtful about it. Can you give me a little advice?

JAY.

ANSWER: Well, I can understand a wife standing for this high-handed treatment, but when a girl sumbits to it without benefit of wedding ring, she's stretching meakness a bit too far. You are actually little more than a chattel, Jay, firmly under the thumb of a man who may leave you tomorrow. You have lost enough self-respect through your manner of living; a few years of bowing down to the tyranny under which you now exist will rob you of every vestige of decency.

Certainly there is no advice I can give you except to leave the man at once. You're young enough to make a new start in life and old enough to face the world, get a job, and create a decent future. Aside fro mthe sordidness of its content, your letter is well written and indicates a girl of some intelligence. Use your brains to better advantage than being the browbeaten subject of an unprincipled man. You admit you're ashamed of living with this man so you haven't lost all conscience. While you still have the attributes of an intelligent woman, straighten out your life. Moving to another city and making an entirely new start is the best thing to do.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am the mother of two children. My husband deserted us for another women a year ago and obtained a Mexican divorce. Now, he feels that he has made a mistake and has asked me to take him back. I am still very much in love with him, but am afraid I may have to go through the same thing again.

MRS. E. C.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since neither of you will be nappy apart, and since your husband has apparently learned his lesson, I think you should take a chance on a reconciliation However, it would be wise if you both went to your pastor, or a marriage counsellor, for a personal consultation before making a decision.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married just three months, and am living with my family. My husband is in service, but will be out in a few weeks when we'll go housekeeping on our own. The trouble is that he wants to move near his family and I know I won't be happy there. One member of his family made a remark about me once that hurt very much and I can't forget it. They are all very nice when I visit them.

F. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Don't begin your married life with bitterness over a remark that was made some time ago. People often say things in haste that they really don't mean, or that they regret later. It's a grave mistake to harbor grievances over such remarks. Since your husband refuses to give in, and has some sound reasons for wanting to live near his people, you'd better have some pretty good counter-arguments.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Favorite Dishes For Strawberry Time

In June 1952 Mrs. William P. sent to me her careful instructions for canning strawberries... on June 1st of this year, when I turned the page of my daily memo pad this note was laying in wait to command "Use Mrs. William P's canned strawberries recipe for sure next week."

On March 30th, 1953 I received a letter from Mrs. D. A. F. giving me her method of making Never Fail Strawberry Jam.

With strawberry recipes like that piling up and time marching on here it is strawberry time and nigh time for these tried and true recipes to be shared with all of the readers.

If you are a regular eating kind of a Canadian—the kind that thrills goose-pimply to every word of the Coronation ceremony and every glimpse of Elizabeth—you will want to make a thoroughly Canadian strawberry shortcake with the first plentiful supply of the juicy ruby berries. So I'm stealing first place.

EMEM'S STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

Two cups sifted cake flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 2-3 teaspoon salt, 6 tablespoons butter, ½ cup milk, a little more than 1 quart strawberries—most of them sliced or crushed and sweetened, and the choicest left whole for garnishing top. Sift and measure flour and then sift it with the baking powder and salt. Cut in the shortening with a pastry plender until it is fine and crumbly then add milk all at once and stir carefully until all flour is dampened. Now stir quickly until mixture forms a soft dough and follows the spoon around the bowl. Turn out at once on lightly floured board and knead for ½ minute. Roll out to ¼ inch thickness in a sheet roughly twice as long as it is wide. Cut it in halves cross wise. Place one-half in greased pan and brush with soft or melted butter, fit second half over and brush it with butter. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for about 15 or 18 minutes. When cool enough to handle split it and spread bottom with sweetened sliced berries. Put top on again, cover generously with sweetened sliced berries. Garnish with plenty of whipped cream, dotting perfect berries around the rim of cream. This amount serves 5 or 6 generously.

NEVER-FAIL STRAWBERRY JAM

(Contributed by Mrs. D. A. F.)

Wash and hull one quart box strawberries. Add 1 cup sugar and mash berries with potato masher. Bring to a boil and boil exactly 1 minute. Add 2 cups sugar then. Bring to boil again and boil exactly 2 minutes. Remove from heat and allow to cool in saucepan overnight. The next day pack in dry, clean jelly glasses. Seal with paraffin twice. (Of course you stir this to keep it from sticking while it is over the heat.) G. F.

(While I thanked you before for this D. F. I want to thank you again now.)

CANNED STRAWBERRIES

(That keep color—contributed by Mrs. William P.)

"I wash, drain, and hull the berries and to each quart box of berries I put 1 cup sugar over the berries. (By the way I don't put any more than 3 quart boxes of berries in the kettle at one cooking.) Let these stand overnight. In the morning I add ½ cup water to each quart berries, and bring to a good rolling boil, and handling the berries carefully with a wooden spoon, keep them down in the juice. Put in clean jars qquickly and seal. I never process these in oven or steamer as it isn't necessary and I've never had one jar spoil. Do not overcook the berries or they will break and will be mushy. If you haven't a dark cupboard or cellar to store them in place each jar in a paper bag large enough to cover, as it is usually the light that fades the fruit. Strawberries as you know have a large water content, and by letting them stand with the sugar on, they draw on their own juice and the berries shrink and are less inclined to break up."

Thank you too Mrs. William P.

Watch for more strawberry recipes on Thursday of this week.

Problem of Married Women Require Study By Y.W.C.A.

QUEBEC (CP) — The Young Women's Christian Association may study the "serious problems" facing young married women who are highly trained in business or professional fields.

In an address prepared for today's opening sessions of the national convention being held here, Mrs. J. L. Savage of Toronto, national president of the YWCA, said "alarming figures were released in the United States as to the number of frustrated, nervous wrecks found among this group."

Mrs. Savage said these girls suddenly find themselves immersed in cleaning, cooking, marketing and eventually "baby chasing" for none of which they are prepared.

"As one third of our membership of some 45,000 is married, it is necessary to study their special needs in program planning."

YWCA MEMBERSHIP

Phyllis Haslam, personnel secretary of the YWCA national council, reported that two-thirds of the membership is Protestant, the other being composed largely of Roman Catholics, with some of the Jewish, Greek Orthodox and Greek Catholic faiths.

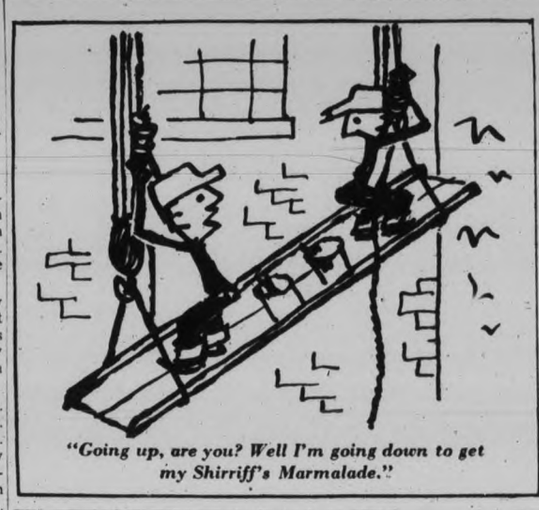
"The largest proportion of the YW membership is in the 16 to 20 age group," she said, "with office workers forming the greater part of the membership in large centres, then home makers, high school students and professional workers."

In a summary of activities since the last convention in 1949, Agnes Roy, national executive director of the YWCA, said that rural clubs had increased.

"There are 17 of these clubs with an enrolment of 850," she said.

RECREATION PROGRAMS

Miss Roy said of the 58 YWCAs, joint YW-YMCAs and branches, 48 had recreation programs. She reported 30 associations owning gyms, 14 owning swimming pools, five renting gyms and 12 renting pools.



"There are two associations building gyms and two building pools," she said.

The director noted that there had been increasing co-operation on the part of boards of education which enabled the "Y" to increase service to public and high schools.

Miss Roy said it was hoped that a specialist in residence work and food service would be added to the national staff.

"There are 58 associations and branches of the YWCA," she said, "39 with residences, 37 of which have food services."

During the inter-convention period four new associations of the YWCA were formed in Cobourg and Port Hope, Ont.; Lethbridge, Alta., and New Westminster, B.C.

"Going up, are you? Well I'm going down to get my Shirriff's Marmalade."

Sentence Duguid To Nine Years

WELLAND (CP)—Harry Duguid of Toronto was sentenced today to nine years in prison for robbing the Stamford branch of the Imperial Bank in June, 1947, and for escaping from the Welland county jail in August of the same year.

Duguid, a 38-year-old former plastics manufacturer, got seven years on the robbery charge and two for escaping.

He now has been sentenced to serve 19 years as a result of an eight-year sentence for a 1942 bank robbery in Toronto and a two-year term for a series of breakins in Vancouver.

Duguid was at one time on the RCMP list of 10 most-wanted men. His wife and one of his five children were in court today when sentence was given.

Eden Reported Gaining Strength

BOSTON (AP)—Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary recuperating at New England Baptist hospital from a bile duct operation, today was reported as "gaining strength."

Eden underwent surgery last Wednesday to correct an obstruction. He had been operated on twice since April 12 before being flown to Boston for the third operation.

Trailer Theft Charge Dismissed By Court

A charge of stealing a trailer from McGinness, Ltd., against David Symons, 21, of R.R. 3, Peterborough, was dismissed by Magistrate W. R. Philp today in Magistrate's Court

According to evidence heard last June 8, the magistrate felt Symons was not familiar with the route to take the trailer out west whe nhe undertook to do so last February.

Additionally since there was no time set for delivery, Magistrate Philp dismissed the charge and told the crown the case was "more the nature for civil action".

Urges Amnesty For Early Reds

CLEVELAND (AP)—Publisher Arthur Hays Sulzberger today proposed "the equivalent of a political amnesty" for loyal Americans who embraced communism before it wa bared as a threat to the free world.

The New York Times publisher, in a speech prepared for delivery before a graduating class of 232 students at John Carroll University, said it is time the United States makes a distinction "between what I would call the misled and the real Communists."

Under his plan, Sulzberger said he would declare an amnesty dating back from an arbitrary date, "say the beginning of the Berlin airlift in 1948."

"By then communism had plainly declared itself," he said.

"Those who joined a Communist front organization thereafter must accept whatever consequences might befall them as a result of that association. On the other hand, those who joined such an organization prior to that date should not be regarded as necessarily and automatically having black marks on their records," providing they left the group.

Man 81 Clings To Ancient Water Witching

COWLEY, Alta. CP)—An 81-year-old south Alberta man is one of the few persons who cling to the ancient practice of "water witching."

Ernest Cooknell of Cowley says he can locate an underground water supply by walking over the ground clutching a branch of a willow tree.

When the wand is over a water source it waves violently, he says, and sometimes the bark is torn away. Only a green willow is used. The wand, a three-foot slice of a young willow tree cut in the shape of a prong, sometimes will bend upwards and sometimes down. But whenever it "wiggles," there is water underneath.

ENGLISH ANCESTRY

Mr. Cooknell discovered his "witching" talent in his boyhood days in Oxfordshire, England, after watching some water searchers from London.

He says four of his family could make the wands wiggle over water, but four others could not. He doesn't know how or why he possesses the talent. He says it may have something to do with the individual's body chemistry, and possibly is inherited.

Mr. Cooknell claims that his "witching" has never failed to find water since he came to Cowley in 1901. He has found water at depths ranging as much as 230 feet.

He has never taken money for a job, believing the charm might be broken if used professionally.

Asks Senate Be Abolished

OTTAWA (CP)—M. J. Coldwell CCF leader, today called for the abolition of the Senate, describing it as "an undemocratic, irresponsible and unnecessary body" costing Canadian taxpayers $1,000,000 a year.

"Liberal party appointments to the 102-member Senate have become the laughing stock of the country," Mr. Coldwell said in a statement, apparently in reference to the appointment by Prime Minister St. Laurent of seven new senators last week—all Liberals.

"At the time of Confederation, it was thought the Senate might have some value in protecting the rights of provinces and in providing a revising and restraining hand on the House of Commons," said Mr. Coldwell. "In fact it has never been representative of public opinion in the provinces, but only of whatever party happens to be in power in Ottawa."

Mr. Coldwell said Canada should follow the example of New Zealand which abolished its upper house, the legislative council, in 1951.

New Peace Offensive Doesn't Alter Things

BONN (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgeway said today that the new Germany does not justify "the Russian peace offensive in East slightest relaxation of our common effort to built up Western military strength."

The supreme Allied commander in Europe also called for quick action to get the six-country European army created even though many Europeans now regard this project as doomed by strong French opposition.

Ridgway paid a farewell visit to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer before leaving to take up his new post as chief of staff of the U. S. Army.

COLONEL OF PPCLI—Lady Patricia Ramsay, colonel-in-chief of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, chats with Lt.-Col. J. R. Stone, commanding officer of the 2nd battalion of the PPCLI. They are at a garden party held by the Duke of Gloucester at Marlborough House in England. Stone commanded the Canadian army active force contingent at the Queen's Coronation. Lady Patricia, after whom the Patricias were named, is to visit Canada this year.

The vessel had been tied up at Aquatic Park here for two weeks for motor repairs.

Fitz-James purchased the kitch in Norway, sailed it to England, across the Atlantic, through the Panama canal and up the Pacific coast.

He is accompanied by Ian Nicolson, 24-year-old British yacht designer. Nicholson expects to work "a year or two" in Canada and find another boat to sail home.

Assessors' Security Proposal At Hamilton

Security of assessors, particularly in smaller municipalites, was proposed to the Ontario government by the provincial convention of assessing officers at their sessions in Hamilton.

Tenure of office in villages and townships has been uncertain, and the convention recommends that appointment of all assessors should be on the basis of competence and with the recognition of the government. This is now provided in the engagement of Medical Officers of Health and road superintendents, for example. They can be discharged only for misdemeanor.

In the performance of their duties, assessors are not subject to interference by council in their property valuations and other work.

The worship service was conducted by Bruce Warr, who offered a prayer and read a passage of scripture. A reading was presented by Sharon Cardwell of Westwood. A quartet was sung by the men of Norwood Baptist church. The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. R. D. Duncanson.

City Pathologist Gives Evidence

HAMILTON (CP)—Dr. W. J. Deadman, city pathologist, today testified in court that in his opinion, 46-year-old Ann Alberta Sipes, found dead May 29 in a downtown rooming house, died of strangulation.

He was testifying at preliminary hearing of a murder charge against Harry Lafortune, 28-year-old hotel clerk found in the room with the body and later charged with murder.

Det.-Sgt. William Homer told of finding the dead woman, half-clothed lying across a bed while Lafortune, his face and arms spattered with blood, sat nearby.

He said Lafortune "was quite volable" and thought the police photographer was a news photographer. "He seemed quite anxious that he get good pictures."

FLOODS IN WEST—Families in southern Alberta remove their belongings and evacuate their homes when the Oldman river, swollen by torrential rains, goes on a rampage. In the top photo, Harold McBride, (centre) helps John Bodnar and Frank Jorda as they wade knee-deep through water to salvage furniture from their Lethbridge house, shown in the background. Another house near the rampaging Oldman river is shown (bottom) almost completely inundated. Southern Alberta was beginning to recover from the worst floods in 30 years when fresh storms struck. Medicine Hat, Alta., also suffered severely from the overflowing river, turned into a torrent by heavy rains.

Ottawa Publisher Southam Retires

OTTAWA (CP)—H. S. Southam, publisher of the Ottawa Citizen since 1920 and for 56 years a member of its staff, today announced his retirement from active direction of the paper.

He will be succeeded by his younger son, Robert W. Southam, 39, assistant publisher for the past 2½ years.

Harry Southam is one of the best known figures in Ottawa's business circles. He plays a leading part in a number of charitable activities and is a strong supporter of the National Art Gallery and of the capital's educational and health institutions.

R. W. (Bob) Southam was born in Ottawa in 1914 and was educated at Ashbury College, Ottawa; Queen's University, Kingston; and Columbia University, New York. He joined the Citizen staff in 1937 as a reporter. A brother, Gordon, 42, operates a printing business in Vancouver.

$60,000 Fire Sweeps Stores

CORNWALL (CP)—Fire swept through two stores in the east end of the city Saturday night, causing damage estimated at more than $60,000.

The top floor of the two-storey Bergeron Electric Company was gutted and considerable stock lost. The adjacent Cornwall Cleaners Limited, where the fire was believed to have started, was virtually burned out.

Cornwall firemen fought the blaze for more than two hours before it was declared under control. At the height of the fire, Chief Cory Moore ordered the nearby Grand Hotel and neighboring apartments evacuated.

Charge Walkout Of 250 Illegal

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—The Horton Steel Company here said today that the walkout of 250 employees last Tuesday by members of Local 3598 of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) was illegal under the Ontario Labor Relations Act.

The company said in a statement that it had offered a final contract to the union a week before the strike but no reply had been received.

Ray Barr, president of Local 3598, said the workers are preparing for a long strike. He said the chief stumbling block in negotiations is a job evaluation scheme proposed by the union.

Ernest Briginshaw, district representative for the union, said the contract proposed by the company called for a three per cent cut in wages.

Other points sought by the union include guaranteed pension, group insurance and improved vacation schemes.

Horton Steel holds large contracts for penstocks at the Ontario hydro-electric power commission's new Queenston generating station.

Two New Parties Organized In South Africa's Opposition

By ASTLEY HAWKINS

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (Reuters)—The formation of two new parties in South Africa in one week-end has radically reoriented the opposition to Prime Minister Daniel Malan's re - elected Nationalist party government and its racial policies.

The birth of a Liberal party and a Union Federal party to rival the long-established United Party and minority Labor party indicates the end of the United Front opposition which attempted unsuccessfully to unseat the Nationalists in the April elections.

The third party to the United Front was the Torch Commando, non-political independent anti-nationalist organization founded by war veterans which is now split because home top Torch men helped found the new Union Federal party.

FOUR RIVAL PARTIES

If the Torch Commando is disbanded, Malan's Nationalists would face only a disintegrated opposition of four rival parties instead of the former united front which co-ordinated opposition to the government.

Of these the United party, headed by Jacobus Strauss, disciple of the late Field Marshal Smuts, the wartime prime minister, is likely to remain the strongest political magnet for anti-Nationalists despite its loss of the April election by more seats than in 1948.

Analysis of the Nationalists' second successive victory at the South African polls indicates a rosy future for them with the country's majority Afrikaner population steadily growing and predominantly pro-government.

The United Party, until the formation of the new movements, had a wide waveband of political feeling in its ranks, with the Liberals, perhaps, spiritually and politically the most restless.

CLEARS ATMOSPHERE

The creation of a Liberal party now clears the political atmosphere, providing a home for people with a worried conscience about racial restrictions. It has called for an end to racial segregation in government and "other democratic processes" with a common franchise roll for "all suitable qualified persons."

The Union Federal party has a program for re-shaping the Union of South Africa into a federal union with a long term policy of a united states of South Africa. It would give any province the right to remain part of the Commonwealth if the union's constitution is violated.

Both new parties reflect a more liberal attitude toward non-whites than the present policy of the United party which now is being criticized for a tendency to compromise on racial issues to reach Afrikaner voters.

UAW Council Has Resolutions

BRANTFORD (CP)—Many resolutions were passed Sunday as district council No. 26 of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) concluded two-day sessions of its quarterly meeting.

Taking part in the discussions were approximately 100 delegates representing some 72,000 UAW members in Ontario and Quebec locals.

Jack Taylor, Windsor, recently appointed to the union's international staff, vacated the district council's presidency Saturday and was succeeded by Malcolm Smith, Oshawa. Jack Ainsworth of Brantford was named a trustee.

One resolution protested the Aug. 10 election date on the grounds that many people would be on holidays and be deprived of a vote.

Car Goes In Weir Two Brothers Escape

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Ronald and Foster McNulty, brothers, escaped Friday night when their car went into a weir of the Welland canal at Homer near here.

The brothers said they had been swimming and were turning their car around, preparing to home, when the rear wheels slipped over the steel cement bank of the weir and the car slid into about eight feet of water.

Foster was able to open the right door of the car and jump for the bank. Ronald went down with the car but managed to scramble out.

Boat Upsets, 25 Drown

ALLAHABAD, India (Reuters)—Twenty-five pilgrims including women and children were drowned when a boat capsized Saturday in the River Ganges about 55 miles from Allahabad. Reports said the boat was carrying a party of 34 Hindu pilgrims to Allahabad.

Thieves Steal Safe

PORT COLBORNE (CP)—Thieves entered the provincial natural gas office on Highway No. 3 at Sherkston four miles east of here Saturday night and made off with a 450-pound safe containing between $400 and $500 in gas bill receipts. Entry was gained by forcing a window in the adjoining warehouse.

BUMS' RUSH—A motley gathering of both sexes who milled about the building housing the U.S. consulate general was dispersed by Montreal police after refusing to move on when told. A second gang moved in when the first was ushered away, and was likewise dispersed. One of the nondescripts said something about Rosenberg and another mentioned democracy when a policeman informed him that the gathering was contrary to democratically enacted law. Two of the individuals are being escorted to police cars.

Coronation Over, Spending Spree Goes On

By ROBERT JONES

LONDON (AP)—The Coronation is over, but as far as London is concerned the spending spree goes on.

Tens of thousands of sightseers still jammed the beflagged streets to see the decorations, and pop into the nearest store to buy something for Aunt Nellie back home.

London shopkeepers are still rubbing their hands happily and doing a brisk trade in anything from souvenirs to sausages, books to bed linen as Britons, with more money in their pockets than they have had for many a month, cram the stores.

But the wind that blows sweetly for the London shopkeeper whistles coldly round the shoulders of the holiday resort traders, who complain they haven't had such a bad time for years.

SEEK SUNNY CLIMES

For with the Coronation nearly two weeks old in history, most of the visitors to London now are up from the provinces. The major part of the foreign invasion has left for sunnier climes elsewhere.

The motor coach loads of trippers snarling London traffic and wreaking havoc with Londoners' tempers should in any ordinary year be flocking to the seaside, and the cry goes up from resort towns that "these London decorations are ruining us."

Commented Thomas Legge, chairman of the council at Hunstanton, east coast town trying to pull itself back to prosperity after last February's ruinous floods: "It will be strongly detrimental to the seaside if the London decorations continue. People will be lured to London instead of to their usual summer resorts."

BANK RETURNS

The weekly Bank of England returns disclose the full extent of the way Mr. and Mrs. John Bull have been dipping into their pockets. In Coronation week the bank's note issue stood at a record £1,600,356,000 ($4,480,099,680), while notes actually in circulation totalled £1,542,647,000 ($4,319,411,600), the highest figure since Christmas.

This week the money in circulation has dropped by £1,025,891 ($2,871,500). But this is still enough to keep shopkeepers smiling in what for an ordinary year would be a dull season.

Retired Minister Dies

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Rev. C.F. McIntosh, who retired two years ago as minister of Calvary United Church, died Friday night in hospital following a long illness. He was 73. Born in Dundee, Scotland, he had held ministries in Orillia, Guelph, Campbellford, Orangeville and Edmonton.

Would Reward Jurymen

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Delegates to a Niagara Falls and District Trades and Labor Council meeting Saturday asked for compensation for industrial workers called to serve on juries. Delegates said some industries recognize this loss and pay employees regular wages while on jury duty.

SILENT SPY—George S. Wuchinich, once decorated by U.S. for his work as a spy behind German lines in World War II, shouts defiance at the Senate Internal Security Committee in Washington. He said he was not a Red when he worked for the Office of Strategic Services, but refused to say whether his name now appears on party rolls. He accused the committee of trying to blacklist him.

Stone To Leave Pats' Command

OTTAWA (CP)—Lt.-Col. James Riley Stone, 44, is leaving command of the first Canadian unit to fight in Korea just before it sails for overseas again, this time for Germany.

The army announced Sunday that an October shift will see colorful Big Jim from Salmon Arm, B.C., relinquish command of the 2nd battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, to a 33-year-old paratrooper, Lt.-Col. S. C. Waters of Edmonton.

The unit, now in Calgary, is scheduled to sail for Germany in the fall to serve with the 27th brigade under the banner of the Atlantic Pact. With it will be other units of the original 25th brigade in Korea.

But Col. Stone will stay behind as chief instructor at the Royal Canadian School of Infantry, Camp Borden, Ont., to teach officers and NCOs what he learned in winning the Distinguished Service Order three times and the Military Cross once in Italy, northwest Europe and Korea.

He rose from private to commanding officer of the Loyal Edmonton Regiment in the Second World War and his 2nd Patricias were the first Canadian unit to fight in Korea, starting in the fall of 1950. They came home a year later to become a paratroop unit.

Col. Waters now is a member of the directing staff at the army staff college in Kingston, Ont.

Reds Take Strategic Ridge In Big Drive On Reservoir

PICK IT UP, JACK—Every time Jack Heffernan, 543 Water St., went near Myrtle the snapping turtle on River Road North today, Myrtle with amazing speed defended herself. The poor snapper became bewildered during a cross-country trip from the canal to the Otonabee river and stopped on the road to find her bearings. Heffernan finally pointed her toward the river and she waddled off.

Armed Man Robs Bank Of $5,000

Flees On Motorcycle With Accomplice In Traffic Rush

TORONTO (CP) —An armed man looted an East Toronto bank of $5,000 today and sped off in noon-hour traffic on a motorcycle. Police said the masked bandit dashed into the Bank of Toronto branch at Kingston Road and Warden Avenue, ordered a bank teller to fill a black bag and ran into the street where an accomplice was waiting with the motorcycle.

The holdup man fired a shot into the bank ceiling to back up his demands. He ordered the teller, Gloria Cross, to "fill this up and make it snappy."

NOBODY GOT OUT

Police said the two men headed towards the East Toronto suburbs and "nobody even got a good look at them."

Five bank employees and a customer were in the bank at the time. One employee said:

"It happened so quickly few of us knew it was a holdup until we heard the shot."

It was the fourth robbery at the bank in three years. It was also the second this year.

South Korean Troops Pull Out So Fast U.S. Mortar Battalion Overrun By Reds

By MILO FARNETI

IN KOREA—(AP)—The big Chinese offensive on this mountainous east-central front drove through South Korean troops with such speed Sunday night that much of the supporting U.S. mortar battalion was overrun.

Some soldiers who escaped the Red encirclement told today how they hurled grenades and fired burp guns at the swarming Chinese, then ducked heavy incoming artillery fire, swam a river and wandered for miles before reaching safety.

The men said the RoK regiment they were supporting pulled out so fast that three heavy mortar companies nearly a mile behind the front lost firing tubes, ammunition and equipment.

Many of the soldiers who escaped were able to give only disconnected accounts of what happened.

Not since 1950 and early 1951 have American units been overrun so far behind the lines.

Pte. James Drakeford said his mortar company had just got a firing mission after dusk in support of RoK infantrymen when Red artillery and infantry drove in.

"They started shelling us—must have been artillery, big stuff. Our ammo caught fire," the soldier said. "They knocked out just about all vehicles. After we got hit, we took to our foxholes. The ammo was blowing up and the Chinks were shelling us. Then the Chinks came on the hill.

"I was going to try to make it to the bridge, but I met a RoK company on the way down and they told me and four or five other guys the Chinks had the bridge. So we swam the river to get away. All the time artillery was coming in."

Smash Way Through Korean Line

Chinese Mines Trap Allied Tank Force, Losses Said Heavy

SEOUL—(CP)—Reuters reported today that two Chinese regiments—almost 6,000 men—today captured strategic Finger ridge in a bloody pre-armistice drive toward Korea's 38th parallel.

Finger ridge fell after an all-out attack preceded by a tremendous artillery barrage, Reuters said. The Red drive, Reuters correspondent John Stackhouse reported, apparently was aimed at the important Hwachon reservoir.

The Reds broke through the South Korean defences and started up the 2,300-foot pivot hill, highest point in the area. It guards miles of Allied territory behind the main line.

Syngman Rhee, 78-year-old president of South Korea, made a flying two-hour visit to the blazing east-central front to confer with his army commanders. He was accompanied by Lt.-Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, 8th army commander.

The Chinese charged Finger ridge through heavy Allied artillery and small-arms fire, blazing napalm and bombs from about 500 planes. The key height is the western anchor of a two-mile-deep bulge which more than 30,000 Reds punched in the main line Sunday and Monday.

DRIVEN OFF

East of the bulge, a Chinese battalion of about 750 men drove South Koreans from one of seven embattled positions near Christmas hill.

Weary South Korean soldiers who bore the brunt of the mightiest Red offensive in two years dug into new positions on the Pukhan river front, east of Finger ridge. They were reported holding.

One U.S. officer said the Chinese apparently were surprised at their two-mile gains and unable to exploit them immediately.

South Korean commanders openly labelled the Communist drive "political"—designed to prepare the way for a post-armistice invasion of South Korea by the Reds.

Fear Major Blast As Tanker Burns In Upper Harbor

VANCOUVER—(CP) — The explosion-wracked tanker Argus was a flaming torch in the upper reaches of Vancouver harbor today and a major blast was feared as fire ate toward 18,000 gallons of high octane gas stored in the fore part of the ship. Some 25 small explosions during the night shook the 517-ton vessel. Flames, feeding for more than 12 hours on 22,000 gallons of diesel oil stored in the aft part of the Argus, burned steadily toward high-octane fuel forward.

A deck cargo of oil drums popped like gigantic fireworks as orange flames shot skyward from the doomed vessel, which was piloted to the comparative safety of mid-stream by a heroic captain.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Flames aboard the 517-ton tanker Argus dwindled to a pencil-shaped column today, and firefighters were hopeful that the threat of a major explosion would be averted.

Capt. Bill Boyce made certain his 10-man crew was safely ashore before he stood alone at the helm of his ship as she was towed into the stream from her berth at a refinery of Imperial Oil Company following an engine room explosion. Four seamen were injured in the blaze that started before midnight.

The ship is near the head of Vancouver's 25-mile-long harbor, some 12 miles from the heart of the city. Nearest large centre is Port Moody, with some 2,000 inhabitants, and there are several new housing developments in the area.

In the harbor narrows, the Argus is only about one-quarter of a mile from shore, but it was reported the feared blast would do no serious damage ashore. No evacuation was reported.

The fire raged furiously through the stern section and amidships all night, with only one compartment separating the flames from the forward tank containing the gasoline. It was believed the smaller ex-

Canadian Group Breaks Up, Heading Home

LONDON (CP)—Canada's Coronation services contingent started to break up today to return to Canada and Europe.

The 150-man detachment from the 27th infantry brigade at Hanover, Germany, left the Commonwealth assembly camp at Pirbright, Surrey, to return to Germany. Fifty RCAF personnel flew in two cargo craft to their European bases.

The remainder of the Pirbright group, which numbered 750, will be virtually gone by Friday with three sailings for Canada in the next three days.

Also sailing today from Liverpool were members of the Canadian government Coronation delegation who have not already returned to Canada. Among them were newly-appointed Senator W. Ross Macdonald, former speaker of the House of Commons, and Mrs. Macdonald; Mrs. C. D. Howe, wife of the trade minister, and Mrs. Alphonse Fournier, wife of the former minister of works. Also aboard is J. J. Bowlen, lieutenant-governor of Alberta.

The Coronation contingent saw Monday's Spithead naval review from HMCS Magnificent.

Five of Canada's six naval vessels at Portsmouth for the review sail Wednesday for Canada. The sixth, the cruiser Ontario, will enter drydock for repairs and will return at the end of July.

Accompanying the Canadian naval group will be the Australian aircraft carrier Sydney.

The entire services group had a week's leave before taking in the naval review and some travelled as far as Paris and Rome. Thirty-five members of the Royal 22nd Band, who were with the 27th brigade and served as Canada's only military band at the Coronation, return to Canada by sea July 3. The RCMP contingent will leave for home July 9 after taking their musical ride to Scotland. Their horses and a rearguard will follow July 18.

Senior Truce Negotiators Will Hold Special Session

MUNSAN—(AP)—Senior truce negotiators meet in Panmunjom in a few hours for a fateful session which could pave the way to a quick end of nearly three years of fighting in Korea. The meeting was set for 11 a.m. Wednesday 10 p.m. EDT tonight. It was requested by the United Nations command even as fresh Chinese regiments hammered weakened Allied lines on the east central front.

Approval of an armistice agreement by the negotiators would precede the official signing by military commanders of both sides.

Staff officers who have been putting the finishing touches on an armistice since June 9 will meet after the top brass session, the UN command said, indicating they are not through with their work.

DRAFT DETAILTD PLAN

One group of officers has been reported drafting a detailed plan for exchanging prisoners of war. Another group, armed with maps, has been drawing a line of contact which has changed almost continually along a 40-mile sector where U. S. and South Korean troops battled perhaps 40,000 Reds.

The UN command said Wednesday's session will be secret, as all meetings have been since May 25.

Two Communist correspondents at Panmunjom said the big Red offensive was ordered to "teach the RoKs a lesson." They said Red leaders didn't like bitter South Korean opposition to the impending truce.

Seven thousand women paraded through Seoul under banners reading "women—tighten your skirt belt and spring up! Give us death if not unification!" But there was no resumption of the angry anti-truce demonstrations which flared through South Korea last week.

PROTEST USING TROOPS

The women protested the proposed use of Indian troops to guard prisoners who refuse repatriation. Some carried banners reading: "We will forcibly oppose landing of Indian troops." South Korean officials have called India pro-Communist.

Senior UN truce negotiators—minus the South Korean delegate who has boycotted the talks since May 25—waited at advance truce headquarters here.

Hopes still were high for an armistice within a matter of days, but Dulles warned that the big-scale Communist offensive could become a serious obstacle to a truce.

Dulles also revived speculation that the Eisenhower administration may seek a broad Far Eastern settlement with the Communists following a Korean armistice.

The administration, Dulles told his press conference Monday, has not definitely confirmed the stand taken last year by United Nations negotiators that the political conference now scheduled to open 90 days after the prospective truce should confine itself to strictly Korean questions.

Dulles told a questioner that conceivably the post-armistice conference might take up the question of

Endicott Says Reds Sincere

BUDAPEST, Hungary (CP)—Dr. James Endicott of Toronto, leader of the leftist Canadian Peace Congress, said today it is "entirely unjustifiable" for the Western world to believe the Communist peace offensive is a trick to split the West.

Endicott, one-time United Church of Canada minister and winner of the Stalin Peace Prize, told a meeting of the Communist-dominated World Peace Council that the United States, Britain, France, Russia and Communist China, should jointly assure the world they will not attack each other.

He believed a Big Five meeting would be a first step toward peace.

"One can rejoice that the mood of Europe is for peace," he said. "Charges that the peace movement is aimed at splitting Western unity are false, since Western unity is best seen when working for peace."

Rev. Martin Niemoeller, West German Protestant leader, told the council that Soviet gestures in Germany last week "are a new ray of hope" that the German problem can be settled peacefully.

Road Equipment Sent To Aid Tornado Area

TORONTO (CP)—The laying of concrete on provincial highways was halted today by acting-premier George Doucett so that equipment and materials can be used for reconstruction at Sarnia and other points in southwestern Ontario's tornado-ravaged districts.

Mr. Doucett's action followed a pledge made Monday at London, Ont., for all available aid to the hard-hit section of the province.

East Germans Stop, Gawk As Laborers Demonstrate Against Long Work Day

BERLIN—(CP) — Five thousand East Berlin laborers paraded through the Soviet sector today, carrying signs that demanded a lighter work day. It was such a remarkable sight to see anyone demonstrating against a Communist government edict without being clapped in jail that thousands of passersby stopped and gawked. The Communist peoples' police stood on the sidelines with smiles of tacit approval. It was obviously a rally planned and executed by the regime as part of its breast-beating campaign which involves a series of decommunizing policy reversals. One major point in the "peace drive" intended to make friends with the West is sharp criticism of the Communist demands for more work at no more pay from the rank-and-file laboring class.

The rally started at the foot end of Stalin Allee, the big, clumsy apartment housing project which looks like a long series of gingerbread type libraries.

DEMAND REDUCTION

Leading the parade was a big, tough-looking man with a sign which said:

"We farmers and workers demand a reduction of the work norm."

Along Stalin Allee at strategic points, the government's loudspeaker system pumped out traditional German marching songs. There wasn't a Russian or Communist tune to be heard.

In the East Berlin sector nearest the West, the Communists ripped down all the "hate" signs that greeted a Westerner ever since the cold war started.

A new one splashed across the railroad bridge at Alexanderplatz said instead:

"Friendly greetings to West Germany in behalf of unity and peace."

ULBRICHT 'FALL GUY'

In West Berlin rumors mounted that East Germany's Communist boss, Walter Ulbricht, had been chosen as a "fall guy," responsible for the situation which forced the Kremlin to introduce the sweeping political and economic reforms.

House Approves Act Extension

WASHINGTON (AP)—An administration-backed bill to extend the Reciprocal Trade Act headed today for quick action in the Senate after winning 363 to 35 approval in the House of Representatives.

Chairman Eugene Millikin (Rep. Colo.) of the Senate finance committee promised brief hearings and foresaw little difficulty for the one-year extension.

But a close decision loomed in the Senate over a provision in the bill to increase the tariff commission from six to seven members. House Democrats late Monday staged a bitter fight to knock out this provision but lost, 215 to 185.

Democrats charged the proposal, in effect giving Republicans a 4-to-3 majority on the commission, was a "surrender" by the Eisenhower administration to advocates of higher tariffs to protect U. S. industry from cheaper foreign imports.

They said it amounted to a political packing of the traditionally non-partisan fact-finding agency.

The bill as passed by the House also would create a 17-man commission to study trade and tariff problems and come up with recommended solutions.

Hope Bermuda Talks Will Begin June 29

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Churchill hopes to start his Bermuda talks with President Eisenhower and the French premier June 29, authoritative sources said today.

The Big Three meeting, originally scheduled to start Wednesday, was delayed by the French cabinet crisis. France has been unable to form a government for nearly a month.

The Evening News, an independent Conservative London paper, today headlined an unsourced report that Churchill may consider meeting Soviet Prime Minister Malenkov alone for exploratory talks if the Bermuda conference fails to agree on an early Big Four meeting.

It said Churchill will urge the United States and France to begin talks with Russia before the end of July.

Official sources discounted the Evening News report. They said Churchill values American friendship too highly to threaten to "go it alone" with the Russians.

Poland Offers Take Rosenbergs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Communist Poland has offered to receive Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, condemned atomic spies, if the United States will lift their death sentences and let them go to Poland.

The Polish embassy said today a note to this effect was presented Monday to the U. S. embassy in Warsaw.

The Rosenbergs, native-born U.S. citizens, were convicted of stealing atomic secrets for Russia and are under sentence to die Thursday in New York's Sing Sing prison.

Poland, a satellite of Moscow, said its offer of "asylum" for them was made at the suggestion of the Polish Red Cross.

Ship Tie Up Averted In U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—A tie up of Atlantic and Gulf coast ships was averted at least temporarily today.

Joseph Curran, president of the CIO National Maritime Union, agreed to maintain the "status quo" pending outcome of a negotiating session called by federal mediators for 4 p. m. EDT.

The union's contract with shipping operators expired last midnight, and Curran had indicated the union's traditional policy of "no contract, no work" would go into effect.

In agreeing to meet employer's and mediators at this afternoon's session, Curran said, however, that "we are not permitting any new signing on for new voyages."

Waterfront activity meanwhile appeared normal.

The liner United States, one of the vessels that would be affected by a no work policy, arrived from Europe and docked without incident at 8:15 a. m. EDT.

Charge Toronto Lawyer With $33,000 Theft

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto paper says today a warrant has been issued for the arrest of Walter B. Reid, a Toronto lawyer, in connection with three theft charges totalling $33,000.

One charge alleges $16,000, was stolen between 1947 and 1953 from law firm associates; a second claims theft of $6,000 from a gold mine, and the third theft of $11,000 in bonds from an estate or estates.

Mr. Reid, the father of three children, was Peruvian consul here from 1946 to 1949.

15 Red Planes Bomb Airfield

SEOUL (AP)—Fifteen Communist planes bombed Kimpo airfield and Seoul's port of Inchon tonight and early Wednesday, touching off huge fires visible for 40 miles.

The fire raged through a fuel dump in Inchon. It was the biggest Communist air raid of the war on Seoul's environs.

The 5th air force said an undetermined number of bombs were dropped.

While anti-aircraft fire roared and crackled across the sky, the low-flying planes methodically dropped their bombs.

One bomb found its mark on the petroleum, oil and lubrication dump in the Inchon vicinity. Leaping flames from the fire lighted Seoul, 20 miles to the east. An Allied officer said the fire "will burn for a couple of days."

The air force said it was believed the attacking planes were Russian-built PO-2 light biplanes. This is the type of plane which has been making frequent harassing raids by night.

2 Riot Ringleaders Shot By Man Held As Hostage

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP)—Normal prison routine was re-established at New Mexico's state penitentiary today following a prison riot in which two ringleaders were shot to death.

Rebellious convicts held deputy warden Ralph Tahash and 21 other guards onstage for 7½ hours Monday before Tahash got hold of a revolver and a carbine as state police stormed the prison hospital.

Tahash, whose ouster the rebels had demanded because he was "too tough," then shot Homer Lee Gossett, a life-termer, and Adolfo Benevidez.

The riot started in the early morning hours, with the rebels complaining about Tahash and the prison food.

It reached its climax when state Police Chief Joe Roach, followed by other officers, stormed the prison hospital.

No formal order was issued for the combat-like attack of the state police. Governor Edwin L. Mechem, a former federal bureau of investigation agent, held a conference with Roach. Mechem later said:

"I told Roach, if it was me, I'd take the strong bird first. I turned around and he was gone. The first thing I knew, they had the hospital."

Cell Block 2, scene of the second riot, then was cleared in short order.

When the police stormed the hospital, Tahash was inside. He described his action which ended in the death of Gossett:

"I went into the room where the convicts were. When the guard Gossett was holding as hostage lunged away to one side, I shot Gossett in the throat. I think he was killed instantly. Then I shot the other man."

Police passed Tahash a revolver and later a carbine after Gossett tossed a tear gas bomb at Tahash. Tahash threw it back and police passed him the weapons through a barred window as about 25 convicts retreated.

Arrest Two Men In Plant Thefts

CORNWALL (CP)—Two men were arrested Monday night in connection with the theft of thousands of dollars worth of materials from three plants of the Canadian Cottons Company here. That brought to 10 the number of persons charged with theft or receiving.

A company official said today that a $1,000,000 figure previously placed on the value of the stolen goods was too high. However, he declined to give an estimate.

Police said some of the raw material was taken from the plants and distributed to store-owner Harry Segal, 68, who had it made into overalls, smocks, jeans and aprons. Segal has been charged with receiving stolen goods.

Seven others appeared in court Monday in connection with the thefts. They were Alfred Michaud, 38, his brother Albert, 35, Jacques Boileau, 41, and Leopold Besner, 38, Riley Roach, 44, and Elmer Brisebois, 33, and Maurice Campeau, 26.

Campeau pleaded guilty to theft and receiving. The others were remanded without plea on $500 bail each.

All those charged are from Cornwall and had worked at the plants.

Second RCAF Jetliner Reaches Labrador

MONTREAL (CP)—The second of two RCAF Comet jetliners purchased by the RCAF touched down at Goose Bay, Labrador at 10:25 a. m. EDT today.

It will remain two hours at Goose Bay, taking off at 12:25 p. m. and will arrive at Uplands, on the outskirts of Ottawa, at 3 p. m.

Flown by 412 transport squadron, based at Ottawa, the Comet will be used as a transport plane.

Says Goodbye To Fleet

Queen Goes To Windsor For Ascot Race

WINDSOR, England (AP)—The Queen returned to Windsor castle shortly before noon today after waving a cheery goodbye at Portsmouth to the great fleet of warships, British, Commonwealth and Foreign, which she reviewed Monday.

Then the busy Queen prepared to leave for the Royal Ascot race meeting near Windsor. It is a royal occasion, the year's smartest racing, and a social event of the highest order.

The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh spent the night on the royal yacht, the Surprise.

The warships fired more salutes as the Queen and the Duke returned to the Portsmouth pier. Shore batteries roared an answer.

Then on the pier the Queen gave her last signal, and it indicated she was pleased. The final message was the traditional British naval order:

"Splice the mainbrace."

It meant that every officer in charge of the casks was authorized to issue an extra measure of rum.

As soon as the Queen left the scene there was a clanging of signal bells, and the vessels of 16 countries including Canada which had taken part in her Coronation review began to scatter, some off to duties in distant waters. But all movement stopped for a while as the fighting-ships gave clear water to the liner Queen Mary which sailed majestically through the review area.

The flag officer of the royal yacht then transmitted a message which the Queen left for all hands after issuing the order to splice the mainbrace. Her message said:

"It has given me great pleasure to make my first visit with the Duke of Edinburgh to the assembled ships of the navies of the Commonwealth.

"The Royal Navy has shown again that the old traditions of efficiency and smartness have been worthily upheld in the air as on the sea.

WARMEST CONGRATULATIONS

"I offer to all ranks and ratings my warmest congratulations. I am equally glad to have seen the ships representing the merchant navy and the fishing fleets, and to have had the opportunity, on behalf of the whole Commonwealth, of welcoming the warships of the foreign countries which have been present at the review.

"I hope they will take back with them the happiest recollections of their stay among us. . . .

"We send our best wishes to all of you, and I look forward to the further visits which I hope to make to you in the future."

The Queen and the Duke went to Windsor by special train. The Queen Mother had hurried to the castle Monday night to welcome, on behalf of the Sovereign, the many royal guests who came for the four-day Ascot meet.

There was more than usual interest in the meeting because it is regarded an extension of Coronation festivities. Three of the horses to compete will carry the Queen's colors, and one of her jockeys will be Sir Gordon Richards, the popular sporting figure whom she knighted in her birthday honors list. At the Derby he beat one of the Queen's horses. At Ascot he determined to win for the Queen.

Canada Cuts Overseas Airmail Rates

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada Monday virtually cut its overseas air mail rates by half and announced plans to help the export trade by establishing an international air service for parcel post, printed matter and newspapers.

The major rate reduction, which goes into effect July 1, results from an international agreement to lift the basic air mail letter weight to a half-ounce from one-quarter ounce without changing costs, the post office department announced.

Canadians now will be able to send a half-ounce of air mail overseas for the price of a quarter-ounce. The cost on any letter heavier than a half-ounce will be sliced to one-half the current rate.

DIFFERENCE IN RATES

For example, the rate to Britain and Europe will be 15 cents for a half ounce, instead of a quarter ounce. To Central and South America and the West Indies it will be 10 cents a half ounce, and to the rest of the world 25 cents a half ounce.

Further, the 15-cent air letter form will be discontinued and the 10-cent form, to be known in the future as "aerogrammes" will be used for all points. Previously the 10-cent form could be used only for Britain, West Indies and South America.

An international air service for parcel post, printed matter and newspapers will be brought into use as soon as agreements are reached with individual countries concerned the department said.

Supreme Court To Hear Argument

WASHINGTON (AP)—Julius and Ethel Rosenberg's lawyers today carried back to the U. S. Supreme Court their fight to save the lives of the convicted atom spies.

They lost three separate moves in the court Monday and then, finally, won permission to present to Justice William Douglas today new arguments in favor of a stay of the execution set for Thursday night.

Not until they have exhausted every legal effort, the lawyers said, will they present a new plea for mercy to President Eisenhower, who rejected one such appeal last Feb. 11.

John F. Finerty, one of the Rosenbergs' counsel, interrupted the court's last regular meeting of this term with an emotional plea in sharp contrast to the cold legal phrases with which the highest U. S. tribunal had just refused, for the fourth time, to review the case.

Splitting 5 to 4, the court declined to act and, by the same division, refused to issue a stay of execution.

Park Policeman Saves Woman Near Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—A park policeman waded into the swift current above the American Falls Monday to rescue a Buffalo woman clinging to a rock and in danger of being swept over the cataract.

Reservation patrolman James Mackay, with park employees holding a rope tied around his waist, struggled to the rock and tied another rope around the woman so she could be helped to shore.

Police identified her as Dorothy Stuber, 31, a case worker for the Erie county social welfare department.

They said she told them she was walking along a path when she slipped and fell into the river.

Residents Get More Than Asked

Renewing Monday night a request to the council for improvements on Second Avenue, Henry Gilders, speaking for a deputation from that High Street neighborhood, learned that they were getting more than they were asking for.

The petition requested the laying of sewer and water mains on Second Avenue. It transpired that bylaws were being introduced, providing for a sewer and a crushed gravel road. The laying of a water main is a responsibility of the Utilities Commission.

Bylaws authorized by the board of works were presented by Ald. P. J. Anglesey, one for a crushed gravel roadway on Second and Woodbine Avenues, and another for sewers on Second and a section of Monaghan Road.

Mr. Gilders said "we have been here before," and to that remark Acting Mayor Miller replied: "You had set in motion that machinery for road and sewer, and that machinery (the authorizing bylaws) is now in operation."

Parking Meter Intake Reaches $197,566

Total receipts from the city's parking meters stood at $197,566.40 at the end of May, as reported to the council Monday night by City Clerk Outram.

That income goes directly to the treasury. The machines have all been paid for. The amount for May was $2,677.50. There was another related item of $1,005 for parking tickets, at least the number of tickets (at $1 each) issued by the police during May was 1005, as compared with 342 in May last year, and 403 in May 1951. A further item was the 648 city parking lot violation cards issued.

Pieces Of Stamp Match, Man Convicted

A portion of the excise stamp from a bottle of wine helped convict Gerald Gratton of 74 Rushbrooke Ave., Toronto, today when he was sentenced to seven days in jail for drunk driving and his car was ordered impounded for three months.

Gratton's car was discovered in the east ditch of Highway 30 on the outskirts of Lakefield at 1.30 a.m. May 24, by Chief Constable Robert Hall of Havelock and OPP Constables Douglas Ross and George Rose.

Constable Ross said that Gratton was standing beside the car. He was unsteady on his feet, his breath smelled of liquor and his speech was thick. A part bottle of wine was found on the ground beside the car.

Gratton told the court he had had no sleep since 4 p.m. Friday, two days before the accident. He went to work at 6 p.m. and the next day he set out to drive to Campbellford. He had stopped at Ajax for about four hours to visit some friends and had some rum with them.

"NOT MINE"

"What about the bottle of wine?" asked Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC.

"It's not mine," said the accused.

"Come, come. You were nibbling on it all the way down, weren't you?" Mr. Bradshaw countered.

"No, Sir," was the reply.

Mr. Bradshaw then called Chief Hall who produced the part bottle of wine with a piece of paper fastened to the neck by a string. The Chief said the paper was found in the front seat of the car and gave evidence that it matched the portion of the stamp on the bottle.

A second charge of illegal possession of alcohol against Gratton was dismissed when the Crown offered no evidence.

Two Minor Accidents Damages Not Heavy

Two minor accidents caused damage totalling $65 in the city Monday.

About $15 damage was done to the right rear fender of a car driven by Miss Sara Armstrong, RR 11, Peterborough, when she pulled out to go around a truck belonging to Anthony and Sons Cartage Co. which was unloading at George and Charlotte Sts. The fender caught the front bumper of the truck, pulling it off and causing about $10 damage.

Damage to the right side of a car driven by Eldon Llewellyn, 47 Dennistoun Ave., was estimated at $25 when, as he was driving north on Water St., a southbound car forced him too close to cars parked on the side of the street and he dented the right rear fender of a car belonging to Rufus Payne, parked in front of his home at 592 Water St., causing about $15 damage.

Neue Zeitung, the U.S. high commission German-language newspaper, said today Soviet authorities have accused three East German officials including Ulbricht of falsifying the country's financial situation.

Ulbricht, who introduced the policy of rapid socialization, has been reported under attack since the reforms were announced.

The West Berlin Socialist newspaper Telegraf today quoted East German Premier Otto Grotewohl as saying that Ulbricht should resign.

NORMAL CONTROLS

Soviet authorities today maintained normal controls on the autobahn linking West Berlin with West Germany, despite rumors they would lift all controls.

Refugees still pouring into West Berlin from the Russian zone said East Germany is full of skepticism over the Red regime's announced change of heart.

After a weekend lull, the flow of refugees jumped upward again, recording a 24-hour total of 2,100 Monday night. They included 40 farmers who agreed unanimously that they did not believe the East zone's promises to decommunize, encourage individual effort and restore principles of freedom and liberty.

Soviet zone propagandists painted a somewhat different picture of the situation. The East Berlin city government said East zoners who fled to West Berlin now are returning to take advantage of the regime's promises to restore their goods and property and protect them from reprisals. The statement said 70 persons have come back in the last four days.

The Red government made good on two of its promises given the churches last week after many months of open conflict. State subsidies amounting to an average of 1,000,000 East marks a month, withheld since the first of this year, were paid out in a lump sum for the first four months of 1953. The government also returned to the Roman Catholics two children's homes, at Bad Saarow and Obisfelde, which had been confiscated several months ago.

SEEK FINAL PRESTIGE

Other Allied officers speculated the Communists want a final prestige victory, or to push the truce line southwards. The Pukhan front is some 25 miles north of parallel 38, pre-war boundary of North and South Korea. Only at the extreme eastern end of the battle line are UN forces farther north.

Assaults by as many as 3,000 Communists probed Allied lines as far east as Anchor hill—near the coast—where more than 1,000 Reds were reported killed or wounded in a bloody attempt to seized three heights from the South Koreans.

AP correspondent William Barnard reported from the central front that Communist mines caught an Allied tank force and the Reds then opened up with their big guns on tanks trying to escape.

B-29s DIVERTED

Even B-29s were diverted from their regular strategic bombing missions to participate in the day and night pounding of the Reds near the front.

Red artillery and mortar fire in the 24 hours ending Monday evening hit a record pitch of 122,567 rounds, the 8th army reported.

The battleship New Jersey threw its weight into the battle. Standing off the east coast it poured 16-inch shells at Communist fortifications on Anchor hill.

It was the fourth straight day the New Jersey had pounded Anchor hill.

Communist planes bombed Seoul's outskirts about midnight Monday. No damage was reported.

Prices Drift Lower In Active Trading

TORONTO (CP) — Prices continued to drift lower in active early afternoon stock market trading today. At 1 p.m. all sections were down more than a point on the exchange's indexes.

Industrials showed a wide list in all sections. Base metals and western oils both took a drop in five out of six issues traded.

Uraniums and New Brunswick base metals repeated Monday's dismal performance as Gunnar, an infallible group indicator during the past 10 sessions, led the way to lower ground.

Papers and steels bore the brunt of the losses in industrials with utilities, liquors, refining oils, banks and miscellaneous industrials trailing also. Acadia Atlantic preferred slipped a point while Shea's A dipped 2¼ to a new low of $13.

Golds took their sharpest drop in a week. Dome fell ⅝ while Giant, Lake Shore and Preston lost as much as 35 cents. Junior producers showed a wide majority of small losses.

Western oils eased again today to establish a two-year low. Canada Southern, Bailey Selburn, Albermont and Federated Petroleum all touched lows for the year with losses ranging to 30 cents.

Higher-prices issues eased fractions in base metals while Cassier Steep Rock and Quebec Metallurgical topped lower - prices losers.

Passenger Train Hit By Long Freight

HAMILTON (CP)—A Canadian National Railways doubleheader freight train piled into the rear of a Canadian Pacific Railway Toronto-to-New York passenger train Monday night at Bayview Junction just west of Hamilton, a CPR spokesman said.

The crash derailed the last three cars of the passenger train and overturned the first locomotive of the doubleheader freight on its side. No one was reported injured.

Civic Hospital Staff Still In Flurry Over Uncaught Mysterious "Lynx"

Two men lay quietly in their beds at Civic Hospital a few weeks ago impatiently waiting for recovery. One of them, Ken Sharon a westener, and consequently not too familiar with the feeding habits of Ontario wildlife, turned suddenly from the window through which he had been staring and whispered to his room mate Bob Carney of Peterborough, "Isn't that a lynx I see sneaking around out there."

Mr. Carney saw only a large tabby cat but didn't say anything. There might be a chance for some fun here, he thought.

Within a week an insidious rumour had spread throughout the hospital that some strange animal was prowling the neighbourhood. It had been seen each morning and evening but had not come near enough for positive identification. The rumour spread, until eventually one evening a couple of weeks later two OPP constables were observed cautiously stalking the the suspect.

One of the officers stood on watch while the other made his way along an old fence at the end of the field occasionally poking a stick into the underbrush, but all in vain. No animal appeared.

Things died down after that and only an occasional glimpse of the marauder was noted by patients and staff of the hospital.

CHEFS ON HUNT

That is until one night about a week later when two chefs, in their white fluffy hats, noted something strange and took off in pursuit. Beneath their aprons each was seen carrying some object and in their left hands as well.

Could these be weapons and were they both left-handed or was this some strategy designed to confuse the enemy?

They moved in at a dead run and stopped within a few feet of their quarry. One of them leaned over and grabbed at a brown huddled figure — then straightened up again.

He was holding a bundle of old wrapping paper.

As to the cat, (of indetermined species), it still enjoys successful hunting every morning and evening.

Officer Sailed 72,000 Miles Back To Sea

With a personal nautical log of 72,000 miles in 1952, and a recent sailing to the Gulf of Mexico and New Orleans, Petty Officer Don Howell, son of Harold Howell, 358 Stewart Street, is leaving Wednesday for Halifax, reporting again to the Royal Canadian naval headquarters.

Taking to sea has become a commonplace for P.O. Howell, who served during the war years from 1941 to 1945, and returned in 1950 for three years. This spring he sailed on the cruiser HMCS Quebec, a training trip for 800 Canadian naval recruits. They were down in the West Indies, including Tortola Bay, Virgin Islands, and the estuary of the Mississippi River as far as New Orleans.

On HMCS Nootka in 1952, P.O. Howell crossed the Equator for the first time south of Singapore. His ship crossed through the Panama Canal to the Pacific, saw active service on both the Korean coasts, and returned by way of Hong Kong, Singapore, and the Suez Canal. Trade Commissioner Donald Armstrong, at Singapore, visited the ship at that port. He is a son of the Rev. A. E. Armstrong, who was temporarily minister at Trinity United Church following the Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon.

VISITED MURMANSK

The most northerly port in Don Howell's experience was at Murmansk, in the Russian Arctic, during the war against Germany. And the most memorable place, apart from action off the Korean coast, was Honolulu, 10 days in January with the weather like a perfect June day in Peterborough.

P.O. Howell has no information as to what his present posting will bring.

MORE ABOUT—
Fear Major Blast

plosions were caused by vapors collecting in cabins and compartments.

Houses four miles away were shaken and the blasts were heard for at least eight miles.

"She's a floating bomb," said A. H. Dove, Imperial Oil marine superintendent.

Neither the big storage tanks of Imperial Oil nor other oil installations in the area are considered in danger.

Two small fire boats that staged a plucky battle earlier against the flames withdrew to a safe distance when flames from the stern fuel oil bunkers shot 35 feet into the air.

One Imperial Oil official said a major blast would be averted if the smaller explosions blew the bulkhead separating the gas and the diesel oil, allowing them to mix. However, if the fuels did not mix, the probability of the blast was "very great."

Chief engineer Walter Huska was coming along the road to the ship when he saw a puff of smoke, then flames.

TWO BURNED MEN

"I saw two burned men climbing up the engine room stairs, then another leaning over the pump-room hatch. He was injured too.

"We put a blanket around him and then took him ashore.

"The engine room was full of flames and black smoke."

A crew member, Gordon Warren, burned on the face when flames shot up a companionway, dived overboard and swam around behind the ship to shore and safety.

BADLY BURNED

Most seriously injured was Stephen Gordichuk, 36, of Lulu Island, B.C. He suffered burns to most parts of his body and was reported in serious condition in hospital.

Also injured were Jack Glennie and Bill Murray.

Murray, the first mate, was standing on deck near an engine room ventilator and was seared by a sudden uprush of flames.

The flames engulfed the engine room almost immediately and Capt. Bill Boyce ordered the crew ashore.

The Argus is owned by the Waterhouse-Union Company and under charter to Imperial Oil. It is a tramp tanker servicing coastal points wherever there is a load. The ship has 200,000-gallon capacity.

Hastings Man Impaired, Fined $75

Charles Michael Doherty of Hastings was fined $75 and $10.75 costs with an alternative of 45 days in jail today for driving while impaired by alcohol.

Doherty, who collects scrap for a living, said he didn't have the money with him and was advised by Magistrate W. R. Philp to get in touch with friends in Hastings to see if he could raise the money to pay the fine.

The charge arose out of an accident on Highway 45, a quarter-mile west of Hastings about 7 p.m. June 2, involving Doherty's halfton truck and a car driven by Dr. James Hess of Hastings.

Dr. Hess told the court that he was travelling east when all at once the truck came out into the middle of the highway and struck him.

OPP Constables Douglas Ross and George Rose gave evidence that Doherty showed signs of having been drinking. Constable Ross said that the left front bumper of the truck was bent and the right rear fender of the car was dented. Constable Rose said Doherty staggered slightly.

"As far as staggering goes, I always walk with a limp because of an operation on my hip," Doherty said.

"Were you drinking that afternoon?" asked Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC.

"I don't think there's a person on earth that didn't have a drink that day," Doherty said, admitting he had a few beers.

"What day was it?" asked the magistrate.

"It was Coronation Day," said the accused.

Calliope, Elephants Herald Arrival Of Circus In Town

Tomorrow at 11.30 the sound of the calliope, the bands, the trumpeting elephants and all that goes with the second largest circus in the world, will herald the first circus parade seen here in many years.

The King Bros. and Cristiani Combined Circus is scheduled to arrive early in the morning and will commence erecting the miles of canvas and rope that contain the many wonders of the show. A whole herd of elephants and a fleet of caterpillars will aid in erecting the various tents, the largest being the gigantic 'big top' which seats nearly 6,000 people. No doubt a number of youngsters of all ages will be on hand at Exhibition Park to witness the sights connected with this event.

The parade will be the first of its kind to be seen here in almost 20 years, a spectacle of old that the present generation has never seen. Everything from lions to llamas, hippopotami to ant-eaters will fill the open-caged wagons and following these will come the herd of elephants and the lines of mouted circus sars, the clowns, the bands and finally the old-time steam calliope shrilling out the tunes of yesterday.

PARADE ROUTE

The parade will begin at Exhibition Park and move up George St. to McDonnel across and down Water St. to Sherbrooke then back to George St. and down to the park once more where preparations will be completed for the first performance which begins at 2 p.m. The second show will begin at 8 p.m.

All the King Bros. and Cristiana stars and features will be seen here including the world renowned Christiani family of somersaulting bareback riding stars, the Hermanos Rodrys Brothers, breath-taking aerialists from France, Hugo Zacchini who is shot from the mouth of a giant cannon, teeterboard stars including Ortans Cristiani, known as "the greatest woman acrobat in the world", the Aerial Ballet in which 20 beauties take part, featuring La Louisa and her performance on the high trapeze—without a net below.

Three rings will be filled with the best of entertainment for two and one-half hours to say nothing of the stages and the hippodrome track where cowboys and cowgirls will be seen in all their color, headed by Harry Rooks, star of many western movies, and his equally famous horse 'Flack'.

There will be a menagerie containing various wild animals from all parts of the world and there will be a big double side-show of human oddities and weird peole.

Tickets will be available Wednesday at Heard's drug store at Charlotte and Aylmer streets as well as at the grounds.

ELEPHANTS, CLOWNS, BAREBACK RIDERS, and many other attractions are in store for all those who attend the King Bros. and Christiani Combined Circus which will be at Exhibition Park tomorrow.

Report 11 Dead In Three Plane Crashes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 11 persons were counted dead today and four others were missing in three widely-separated plane crashes in North and South America.

Biggest known loss of life came when a Chilean airliner exploded and crashed at Copiapo airport, killing the four Chilean passengers and three chilean crew members aboard. The plane blew up as it was coming in for an emergency landing at the aiport, 425 miles north of Santiago.

8 SURVIVE CRASH

At least eight persons—including a ninth-month-old baby—were reported to have survived the crash of a Costa Rican airliner in the San Ramon mountains north of San Jose Monday night. There were 12 passengers and three crewmen aboard.

Surface vessels and aircraft continued their search off the Maryland coast for a missing plane carrying four passengers, all Americans.

The plane disappeared in stormy weather Friday night on a flight from Washington to Salisbury, Md., and Monday an oil slick was sighted in the south.

TO VISIT GERMANY—Bandsmen of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery at Fort Osborne barracks, Winnipeg, practise in full dress uniform. The 31 men under Lieut. C. A. Holt sail June 19 from Montreal for a six-month tour of duty with the 27th brigade in Germany.

Weed Inspector Continues Fight On Goat's Beard

County Weed Inspector Mel Johnston was out in the goat's beard country Monday. (And, this is a last word about that prolific rampant weed that deserves its top billing in the prescribed list of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.)

Between Downer's Corners and Young's Point there are millions of plants of the Beard, probably billions, counting their 1953 seed now in the green stage. It must have been a dispiriting June day for the Inspector, passed by the Examiner up around Nassau.

There soon won't be an ox-eye daisy in that part of the country. Apparently when the goat's beard moves in with squatter's possessiveness, the other weeds might as well fold up. The great yellow show of the beard's flowering on both sides of the river at Nassau is over for this summer. From here on the weed is preoccupied with getting its seeds around where they'll thrive and do the most harm.

The petals are faded and brown, like corn tassel, and the goldfinch, last of the nesting birds is gathering up this soft material for the lining of his habitation.

After listening to Ken Fallis of the Department, Frank Paterson, Melville Johnston and others who have for several years been warning and wailing about the beard's invasion of new territory here and there, after all that, you'd hardly believe the facts of this weed's newly acquired sovereignty.

As reported in these two years, the beard is going places on the east side of the city. The owners of the Dickson farm on Armour Road south might as well recognize the threat while it is still along the road front of their property, and before it hops the fence and sprawls over the place.

A weakness of this noxious weed is that it succumbs quickly to cultivation.

The Examiner did not recognize the glum mein of Mr. Johnston as he was motoring along the east side of the river, the Douro township side, just below Nassau. One of the township spraying machines was taking on water from the Otonabee a mile further upstream. Whatever was going on in that part of the country, this season's seeding of goat's beard is all set,—and on both sides of the river, Smith and Douro. The plant thins out in the vicinity of Lakefield and further on to Young's Point, but it is claiming a lot of ground here and there, as indicated at the beginning, all the way from Downer's Corners to the top of Katchawanook.

Lakeshore Entries Get Tutoring In Plowing

COBOURG— (ENS)—Cobourg and Port Hope's representatives in the mayoral plowing match which will be one of the events in the world and international plowing match next October, will undergo some training in the near future to perpare them for the event.

Mayor John D. Burnet will be the man behind the plow for Cobourg. Mayor W. N. Moore of Port Hope underwent an operation earlier this year and may not be able to take part in the match but a substitute for him may be Glenn James of Port Hope, who is keenly interested in next fall's plowing competition.

Mayor Burnet said Monday that he had received word that a plowing expert from a Toronto firm would be in town to give him and Port Hope's man a little tutoring on the fine points of plowing. Some of the betting fraternity who like to see how a horse does in the trials, are anxious to see how Mayor Burnet shapes up in his plowing lessons, but the Mayor of Cobourg vows that he will keep it a secret both as to time and place.

Time For Fearsome Nessie To Make Tourist Bow

LONDON (Reuters)—Every year about June it's time for the fearsome "Nessie," hump-backed monster of Loch Ness, to make her first appearance of the tourist season.

It's also time for the annual attempt to debunk the legendary monster of Scotland.

A. W. Morrison, a Glasgow man, has written to the London weekly, the Economist suggesting those humps on Nessie's back are "a series of huge bubbles of natural gas coming from a geological fault that passes under Loch Ness."

Morrison said that reluctance to spoil the innocent wonder of the credulous and destroy a good tourist attraction had kept him quiet about the origins of Nessie until today.

TO MAKE SURE

But the gas council is to make a big search for natural gas in Scotland. "Poor Nessie's demise cannot be far off" Morrison wrote, "For Nessie is not phenomenal, but merely a phenomenon."

Thousands of persons, most of them living in the Loch Ness area of Inverness-shire, claim to have seen Nessie.

Her shape and size varies. Sometimes she is 10 feet long, sometimes 40. Today she may have two humps, tomorrow 12. She has moved slowly but is also on record as "the fastest thing afloat."

She has been photographed twice—by the camera of a London surgeon and by the movie cameras of a film unit. Both appearances were in 1934, Nessie's most successful year.

Nessie still is going strong—she has survived many theories since two young Scots first reported sighting her in Loch Ness in 1837.

Canadian Medical Association Discusses Gov't Health Program

WINNIPEG (CP)—Delegates to the 86th annual convention of the Canadian Medical Association Monday spread their discussions over topics ranging from pregnancy to government health grants.

More than 1,000 shirt-sleeved delegates gathered in Prairie heat for the first day of the five-day conference.

A Toronto psychiatrist electrified the meeting of the Canadian Psychiatric Association, being held in conjunction with the CMA gathering, when he advocated uniform and more liberal views of abortion.

Dr. Daniel Cappon of the University of Toronto said it should be permitted for other than purely physical disorders. He said termination of pregnancy should be considered for social and psychological reasons and to prevent the blighted lives of illegitimate children when alcoholism, delinquency, mental or moral instability is found in the parent.

POOR SITUATION

"It is a sad reflection on our time to realize the national, social and class injustices in this regard," he said. Where social abortion is tolerated in one country and even legalized, it is denied in another.

The doctor said each patient should be treated as an individual and a board of acknowledged consultants should make the decision for abortion together with the couple concerned.

The general council of the CMA, meeting in camera, gave cautious approval to recent additions to the federal government's national health grants program but attached several conditions.

Concerning grants for hospital construction, maternal and child hygiene, rehabilitation of patients and diagnostic services, the council had little to add to their approval.

A grant for diagnostic services raised doubts. Dr. Norman H. Gosse of Halifax, chairman of the CMA executive council, said in an interview after the session that the association does not want the grant to interfere with the fee-for-services relationship between patient and doctor.

Dr. Gosse said the diagnostic grant was approved on condition that services provided by the equipment installed be paid for by the patients either directly or through a recognized medical plan. He said the grant should be specifically for laboratory and radiological services due to the complexity of diagnosis.

The government could pay for the treatment of indigent patients, but if the doctors handling the services became salaried government employees, it would be another step toward socialized medicine. "We don't want that," he said.

Dr. G. O. W. Cameron, deputy minister of health and welfare, said the method of handling the grants makes it impossible that all CMA recommendations be carried out. Speaking for his department, he said the strength of the plan is that it is not administered by one agency but by the provinces and Dominion jointly.

The council expressed concern at the shortage of nurses and established a committee to study the matter.

WOULD RAISE STANDARDS

It also moved to raise the academic standards of general practitioners in Canada. A college of general practitioners will be established, comparable to the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada which sets the standards for medical specialists.

Details of admission to the college and its organization will be worked out by a committee.

The aims of the body will be to establish an academic unit with broad educational aims and to promote undergraduate teaching by and for eneral practitioners as well as post-graduate education.

Admission will probably be by examination wtih consideration given to medical record and years of service. The group decided to make membership in the CMA, its division at the provincial level and the corresponding local medical society a requirement to entering the college. French-speaking doctors could belong to L'Association des Medecins de Langue Francais du Canada.

Dr. T. C. Routley of Toronto, general secretary of the association, was nominated for the presidency of the British Medical Association. He will be installed at the joint meeting of the BMA with the CMA in Toronto the week of June 20, 1955. He is the third Canadian to receive the honor.

Terrible And Unnecessary Attacks

Attacking Reds Sunday and Monday broke through Allied lines, penetrating as deeply as two miles. South Korean sectors received most of the volley and South Koreans most of the casualties. An attack such as this, on the eve of an armistice, seems utterly foolish, and inhumane both to the attackers and to the defenders. What kind of attitude informs the Red generals who order such an attack? What kind of sense? What kind of human decency? In the Korean War we are dealing primarily with an oriental, not a western mind. The Reds may hope from these savage and reckless last-minute attacks to gain some advantage at the peace table—if a peace table is put out following an armistice. They may hope, too, to dissuade the South Korean leaders from attempting to continue the war alone.

* * *

When the Second German War was coming to its close in Holland, there was a virtual cessation of hostilities three weeks before the surrender. The Germans did not attack, and the Allied troops had orders to hold their positions, but not to fire unless fired upon. Air activity was limited to observation. This was as decent a way as possible to avoid further bloodshed. Why could the combatants in Korea not reason likewise, and, pending the announcement of an armistice, hold their fire? Another difference between the two situations—apart from the present enemy being Oriental—is this: the Reds are not defeated. They are still in a position, and have power to bargain when peace terms are being arranged. The Germans had no power left in 1945 by which they might secure any advantages following the cease-fire. And yet, at that time and though committed to a policy of unconditional surrender, the Allies restrained their arms during the final weeks. The Red offensive of the last few days has been offensive in more than one way.

How Latin America Forms New Governments

Ex-President Gomez of Colombia handed over the presidency two years ago to a henchman; he did so, apparently, because his health was not good. The Acting President ruled until last Saturday, without an election to confirm him in the office. On Saturday Ex-President Gomez went back to the capital, ordered the Acting President to fire the army chief Pinilla. This order was refused, so Gomez assumed the presidency again and fired Pinilla himself. Pinilla and his chiefs refused to be fired. Instead, they conducted a bloodless revolution and ousted Gomez. Today (as we write) Pinilla who was fired is the new President of Colombia and Gomez, the ex-President who did the firing, is under arrest.

In our part of the world governments are turned out of office by ballot or a parliamentary vote of want of confidence. In South America a normal method of changing government is to stage a coup d'etat and arrest the former leaders. The way this sort of revolution is often conducted is quieter than a local Canadian election.

Too Much For Too Little

At the Ontario traffic conference held in Kingston last week Professor J. L. McDougall of Queen's University made some remarks which bear emphasis. He said that too much is being given for too little in street and road services. His barb does not seem to have been aimed at the high cost of highway building and road maintenance as much as at the distribution of responsibility for the costs.

Public bodies are making a great effort to provide impressive facilities without apportioning the charges with regard to the amount of use made of those facilities, Professor McDougall is reported to have said. He compared railways with trucking service. Railways can move freight much more cheaply than highway transports and still earn large profits for themselves. Yet trucks are used extensively. Why? They are handy, can transport from door to door without reloading. And they get the use of the highways at relatively small cost to themselves. Trucks cause grievous wear and tear to highways and other roads, breaking them down, the speaker said, almost before they were built. Yet truckers are not charged in proportion to the costs they have created.

If more money is needed to build and maintain our streets and highways—so knocked-about by trucks—consideration should be given to assessing truckers differently, so that they pay a proper portion of the costs. This year Queen's Park severely cut road appropriations to counties, townships and cities all through the province. Further (perhaps because of the great highway building program) many old highways are being neglected. One example is Number 7, west of Fowler's Corners to Lindsay.

If the reason for restricting county road plans and letting existing highways deteriorate is lack of funds, Professor McDougall has given an indication where money may be had and, secondly, how the wear and tear on roads can be lessened. If truckers do not want to pay for the damage they cause, they can put their trucks and deliveries on the cheaper rails.

A Plague We Seem To Be Doing Without

Many American states are under plague, and anything like that which happens in the U.S. comes into Canada, of course, in thrilling news if not in actuality. The states are enjoying a plague of locusts. The insects have beseiged Washington and points south, west and north. They are not really locusts; they are cicadas, which for the recurring visitation are called "Seventeen-Year Locusts" because they come in their hordes once every seventeen years.

The creatures are found in many parts of the United States and in certain parts of the Middle East. They swarm out of the roots of all the trees and plaster themselves over the roads, lawns and windows. They are about half an inch long. The males have a little tympanum under their belly with which they make their high-pitched music. The females spend their time slitting young shoots of the trees with a saw-like instrument called an ovipostor which deposits their eggs into the slit. The eggs turn into grubs. These slowly work their way down the sap channels of the trees into the roots where they stay for as long as seventeen years.

It is odd to think that the 'locusts' which clouded the air in many states and greased the pavements were hatched when Franklin Roosevelt had just become President for the second time and Edward VIII was on the throne. What changes will there be in the seats of the mighty when in 1970 the eggs hatch which are now being laid by these lowly creatures?

We in these parts are seemingly to be spared the plague of locusts. Perhaps the cold weather of the last weeks has discouraged this American creature from touring in Canada. But we have our June bugs, thrashing at lighted windows and cracking on the streets again with the return of warm weather. This has been our year to be plagued by June bugs.

Who Picks Up Broken Glass?

Driving around the city at the weekend we noticed five messes of broken glass lying in the streets; in two cases someone had swept it into the gutter but it was still a danger to the tires of any car which ran into it, and a danger to any child or adult who might step or fall in it. What happens to broken glass on our streets? Who takes it away and how often?

We were lucky enough to see one source from which some of this broken glass came. A group of boys who had finished bottles of pop broke three bottles on the sidewalk, and kicked some of it into the road. We do not suppose that all of the broken glass comes from this sort of foolishness, but some of it does so. There are other ways, some of which are purely accidental, in which broken glass finds its way into the roads.

Nothing much can be done about this matter. Accidents will happen, and there are always a few people who think it funny to break bottles in the streets. In time the street-sweeping service takes the glass away. But as it is out of the question for every street to be cleaned every day, we wonder what is to be done about the glass in the meanwhile? Are citizens of more than ordinary public spirit expected to sweep it up and put it in their own garbage? Unwrapped glass in garbage is a danger to the garbage disposal employees. We can suggest no solution to the problem, but it is a real problem and we should be glad to hear from readers who have any suggestions to make about it.

NOTES AND COMMENT

The Connecticut Safety Council has ruled that "police shouldn't catch speeders by speeding themselves". How, then? By creeping up and putting salt on their tails?

The C.C.F. leader, M. J. Coldwell, has called for the abolishment of the Senate. He says it is an unnecessary expense, costing taxpayers a million dollars a year. First things first, Mr. Coldwell: jailbirds in Ontario alone cost the public eleven millions a year.

A woman of 102 says that housewives of today "don't know what work is; they're spoiled and weaklings". In a younger critic such a remark would bring about some hair-pulling and perhaps a few clops on the chops. We suspect that the ancient critic is presuming on her years.

Japan Today

An Exquisite Great Power

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN

JAPAN is the new sort of Great Power. Virtually without armament, she can still dominate a segment of the world. She is subsidised, courted, flattered by her late enemies. Her leaders can flout American wishes, even though they depend wholly on American monies. Her position on the edge of the Communist mainland makes her friendly neutrality of towering importance to the West.

She is more united, more stable, than any other Asian country on the easy side of the Communist curtain. In all Asia her industry is the largest, her scientists and mechanics are the best, her standards of literacy are highest. And no fisherman was ever more advantageously poised above troubled waters than this poor, proud and defeated people.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE other day I received an invitation to visit a group of Japanese ex-servicemen in Tokyo. There were sixteen of them crowded in a room above a seedy counting-house. One was a tailor, another a writer. One worked on a tram and one was an accountant in a firm that made sanitary fittings. They were drinking fizzy lemonade. They were all ex-members of the Imperial Japanese navy. More than that, they were all ex-university students who, a few years ago, found themselves dedicated to death, aeroplane pilots pledged to crash their flimsy planes on the decks of American and British men-of-war. It was a group of ex-Kamikaze pilots who had survived only because the war ended in time and now they met to organize assistance for less fortunate colleagues.

✧ ✧ ✧

THEY WERE SHY and friendly. They showno remorse for the past but they were passionately interested in the future. They talked a lot about peace and international friendship. It was perfectly clear that the Occupation was over and the defeat a matter of history. They spoke with dedicated love of Japan and with a vague irritability about the Americans.

You could not say they were Communists, though they sometimes spoke that way. You could not say they were conservatives, though they loved and admired the past. You could really feel no confidence in their liberalism, in their high-minded protestations of charity and respect for the rights of man.

It sounded as if they had read it in a magazine. They were something quite different. They were Japanese, which means that they are quite unlike anyone else. You could not help liking, even admiring, them. You could not repress an anxiety over what they might choose for the future.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR this is an utterly different country. It has a special appeal for escapists tired of the strains and tensions of Western life. But if the foreigners who see only the cherry blossom and the neat little women kneeling politely in the kimonos are wrong, then so are those who can see only the Samurai swords, the prominent teeth and the latent cruelty. If Japan has the world's neatest social order, her foreign policies are also the least stable and the hardest to predict.

For Japan is a country of hopeless sentimentalists who possess no hard and fundamental beliefs and like all such people are capable of almost any extreme of behaviour. In the last instance, they are ruled by the simplest emotions, love of their country, an admiration for loyalty at any cost, the need to face the world with a calm and manly exterior, and even their judgement of their own self-interest is often clouded by sentimental mists— as it is today— or by the glitter of bright swords— as it was before the war.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT if you went to Tokyo today, you would first see only a great and rather characterless modern city. There are as few signs left of war suffering in the city as there were in the ex-suicide-pilots. Only a few years ago you could drive literally for miles on the road to Yokohama from Tokyo across a wide landscape where only a few brick chimneys standing like gibbets and a layer of ash showed that this had been a city. The Imperial Palace, the tombs of Japan's rulers, the ancient temples and the miles of wooden houses were all gone. And now they are almost all back, though the bright lights and the cotton banners in front of the shops hide the essential cheapness and lightness of the building.

✧ ✧ ✧

SUCH recoveries from disaster are commonplace in Japan. The Japanese have reduced their needs to the civilised minimum. More than any other country in the world, Japan has made her peace with poverty, has arranged her art, her architecture, her eating and her social life on the presumption that no one has any money to spare. Waste and obvious wealth are both signs of vulgarity in Japan. A rich man's house is larger but not fundamentally different from a poor man's. All around the staring new offices and the new concrete temples, there are mile after mile of simple wooden houses, unpainted, with sliding doors and windows fitted with opaque paper. They have heavy tiled roofs and the sort of humble excellence of design for which architects in Europe are fumbling.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE ROOMS are all close-carpeted with straw matting. There is almost no furniture; people sit on cushions and eat off tables which stand eighteen inches off the floor. Cupboards hold piles of folded quilts which are laid on the matting at night for beds. Small charcoal fires glow in big porcelain bowls. All the houses have electricity: most of them have at least a cold-water tap.

If there is any decoration in these rooms beyond the beauty of clean wood and golden matting and white paper, it is confined to a single alcove which contains a simple scroll painting with a vase of flowers at its foot— two or three blossoms and a twig arranged in a formal pattern. You can tell a rich man's room only because it is neater, the scroll more excellent and the quilts softer.

✧ ✧ ✧

SUCH people live on rice eked out with barley with the addition of fish and occasionally a little meat. The monotony of this diet would be quite intolerable to most Occidentals. With little money to spare, organised pleasure is only for the few— a rare visit to the cinema or to one of the frequent temple festivals where huge crowds gather in a cloud of incense to bow and clap their hands thrice before the locked doors of the inner shrine, to watch old dances performed on stages setup inside the temple grounds. Or if there are a few Yen to spare, the man of the house may escape and drink rice wine in one of Tokyo's 7,500 tiny bars and talk and joke with the girl behind the counter in a way he would never think of doing with his wife or relations.

Yet this is no simple primitive economy. The landscape around cities like Tokyo and Osaka and Nagoia is prickly with tall black chimneys, great factories and mills to rival Lancashire, the Rhur and Sydney. A massive and modern state —as a result of the greatest act of national self-discipline in history— has been built on the austerity and exquisite simplicity of the people's lives. But it is a country that today faces increasing difficulites and dangers and even the little that they have is now in danger.

Letters To The Editor

POOR SPORTSMANSHIP AND SOCCER

Sir: Soccer in Peterborough reached an all time low after Friday's match between two local teams and if the sport is to continue in this city drastic measures are necessary to prevent a recurrence of Friday's exhibition of bad sporstmanship indulged in by the losing team. Equally disgusting were the "catcalls" of the "ladies" on the sidelines urging their menfolk to greater deeds of an injurious nature.

Soccer is a game of skill, not brute force and ignorance, and is played in Canada firstly for the love of the game and secondly to further an interest in the sport. Time lost due to injuries imposes hardship on the wives and families of the players. It is a British game and if the Canadians cannot abide by the rules and lose in a good spirit then now is the time to quit before the sport is killed completely.

ONLOOKER.

WHAT, NO ENGLAND?

Sir: This may be a trifle irregular, out I wonder if you would be so good as to provide me with the following information?

I've been helping my son prepare for the final history examinations, and he informs me that there is no longer a country called England: that it is now called the "United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland." He claims that England is no more a country than is Ontario, and then goes on to assert that Ontario has more self-government than has Scotland, for example, because of the "unitary" form of government which obtains in the Motherland. Is he right? If so, what nationality are the people from, say, Wales?

DISILLUSIONED PARENT.

Ed. Note: Our guess is that your son's teacher is a Scot. Of course, England is a country, and the seat of government of the U. K. The Welsh gave up their dream of separate Celtic kingdoms 400 years ago, being a nation of realists.

NOT GAELIC

Dear Sir: "Slange en Reine, slange en mac en ben agus en gleann, slange en duna an shaw, sous leish, sheas lais— Health to the Queen, health to the sons of the mountain and glen, health to everybody present, up with it, down with it."

Thus Pipe-Sergeant Neil Campbell of Cornwall proposed the toast, in Gaelic and English, Monday, June 8, 1953, Peterborough Examiner.

So this is Gaelic. Who told you so?

To me, it looks like mayhem. Only three words, mac, agus and gleann, escaped the assassin's ignorance.

And a "Skyman" in at the "molder."

Ye Gods.

"Et tu brute."

Yours etc.,

A. MACDONALD.

Ed. Note: What the Examiner printed was spelled out for our reporter by Mr. Campbell. We would be happy to publish a correct version if our correspondent will supply it.

It's In His Blood

(Windsor Star)

The Commons was the working home of Dr. Arthur Beauchesne, former clerk of the House, so long that he feels lost away from it. That is the only explanation that can be offered for his seeking the Progressive-Conservative nomination in Ottawa East. He is likely to get it, because it is one riding which, traditionally, is strongly Liberal. It would be a political miracle were the Conservatives to win it, even with Dr. Beauchesne.

Dr. Beauchesne has had a varied career, being a newspaper man who turned to law and then joined the public service, first as assistant clerk of the Commons and then, from 1925 to 1948, clerk. And he had an unsuccessful turn in politics when, as a young man, he ran as a Conservative candidate in 1908 for the Commons in Bonaventure and for the Quebec Legislature for the same county in 1913.

Dr. Beauchesne was, in a sense, the boss of the Commons. He understood the parliamentary rules as did none other. He could be very curt with members, or even the Speaker, if his advice was not heeded. But he was respected for the knowledge he possessed. He will be 77 on nomination day in Ottawa East, aspiring to public office at an age when most men are thinking only of leisure.

On The Lone Prairie

The next big industry for Western Canada, it seems, will be the potash fertilizer plant at Unity, Saskatchewan. A contract has already been let to sink a shaft, seven feet by 12 feet, more than two-thirds of a mile into the earth, for the extraction of the potash mineral. Half way down the shaft will go through a high-pressure natural gas zone. How it will be sealed off during the excavation we would like to know, but presumably the engineers have it all worked out. This is but one of the many such ventures that will be undertaken in the West in the next few years. Big things are ahead. What more fortunate country than Canada?

Blessed art thou, O Lord: teach me thy statutes . . . My soul cleaveth unto the dust: quicken thou me according to thy word. (Ps. 119:12,25.)

And when even was now come, his disciples went down unto the sea, and entered into a ship, and went over the sea toward Capernaum. And it was now dark, and Jesus was not come to them. And the sea arose by reason of a great wind that blew.

So when they had rowed about five and twenty or thirty furlongs, they see Jesus walking on the sea, and drawing nigh unto the ship: and they were afraid. But he saith unto them, It is I, be not afraid. Then they willingly received him into the ship: and immediately the ship was at the land whither they went. (John 6: 16-21.)

Unconsidered Trifles

A timid young man, employed at a film studio as an extra, was told to get into a bed with a lion for one of the scenes.

"Not me," he quavered. "If I've got to do that, I'm quitting right now."

"There's absolutely nothing to be frightened about," said the director in soothing tones. "That lion won't hurt you. He's been brought up on milk."

"So was I," retorted the extra as he turned to leave, "but I eat meat now!"

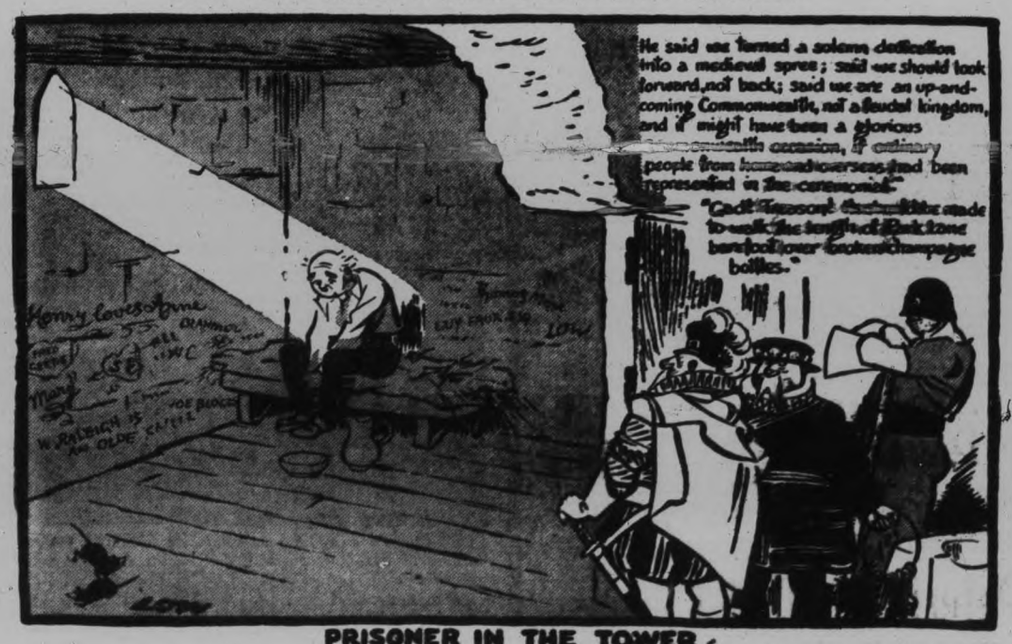
"No salt!" yelled the Scotsman.

"Oh!" said the barman. "I thought you said 'one short.'"

PEI's New Premier



(Charlottetown Guardian)

The mantle of Government leadership in this province has fallen upon the shoulders of the Hon. A. W. Matheson, Minister of Health and Welfare in the Jones Cabinet, whose long experience in the House and in the administration of his present department, should prove of great value in enabling him to discharge his new duites.

Mr. Matheson has frequently filled the post of acting premier and is thoroughly familiar with its requirements. He has also had the great advantage of having served, in his earlier days, as Clerk of the legislature, and has acquired a knowledge of legislative procedure which is unsurpassed by any of our parliamentarians.

Another important advantage is his pleasant manner and ability to discuss political issues without undue heat or bias. His speeches in the House of late years, reviewing the various activities of his department, have been models of their kind.

Church Dominates Quebec Labor Union

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT

MONTREAL (CP) — A church-sponsored movement launched at the turn of the century to counter the rise of socialistic and communistic ideologies has grown into a labor organization that dominates today's scene in Quebec.

The Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor, once regarded as a social-minded branch of church organization, now controls the labor force in many of Quebec's key industries.

Its 423 unions—known as syndicates—negotiate contracts for most of Quebec's pulp and paper, metallurgical, asbestos, ship - building, construction and hospital workers.

HUGE MEMBERSHIP

Its membership of 93,040 is estimated by the Quebec labor department to be the largest in the province. The department estimates Trades and Labor Congress membership at 80,000 and Canadian Congress of Labor membership at 60,000.

Boosted by official support of Quebec's Roman Catholic archbishops and bishops, the CCCL has grown into a powerful two-fisted organization whose influence is spreading from the industrial to the religious and political fields.

Industry, accustomed in other Canadian provinces to dealing with labor on a purely business basis, is confronted in Quebec with a Catholic labor body that drives as hard a bargain as any other union and invokes the support of papal encyclicals and religious doctrine.

WONDER AT POWERS

Quebec's high clergy, who nursed the labor body to healthy life to keep workers in the Catholic fold, are beginning to wonder at the powers they have unleashed

Blood has flowed and police-worker clashes have increased in recent years on Quebec's troubled labor scene.

If Quebec's upper and middle classes were shocked at those incidents, they at least understood the forces at play in their province, puzzling as they may have been to outsiders.

The CCCL was founded in 1921 to strengthen and give unity to a variety of labor movements organized with church support and direction.

Industry, in a tangle with international unions at the time, turned to Catholic unions in the hope of naintaining industrial peace.

Membership remained at an impressive 45,000 for a few years but when the depression developed in the early 1930s the CCCL watched its membership dwindle to 25,000 and dissension grew within its ranks.

These were years when Communism took root in Catholic Quebec and the late Rodrigue Cardinal Villeneuve sounded an alarm.

The Quebec government, under the leadership of Premier Duplessis, passed its controversial Padlock Act and Laval University gave Rev. Georges-Henri Levesque, a brilliant social student, the job of organizing a faculty of social sciences to train social workers, union leaders and industrial relations experts.

By 1936, CCCL membership rose to 45,000 again and another 17,000 members were picked up during the war.

LEADERSHIP CHANGE

As Quebec headed into an era of unprecedented industrial expansion, the CCCL threw out its old-guard leaders and elected in 1946 a 37-year-old former newspaper man as president.

Gerard Picard studied the situation. Farmers' families were flowing to the cities, rural centres were changing into industrial areas. Quebec's new workers, farmers only yesterday, saw in the Catholic labor organization the protecting arm of the church.

Seconded by a 30-year-old pupil of Father Levesque, Jean Marchand, Mr. Picard launched an organizing offensive that paid off. In six years, the CCCL enrolled 31,000 workers and moved into the virtually untouched white - collar worker field.

As the organization drive picked up steam, government and industry stiffened their resistance to CCCL demands.

In 1949, the CCCL paralyzed the world's largest asbestos mines in Quebec's Eastern Townships, to win a contract for 5,000 miners.

Quebec's government declared the strike illegal and sent police to the scene. The asbestos industry prepared for a long siege.

The conflict soon shaped up into a do-or-die affair for the CCCL.

CHURCH INFLUENCE

Then Quebec's high clergy stepped into the picture—on the side of the workers. A short time later, quiet-spoken Archbishop Maurice Roy of Quebec announced the strike was over.

The miners returned to work with a better contract than they had hoped for.

Less than a year later, in a 73-page collective pastoral letter, Quebec's archbishops and bishops made their official position on labor problems clear.

Quebec was no longer a predominantly rural province. It was predominantly industrial. The church's big problems were in the cities and towns. The worker was entitled to a living wage. To get it workers were urged to join the CCCL.

Children today are being taught in Quebec's Catholic schools, at the request of the bishops, that the worker has the right to organize and that the union to join is the CCCL.

But, if the church stepped in when the chips were down, it has also withheld its support in situations it disapproved.

Last December, when the CCCL in a desperate move to win the textile strike at Louiseville, Que., decided on a general work stoppage, the church maintained a cryptic but telling silence. Threatened with the severest penalties under the law, CCCL leaders dropped their plan and the strike was lost.

CCCL leaders now agree the conflict was too local in nature for a mass sympathy walkout

Mr. Picard now has his eyes on Quebec's white-collar workers.

CCCL officials say this is probably the most difficult field to organize and note that most unions shy away from it.

But in an interview recently Mr. Picard said: "There is a big field for action there."

LOTS OF LIFE LEFT—At 103, Spencer Church of Calabogie, Ont., near Ottawa, figures he has plenty of life left yet. He celebrates his birthday by putting on boxing gloves and getting ready to spar with one of his numerous relatives. He has nine living children, 52 grandchildren, 59 great-grandchildren and four great-great grandchildren. Spry and in excellent health, he attributes his longevity to an active life.

LABOR CHIEF — Small of stature and looking more like a school teacher than a labor boss, Gerard Picard was elected president in 1946 of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor, a powerful influence in Quebec's labor field with an estimated membership of 93,040. A former newspaper man, Picard's organizing offensive has paid off in greatly increased membership in the union since his appointment.—(CP Photo.)

Nigeria Demands Dominion Status By 1956

LAGOS, Nigeria (Reuters)—Two prominent Nigerian Nationalists said Monday they will declare the colony's independence, "whatever the consequences," if Nigeria is not given Dominion status by 1956.

The two men are Dr. Nnamdi Asikiwe, president of the Nationalist Council of Nigeria and the Cameroons, and Obafemi Awolowo, leader of the Action Group.

They said they had refused to attend a forthcoming conference in London to discuss changes in Nigeria's 18-month-old constitution because they feared the talks would be "barren and protracted negotiations."

Awolowo said the present constitution is the last the nationalists will accept. It keeps Nigeria as a colony. Any further changes will have to be independence or nothing they said.

"Our attitude is clear," he said. "A new constitution for Nigeria will not be drafted in London. It will be deliberated upon and completely fashioned here in Nigeria, by a truly representative constituent assembly of the people of the country."

Under the present constitution, the colony is governed by a central legislature, with three provincial legislatures—north, east and west—deciding local affairs.

The north, comprising 11,000,000 moslems, is opposed to early independence, fearing dominion by the 14,000,000 christians and pagans in the south.

Doucett Urges Committees Distribute Tornado Relief

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Tornado relief for Western Ontario will likely have to be handled by committees handling tornado damage claims and estimates of damage for rural and urban areas separately, acting Premier George Doucett said here Monday at the conclusion of the tornado relief conference.

With estimates far from complete it appeared that approximately $4,000,000 would have to come from private subscriptions and government aid—federal and provincial.

At the meeting, wardens and reeves from Middlesex, Lambton, Oxford, Perth and Huron counties reported first estimates of damage made by assessors which totalled $2,122,000, not including the city of Sarnia.

Sarnia's mayor, William C. Nelson, estimated that $4,000,000 damage had been done in the city, but that the $2,000,000 suffered in the commercial selection had been largely covered by insurance.

2 SEPARATE COMMITTEES

Mr. Doucett's suggestion that two separate committees might be formed to handle relief was based on the fact that rural and urban insurance coverage is entirely different.

Mayor Nelson said that most farmers had little or no wind insurance, whereas urban concerns were usually covered "whether they knew it or not."

All representatives stressed that their estimates were tentative.

Mayor Nelson said he had received a telegram from the federal government which required that the province declare a disaster area in Western Ontario before federal action could be taken. A resolution was passed asking that the declaration be made.

DOESN'T EXPECT TROUBLE

Mr. Doucett said he knew of the existence of no such stipulation, but was willing to carry the resolution to the government. He did not anticipate any trouble in getting aid from the government.

T. R. Dent, MLA for Oxford, said: "I would like to see local funds collected and distributed as quickly as possible so that people will have money to rebuild now."

Reeve A. W. Kerslake of Hensall suggested that all tornado relief money go into one fund and be distributed at one time. No action was taken on either of these suggestions.

U.S. Jet Crashes Near Niagara Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—A U.S. Air Force F-86 Sabre jet fighter plane crashed and burned near here Monday, killing the pilot.

Firemen were called to put out the flames and help remove the body from the charred wreckage. The air force withheld identification of the pilot pending notification of next of kin.

The plane was one of three in a formation returning to Niagara Falls airport after a routine training flight.

Urge Higher Teacher Qualifications

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Teachers from various parts of Essex and Kent counties have passed a resolution urging higher qualifications for a first-class teacher's certificate.

Passed during a weekend meeting of district 14, Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation the resolution suggests teachers have university entrance qualifications, one year of professional training and two years of teaching experience before being granted a first-class certificate.

First-class teaching certificates now are awarded teachers who have a grade 12 certificate and have passed a six-month course in teaching.

ELECTED PRESIDENT

Major Clark Robertson of Chatham was elected district president to succeed Ed Whitney of Windsor.

The delegates paid tribute to A.A. Naylor, Chatham, retiring after 42 years of teaching, and James Mitchell, who resigned as district secretary-treasurer to become assistant general secretary of the OPSMTF with headquarters in Toronto

Mr. Mitchell will be succeeded by Harold Snow of Chatham

Other officers include: second vice-president, Norman Thomson, Chatham; executive members, Clarence Grainger, Wallaceburg, and Harry Easum, Chatham.

Peterborough Takes Gaels In Rugged Lacrosse Fixture For 10-7 Junior 'A' Victory

In a chippy gutted-stick game here last night, Peterborough Pats downed the Oakville Green Gaels, formerly the Toronto Gaels, and now sponsored by Mimico Mounties. They won it 10-7 for their second triumph in four starts, after dropping two decisions to open the OLA junior "A" schedule. It was the second loss for the Gaels so far this season. The same clubs clash Friday in Oakville. Coach Doug Miller's squad led 4-2 in the first quarter, each side potting one marker in the keen second heat to give the Pats a 5-3 margin at the half. The homesters opened up to outscore the green-and-whites 4-2 in the third to carry a 9-5 bulge into the fourth. The Gaels fought hard in the final frame to outscore the winners 2-1.

RATHER ROUGH

The tilt was rugged enough over the route, with Referees Harry Wipper and Jerry Fitzgerald—of the senior Petes—handing out two dozen penalties, including four majors for fighting. Daniels and Eatough drew 10-minute sentences in the fourth for fisticuffs, while Farley and Pulford sat it out for five minutes in the initial inning for throwing punches. Hanna of the visitors also drew five for cutting McDougall and drawing blood. Smith of the Pats once drew a double minor penalty for slashing and roughing. The visitors were given 13 of the 24 sentences.

Some good and bad lacrosse was seen as both sides hustled, there being some smart passing plays, quick bursts of speed and neat finish-up jobs at times. At other times, missed passes, long shots and wide sweeps at goal made for ragged play. The Pats looked the better team on the night's play, checking strongly and getting some brilliant goaltending throughout from Ray Hill. The other goalie had some fine saves at times, also.

SCORED FOUR

Bob Allen sparked the victors' attack with four tallies and an assist in nifty work. Bob Curtis clicked for a pair of markers, as singles were notched by Jack Foote, Bob Hobart, Jerry O'Reilly and Gary Smith. An assist each went to O'Reilly, Ray Ward and Carl Brioux. Each side scored a lucky goal during the tussle, drifting in by a surprised netminder from well out.

Bob Hanna led the losers at bat with two neat counters, while one apiece was marked to Gene Petroff, Don Owen, Clarke Pulford, Louie Riel and Don Stewart. In assists, Owen and Stewart were high with a brace apiece, at Petroff, Bill Castator and Gary Eatough each aided on one.

About 100 fans saw the tilt on rather rough ground after so much recent rain. Teams:

Green Gaels — Goal, Green; defence, Petroff and Hanna; centre, Pulford; wings, Francyk and Riel; rover, Eatough; alternates, Castator, Owen, Stewart, Mahoney, Davenport, and McCormick.

Pats — Goal Hill; defence, O'Reilly; wings, Curtis and Hobart; rover Brioux; alternates, Batley, Farley, Daniels, Smith, McDougall, Ward, Seabrooke and Howe.

Referees—J. Fitzgerald and H. Wipper.

The summary:

FIRST QUARTER

Gaels—Stewart (Owen) 0:23
Pats—Hobart 2:47
Pats—Foote 3:29
Pats—Allen (Ward) 5:38
Pats—Allen 9:03
Gaels—Hanna (Petroff Castator) 11:13
Penalties — Ward, Farley, Pulford, Hanna.

SECOND QUARTER

Gaels—Hanna (Stewart) 8:00
Pats—O'Reilly (Brioux) 14:53
Penalties — Owen, Brioux, Curtis, Castator.

THIRD QUARTER

Pats—Allen 2:27

Pats—Allen 4:12
Pats—Curtis (Allen) 4:21
Gaels—Owen (Eatough) 6:58

Penalties—Petroff, Hanna 2, Brioux, Owen 2, Riel, Daniels, Smith 2, Batley, Stewart.

FOURTH QUARTER

Gaels—Riel (Owen) 4:41
Pats—Smith (O'Reilly) 10:14
Gaels—Petroff (Stewart) 14:31
Penalties—Ward, Daniels, Eatough, Owen.

Yankee Hatchet Men Out To Beat Record

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—The old "perfesser" smiled a wry smile and winked a sly wink today before sending his hatchet men out on the turf of the Yankee Stadium and rasped:

"I'm sure gonna shoot for 26 if we can win the next two. Don't forget I was around when the Giants did it."

The "perfesser" was manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees, who are making a farce of the American League race, and he was talking about the all-time major league record of 26 straight victories by the 1916 New York Giants.

Going into tonight's game against the sad St. Louis Browns, who have a record of their own (14 straight defeats), the Yankees had won 18 in a row.

SHOULDN'T MISS

"Suppose we do and it turns out to be a jinx?" Stengel asked. "You know the Giants didn't win that season. We did. I was with the Brooklyn Dodgers that year."

Maybe Case has forgotten, but the Giants wound up fourth that year. And they even put together another winning skein of 17 straight.)

Well, if ever a team had a good chance to break an all-time record, the Yanks have. If they sweep the seventh-place Browns and the last-place Detroit Tigers, they'll tie it. That would be Sunday. They rest Monday and take on Chicago White Sox Tuesday. They've won 16 of 21 games at home.

Savoie-Compo Fight Stopped

BROOKLYN (AP)—Armand Savoie of Montreal, who only a week ago dropped his Canadian lightweight title to Arthur King of Toronto, Monday night cut up Eddie Compo until their scheduled 10-rounder was stopped in 1:11 of the fifth at Eastern Parkway Arena.

Savoie, who weighed 134, three-quarters of a pound more than his opponent, worked on a deep gash over Compo's left eye all through the fourth and fifth rounds, until blood was gushing profusely.

Referee Eddie Joseph, fearing that Compo might be injured seriously, stopped the fight. Compo's right eye also was cut.

Until Savoie's barrage in the fifth, the fight was fairly even. All three officials gave the 24-year-old Compo, a veteran of 83 battles, the first and third rounds when he made Savoie miss long rights and lefts.

But the second and fourth, when Savoie managed to get inside, he scored easily.

Fergus Whips Hamilton 9-5

HAMILTON (CP) — Fergus Thistles moved into a second-place deadlock with Orillia West Yorks in the Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association Monday night with a 9-5 victory over Hamilton Tigers.

They were tied 1-1 at the end of the first quarter, the Tigers led 4-3 at the half only to have it tied again at the end of the third.

Leading the Fergus attack was J. J. Hill with three goals and Don Gear with two. Singles were added by Stan Abbott, Frank Chamers, Bob Dobbie and Marlowe Woods.

Bill Rankin, Chub Brown, Tony Capula, Don Smith and Doug Davidson were the Hamilton marksmen.

Locals Beaten In Kingston By Pen Players

Bill Sullivan took his Seabrooke softballers of the men's league to Kingston last Sunday where they played the softball Saints of the penitentiary, the inmates being victorious 5-3. The game drew a crowd of 750 of the 896 presently interned behind the gray pen walls. The fans, many of whom bet their tobacco rations on the outcome, cheered the visitors on good plays, and the Peterborough players were invited to play there again, and bring their wives or girl friends with them.

Warden Allan showed the visitors around the place, explaining the various departments and cell blocks, and later they were treated to a fine supper on the premises. Red Sullivan was introduced to the spectators as a member of the NHL Boston Bruins and he received a round of applause, according to Red Creighton, who went along with the team.

PLAY SUNDAYS

The Saints are in a six-team prison league and they also play Sunday exhibitions with visiting squads from various Ontario cities. They wore green-and-gold sweaters, gray pants and spiked shoes. They explained that their top twirler of 1952 had graduated. Several "lifers" play on this team, and it is a strong outfit, with many real good diamondeers. Alonzo Boyd, who sat just back of the Seabrooke bench, was described by one of the many guards on hand as being a model, quiet prisoner.

Terry Woods, Jim Driscoll and Lefty Doris each pitched three innings for Seabrooke's, while Kingston used two twirlers. Red Sullivan, Bus Jensen and Speedy Curry had two hits each for the losers, with Terry Woods and Spin Spencer getting one apiece. The Saints outhit them 12-8 and had four errors to Seabrooke's three. One pen clouter hit a homer which cleared the high wall by 15 feet. Nobody went after the ball.

The Peterborough players were: O'Hearn, Wyatt, Thompson, Sullivan, Spencer, Jaquith, Jensen, Curry, Woods, Driscoll, Doris, Scriver, O'Donoghue and Wilson.

Dartford Pupils Win In Warkworth Meet

DARTFORD (ENS) — Donald Sykes, 16-year-old pupil of SS 5, Dartford, was senior champion at Percy and Hastings field day on Wednesday in Warkworth. He won three first prizes: dash, standing broad and running broad jumps. He won second prize in the relay race. His other teammates were Roy Ward and Clarence Honey. Donald will represent Percy township at the Inspectorate Field Day in Wooler on June 24 in the running broad jump and dash.

Sylvia Wigmore was runner-up in the senior girls with four second prize ribbons.

Clarice Honey was runner-up in the intermediate girls with three second prize and three third prize ribbons.

Others from this school winning prizes were Roy Ward, Shirley Sykes, Joyce Lockhart, Marilyn Honey and Ruth Sykes. These other winners will also compete in Wooler. Their teacher is Mrs. Raymond Richardson.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Went to dig down for some dough the other day to buy a sweepstake ticket but all we came up with was the phone bill for April. Brooded a bit and then brewed up this mad medley:

Sing a song of expense (a song most unfunny)
Rent is due and what's Perdue going to use for money?
Oh, once he was happy but now he's forlorn,
And wishes at times he'd never been born;
But when he's 100 he'll tell younger squirts:
"You'll live long by believing hard work never hurts."

So, you want an encore or something? Okay.
The guy stood by the burning deck
Whence all but he had fled—
He'd lost his dough and the cards must go
To join him in the red.

Or this:

"There are acres of achers," the dentist did smile,
Surveying his office chock full all the while;
But "the Yanks are coming," a ball fan did shout,
And the office was emptied like all getout.

Well, just one more:

And thus it goeth from bad to worse,
Grief from the cradle unto the hearse;
But payday's coming on Friday night,
And the world again will seem more bright.

One Of Those Things

Yeah, shoot if you must this battered head, but tell the boss this column you've read. Like umpires, sports scribes have off days, too. But, also like those thick-hided arbiters, they come back for more. And the mad summer sports' whirl continues. Baseball and fastball last night, as well as junior lacrosse; softball and senior lacrosse (away) this eve; and a raft of well-thumbed schedules lurking in the desk drawer to tell of contests coming up. Couple of big items a little more than a month away, the three-day Kawartha Lakes golf tourney, and the Ontario water ski meet. Yes, summer is the time for fun. Long may it linger.

* * * * * *

Milt Dunnel told in the Saturday Star of a springtime baseball occurrence whereby a triple play was pulled without a fielder touching the ball. Yep, we've heard of that. Wonder if Milt ever knew it was possible for a team to hit two singles, a double and three triples in one half-inning without scoring a run. First two guys triple and are out trying to reach home. Next player triples and holds third. Next one doubles but the guy still holds third, fearing the ball will be caught and then fearing the throw-in. Next batter beats out a bunt for a hit, runners holding their bases. Last guy hits a sharp one toward second and the ball hits a runner, retiring the side but giving the batter credit for a single. Baseballic bolonus, huh?

* * * * * *

Woe in London, Too

Guess things are tough all over and recession seems to be slowly creeping into the once prosperous sports' scene. Jack Park of the London (Ont). Free Press smiles wryly at the suggestion that London should maybe apply for a ball berth in the International League. Says London Majors have been at or near the top of the Intercounty Loop all season yet they draw barely 1,500 fans a game in a city of more than 100,000 people. Pittsburgh once put a Pony Pro League team in London, installing a fine floodlighting system, but had to pull out, leaving a bundle of cash and the lights. Also, London still hasn't a modern ice arena. Guess maybe things could be worse here, too.

Brilliant work up front by Bob Allen— in on five goals —and sharp goaltending by Ray Hill had much to do with Pats' 10-7 OLA Junior "A" win o'er Oakville Green Gaels here last night before 100 fans. Others on the squad coached by Doug Miller, Jr., helped, too, but this pair starred throughout. Jerry O'Reilly and Bob Curtis each figured in on two markers for the winners, single points going to Hobart, Foote, Smith, Ward and Brioux. Best for the visitors were Hanna, Owen, Petroff and Stewart, though their goalie steered aside a lot of rubber, also. A chippy tilt, marked with two fist fights, as Refs Jerry Fitzgerald and Harry Wipper handed out two dozen penalties. Same squads tangle Friday in Oakville.

COME HOME, MR. INFINITY—Trainer Jim McIllmurray is looking for the aging thoroughbred Mr. Infinity, since a promising two-year-old racer resulted from the unexpected union of Mr. Infinity and Sweets, a United States-bred mare. McIllmurray, believing Mr. Infinity's useful days were over, gave the horse away. His son, Sweet Infinity, shows the same affection for running in the mud as his sire, shown here after winning a race in heavy footing at Thorncliffe track, Toronto, in 1947.

Trainer Gave Horse Away To Farmer

Horsemen Seek Aging Thoroughbred

By JOHN PATERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Come home Mr. Infinity, wherever you are. All is forgiven.

Admittedly, you were in deep disgrace a long time. That was hardly the gentlemanly thing to do — getting so chummy with Sweets, the attractive young mare you wintered with on a farm outside Toronto.

But things are different now that Junior—he is called Sweet Infinity—has turned out to be a mud-loving runner with a world of speed. You would have been mighty proud if you could have seen him come from seventh place at the head of the mud-filled stretch at Woodbine Park the other day to win by a whisker. And he paid a fancy price, too—$95.30 for $2.

Sweet Infinity whipped a number of well-regarded two-year-olds whose family tree was more carefully calculated than the casual, unexpected romance that blossomed between you and Sweets.

HAD MATERNAL PROBLEM

Trainer Jim McIllmurray, who has been 55 years around the track, couldn't understand the trouble with Sweets when she returned from the farm in the spring of 1950. She wasn't interested in racing and it took old Jim months to figure she had maternal problems on her mind.

Jim was mighty sorry he gave you away to a farmer who came around the barn a few months earlier, but he figured your racing days were over, days when you thrilled racegoers in handicap racing.

More than that, a few owners have looked up Sweet Infinity's breeding and they would like their brood mares to meet you, socially, so to speak.

So, Mr. Infinity, come back to your old stall in barn No. 2 at Woodbine. Remember, it's directly behind the cookhouse.

Robinson Challenges Wyrostek For Lead

NEW YORK (AP)—Most of the season fans have been asking "what position is Jackie Robinson playing?" Now the time is ripe to inquire "what's he hitting?"

Almost unnoticed (except by opposing pitchers) Robinson has battled his way up the hitting ladder to challenge Johnny Wyrostek for the National League lead. Jackie, who has played first base, third base and left field for Brooklyn, is batting .349 to .350 for the Philadelphia Phillies' outfielder.

The 34-year-old Robinson climbed from ninth place last week with 16 hits in 29 bats (a .522 pace). He's hit safely in his last nine games.

The left-handed batting Wyrostek sees action only against right-hand pitching. With the Phillies facing a host of southpaws last week, Johnny batted only three times and failed to hit. He took over the No. 1 spot only because Red Schoendienst of St. Louis Cardinals hit the skids to a third-place .342, a 34-point drop.

MANTLE TOP MAN

In the American League, Mickey Mantle of New York Yankees is the top man with a .340 mark. He tailed off seven points but that was four less than Washington's Mickey Vernon, his co-leader last week. Mantle also heads the runs batted in department with 46. Records include Sunday's games.

Ed Mathews of Milwaukee leads in home runs with 19 and Roy Campanella of the Dodgers has the most runs batted in, 56, in the National League.

Behind Mantle and Vernon in the American, comes George Kell of Boston Red Sox. He is hitting .335, a 10-point drop from last week.

Gus Zernial of Philadelphia Athletics is the junior circuit's leader in home runs with 16.

Southpaws Whitey Ford and Ed Lopat of New York top the American League pitchers, each with 7-0 records. Frank Smith, Cincinnati relief pitcher, is unbeaten in five decisions to pace the National League.

Anne Sharp Sets Record

TORONTO (CP)—Anne Sharp of Lookout Point Golf Club at Fonthill set a record Monday for the qualifying score in the Ontario Ladies' 38th championship tournament at the suburban Thornhill course.

She shot a 38-35—73, two under women's par and three better than her handicap of four. She added 14 points to her total in the competition for a place on the Ontario team in the inter-provincial match at London in August.

She now has an aggregate of 50. None of her opponents for places has yet reached double figures.

In her round over the par-75 layout she was paired with Mrs. M.H. Currer of Toronto St. George's, who turned in a 77 to take second place.

The Fonthill sharpshooter started off with three pars, took bogies on the next two holes, then ran off three more pars. She started home with three more pars, then got three birdies in a row and three more pars for the remaining holes.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN
by Elmer Ferguson

When a team loses, whether it's in baseball, football, or hockey, you know who is first in line to get the blame. The coach. That's axiomatic of sport. And though Canada is reasonably tolerant in sports matters, we've known of coaches chased out of jobs because they didn't have a team that was good enough to win. And that occurred in all three of the sports named.

But when a team wins, who gets the credit. The Coach? Don't be silly. The players are heroes, wonderful guys. The coach is some unknown figure in the background who opened and shut the gate.

Well, I'd like to pull a switch on that. For everything Canadiens accomplished in winning the Stanley Cup, I want to give a measure of credit to coach Dick Irvin, whose teams in Chicago, Toronto and Montreal have missed the playoffs only once in many years of leadership.

I'm giving Irvin credit because of his skill, and his daring, in benching regulars who weren't producing in the early part of the Chicago series and gambling on four minor leaguers and a veteran who was considered "washed up." This was the gamble that placed the Canadiens in the Stanley Cup finals, which they won.

Canadiens "Unwanted Players" as Irvin called them after his team had whipped the Bruins, 7-3, at the Boston Gardens to sweep both games there, were Eddie Mazur, who wintered in Victoria in the Western League; Lorne Davis and Calum Mackay from Buffalo in the American League; and veteran Ken Mosdell. The fourth minor leaguer was goaler Jacques Plante who served the coach's purpose by helping to win two games, one a shutout.

"Nobody wanted these players in Montreal," Irvin declared. "The press and the fans were against them. But my regulars weren't producing. Besides, they were small. So I put in that quartet, adding 574 pounds of beef to my team, and it turned the tide."

Irvin is not a fellow to stand pat. If things aren't going right he's quick to make changes. He benched his three regular left-wingers, Paul Meger, Dick Gamble and Bert Olmstead. In their places he put Mazur, Mackay and Dickie Moore, a promising youngster who missed most of the season with a knee injury.

There was a little more to it than that. Irvin watched everything. He juggled the team. When a player looked hot, he shot the player into action. He made up lines as he went along. He gambled on freezing Gerry McNeil's injured ankle in the first game of the final series at Boston.

Irvin proved a master strategist, and I'm very happy, in the midst of all the bouquets being tossed at the players, to hang one on the lapel of the forgotten man, the Coach.

Milwaukee Loses Tough One 3-2 To Pirates

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

They lead the lambs to slaughter at Yankee Stadium tonight. The pore ole St. Louis Browns, who can't rightly remember when they last enjoyed prosperity in the victory column, come smack up against the powerful New York Yankees, winners of 18 straight games. One more victory and the Yankees will tie the American League record which their 1947 club shares with the 1906 Chicago White Sox. The Browns can expect no mercy. Cagey Casey Stengel and his men already are talking about not only tieing the record, but breaking it and then going on to overhaul the all-time major league mark of 26 set by the 1916 New York Giants.

The Browns have dropped 14 straight, an all-time mark for St. Louis clubs, and are within six games of the American and major league losing record.

Just to make the record prospects even brighter for the Yankees, who already have made a farce of the pennant race with a 10½-game lead, the Browns will stick around for three more games. Then Detroit, the only team with a poorer record than St. Louis, comes in for a four-game set.

NOT MUCH CHANGE

Over in the National League, Milwaukee Braves went home today six percentage points behind first-place Brooklyn. They came east two weeks ago in almost the same spot.

On a 22-game swing through the entire league except Chicago, the Braves won 15 games.

The Braves lost a tough one Monday night, 3-2, to Pittsburgh in 10 innings. Pirate hurler Bob Friend gave up only five hits in going the route. Relief pitcher Lew Burdette forced in the winning run when he hit Danny O'Connell with the bases loaded and one out.

The Giants, aided by Alvin Dark's three singles in four trips to the plate, salvaged the finale of a four-game stand with St. Louis Cardinals, 3-2. Jim Hearn allowed six hits in going the distance against his former mates for the first time since he was sold to the Giants during the 1950 season.

The two National League games were the only ones played Monday.

START OF INVASION

Today's schedule marks the start of the second western invasion for National League clubs and second eastern excursion for the American League members.

In the National League, Philadelphia visits Milwaukee for a twilight-night doubleheader, Brooklyn is at St. Louis, New York at Cincinnati for another twilight-night affair, and Pittsburgh at Chicago for a day twin bill.

In the American League Chicago visits Washington, Detroit is at Boston and Cleveland at Philadelphia in addition to the Browns-Yankees encounter. All are night games.

Bisons Crush Toronto In 13-1 Disaster

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons lowered the boom on Toronto Monday night and when the Maple Leafs had recovered, they found themselves on the receiving end of a 13-1 decision.

The victorious Bisons had themselves a field day at the expense of three former big league southpaws and a righthander. They were good for 19 safeties and as a result bounced ahead of Toronto into third spot in the International League.

The three Leaf southpaws—starter Lou Sleater, Vic Lombardi and Stubby Overmire—were belted for four home runs by first-baseman Jack Wallaesa, second-baseman Ken Chapman, rightfielder Jack Crawford and catcher Al Lakeman. Chapman enjoyed a perfect game, adding four singles to his big blast.

The Leafs' only run came in the seventh inning off rookie righthander Frank Lary, who went the distance allowing only six hits.

DOWN SENATORS

The league-leading Montreal Royals defeated Ottawa Senators 8-4 behind the hurling of lefty Ken Lehman, who also racked up his seventh victory. Lehman gave up nine hits against 12 off two Ottawa hurlers.

The second-place Rochester Red Wings fell to Baltimore Orioles 6-3. Jack Sanford fanned 11, walked only two and gave up five hits in pitching the Orioles to victory. Archie Wilson unloaded a grand-slam homer for the Birds in the fourth.

The tail-end Springfield Cubs ran up their biggest winning streak of the season—three games—downing Syracuse Chiefs 8-4. Jim Ellis went the route for the winners, although he allowed 12 hits behind six errors.

Jim McNulty Leading Lacrosse Scoring

TORONTO (CP)—Jim McNulty of Orillia West Yorks leads the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series with 52 points, figures released by the association show.

McNulty's total is made up of 32 goals and 20 assists. Don Gear of Fergus Thistles is second with 48 points on 17 goals and 31 assists.

Doug Smith of St. Catharines Athletics is third with 47 points. Len Croft of West Yorks is fourth with 46 and Ike Hildebrand of Peterborough Timbermen fifth with 44.

Pete Bradkin of Brampton Exelsiors leads the penalty parade with 37 minutes.

Yesterday's Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitching: Bob Friend, Pittsburgh Pirates, limited Milwaukee to five hits in 10 innings in winning his second game of the season, the first since April 21. The score was 3-2.

Batting: Al Dark, New York Giants, collected three singles in four times up and drove in a run as the Giants defeated St. Louis, 3-2.

Rain Likely To Wash Out Cricket Match

NOTTINGHAM, England (Reuters)—Washed out by a steady rain Monday, the first test cricket match between England and Australia appears due to be abandoned as a draw.

Rain was still falling Monday night, more than 30 hours after its start, and there seemed little prospect of play being resumed on the final day today.

England, 144 and 42 for one wicket, needs 187 runs to beat Australia, who scored 249 and 123.

Despite the rain, which affected all first-class matches, Surrey, tied for first place in the current county campaign, put up a fine show against Kent, declaring their first innings at 313 for five. Kent, out for 92 in their first innings, had scored 43 for no wicket in their second at the close of play.

Close of play scores:

Kent 92 and 43 for no wicket, Surrey 313 for five declared.

Essex 277, Hampshire 112 and one for no wicket.

Leicestershire 161 and 177, Somerset 81 and 113. Leicestershire won by 144 runs.

Yorkshire 340 for nine declared, Cambridge University 76 for five. Rain restricted play.

Derbyshire 158 for seven vs. Lancashire. No play Monday, rain.

Nottinghamshire 143, Northamptonshire 49 for two. Rain restricted play.

Worcestershire 236 and 166 for eight, Middlesex 325.

Gloucestershire 319, Warwickshire 87 for one. Rain restricted play.

Glamorgan 239 and 48 for no wicket, Sussex 305 for seven declared.

Conant, McCarthy Tangle On 'Book Burning' Issue

By WILMOT HERCHER

WASHINGTON (AP)—James B. Conant and Senator Joseph McCarthy debated "book burning" Monday and in one exchange the Wisconsin Republican told Conant "I frankly think you are not doing a good job" as U.S. high commissioner in Germany.

Conant, who gave up the presidency of Harvard University to take the political post, received McCarthy's opinion with a wry smile.

Earlier in his appearance before the senate appropriations committee Conant told the Senator he regretted that McCarthy had seen fit to make a public purge of books abroad.

SHOULDN'T ADVERTISE

It would have been better for U.S. foreign relations, the commissioner said, if McCarthy had taken his complaint to the executive department and had the books removed from the shelves without publicity. We shouldn't "advertise our mistakes publicly" Conant argued.

But McCarthy said Americans were paying for the information program and they were entitled to know that the libraries were circulating literature by Communists and fellow travellers.

Conant was here to testify in support of a $40,000,000 budget for his office in the fiscal year beginning July 1. He was peppered with questions by McCarthy.

Many of the questions arose from a speech President Eisenhower made at Dartmouth College Sunday, in which the president spoke out against "the book burners" and advised Americans to fight communism with "something better."

Strike Vote Called Off At Chatham

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP)—Labor troubles at Chatco Steel are settled and a strike vote has been called off.

About 700 Chatham and Tilbury employees are involved in a settlement reached during the weekend. Sunday membership of local 192 UAW-CIO at Tilbury ratified modified terms of a memorandum of settlement reached June 6. A new collective agreement was dated June 1 to run until Dec. 31, 1954.

It was agreed that all skilled tradesmen who have participated in plant average bonuses shall have a 10-per-cent upward adjustment in lieu of bonus.

6-CENT INCREASE

Wages of all production workers are increased six cents per hour retroactive to Jan. 1. All grade A tool makers get five cents more an hour and all grade B toolmakers and all other grade A skilled tradesmen are increased 10 cents an hour.

All grade C toolmakers and all other grade B skilled trades are increased by 12 cents an hour, retroactive to Jan. 1.

Effective Oct. 1, 1953 hourly earnings of all employees are increased three cents per hour.

Effective March 1, 1954 hourly earnings go up another three cents.

TTC To Adopt Zone Fare Plan

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto transportation commission will adopt a system of zone fares about a year from now.

W. E. P. Duncan, TTC general manager, said Monday night in his annual report the change will be made after the mertopolitan area transportation plan takes effect Jan. 1 and the city's subway opens.

He said the new fare schedule will probably be higher than present rates. After operating 30 years on a basis of four tickets for 25 cents, the TTC increased its fare Aug. 1, 1951, to three tickets for 25 cents.

Mr. Duncan said the TTC last year had a profit of $150,388, compared with a deficit in 1951 of $1,239,544. The subsidiary Gray Coach Lines showed a 1952 profit of $97,719 before dividends, as against a loss in 1951 of $314,567. However, The Toronto Island ferry service showed a loss of $173,727 for 1952, compared with the 1951 loss of $151,500.

Authorize Closing Of Mine In Dispute

TORONTO (CP)—Shareholders of McIntyre Porcupine mines at the annual meeting Monday gave directors authority to close temporarily its gold mine near Timmins if wage negotiations with the mine union fail.

Balmer Neilly, president, said the company would lose money on the mine operation if the union demands were met.

A conciliation board June 5 recommended a wage increase of seven cents to bring the basic labor rate to $1.10 an hour, and voluntary revocable checkoff of union dues. The company nominee on the board, K. C. Gray, dissented from the majority report.

Must Provide For Peace Needs

BIGWIN INN (CP)—The present and future prosperity of Canada is based on providing for the needs of peace not war, E. J. Umphrey, vice-president and director of sales of General Motors of Canada, said Monday night.

"If international tension lessens and our defence expenditures decrease, we can turn to the enormous backlog of needed municipal and provincial improvements in the form of more and better houses, hospitals, schools, highways and town planning," he said at the 18th annual convention of the Canadian Junior Chambers of Commerce.

Mr. Umphrey warned business men to make certain their facilities are on an ever-expanding basis to capitalize on the expanding economy.

2 RCAF Fliers Find It Hard To Come Down

OTTAWA (CP)—Two RCAF flyers Monday found it difficult to come down.

Flt. Lt. George Reid of Cyrville and FO. William Casley of Ottawa were flying a Harvard trainer. As they prepared to land, they found one of the landing wheels had stuck in the horizontal position.

For an hour and a half they stunted with the plane in an effort to shake the wheel loose.

Finally, fuel began to run short, and Flt. Lt. Reid attempted—and brought off—a belly landing at Ottawa Rockcliffe airport.

Neither man was injured.

Uranium Fever Hits Gatineau

MANIWAKI, Que. (CP)—Uranium fever is running high in this Gatineau valley area about 90 miles north of Ottawa.

Hundreds of prospectors are swarming over the bushland, to stake out claims in the hope of a rich radioactive ore strike.

Two big "breaks" were reported, one running north of Wakefield, about 60 miles south of Maniwaki, and the other in the Lake Baskatong area, about 30 miles north of here.

The commercial value of the "breaks" has not yet been established.

At Ottawa, a government official said: "Uranium is being discovered all over the country. But it is only when the claim proves its commercial value and production begins that the discovery becomes worthwhile."

Fournier Sworn In

OTTAWA (CP)—Former Works Minister Alphonse Fournier of Hull, Que., was sworn in Monday as a puisne judge of the Exchequer Court of Canada by Hon. J. T. Thorson, president of the court. Mr. Fournier's move to the Exchequer Court was announced Friday by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

CHILD HEALTH CLINICS

The Department of Health held 17 clinics during May with a total attendance of 306—99 infants and 207 pre-school children.

REFERRED CLINICS

Five referred chest X-ray clinics were held during May at the two city hospitals with a total attendance of 183. The clinics are sponsored by the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association.

JAYCEE CONVENTION

Les Groombridge, President of Region 6, and William Waye, Vice-President of the Peterborough Jaycees, are attending the 18th Junior Chamber of Commerce Convention at Big-Win Inn. The Peterborough delegates are tabling a resolution to request increased benefits for blind persons in Canada.

CIVIC EMPLOYEES' RATES

Following is a complete list of rates that have been agreed upon by city officials and Local 504, Peterborough Civic Employees' Federal Union (TLC), that will be paid to 95 parks department, sewage disposal, board of works and sanitation department workers: starting $1.10 an hour, unskilled $1.23, semi-skilled $1.33, skilled $1.38 and working foremen $1.48.

FIRE DEPT. ROUNDUP

Firemen made four calls Monday, none of them for a serious fire. At noon they went to George Street United Church when a back-draft and damp chimney caused smoke to reverse into the basement. In the afternoon they used a booster line to put out a rubbish fire at the home of James Revill, 599 Patterson St. Permission had not been granted for lighting the rubbish fire; because Monday is generally accepted as wash day, outdoor fires are banned. Rounding out the day's work for the firemen was the job of getting into two homes when the women had locked themselves out.

K. G. SPENCER

Board Appoints K. G. Spencer City Inspector

K. G. Spencer of Brampton was appointed sanitary inspector for Peterborough by the Board of Health at the board's meeting on Monday. He will begin his duties July 1.

This appointment sets a precedent for an appointment to this position in the city. Previously all sanitary inspectors appointed in Peterborough have been appointed by the council.

Dr. J. P. Wells, medical officer of health, asked that the appointment be made by the board following rulings in the Public Health Act. Investigation showed that there is ambiguity in the two acts governing this appointment. The Municipal Act stipulates that the appointment should be made by a council by-law.

ASK CLARIFICATION

The board's decision was to follow the Public Health Act and make the appointment. However, they asked City Clerk E. A. Outram to write provincial authorities for clarification— to find out which act supercedes the other in regard to the manner of appointment.

Mr. Spencer was born in Grimsby, Ont., and attended Grimsby public and high schools. He received his certificate as sanitary inspector from the School of Hygiene, University of Toronto in 1948.

A veteran of the Second World War, he served as a Flying Officer Air Gunner with the RCAF in Canada, England and India.

Mr. Spencer is married and has three children.

He succeeds Ronald MacPherson who left the Peterborough department to take the position of sanitary inspector with the Kingston Department of Health.

MOH Urges 2-A-Week Collections

Garbage Collected Once A Week "Backward Step"

The question of reducing garbage collection in the city from twice to once a week which is still at the discussion stage in the Sanitation Committee of the council, was brought up at the Board of Health meeting Monday.

"I feel that it is my responsibility to advise the board as this is a health matter," Dr. J. P. Wells, medical officer of health, said at the meeting in introducing the question. "From a health standpoint I feel that such a cut would be a backward step. We've got it now and I think we should keep it. Some places are still trying to get it."

Some discussion took place among board members and City Clerk E. A. Outram following Dr. Wells introduction of the subject as to whether the matter was one for the board of health to consider.

UP TO COUNCIL

"It is the responsibility of council for action in this matter, but if such action would be detrimental to the health of the community I think the board should step in, in an advisory capacity," Acting Mayor T. D. Miller said.

The discussion came to and end with a motion that a letter be sent to the sanitation committee outlining the views of the medical officer of health—that the change from two collections of garbage to the homes of Peterborough to one collection would be a retrogressive step and might endanger the health of the community.

This question was brought up first at a meeting of the sanitation committee last week. The discussion centred on reduction in the residential areas, but Superintendent Elmo Pierce was asked to prepare a report which would be considered later in the summer.

At the time Mr. Outram had obtained a summary from cities in the province concerning this matter. According to that tabulation quite a number of cities in the province are making only one collection weekly.

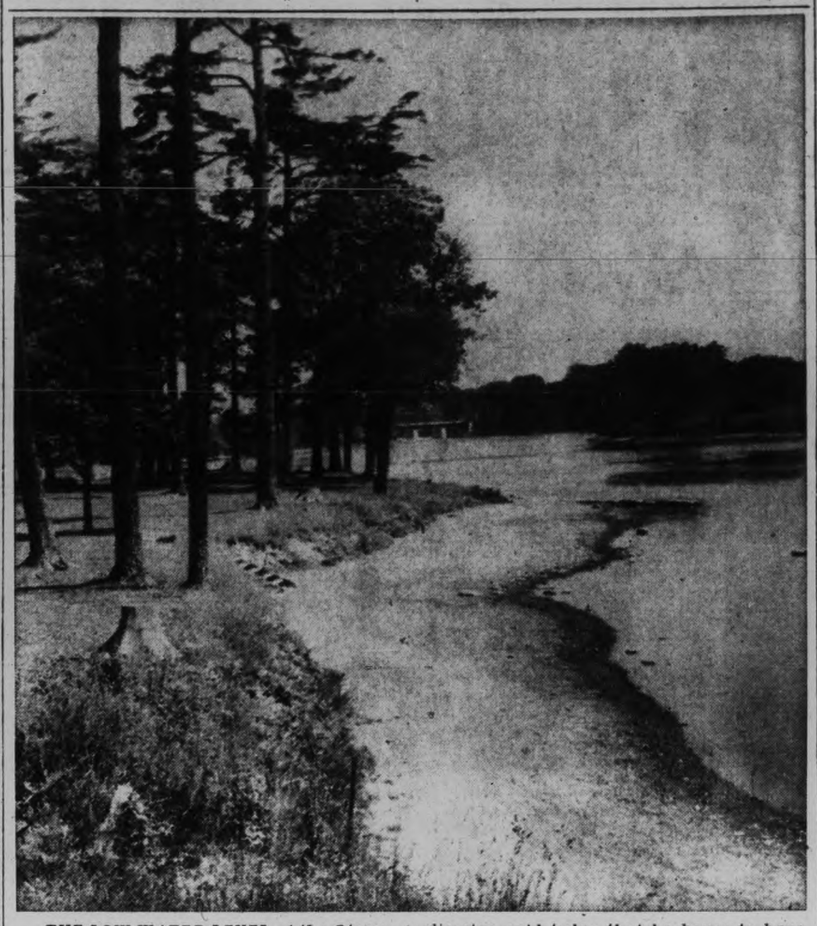
Behind the committee's study of the matter is rising costs and a labor problem caused by the staffed demand for a 40-hour week.

Union Certified To Represent DeLaval Workers

The International Association of Machinists (AFL-TLC) have been certified as the bargaining agents for 284 production workers at the DeLaval Co. plant.

The announcement was made by the Ontario Labor Relations Board who heard the IAM application on May 26. At that time the union submitted 241 cards from signed and paid-up members.

This was well over the 45 per cent required before a vote could be ordered among the employees. As the company did not oppose the application, and it was found by the OLRB to be more than 60 per cent, the OLRB certified the union without holding a vote.



BEGIN NEGOTIATIONS

Negotiations for the first contract between the company and the union have already started. They are said to be progressing favorably.

The DeLaval Co. plant is the largest that has been organized in Peterborough by the Trades and Labor Congress which is rapidly growing in membership.

At least three other attempts have been made to organize DeLaval but all, until now, have been unsuccessful. In March 1952 the OLRB threw out the second application of the UE, accusing that left-wing union of "deception and misrepresentation". The IUE have also failed to carry the plant.

Two IAM staff representatives did most of the work in organizing DeLaval this spring. They were Dan Dean and Pat McQuade. They received a helping hand from the year-old Peterborough Trades and Labor Council (TLC).

THE LOW WATER LEVEL of the Otonabee river between the Auburn and London St. dams has made the swimming rocky for youngsters at Inverlea beach (above). Besides the rocky bottom on which the children must wade, there are several ledges just out from the water edge which make swimming and wading dangerous for the non-swimmers. Alex Sinclair, recreation director, said today that he hopes to have the water raised to proper summer level prior to the official opening of the playgrounds June 29. The commission plans swimming instruction there this season under Lorraine Derry and Janet Collins. The lifeguards will be Barry Hollingsworth, Elwood Palmateer and Ian Blaiklock.

Boys' Camp On Clear Lake Sold To Y's Men's Club

The deed for Camp Kawartha—a boy's camp situated on Clear Lake about 20 miles from Peterborough—will be handed over to the YMCA from the Rotary Club sometime in the next month. The decision to sell the camp to the "Y" was made at the regular monthly meeting of the Rotary club Monday. The selling price is $1,500.

This sale is the result of a request from the Peterborough Y's Men's Club for a clarification of the overall camp picture. For the past five years the camp has been operated for boy's by the Y's Men's Club and in addition this club has donated $1,000 a year as has the Rotary club for capital expenditure.

Following the Y's Men's Club request the Rotary club appointed a committee to study what should be done. The committee members are S. J. Black, chairman; T. J. Carley, V. J. McElderry and Jack Gillespie. The committee recommended to the board of directors that the camp be sold to the Y and this recommendation was presented at the meeting by Mr. Black.

He explained that in earlier years when the Rotary club operated it as a camp for underprivileged boys there was always a substantial deficit. Later members lost interest and it was turned over to the Y's Men's club to operate. He also explained that the club had looked into the possibility of offering it to the Ontario Society for Crippled Children for use, but it was found unsuitable.

Following discussion the members of the club voted that the camp be sold to the Y at a nominal charge of $1,500.

The camp was purchased by the Rotary club in Oct. 1921, and it was opened in 1922. The site has about 320 feet frontage on the east shore of the lake and is about 900 feet square.

A main dining hall, boat house and two dormitory buildings were erected, and it was operated as a camp for underprivileged boys.

About 1945, it was leased to the Y's Men Club for a dollar a year.

James McClenaghan, Y secretary, said today that the Y's Men's Club will be in charge of all operational activities under Y ownership of the camp. Already the camp is almost completely booked for the season, June 27-August 8.

The officers are: Chairman, J. L. Ireland B.A; vice. Chairman, R. G. Aman C.A; Secretary Treas., C. D. Cutmore; Attendance, W. T. Ashwin; Membership, W. C. Boate; Programme, A. Pitchford; Publicity, W. R. C. Perry; Student Affairs, G. Langhorne.

158 To Gather Names

Enumeration Of Voters Begins June 22

Enumeration of voters in Peterborough riding for the general election on August 10 will begin on June 22 and go on until June 27.

The work will be done by 158 enumerators, 126 in the city and 32 in the rural sections of the constituency. Of the city enumerators, 63 have been chosen by the Progressive-Conservative organization and 63 by the Liberals, representing the winner and runner-up candidates in the last general election.

The 32 rural enumerators were chosen by Liberal organization, representing the party forming the government. This practice holds good for both federal and provincial elections. Thus, if a provincial election were called, enumerators for rural areas would be appointed by the Progressive-Conservative organization, representing the the party forming the provincial government, and urban enumerators would be named, half by the winning candidate's organization and half by the runner-up's at the last provincial election.

Busy preparing for the enumeration is District Returning Officer Arthur J. McClellan who is getting ready for his second federal election as DRO. He was also DRO in the 1943 provincial election. He has twice been census commissioner, in 1941 and 1951.

HER THIRD ELECTION

Assisting him in the office which he opened Monday, on Charlotte St. on the second floor of the Peterborough Curling Club's premises is Mrs. M. G. McCartney who is acting as election clerk in a federal election for the third time, twice in Peterborough West and once in Victoria-Haliburton in 1945. She was census supervisor in 1951.

Although the constituency boundaries have not changed since the last federal election in 1949, Mr. McClellan expects that the number of voters in the riding will be materially more. At that time, there were 31,475 eligible voters, of whom 24,686 cast their ballots.

According to the 1951 census, the city's population has increased considerably but some of this has been due to annexation of township property so that it is difficult to estimate how many more voters there will be in the whole riding

One difference caused by annexation is that what was polling subdivision 74 at Queen Elizabeth School in Smith township becomes No. 63 in the city.

After the enumerators have completed their work of going from door to door taking the names of those eligible to vote, their lists will be placed on telephone poles or other conspicuous places in each subdivision on June 29.

The lists will be printed locally and, when everybody has had opportunity to see them, they will be open to revision on July 20, 21 and 22. A person who has been left off the list, or whose name has been incorrectly spelled, or whose address is wrong may apply to the revising officer in person or in writing through a relative, employer or agent, to have the matter put right. Representation may also be made on eight grounds to have a name stricken from the list.

JUDGE REVISES

Revising officer for Peterborough West is County Judge John deN. Kennedy who holds the position ex officio and appoints his own assistants, usually two. The names of his assistants and the places where revision will be made will be announced later.

Mr. McClellan who attended a returning officers' course in Toronto on April 20 and 21 to receive instructions from Chief Electoral Officer Nelson Castonguay on changes in the Election Act, points out that there have been two important changes in the matter of voters' lists.

In the previous federal election, a copy of each enumerator's list was sent to the printers. Then, when the list had been revised, a second copy was printed.

This time, each enumerator will make three copies of his list. One is sent to the printer, one is posted and one is given to the DRO. The printers will then print a preliminary list which will be the only printed voters' list. Instead of printing the revised list, the revising officer will prepare sufficient typewritten copies for the DRO and

Top Level Meeting Seen As Next Step To End 8-Week Strike At Quaker

Progress On Some Points Reported In Session With Conciliation Officer

Company, Union Chiefs Willing To Meet

A top-level meeting between Reginald R. Faryon, president of the Quaker Oats Co. of Canada, and Fred Dowling, Canadian director of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL), is seen as the next move to try and end the strike of 435 Quaker Oats Co. production employees in Peterborough and another 130 in Saskatoon. On Wednesday the strike at the two plants begins its ninth week.

Progress on some points under dispute was reached Monday afternoon in a two-hour session in Toronto with James Hutcheon, department of labor conciliation officer, sitting in as mediator.

Before breaking off for the day Mr. Hutcheon said he thought the next advisable move was for Mr. Faryon and Mr. Dowling to meet. That, he anticipated, would be the best chance of getting some substantial progress in negotiations.

Both men—heads of their respective organizations—have said they would be willing to meet.

COMING TO CITY

Mr. Dowling is coming to Peterborough on Thursday for an important membership meeting of Local 293, UPWA, in the Labor Centre. And there is a strong likelihood that while he is in the city—and after hearing the views of the membership at the Thursday night meeting—he will confer with Mr. Faryon.

William Triggs, president of Local 293, today quoted Mr. Dowling as saying Monday that he was willing to meet with Mr. Faryon any time.

Today Mr. Faryon said he was willing to meet here or in Toronto—anywhere, in fact—to negotiate. He said that has been his attitude all along.

"The company is willing to meet and bargain for some reasonable compromise between the conciliation board's report (rejected by the union) and the union's demands," said Mr. Faryon. "And we are prepared to carry on negotiations until a reasonable compromise is effected."

The parties have now met three times in Toronto at the invitation of Deputy-Minister of Labor J. B. Metzler. Some progress was reported after the session on June 3-4, and again Monday, but nobody has suggested that there was any substantial concessions made on either side.

The union have asked for a 10 per cent increase on all rates retroactive to September 1, 1952, the anniversary date of the contract. Reduction of the work week from 44 hours to 40 a week. When this is done a general increase to bring the basic rate up to $1.39½ an hour. Also maintenance of the five-day week on a three-shift basis, Monday to Friday, no swing shift.

The conciliation report, signed by Judge J. C. Reynolds of Kingston, chairman, and E. Macauley Dillon, QC, Toronto, company nominee, recommended:

1. An increase of 7½ per cent retroactive to January 1, 1953; a a further increase of 2½ per cent on September 1, and a further incease of 2½ per cent on January 1, 1954, bringing the base rate up to $1.33½ an hour;

2. Company permitted to bring in swing shifts if necessary;

3. Work week to be reduced to 40 hours by August 1 at the latest.

The present basic rate is $1.18½ an hour.

Representing the union at the Toronto talks were Sam Hughes, Eastern Canadian director; William Beggs, Eastern Ontario staff representative; William Triggs, president of Local 293; Bob Prescott, chief steward, and Herbert Hennessey, executive member.

Management were represented by James G. Wharry, general manager; Lewis H. Ingram, vice-president in charge of personnel; Fred G. Ash, general operating manager; and Donald Pyle, labor consultant.

Two Bishops Tour District For Services

Two Church of England bishops are conducting confirmation services in the city and district this week. They are the Rt. Rev. Alton Ray Beverley, Bishop of Toronto, and the Rt. Rev. Fredrick Hugh Wilkinson, co-adjutor bishop.

On Sunday morning Bishop Beverley conducted a service at All Saints' Anglican Church and Bishop Wilkinson at St. Luke's Church in the evening. The number of candidate at St. Luke's were increased by attendance from St. Mark's Church, Otonabee.

The service at Holy Trinity Church, Haultain, was taken by Bishop Beverley. It was also the occasion for the celebration of the 60th anniversary of the church's founding and an informal garden party was held outside after the service.

The Bishop presented engraved testimonials to Mrs. Mary Thompson, secretary-treasurer for the parish for the past 36 years and to rector's warden, Welly Dunford, 35 years and Norman Bolton, people's warden five years. Bishop Wilkinson conducted confirmation at Christ Church, Campbellford, also in the evening.

This evening Bishop Beverley will go to St. James' Church, Roseneath, and Bishop Wilkinson to St. John the Baptist Church, Lakefield. Final services will be held on Wednesday evening at St. George's Church, Apsley, by Bishop Wilkinson and by Bishop Beverley at Christ Church, Norwood, which is also celebrating its 100th anniversary this week.

KESSELRING FAVORED

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Gerry Kesselring, the pipe-smoking golfer from Kitchener who was voted Ontario's top athlete last year, is favored to repeat his 1952 Ontario Open victory this week as 109 golfers from the United States and Canada move into the opening rounds of the provincial tournament at the Essex Golf and Country Club here.

However, the 24-year-old Ontario Open and amateur champion may have trouble with Nick Weslock who took the event three years ago and finished third behind Bob Gray of Toronto Scarboro last summer. The Windsor Essex pro will be playing over his home par-72 course.

Smiley Quick of Pasadena, Calif., the 1951 champion, is again entered after finishing out of the money last year.

Play starts Thursday. The 60 low scorers and ties qualify for the final 36 holes scheduled for Friday.

Other United States entries are Al Watrous of Oakland Hills, Mich.; Art Pomy of Detroit and Tom Talkington of Washtenaw, Mich. Bill Kozak will be back from Youngstown, N.Y. The former native of Welland is expected to again place well up.

REMILLARD OUT FOR YEAR

TORONTO (CP)—Pat Remillard, one of Canada's top jockeys, has been forced to hang up his tack for the rest of the year as a result of a back injury he suffered when tossed by a horse Saturday.

Remillard, 47, was thrown by Tring Tide before the start of the seventh race at Woodbine Park and was taken to hospital with a broken vertebra. He was in good condition Monday but doctors said he will be out of action until next year.

EQUALS TRACK RECORD

TORONTO (CP)—Libertine, the chestnut flash from London, Ont., equalled the track record of 1:10.3 Monday in a six-furlong duel in which the gallant Joey Bomber fought him every stride of the trip.

The track record was established by Sabulus in 1944 and equalled by Ocean Brief in 1947 and Wolf Whistle in 1952. Libertine is the only Canadian-bred in the quartet of record holders.

Libertine, a five-year-old gelding by Korasan out of Liberty Queen, won by a head. He was bred and is owned by Col. J. E. Smallman of London. Bear Field was third, 5½ lengths back.

Lacrosse Practise

All bantams practise tonight at 6:30.

June 17—Midgets vs. Juveniles.

June 18—At 6:30, Bantams 2 vs. Bantams 3, and at 7:30 bantams 4 vs. Bantams 1.

June 21—At 12:30 there will be a practise for Juveniles.

SECOND BEST—Sam Snead (left) playfully tries to take away the National Open golf cup from Ben Hogan (right) a few hours after Hogan had won his fourth American Open title with a five-under par 283 for 2 holes. Snead was second with a 289. This was his thirteenth unsuccessful attempt to win the cup.

Land Owner Makes Charge Of Blackmailing

OSHAWA,—A city land owner, Helge Neilson, who sold a parcel of land for school building purposes last year, charged at a city council meeting Monday that he was blackmailed into signing an agreement whereby he would build a road leading to the school now being erected.

Council's general purpose committee will investigate the charge.

"I don't know anything about this blackmail matter," Mayor John Naylor said. "It should be investigated immediately."

Mr. Neilson said that before he received a cheque for the school site sale he was told to sign an agreement to make the road.

"If I didn't sign the agreement I don't think I would have gotten the cheque," he said.

CASE OF BLACKMAIL

"It's a case of blackmail."

"That is a very serious statement," Ald. Herbert Robinson said. "It indicates that a city official tried to or has blackmailed him. I think it should be substantiated or retracted."

"I'm not going to retract," replied Mr. Neilson.

The school in question is located in the College Hill district of Oshawa and is one of four now being constructed in the city.

Completion is expected this fall.

City solicitor John Hare informed council that the agreement was signed last August.

"I don't think he knows what the term blackmail means," Mr. Hare said.

"Maybe he'll know when this is all through," commented Mayor Naylor.

Hogan Plots Every Shot, Never Gambles

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—What makes Ben Hogan great?

What is the success secret of this 40-year-old Texan who today straddles the golf world like a colussus?

"It's three-dimensional — that's what it is," said former champion Lawson Little after watching Hogan fashion his fourth straight U.S. open championship last weekend at Oakmont.

"He never chooses the wrong club. While we other golfers always have to worry about whether we're long or short on a shot as well as wide, Hogan has only to worry about whether he's too much to the right or left.

"He is the greatest I ever saw for putting the ball in the exact position he wants it."

CREDITS BRAIN WORK

Gene Sarazen, who has won all the major crowns of the U.S. and Britain, attributes Hogan's superiority to superior brain work.

"There are several golfers who can swing a club as well if not better than Hogan, including Sam Snead," said Sarazen. "There is none who can out-think him."

"Watch him out on the course. He is always studying, thinking, plotting, taking mental notes of every shot he or his opponent hits. He seems to file all these notes away back in his head for future use."

Bobby Locke of South Africa, who must defend his British Open championship against Hogan next month at Carnoustie, called Ben "the master of every shot in the bag."

NO SHODDY SHOOTING

"He is never guilty of shoddy thinking or s h o d d y shooting," Locke added.

Hogan himself may have put his finger on the reason for his success when, after capturing his second Masters title at Augusta this spring he remarked:

"Golf is 30 per cent skill, 70 per cent management."

Hogan is the greatest manager of them all. Like a brilliant checker player, he plots every shot. He seldom gambles wildly.

Yvette Williams Training 1954 British Empire Games

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

DUNEDIN, N.Z. (CP)—Yvette Williams, New Zealand's greatest woman athlete who won the Olympic broad jump at Helsinki last year, is a definite starter in the 1954 British Empire Games at Vancouver. She holds the games record of 19 feet 4⅝ inches set in Auckland, N.Z., in 1950.

And if anybody thinks they can keep up with the tall, attractive athlete, they should start training right now. Yvette, already in training, has her sights on a 21-foot jump, which would be six inches better than the world record.

New Zealand paid her singular tribute this year when she was named the Dominion's sportsman of the year, the second straight year she has held the honor. It went to her because of her Olympic performance—broad jump winner, sixth in the shot put and 10th in the discus.

LONG DISCUS THROW

She jumped 20 feet 5¾ inches in the Olympic Games and since her return from Helsinki has thrown the discus 155 feet two inches, in an unofficial toss. This has not been equalled by any woman athlete outside Russia and is nearly 14 feet short of the 168 feet 8½ inches hurled by Olympic champion Nina Romanschkova of Russia last year.

Yvette has lost count of her records. She holds the Olympic, Empire Games, New Zealand, Australian and Fijian records for the broad jump; Australian, New Zealand and Fijian records for the shot and discus, and the Fijian records for 50 yards and 100 yards. She has broken records in relay teams, and is a top-class basketball player.

She is beginning her preparation for the 1954 games at once, and to show her determination to exceed her present performances, is transferring from Dunedin, in the far south of New Zealand, to Auckland in the north because the coaches who have trained her for four years, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bellwood, have moved to the northern city.

Yvette says she feels she owes it to New Zealand sport to defend her Empire Games broad jump title.

HUMOROUS APPROACH

Now 23, Yvette is unassuming and unspoiled by her performances, and brings a disarming sense of humor to her approach to sport.

Asked by a serious-minded inquirer what was her diet when preparing for athletic events, she replied: "Food."

Nevertheless when in competition she concentrates with a singleness of purpose that shuts everything else out. Once at an important championship she was in the middle of an approach run in the broad jump when a starter's gun was fired for another event almost alongside her. The report at such close quarters in a tense moment was shattering. Yvette did not pause or swerve but completed her jump.

"How terrible!" a friend said to her as she wrapped up to await the next jump. "The starter should be shot for firing that gun."

Yvette's eyes grew round. "What gun?" she asked.

REACH ARENA AGREEMENT

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Mayor Percy England said Monday the Owen Sound arena commission and Owen Sound Mercurys of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League have agreed on a rental figure on the arena for the 1953-54 season. The figure was not disclosed.

A spokesman for the club said previously the team would play elsewhere or disband unless it received a better rental rate than had been offered.

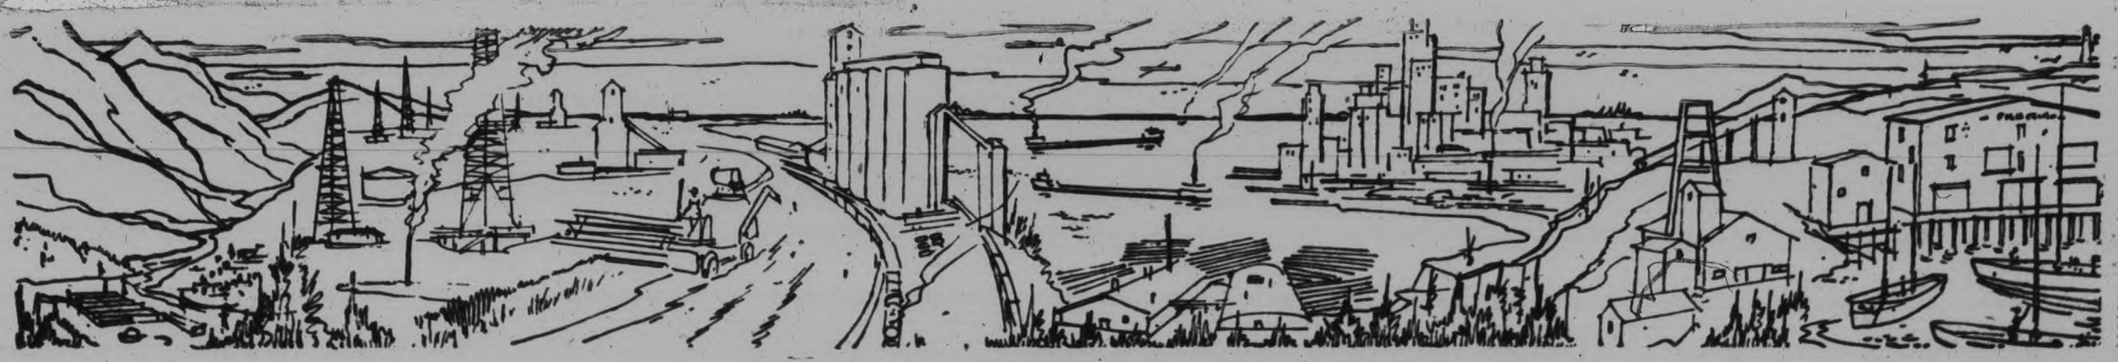
1903 ~ 1953 FIFTY YEARS FORWARD

WITH PRIDE IN A GREAT TRADITION

FORD BUILDS FOR CANADA'S TOMORROW

Today we of Ford of Canada join other companies bearing the same proud name in 25 countries around the world in saluting the Fiftieth Anniversary of our parent firm, Ford Motor Company in the United States. We take pride in the fact that we enter our Fiftieth Year in Canada in August.

Henry Ford was a man of vision and initiative. He wanted to build "a motor car for the multitude—so simple anyone could drive it—so rugged it would stand up under the roughest use." He wanted to build such cars so efficiently and in such numbers that any family with a modest income could afford to own one.



The little group of Canadian business men who undertook in 1904 to build the Ford car in Canada were men of vision and initiative, too. These pioneers faced ridicule and indifference, but their courage and determination carried their organization through to success.

And so Ford of Canada expanded and grew because it continued to look into the future, and because it made a product which brought pleasure to millions; which freed the farmer from isolation; which revolutionized transportation and industry, and brought better working and living conditions to Canadians.

Today, as we look back over the past, we gain inspiration to look forward to the future. We see before us constantly increasing opportunity to serve our country and its people in the era of unprecedented progress and prosperity which lies before us. We accept today, as we have accepted in the past, the challenge to meet the automotive needs of a nation that is going places—the challenge to build the best cars and trucks we know how to produce, and to ensure the complete satisfaction of our customers.

Our $65,000,000 program to enlarge and improve our productive facilities already is more than half completed, and from coast to coast our 1,100 alert and progressive dealers are engaged in undertakings designed to provide even better service for their customers. Our company and our dealers are moving forward with a forward-moving Canada. With complete faith in the future of our great country, we build for Canada's tomorrow.

Lindsay Bridge To Be Built For $57,990 Plus

LINDSAY (ENS)—The bridge committee of Victoria County Council Monday selected the tender of the McLellan Construction Ltd., Mount Forest, for the building this year of the Lindsay bridge, subject to approval of the Department of Highways and the federal Department of Transport.

The McLellan tender was the lowest submitted, being for $57,990. The cost does not include materials to be provided by the county, and architects' fees, amounting to another $26,000. Architects are C. C. Parker and Co. of Toronto.

The building of the bridge is dependent of an increase in the total expenditures grant from the federal government, and the committee is working on ways and means of persuading the Department of Works to bring this about.

Dr. Foster Graham, Liberal candidate in the coming election, has been asked to try and assist Council in obtaining the necessary government grant to make possible the building of the structure.

Other companies tendering for the bridge were as follows: Ontario Construction Co., St. Catharines, $81,954; Rayner Construction Ltd., Leaside, $80,925; Tracey Construction Ltd., Lindsay, $58,295; Robertson Construction and Engineering Co. Ltd., Niagara Falls, $91,487.10; Curran and Briggs Ltd., Toronto, $80,262; Warren C. Brown, Lindsay, $88,177.

It is expected that approval, if it is to be given, will come in time to allow work to start about Aug. 1. A. McLellan of the successful firm stated that about 16 weeks would be required to finish the job. This estimate concurred with that of the architect of some four months.

The 200 foot span across the Scugog on highway 36 in the town, will not be a swing bridge, as it is now. It will be built in two spans, the present swing span to the north will be taken out by the Dept. of Transport and moved, barge.

reportedly, north to Coboconk by barge.

New Outbreak Of Old Disease "Medalitis"

OTTAWA (CP) — Government quarters report the outbreak of an old but infrequent disease—medalitis.

Symptom: A yen to get one of those medals struck to commemorate the crowning of Elizabeth II.

A lot of people both in civilian and military life are reported succumbing to the ancient lure of a medal now that some thousands of them are soon to be handed out.

They are using the old familiar wiles, having their member of Parliament take up their cases and writing in themselves.

From a civilian standpoint, the government has handled this headache neatly by asking a multitude of national organizations to recommend recipients. There will be no individual civilian awards directly decided by the government. The armed forces are drawing up their own lists.

185 RECOMMENDED

Bill Boss, Canadian Press correspondent in Korea, reported today that 185 Canadian Army men in that theatre have been recommended for the medal. Members of the armed forces contingent at the Coronation itself have already received them.

A reporter asked defence headquarters what other military men can expect to get them.

The officer at the other end of the line said he just isn't saying. It's all confidential at this stage.

The lists should be out in a few weeks if you'll leave the powers-that-be free to prepare them.

$20,000 Service Station Given Go-Ahead

Plans for a $20,000 Canadian Oil Co. service station, Lansdowne St. east, were reported to the council Monday night. Issuance of a building permit was authorized in a motion by Ald J. A. Dewart, seconded by Ald. H. T. Rehill.

Application for the permit was received from Arnold Steele. The location of the proposed service station is on the east 200 feet of the Moldaver property. Depth of the lot is 150 ft.

Ald. Norman Graham enquired of City Clerk Outram whether any names were attached to the application indicating "who is going to run it".

Mr. Outram said that Mr. Steele had the plans for the building. He understood that Canadian Oil Co. expected to get a lessee to operate the business. The site is on the north side of Lansdowne St., easterly of the new McGinness industrial plant on the south side.

ONE THIRD OF THE HOMES and buildings in the tiny back-country village of St. Neree, 38 miles southeast of Quebec City, were reduced to ashes when a roaring conflagration swept through the heart of the community Saturday night, killing one man and leaving more than 100 homeless. Seventeen homes, four stores, two garages, a blacksmith shop and the village convent bore the brunt of the fire which was finally brought under control shortly before it attacked the local church, centre.

Says Canada Doesn't Want U.S. As Partner

WASHINGTON (AP)—An opponent of St. Lawrence seaway legislation contended Monday that Canada does not want the United States to join in its construction.

Gregory S. Prince, general solicitor of the Association of American Railroads, which for years has opposed the deep waterway, also told the House of Representatives public works committee:

"If we (the United States) do get in, it will be because Canada is under pressure to let us in."

The committee is considering legislation to permit limited participation with Canada in building of the 27-foot-deep channel in the International Rapids section of the river.

FIRST OF OPPONENTS

Prince was the first of a list of opponents to appear following two days of testimony last week by some 20 supporters of the plan.

His statement that Canada actually preferred building the waterway itself touched off a sharp exchange with Representative Charles Oakman (Rep. Mich.)

Oakman said Prime Minister St. Laurent of Canada visited last year with former President Truman and this year with President Eisenhower about the seaway.

He said that St. Laurent agreed with statements made later by the two presidents that it was desirable to have the seaway built as a joint undertaking.

"I wholly disagree with you," Prince said. "Canada does not want us in."

Request Reprieve

PARIS (Reuters)—Edouard Herriot, president of the National Assembly, today cabled President Eisenhower appealing that condemned atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg be reprieved. Herriot, who is 81 and one of the leaders of the Radical Socialist party, (moderate) said: "For reasons of humanity, I respectfully join my voice to all those who are appealing that the Rosenbergs be reprieved."

COUP IN COLOMBIA—In the Colombian capital, Bogota, Gen. Gustavo Rojas Pinilla (right), has seized the govertment with nation's armed forces which he commands. No blood was shed, nor a shot fired in the revolution which saw President Laureano Gomez (left) placed under guard. Gomez had re-assumed his presidential duties for only a few hours after a 19-month illness when the government fell. One of his first futile acts had been to appoint a new Minister of War who had tried to oust General Rojas.

Railwaymen Bring Troubles To Court

LINDSAY —(ENS)—Lindsay's railyway union men brought their family troubles in police court yesterday, when a local chairman of the union, Thomas Appleton, brought a charge of threatening against George Bullen, a former member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, after a union incident earlier this month.

According to Appleton, it was his job, as chairman to check on the mileages run by each man during a certain period. He checked all men, whether members of the brotherhood or not.

At the end of May, he found Bullen's record some 400 miles over the allotment of 3800 miles. For this he notified Bullen that he would not be allowed to work for eight days, in accordance with the agreement between the union and railway.

Two days later, he alleged Bullen accosted him on his way to work and grabbed him by the throat. Still later he received a telephone call from Bullen, threatening to "hit him so hard he'd kock him back to England".

Defence counsel R. I. Moore, objected to the admission of such evidence, and Magistrate Gee finally upheld him, in dismissing the charge of threatening for lack of evidence.

Counsel also asked Appleton if he had previous trouble with engineers and he admitted he had. Bullen testified that he had been a member of the brotherhood until some six months ago, when he and five other engineers quit, and joined another union.

Magistrate Gee in dismissing the charge said "we like to see peace on this railroad (the CNR) because we all own it. Mr. Appleton had a duty to do, and it we perhaps unpleasant but it couldn't be helped."

Teachers Honored

MILLBROOK—(ENS) — The Home and School executive entertained the teachers of both high and public schools staffs at a tea on Friday afternoon in honor of Miss Helen Black, high school principal, and Miss Bernice Mintha, who are leaving at the end of the present term. Mrs. B. B. Dawson, Home and School president, poured tea.

Stone Pitches No-Hitter To Lace Liflox

Ted Stone, former Oshawa junior baseball pitcher now pitching for both Oshawa senior teams in the Inter - County and Lakeshore leagues, hurled a nine-inning no-hit [illegible] night. His masterful effort enabled Oshawa to breeze to a 6-0 victory for the junior Peterborough Liflox.

Stone this season has baffled batters in both the Intercounyt and Lakesnroe leagues. In the stronger Intercounty competition the youthful pitcher has recorded two victories.

From the first inning on Stone baffled the Liflox with his assortment of curves, slow balls and his speed balls. When the junior did conect with his offerings the Oshawa nine came up with nearly perfect fielding.

The juniors went down in order in every inning but the seventh. Then MacSporran reached first on an error. He died there.

Meanwhile Jerry Frizzene wasn't having too much trouble with Oshawa, considering the junior pitcher was facing senior competition. He held them scoreless in the first but a walk started Oshawa off in the second and they picked up two runs.

He ran into trouble again in the fourth when Oshawa bunched two hits. Frizene's teammates promptly came through with excellent fielding, cutting off the rally. But again in the fifth he was hit for two singles and gave a walk for two more runs.

Oshawa made sure of a victory adding two more runs, singles in the seventh and eigth innings.

Queen Praises Canada's Naval Squadron

By DAVE McINTOSH

ABOARD HMCS QUEBEC (CP)—Canada's navy, along with others of the world, showed its muscles Monday to the Queen in the first royal naval review since 1937.

The fleet, anchored in grey ranks which stretched as far as the horizon, covered 25 square miles of water.

The Queen told Rear-Admiral Roger Bidwell, flag officer of Canada's Coronation squadron, that his ships had made a "splendid" contribution to the review, staged in the sun-washed Solent off Portsmouth.

Admiral Bidwell told reporters after his visit to the royal yacht Surprise that the first thing the Queen asked him was how many ships Canada had in the review.

When he replied "six," the Queen said it was a "splendid" show.

The admiral said that the Queen then discussed her Canadian tour in 1951 and voiced a wish to return to Canada some time.

Canada's warships—the aircraft carrier Magnificent, the cruisers Quebec and Ontario, the destroyer Sioux, and the frigates Swansea and La Hulloise—looked as trim, sleek and lethal as any of the 260 ships in the review.

ONE-THIRD OF STRENGTH

One-third of the Commonwealth's naval might was included in the long lines of ships as the Surprise, bearing the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, swept majestically from Portsmouth harbor for the review.

The Quebec and Ontario joined in a thunderous 21-gun salute.

A stiff southwest wind carried the smoke across the fleet as though from some mammoth naval engagement at close quarters.

The four-inch guns of the Canadian flagship Quebec flashed brighter than the sun. The Magnificent was the first Canadian ship to be reviewed. Eighth in the first line from the flagship, her crew's cheers sounded faint across the water and one could barely pick out the sounds of the national anthem. White sailor's caps flashed in unison as they were flourished during the three cheers.

British sailors shouted "hurrah" while the Canadians roared "hurray." There were no "tigers."

The Quebec's sailors did their cheering near the end of the 1½-hour review as the royal yacht completed its tour. The Queen, dressed in white, waved in reply to the cheers.

STAND ON BRIDGE

She and Philip stood in a glass-enclosed bridge forward of the main bridge on the Surprise. Philip seemed to be consulting a program to make sure which ship they were passing.

Soon after the Queen boarded the battleship Vanguard for dinner, squadron after squadron of navy planes hurtled across the fleet in a 300-plane fly-past.

One jet formation was so low it had to divide to skirt the mast of a British cruiser. Sixteen planes from the Magnificent took part in the plane parade.

SHIPS LIT UP

After dark the fleet was blacked out and then lit up together on a signal from the Queen on the Vanguard.

The Magnificent, with lights strung around her flight deck and up the island, looked like a huge dinner table with one giant candle in the centre. Lights on the cruisers were strung from bow to stern over the superstructure, replacing the gay pennants of earlier in the day.

The neon lights of the Portsmouth waterfront and the Isle of Wight winked in the distance.

Lighting up was followed by a fireworks display, this time resembling a naval night engagement.

Nearly 1,000 guests were aboard Canada's ships for the review, including some 650 Canadian marchers in the June 2 Coronation parade who visited the Magnificent.

The Coronation squadron leaves for Halifax Wednesday, leaving behind the cruiser Ontario for a refit in British yards.

Males Agree To Compromise

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Everybody's happy out on 42nd street north today. The males signed a compromise agreement with their wives to end a week-long strike of the husbands.

Under the agreement, the husbands will continue turning over their pay to their wives. In return, the wives agreed to ease off on demands that their mates do some of the household chores.

Jim Caldwell, 53-year-old railroad conductor, spearheaded the strike. He started picketing the street, bearing a sign which said the wives were unfair to husbands. Twenty-five other husbands in the area joined in.

They demanded that their wives quit forcing husbands to cut the lawn on hot days, paint the porch and spank the baby.

The wives refused to get up and cook breakfast.

The compromise permits the men to wait for the cool of the evening before mowing the lawn. It also allows the males to go fishing as often as they want to. The wives may go along if they keep quiet.

Man Charged With Abduction Of Girl, 9

Chief Constable John Thompson today asked Peterborough parents to warn their children not to accept rides offered by strangers following the appearance in police court Monday of 24-year-old Frederick Blaby, 554 Romaine St., who was remanded for a week without bail on charges of abduction and indecent assault of a nine-year-old girl.

The girl, a fourth-grade public school pupil, was the object of a frantic search by police Saturday night when she failed to return home after taking a music lesson at the YWCA.

She walked into her parents' home about 9.45 a.m. Sunday after spending the night in the car of a strange man. Indications were that the child had not been criminally assaulted but she told police that she had been molested.

Police are waiting today for the report of a medical examination.

FOUND CAR

When her return was reported to police, Detective Sergeant John Stevenson and Detective Douglas Farthing accompanied the girl and her father to a field beside a side road running off the Patterson gravel pit road near the city dump and discovered Blady's car stuck in the mud. They found the girl's music lesson in the car.

After leading police to the scene of her abduction, the girl was interviewed by the police matron. She told her that she left the YWCA about 6.30 p.m. Saturday and a Byersville bus to Monaghan Road and Chamberlain St. where a man in a dark blue car stopped her and asked her where was George Street.

She gave him directions but he said he did not know where to go and told her to get in the car and show him.

ASKED WAY AGAIN

Instead of driving to George St. he drove up to Civic Hospital and down again to Highway 7 where he stopped and asked some boys where the turn to Toronto was. They told him and he drove along the highway, turned around and drove past the Ready-Mix concrete plant until they were half way to Port Perry.

He stopped the car and asked her to get out of the car while he got some pussywillows. When they returned to the car he found he was out of gas so he coasted down the hill and got some gas at a service station.

He then drove back along the road to the city dump and kept driving until he finally got stuck in the mud. When it got dark he fell asleep for about an hour.

When he made improper suggestions to her she said she would scream and pretended to go to sleep. He molested her with his hand and then fell asleep. When he woke up he looked at his watch and found it was 3.45 a.m.

WALKED BACK

He tried unsuccessfully to get the car out of the mud again and they started to walk back along the C. P. R. tracks to Peterborough. He was carrying a fishing pole and some beer in a bag. He threw two or three empties away and she said she counted about 19 full bottles.

The girl said that when they reached Monaghan Rd. the man made her stand up by a post until he got out of sight. Then she walked the remainder of the distance to her home, arriving about 9.45 a.m.

She was taken to Civic Hospital for an examination and returned to her home at 2 p.m.

After identifying the car as Blaby's, police learned that Blaby had returned home about 9.30 am. Sunday. He was arrested and police obtained a written statement signed by him but the contents were not available.

Shortage Of Ministers Concerns Baptist Parley

HAMILTON (CP)—Concern over a shortage of ministers is expressed in four committee reports to be presented in the next three days to the 65th annual Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec.

Termed "critical" by the home missions board, the shortage draws further comment in the reports of the board of governors of McMaster University; the advisory council of ministerial training, ordination, credentials and discipline; and the churches' and pastors' advistory committee.

During the past year we have faced a critical shortage of ministers and at times we have had as many as 40 vacant churches in the convention," the home mission board report says. "This is a serious situation and one that ought to challenge every church and pastor. A denomination which fails to provide its own educated and trained ministry is bound to die."

GET SOME RELIEF

Relief has come from men arriving from Britain to settle in home mission churches, and from divinity students who have been caring for full-time charges during their theological course, the report adds.

The board of governors' report, to be presented by President G. P. Gilmour Thursday morning, finds encouragement in young people offering themselves for service "in a day of religious unrest and large monetary rewards in other callings."

The convention is in danger of losing some churches because of the inadequate supply of ministers, the advisory council on ministerial training says in its report. Self-supporting churches which do not or cannot pay the minimum salary are finding it impossible to find a minister.

Narrowly Avert Serious Split

BIGWIN INN (CP)—A split between English - speaking Junior Chamber of Commerce groups and their Quebec counterparts was narrowly averted here Monday at the opening sessions of the annual Jaycee convention.

The French-speaking delegates refused to pay a full schedule of dues to the national organization because they said they felt the language barrier kept them from deriving full benefits from the national group's activities.

English-speaking banches pay $1 a member to the national organization. They protested that the Quebec federation should not have voting rights until paying the $1.

Settlement was reached when the federation agreed to pay up all its arrears and contracted to pay 25 per cent of its membership during 1954 if the incoming national executive agrees.

Debate is being speeded up here this year by the introduction of translation equipment. The equipment was purchased by the Sarnia chamber.

Senate Group Approves Seaway Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Senate foreign relations committee today approved, 13 to 2, legislation to authorize the United States to join with Canada in constructing the St. Lawrence seaway.

The bill approved is identical to one on which a hearing is now being held by the House of Representatives public works committee.

Chairman Alexander Wiley (Rep. Wis.), announcing the vote, told reporters he could not be certain when the bill would be debated in the Senate.

Wiley said Senators George (Dem. Ga.) and Fulbright (Dem. Ark.) voted against the measure. Only seven of the 15 committee members were present. The absentee members voted by proxy.

The bill would authorize the United States to build that section of the seaway in the river's International Rapids. Canada would build the other sections. The seaway would give ocean-going shipping access to Lake Erie.

The American share of the project would be financed through issuance of $105,000,000 of bonds to the U. S. treasury.

Actual cost of the American construction is estimated at $96,000,000, including interest charges during the construction period. Canada's share of the cost is estimated at $170,000,000-odd.

President Eisenhower and his cabinet have approved the seaway proposal.

Fisher's body was found on the shores of the lake in front of his tent.

Given Three Months For Blanket Theft

LINDSAY (ENS)—A Lindsay man convicted last week, in court her, of theft of a blanket from a car, was sentenced Monday to three months definite and three months indefinite in reformatory after his record had been read to court.

In an attempt to have McGuire learn it this time, Magistrate Gee sentenced him to reformatory, "rather than have you up at the county jail in this hot weather".

Hold Dairy Day At Alma, Expect 5,000

TORONTO (CP)—A Dairy Day to acquaint southwestern Ontario farmers with new developments in dairy practice will be held Wednesday at Alma, 16 miles northwest of Guelph.

The Day, believed the first of its kind in Canada, will be held on the 200-acre farm of Mervyn Shantz. Officials of the Ontario department of agriculture, sponsoring the event, expect some 5,000 persons to attend.

Visitors will be shown Mr. Shantz's pole loafing barn, a comparatively inexpensive structure in which cattle are housed in one big area in which they roam at will instead of being quartered in stalls. Cows are taken to a separate section of the barn for milking.

COWS HEALTHIER

Mr. Shantz says cows quartered this way are healthier and the main advantage is in time saved in handling the animals.

Because pole loafing barns can be cheaply and easily constructed, they are expected to be of particular interest to farmers whose buildings have been wrecked by tornadoes and high winds in southwestern Ontario during past weeks.

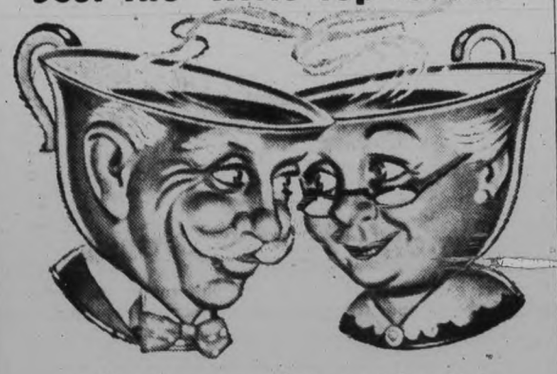
Ontario agriculture officials will speak on feeding and management of dairy cattle. Farm equipment will be set up in booths operated by dealers. George Doucett, acting premier, will open the Day.

Caterpillars Making Highways Slippery.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Millions of wiggling tent caterpillars crawled on to highways in parts of northeastern Minnesota Monday night, making the roads so slippery highway sanding crews had to be called out.

Smashed under the wheels of passing vehicles, the caterpillars formed a slimy coating on roads—especially at the crests of hills.

A soo line freight train was stopped on a slight grade by a combination of oil weed spray and a covering of caterpillars on the tracks. The tracks had to be sanded before the train could move on.



UN-FROZEN FOODS

WAY UP in Alaska, within the Arctic Circle, one 70-year-old gardener has found how to get his full quota of home-grown vegetable vitamins. He works gardening wonders by "trapping" the brief summer sun with reflecting aluminum foil barriers, set up behind his vegetables.

This Arctic application takes a leaf out of the book of modern builders and others who make use of aluminum's remarkable reflecting and insulating properties. Demand for Canadian aluminum in foil, sheet, rod, tube and other forms today totals one billion pounds a year. When Alcan completes its present expansion programs, supply will be further increased. Companionship Said Secret For Happy Marital Union

By VIVIAN BROWN

NEW YORK (AP)—Right in the middle of this month of brides, let's pause and ponder an age-old problem—what is the recipe for a happy marriage?

Is it a wardrobe of furs for the lady of the house? Or a palate-tickling cuisine for the king of the roost? Or is it mysterious passion that keeps two hearts bound in wedded bliss?

"Nonsense," says Danish entertainer Carl Brisson.

"The secret of a happy marriage is so simple that many people discover it. Companionship—a mutual sharing of interest—is the one ingredient absolutely essential to the marital union."

MARRIED 36 YEARS

Brisson ought to know. The popular international star, idol of the older woman for a quarter century, has been happily married to Cleo Brisson for 36 years—since both were 16.

Husbands are the principal offenders against this marriage rule, Carl says. He cites these examples:

1. Males who marry their jobs and underestimate the intelligence and compassion of their wives to understand their troubles. Women have a natural capacity for understanding, but some husbands treat them like servant girls.

2. Men who forget that many big fortunes are built frequently on a wife's penny savings.

3. Men who do not keep their wives occupied, so that they have too much time for quarrels.

4. Men who neglect to have a conversation with their wives. They come home from work and bury their noses in the paper while waiting for their dinner.

5. Men who fight back when the wife is in a temper, instead of quieting her with a firm commanding "keep quiet."

THE OTHER SIDE

But it takes two to ruin a marriage, Carl agrees, and here are some of the mistakes he thinks women make:

1. Being jealous of other women (Cleo didn't mind even when a woman followed them around the world to watch Carl perform. Matter of fact, she said she was flattered.)

2. They don't brag about their husbands enough. If they don't do it, other women will.

3. She is likely to scorn his old friends, instead of welcoming them to the house. (If he doesn't see them at home, he'll find a way.)

4. A complex about keeping up with the Jones'. This drives many a man to drink when he fails to satisty his wife's unreasonable demands.

5. Neglect of the husband's family, while he finds his wife's relatives parked on the doorstep all the time.

Religious differences are not obstacles to happy marriages, providing each partner learns respect for the other's religion. Carl and Cleo are of different faiths but he says:

"I would be nothing today without the strength Cleo gets from her religion. It has helped bring us through difficult times."

Carl believes in young marriages. But not everybody can meet in a community cradle as he and his wife did at the age of nine months. They have been sharing their interests ever since. At one point they even worked in adjoining millinery shops. They began "going steady" at 12.

Their son Freddie, who is married to Hollywood's Rosaline Russell, was born a year after their marriage.

COMEBACK—Mrs. Mildred Zaharias, recovering from a recent major operation, does it this time on the family car. Until she is able to pick up her golf career again, the Texas Babe must be content with painting, knitting and keeping the car bright and shiny.

Dean Stresses Importance Of Nutrition

OTTAWA (CP)—An American university professor said Monday night that democracy can only exist in countries whose citizens are adequately fed.

Therefore, declared Dr. E. Neige Todhunter, woman dean of the school of home economics of the University of Alabama, the survival of democracy depends in part on development of the science of nutrition.

She told an annual convention of the Canadian Dietetic Association that the high-standard-of-living countries can help ensure the survival of democratic government by according technical assistance to increase the food supply of many parts of Asia, Africa, the Middle East and Central America.

Not only was technical assistance necessary, but "practical assistance on dietetics must also be given to these people. . . . food production alone is not enough."

It was necessary also to provide for good nutrition at all economic levels. "It is of little use to tell families what to eat if the foods we recommend are beyond the family budget."

DELIVERS LECTURE

Dr. Todhunter was delivering the Violet Ryley-Kathleen Jeffs Foundation memorial lecture to the association's continuing convention. The lectureship was established in 1949 to commemorate the two Canadian dieticians.

Present-day knowledge, Dr. Todhunter said, has not yet resulted in nations of well-fed healthy human beings. It was hard to overcome falacies "encouraged by some charlatans and faddists who have little concern for truth and, through advertising, . . . promote their own products to the enrichment of themselves but to the nutritional detriment of their followers."

For overweight persons, she had an unusual message. She said "there is no such thing as a fattening food." Overweight was a problem of calorie imbalance and neither a "seven-day diet," "milk and banana diet" or any other spectacular dietary formula would reduce weight and maintain health at the same time.

TAUGHT TO COOK

Earlier Monday, S. J. Bailey, federal civil defence welfare officer, spoke of a project to teach housewives to prepare meals on curbside cooking units for 500 or 1,000 people without gas, without electricity and with little water.

In an atomic attack, the first problem would be to feed the survivors and with men and younger women in the services, the whole burden would fall on older women.

Mr. Bailey said Canadian civil defence officials are studying possibilities of implementing the project.

Urges Change YW Policy To Meet Postwar Pattern

QUEBEC CITY—Avenues of YWCA work which should be further developed if the organization is to maintain its tradition of meeting changing needs of Canadian women were brought to the attention of the 19th convention by Mrs. J. L. Savage, Toronto, retiring after four years as national president. She spoke at the opening sessions in Chateau Frontenac.

"Fine as our predecessors were, we shall not make our best contribution as pale shadows of them. It is for us to add our own color to the picture of the Canadian YWCA," said Mrs. Savage, reviewing sixty years' history.

A large group of women whose lives have been altered by the changing economic and social pattern of the postwar years, Mrs. Savage said, is the young marrieds, especially those of the business and professional class. These girls, often highly trained suddenly find themselves immersed in cooking, cleaning, marketing and eventually boy-chasing for none of which they are prepared, she said.

Recent surveys in the United States released quite alarming figures as to the number of frustrated, nervous wrecks among this group. More than one-third of the Canadian Y membership are married, she reminded. "Are we considering their special needs in program planning?"

Miss Phyllis Haslam, personne secretary to the YWCA national Council, reported that two-thirds of the membership is Protestant, the other being composed largely of Roman Catholics, with some of the Jewish, Greek Orthodox and Greek Catholic faiths.

"The largest proportion of the YW membership is in the 16 to 20 age group," she said, "with office workers forming the greater part of the membership in large centres, then home makers high school students and professional workers. "Industrial workers are a small group in the YW especially in cities."

In a summary of activities since the last convention in 1949, Miss Agnes Roy, national executive director of the YWCA, said that rural clubs had increased. "There are 17 of these clubs with an enrolmen tof 850," she said.

Of the 58 YWCA's, join YM-YWCA's and branches, 48 hac recreation programs. Thirty associations own gyms, 14 own swimmings pools, five rent gyms and 12 rent pools.

"There are 58 associations and branches of the YWCA," she said, "39 with residence, 37 of which have food services." Surveys showed wide variation in costs connected with residence accommodation and food service. Accommodation ranged from 72 cents.

DOROTHY DIX:

Lives Reckless Existence After Engagement Broken

DEAR MISS DIX: My 20-year-old sister was a fine person until she broke her engagement a year ago. Now she is going around with a group of girls who, in my opinion, are not nice. My sister has begun to smoke, and I am afraid she is drinking, too. She and the girls go to dances out-of-town. My parents are very hurt over my sister's behavior, though they don't know as much about it as I do. She made me promise, for instance, not to tell that she smoked. There is a very nice boy who is in love with her, and though she dates him occasionally, she goes out with other boys, too. We used to be such good friends. She'd talk over anything with me, although I am four years younger, but now she won't confide in me. Should I tell my parents all I know, or is it better to keep things bottled up?

T. T.

ANSWER: Your sister was disappointed in love, and is taking the weak, cowardly way out of her heartache. Instead of facing her problem and fighting her way back to a new love, and a new life, she's succumbing to the easy way of seeking oblivion in questionable pleasure.

She'll undoubtedly come to her senses before real trouble sets in, and she's fortunate in having a fine boy waiting for her. She is also lucky in her younger sister, whose loving concern should also be an added incentive for a change of tempo. Before approaching your parents, have a showdown with your sister. Whether she wants to talk or not, tell her you're going to make a little speech, then point out how she's hurting your parents, the nice boy who loves her, and herself. After a year of nursing a broken heart, she should be ready to listen to reason. You have an unusually sensible approach to life for a girl your age, and since it's practically certain that your sister still has some of her old feeling of comradeship for you, I'm sure a direct approach will help.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My son, Stewart, is 16, tall, good-looking and doing very well in high school. When he went to elementary school he had lots of friends, but now he goes to high school some distance away and has no friends. Whenever I look out and see other boys having fun it breaks my heart. I know I nag him a lot about it, and we argue.

DIANA S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Surely there are activities at your son's school in which he can participate. The thing for him to do is get into a group there, and without making too much effort, he could make himself one of the crowd. You certainly are wrong in nagging the boy about his lack of friends. Such tactics will only serve to push him further into a corner. Leave him alone and let him find his own niche.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 18, and have been going with the same boy for three years. Now he's in service and I never even receive a letter from him.

B. E.

ANSWER: After going with you for three years I'm sure the boy's negligence isn't due to loss of interest. The reason lies either in lack of time, difficulty in letter-writing, or slow mails. Keep on writing yourself, until you have more convincing proof that he no longer cares for you.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 13, and have a sister 6. My mother makes me take her every place I go, and I have lost many friends because I can't go out. Do you think I should have to take her with me all the time; don't you think my mother should watch her sometimes?

ANN

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I do agree that you should have time to go out with your friends alone, but there may be reasons why your mother must give you this responsibility. You don't say why you must have your sister with you constantly, but if it's to help out in a family emergency, just make the best of it for the time being.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

How To Make Hot Rolls

A slick trick for earning a quick reputation as a clever cook is to make hot rolls.

This lofty observation has been made by me before, but so few of you have faith in your hot-yeast-bread potential that you still hesitate.

It is a cinch to do. If it were not I wouldn't do it so often, because to work a party in I have to be efficient to the last minute.

My young people remind me to make them for sure when their friends are due, because their friends expect them. Sometimes I wish they were not such articulate press agents.

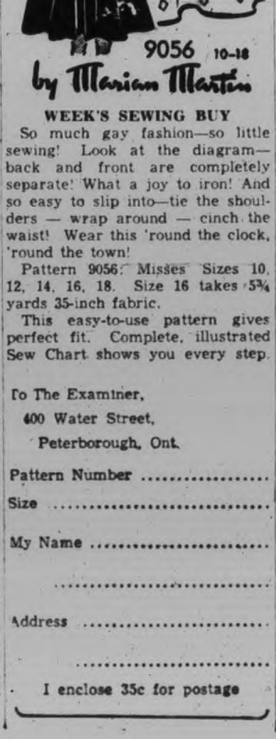
If you want to serve hot rolls at 6 o'clock for dinner and you think you are going to have six hundry diners, here is the recipe with exact timing.

EMEM'S HOT ROLLS

Soak 1 package of granular yeast in ¼ cup lukewarm water with ½ teaspoon sugar for 10 minutes, then stir it a little. Meanwhile in a mixing bowl stir together 6 tablespoons sugar, 6 tablespoons soft shortening, ¾ teaspoon salt and 1 very large egg or 2 very small ones. Beat these ingredients until they are perfectly smooth. Now add 5 tablespoons warm milk, and 3 cups of sifted all-purpose or bread flour and the yeast, and beat until smooth. This is stiff, so you haxe to clean off the spoon and mix it with a kneading motion with the hands. Scrape down sides of the bowl, spread top with melted butter, cover and let rise at about warm room temperature until at lease double in bulk. (I made some yesterday starting at 9 a.m. I let them rise in the kitchen at 70 degrees Fahr. until 1:30 p.m.) Roll out the dough on lightly floured board to less than ½-inch thickness if you would like to make crescents as I did. Cut dough into 4-inch wide strips, and cut these into triangles 2½ inches wide at base. Roll them up, starting at base, and place on greased baking pan, tucking the point underneath. Let rise again, covered; if room is only 70 degrees Fahr. they are ready to bake at 425 degrees Fahr. by 5:45 p.m. If desired, dough may be spread with butter after it is rolled and before it is shaped into crescents. Bake about 12 or 15 minutes.

NOTE: This dough may be used for cloverleaf, Parkerhouse, or any shape of roll. You may substitute 1 cup whole wheat flour for one of the cups of white flour if desired.

CINNAMON ROLLS



These are made from sweet dough. This sweet dough may be used for coffee cakes, or tea rings or any of the fancy sweet dough yeast breads.

For two dozen rolls, soak one package granular yeast in ¼ cup lukewarm water with ½ teaspoon sugar for 10 minutes. Meanwhile mix together in a bowl ¾ cup of lukewarm milk, ¼ cup sugar and 1 teaspoon salt. Mix well, then add 1 egg, ¼ cup soft shortening, and beat until perfectly smooth. Add soaked yeast and 3½ cups sifted all-purpose or bread flour. This dough should be so soft it is almost sticky. Knead it on lightly floured board, giving it 20 punches and turns. Return to the bowl, grease top, cover and let rise again. Now on floured board roll dough out—it should be divided into two for all of it is too much to handle on the board at once. Roll out each half. For cinnamon rolls spread each half with 2 tablespoons softened butter and ½ cup white or brown sugar mixed with 2 teaspoons cinnamon. Roll up tightly, beginning at wide side. Pinch ends of roll together to seal them. With sharp knife cut into 1-inch slices. Place, without touching, on greased pan, or in muffin tins. Cover and let rise until doubled and light to touch. This takes at least 1 hour at room temperature, or if it is a hot day about 45 minutes. Bake at 375 degrees Fahr. for about 25 or 30 minutes.

TEA RING

Make same as cinnamon rolls up to before slicing. Then place sealed edge down in a ring on greased baking pan. Join ends of ring and seal. With scissors, snip deep cuts 2-3 day through ring at 1-inch spaces. Twist each section to lie on its side. Let rise. Bake same as cinnamon rolls. Tea ring is usually sprinkled, before being rolled, with raisins or nuts or cherries. Very impressive too.

Enumeration

the party organizations only.

ONE TO EACH HOME

Secondly, in the previous general election, a printed copy of the preliminary was sent to every voter. This time, a copy will be mailed to one member of the family only—usually the head of the household.

Nomination day will be July 27, 14 days before the election, in the board room of the Legion Hall from noon until 2 p.m., when the candidates and their official agents will be required to attend.

Although Mr. McLellan has the 158 enumerators "pretty well lined up "for their duties beginning June 22, he won't know until after they have completed their lists how many polling stations there will be. It will depend on the total number of eligible voters. Usually there are about 350 voters for each polling station, although the number varies one way or the other with an attempt to make the location as convenient as possible for the voters.

Voting will actually get under way on Thursday August 6 with the first advance poll for such people as commercial travellers and sailors who cannot be present on Monday, the official election day. Advance polling will continue on Friday and Saturday, August 7 and 8 in the office of the District Returning Officer.

BUSY OUTLOOK

Between that time and now, Mr. McLellan expects to be one of the busiest men in the city. Printed material for the election was first mailed last July and he already has received about six mail bags full and 10 or 12 boxes. Altogether, there are 163 different forms listed for his use, with literally thousands of copies of many of them.

Among the supplies which he has already received are substantial cardboard covers for the preliminary voters' lists which are to be posted up in each subdivision, an improvement over previous elections when wind and rain usually played havoc with the lists, tearing and smudging them.

Not on hand yet are the large sheets of ballot paper prepared by the Queen's Printer. When they do arrive, Mr. McLellan will have them on hand to send out to the local printer for the addition of candidates' names and the date of the vote. The large sheets are at the same time cut and made into books, each page of which is numbered.

One matter that doesn't concern Mr. McLellan is the making of special arrangements for the armed service vote, both at home and abroad; for persons in Department of Veterans Affairs hospitals and for prisoners of war. These are the concern of Chief Electoral Officer Castonguay.

In the matter of voting, Mr. McLellan is in a class with judges; Indians, except those who have served with the armed forces or who have signed a waiver of income tax exemption; inmates of prisons; persons restrained of liberty of movement, as the act says, because of mental disease, and some others. He cannot vote.

VOTE ON TIES

Only in the event of there being a tie vote in Peterborough West can Mr. McLellan cast a ballot. At one time, no provision was made for breaking a tie and, in the election of 1871, the first election after Manitoba came into Confederation, two men in the riding of Marquette each polled 282 votes.

The Parliamentary Guide reports that, after due consideration by the committee on privileges and elections, both men were declared elected. Each in turn ran afoul of the rules of parliament by subscribing to the oath and taking his seat prematurely. Before the matter was disposed of, parliament was dissolved.

At the subsequent election of 1872, the voters settled things in their own fashion by electing a third man.

Mr. McLellan has never been faced withe embarrassing necessity of having to cast a deciding vote.

"We've never had a tie vote and I hope we never do," he said. Probably the 1949 vote was close enough.

In that year, Gordon K. Fraser, the Progressive-Conservative candidate, was elected in Peterborough West with 10,981 votes. His closest rival was the Liberal candidate Aubrey "Dit" Clapper with 10,738 while Howard Miles, the CCF standard-bearer polled 2,804 votes.

Ah-Choo!

A bout of sneezing that momentarily seized an Otonabee man Monday night may cost him as much as $50. George Edwards, 56, of Keene was driving along the county road to Lang when he started to sneeze. By the time he had completed a bone-shaking series of "ah-choos" he was in the ditch and his 1950-model car was perched on top of a rock, causing anywhere up to $50 damage to the underside of the car. Mr. Edward's brief description to OPP Constable Bruce Tillson: "I started sneezing and by the time I had finished the third one I was in the ditch."

Farmer Killed By Tractor

LINDSAY (ENS)—A Mariposa township farmer, Arthur Hubbard, was instantly killed Monday when a tractor overturned on him.

Provincial police who investigated said Hubbard was cultivating a field when a disc became stuck in the ground. His 15-year-old son, Ivan, brought his father a chain and Hubbard hooked it to the rear of the tractor.

The chain became tight with tension as they tried to free the disc and finally the tractor flipped over, pinning Hubbard beneath the rear fender. He died instantly.

Constable Jim Plumbtree of Lindsay OPP detachment investigated the accident.

Hubbard is survived by his widow, seven sons and three daughter: Kenneth of Myrtle, Murray of London, Lewis of Ivy, Gordon of Foremost, Alta., Clifford of Port Perry, Donald of Angus, Ivan at home, Betty and Shirlie of Peterborough, and Mary at home. He is a native of Barrie and lived in Oshawa until 1947.

Kicked By Cow, Farmer, 78, Dies

PORT HOPE—Kicked by a cow nine days ago, Charles Goodman, 78-year-old district farmer, died Sunday in Peterborough Civic Hospital.

Mr. Goodman and his wife had been tying up cattle in their barn when the accident occurred. She stepped from behind the animals to find her husband lying in the gutter behind the stalls.

Mr. Goodman was treated by a doctor, sent home, and later taken to Peterborough for further treatment. Later in the week his condition worsened, and he died Sunday.

Surviving are his widow, the former Bessie Clark, and four sons, Charles Jr., James, George and Clarence. A fifth son, Bruce, was drowned in the Ganaraska River last year. Funeral service was held today in Port Hope.

Music Examinations To Be Held In City

Two members of the faculty of the Royal Conservatory of Music of Toronto will conduct examinations for the Conservatory in Peterborough beginning June 19.

William Wells Hewitt will conduct examinations from June 19 to the 25. Mr. Hewitt is a member of the organ faculty of the Royal Conservatory and also organist and choir director of St. James Cathedral in Toronto. Previous to coming to Canada in 1933 he was organist at the Collegiate Church in Stratford-on-Avon.

The other faculty member is Samuel J. Dolin, who for several years was on the teaching staff of Trinity College, Port Hope, and at the same time served as music supervisor for the counties of Durham and Northumberland. He will conduct examinations from June 22 to 25.

Allow Traffic Up George St. Retailers Urge

R. W. Sutton, operator of the service station on the east side of George St., south of Murray St., presented a petition to the council Monday night requesting the removal of the "no left turn" sign at the southeast corner of George and Charlotte Streets.

That directive routed cars up Water St. "past shabby blocks," preventing visitors from seeing the modern stores on Peterborough's main business street. Retailers on George St. did not get a chance to display their windows and goods to motoring visitors.

Aldermen Graham and Burrows said they had signed the petition with many other main street retailers.

Mr. Sutton said the petition was asking the council to permit the left hand turn into George St. from Charlotte.

Acting Mayor Miller recalled that the council had obtained a report on Peterborough traffic conditions from a study made by Inspector Page of the traffic division of the Toronto Police Department.

"One of his recommendations was that we should not have a left hand turn at that corner," Acting Mayor Miller said. "He went further than that in his report, but that was as far as the council was prepared to go at that time. Traffic is an overall problem, and is an important concern of the city."

SIDE-STEP MAIN STREET

"Peterborough has a nice business street in George St.," Mr. Sutton said, "but that sign shoots cars through to Water. They have no chance of going up George St."

"Peterborough has 40,000 people and we can't get them all driving up George St.," Acting Mayor Miller remarked.

The council was concerned about ways of diverting that volume of traffic to eliminate congestion, but the petition was requesting it be brought into the centre of the city, Acting Mayor Miller said.

Mr. Sutton said the "no left turn" rule was not helping business, as indicated by records. "It is depriving motor visitors from seeing our main street and most of our best stores," Mr. Sutton emphasized in concluding his statement.

Merchants were losing business which they could get, and they were looking for action, Ald. Graham said. He quoted one $20 sale that he missed last Saturday, and which he heard about later. "If this goes to the traffic committee it will be some time before they deal with it."

City Clerk Outram, a member of the traffic committee, said there would be a meeting in less than a week.

On that assurance, a motion by Aldermen Graham and Burrows referred the petition to the special committee. Acting Mayor Miller said he sympathized with the merchants "but we've got to have a left hand turn or not."

Ald. Burrows told the council that he had signed the petition, sponsored by merchants, "and there is quite a strong feeling in that regard". "I am not suggesting that this is the only solution, but I'd like to see the council consider it fully."

Engleburn Residents Protest Train Smoke

Engleburn residents complained to the council Monday night of increased smoke and noise from engines in the C.P.R. yards on the west side of the river. Their petition was orally supported by Dr. A. R. Stevenson.

"We suggest that an electric engine would eliminate this nuisance to our neighborhood," Dr. Stevenson said.

Shunting of cars and making up trains appeared to have increased to a large extent with no consideration to the home owners in Engleburn, on the Ashburnham side of the river.

Granted that a certain amount of shunting was necessary into the properties of the Quaker Oats Co. and Dewart Milling Co., Dr. Stevenson said, but a modern type of engine would relieve the Engleburn area of the smoke and much of the noise.

"I think it is a move in the right direction," Acting Mayor Miller commented.

Council adopted a motion by Ald. P. J. Anglesey forwarding this protest to C. P. R. authorities and recommending to them in a resolution that they substitute a diesel engine for the yard work.

Acting Mayor Thanks Council Members

Acting Mayor Miller thanked the members of the council Monday night for the support they had given him during the absence of Mayor Waddell.

"As Mayor Waddell will be back with us for the next council meeting, this will be my last meeting to preside. I want to express my appreciation of the whole hearted support I have received from every member. I thank you sincerely for your co-operation. I want to say thank you, thank you very much."

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

An open meeting of the pro-tem Peterborough Historical Society will be held in the Public Library Wednesday night when the society's constitution will be read and officers elected. A bus tour of the city is being sponsored by the society before the meeting for a survey of early Peterborough homes.

A negro educator, Dr. Sanya D. Onabarmiro, pays tribute to that pernicious little insect, the malarial mosquito, in an article published recenly in a Nigerian newspaper.

Were it not for the mosquito, he says, Nigeria would long since have been overrun by white men, the country would be a vast plantation and its African inhabitants would be crowded in reserves like their brethren in South Africa.

"Let us give thanks, therefore, for the mosquito, which has saved the land of our fathers for us" writes the doctor. "We cannot sing its praises too often. The least we can do now is to engrave its picture on our national flag."

HELPED TO FORESTALL

Doubtless Dr. Onabarmiro had his tongue firmly in cheek when he made these comments. But on one point, at least, what he says is no joke. That is his suggestion that the mosquito (and he might have added, the climate) did help to forestall heavy white immigration into West Africa. Malaria and other tropical ills fought back white colonization for many years on Africa's west coast. And even today, with the benefit of modern drugs, it is no treat to live there. The "White Man's Grave" they used to call it in the old days. Most intending settlers gave the west coast a wide berth, preferring to make their homes in temperate South Africa, or in the highlands of Rhodesia, Angola, Kenya or the eastern Belgian Congo. Those who came to the west coast came mainly as administrators, missionaries and technicians—few as settlers.

INTERESTING STUDY

The white settler in Africa is an interesting study. Unquestionably he has made a major contribution to the economic development of the continent. But it must be said with equal emphasis that he has also contributed heavily to the racial distrust and tension that afflict large parts of Africa. It is no accident that in British territories in Africa, racial feeling tends to vary in proportion to the influx of white settlers.

The settler—unlike the colonial administrator, whose real home is in Britain — is usually a man who has staked his all in Africa. Naturally he is concerned over the future security of his properties and his family. His biggest worry is that the black man, because of his numerical superiority, might some day gain political supremacy thus ending the white man's privileged position. Most white settlerstlers are dedicated to the principle of permanent white supremacy. The average settler resents and resists political advance for the African majority. He is also in chronic disagreement with the Colonial Office which, he thinks, is weak and often inefficient in its handling of the natives.

In territories where white settlers are well entrenched—Kenya and the Rhodesias for instance—the Africans look to Whitehall for protection against excessive encroachment on their rights. But experience has shown that as the settler communities grow in strength, the authority of the Colonial Office diminishes. In Southern Rhodesia, for example, the settler minority is in virtual control of the government, though Britain retains certain powers which it uses with discretion.

MORE SKILFUL HANDLING

There is a great deal of difference between the color discrimination in Southern Rhodesia and that of the adjacent Union of South Africa, except that the Rhodesians have handled their situation with considerably more skill. Southern Rhodesia boasts that not a single life has been lost in the maintenance of law and order in that country since 1897.

Southern Rhodesia will be lucky if it can maintain that record throughout the years ahead. In the face of almost universal opposition from African leaders in Southern Rhodesia, Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland, those three territories will probably shortly be linked into a central African federation. There is much to be said for federation as a principle, but there are indeed grave doubts whether the African majority will get a square deal under the proposed arrangements.

Pious talk of partnership between the races is fashionable in Africa these days, and it comes easily to the lips of white politicians. Unfortunately—in the case of the politicians at least—there is little sincerity behind it. For example, it has been asked, rightly, how the proponents of central African federation can talk sincerely of partnership when they have failed, in the Rhodesias anyway, to abolish certain flagrant kinds of racial discrimination which exist in those territories.

Nothing has done more to stir up racial animosity in Africa than the color bar in social relations, industry and politics. And the social color bar—which should be the easiest of all to rectify—has been especially damaging, because it is felt most by leading Africans whose influenc eis far out of proportion to their numbers. The social color bar is at its worst in South Africa, but it is a pernicious trouble-maker in a number of other territories.

In areas like the Gold Coast and Nigeria, on the other hand, the color bar is almost nonexistent. Africans in those countries are noisily insistent on equal rights and, in most fields, have them. Such troubles as there are arise mainly from political causes. Black and white mingle in hotel lobbies and other public places without discrimination. The Island Club in Lagos, Nigeria, where Africans and white expatriates meet daily in a congenial atmosphere, is an outstanding experiment in race relations. It is a sort of thing that seems normal in Nigeria but would be unthinkable to most white South Africans.

White arrogance and the color bar are by no means the only obstacles that are holding the black man back. A part of the difficulty lies with the African himself. Ignorance, superstition, tribal differences, primitive traditions—all these are still at work to slow up the black man's progress. A small percentage of Africans have overcome these obstacles, but it will be a long time before the general mass of Africans has caught up.

Could Describe A-Bomb In Detail Seven Months Before First One Dropped

This is the second in the three-part series on the espionage-conspiracy case of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, who are to be executed June 18.

By ARTHUR EVERETT

NEW YORK (AP)—If an atom bomb were aimed at the strategic heart of New York City, it probably would explode not far from Foley square.

A little oasis of greenery in a vast desert of concrete, it lies almost in the middle of lower Manhattan island.

Rising 30 storeys above Foley square is the United States courthouse, where on March 6, 1951, Julius Rosenberg, his wife, Ethel, and their friend, Morton Sobell, went on trial as atom spies.

They were not tried for treason, which the constitution defines as warring on the United States or adhering to its enemies in time of war. They were tried under a general espionage law of 1917.

They were accused of conspiring during the Second World War to transmit national defence information to Soviet Russia, which was then a wartime ally but became a cold-war enemy in the years that followed.

The government proposed to prove that Harry Gold, mousy little Philadelphia chemist, was the chief United States contact for Dr. Klaus Fuchs, when the German-born British scientist worked at Los Alamos, N.M., on the first atomic bomb. Gold and Fuchs were confessed Soviet agents, both serving prison terms at the time of the Rosenberg trial.

The Rosenbergs and Sobell allegedly also worked through Gold in the interest of Moscow.

They were depicted as persuading Ethel Rosenberg's brother, David Greenglass, to turn over atom secrets to Gold at Los Alamos, including sketches of the lens mold—the trigger apparatus of the A-bomb.

Julius Rosenberg also was said to have provided defence secrets to Russian agents on his own. His 100-pound, five-foot-tall wife was alleged to have handled the stenographic work involved.

A dramatic moment in the trial came March 9, when David Greenglass took the witness stand to denounce his sister and brother-in-law. Greenglass had already pleaded guilty to atomic espionage, claiming that the Rosenbergs prevailed on him to aid in the plot.

Greenglass described Rosenberg as a man who voluntarily dedicated his life to Communism. Greenglass quoted Ethel as telling his wife in 1944:

"Julius finally got to the point where he was doing what he always wanted to do—giving information to the Soviet Union."

Greenglass testified Rosenberg specifically besought him to provide information on the A-bomb from his post as a sergeant at Los Alamos.

So conversant was Rosenberg with this top secret, Greenglass said, that he was able to describe the A-bomb in detail seven months before the first one was dropped on Hiroshima Aug. 6, 1945.

After the first bomb, Greenglass swore he gave Rosenberg a 12-page description of the newer, deadlier A-bomb dropped on Nagasaki.

Greenglass told the jury that he received detailed instructions from Rosenberg on how to flee to Russia via Mexico, if it became necessary. The government claimed the Rosenbergs were preparing such a flight when seized.

Mrs. Greenglass corroborated her husband's story, testifying she helped induce him to spy at the urging of the Rosenbergs.

Then Harry Gold was brought from prison to swear that the stolen Atom secrets were "sent immediately to the Soviet Union."

On March 21, 1951, Julius Rosenberg took the witness stand. Point by point he denied the testimony of Greenglass and other government witnesses. He refused, however, to answer seven questions designed to determine if he ever was a Communist. The only clue to his feelings toward the Soviet Union came when he testified:

"It contributed a major share in the destruction of the Hitler beast who killed 6,000,000 of my (Jewish) co - religionists. I felt emotional about it then and I do now."

Mrs. Rosenberg, in turn, backed up her husband's story. She denied she ever typed any secret data intended eventually for Russian hands.

Sobell did not take the witness stand.

The jury debated the issues 19 hours, and March 29, 1951, found all three defendants guilty.

It was expected the Rosenbergs would get the maximum prison term of 30 years. But April 5, 1951, the trial judge, Irving R. Kaufman, pronounced sentence of death.

"Only the Lord can find mercy for what you have done," said the 42-year-old judge, a Jewish lawyer. "Plain deliberate murder is dwarfed in magnitude by comparison with the crime you have committed."

The next day Greenglass was rewarded for his co-operation. His wife was cleared of the threat of prosecution. He receiving the relatively light sentence of 15 years.

Drug Resolution Goes To Ottawa

BIGWIN INN (CP)—A resolution asking provincial governments to sell drugs to addicts if remedial treatment fails is to be presented to the 18th annual convention of the junior Chamber of Commerce here.

Delegates from various parts of Canada are attending sessions at this Muskoka summer resort area 150 miles north of Toronto.

The resolution, brought by the Vancouver chamber, asks the provinces to consider taking drug addicts who volunteer for treatment into compulsory detention.

Addicts should be recognized as medical problems and clinics should be provided to treat them. If the treatment failed, government clinics could provide them with a legitimate, low-cost source of drugs.

Fail To Reach Wage Terms

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Union and company officials Monday night failed to reach agreement in the wage dispute which Friday halted work on the $275,000 Sandwich street reconstruction job.

Further meetings are scheduled for today.

President J. P. McKay of the Trades and Labor Council said following a conference with mayor Arthur J. Reaume that the company, Keystone Contractors, Ltd., would not agree to increase wages paid men on the job.

The mayor, who returned Sunday night from a Coronation trip to England, spent most of Monday meeting with officials of the union and the company.

Earlier, Mr. McKay said he hoped the mayor would deliver a new proposal for union consideration after meeting with company officials.

Picket lines were withdrawn from the job late Monday at the request of Mr. Reaume.

Monnet Urges United Europe

STRASBOURG (AP)—Jean Monnet, chief of the steel-coal community, called upon Western Europeans today to join in the construction of a United States of Europe which would guarantee peace and prosperity for them all.

Speaking to the community's legislative branch—the Schuman Plan common assembly—Monnet said a common market for steel and coal production among the community's six member states is only the first step toward a larger and fuller union.

"Europe," said Monnet, "has her self enough resources in raw materials and in energy, and all the resources in manpower, technical skill and invention, to achieve a prosperity comparable with that of America if she will only reverse the tide of events which in her divisions have led to war and threatened her with decadence."

Reverse Conviction Of Harry Bridges

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today reversed the perjury-conspiracy conviction of Harry Bridges, left wing West coast longshore leader.

The high tribunal directed the indictment against Bridges be dismissed.

The Australian-born Bridges was convicted of lying when he told a 1945 naturalization hearing that he was not a Communist. He was sentenced to five years in federal prison and his United States citizenship was revoked.

Bridges was indicted in 1949, as a result of the statement he made in 1945 at the naturalization hearing.

Justice Harold Burton said the State of Limitations—that is the law governing the period in which crimes may be charged—had run out. Hence Burton said, the indictment "came too late to be effective."

Turnkey's Yearly Pay Boosted To $2,240

Seven turnkeys at the Peterborough County jail have been given raises in pay.

Formerly their minimum pay was $1,650 a year, plus $300 cost-of-living bonus. Now it is $2,240 with the cost-of-living bonus eliminated. The maximum used to be $1,950 plus the $300 bonus; now it is a straight $2,640 a year.

The new rates have been approved by the county council after a recommendation from a special committee that conferred with an official from the Department of Reform Institutions.

The department pay a grant of 25 per cent on salaries and maintainance but they pay nothing on the upkeep of the jail.

From there he will fly to Winnipeg for a speech next day and continue west to Brandon, Man., Regina and Victoria.

Siamese-Twin Trout In Fish Hatchery

CRANBROOK, B.C. (CP)—The 400,000 baby trout in the fish hatchery here are losing no time in starting tall tales.

Siamese-twin fish, and a two-headed trout appeared on the scene Monday.

The Siamese twins, now free-swimming but still living on remnants of their egg-sac, appear frisky. They swim one at a time, with the other obviously deadheading.

The one with two heads is also free-swimming. One of the heads appears to be atrophying.

Truck Overturns

STRATFORD (CP) — Donald Kemp, 18, of Strathroy was killed Monday night when he was thrown about 60 feet through the air when a light delivery truck turned over on a concession road in Fullarton township. The boy had been visiting a farm about a half mile away from the spot where his overturned truck was found in a field about 50 feet from the road.

Says Bungling Caused Loss Of Markets

MAPLE CREEK, Sask. (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, charged Monday night that "inept and bungling" policies of the federal government have caused a loss of traditional overseas markets to the serious impairment of Canadian agriculture.

In his first speech of the Aug. 10 federal election campaign, Mr. Coldwell pledged the CCF party if elected to adopt a series of measures "to improve our trading position and enable Canadian producers to secure stable and long-term markets for their produce in the sterling countries.

Only by a "sound and imaginative trading program," he told Saskatchewan's annual CCF constituency convention, could Canada regain past markets for apples, cheese, cattle and bacon.

He listed these elements of a CCF prescription to regain the export markets: Acceptance of sterling as part payment for Canadian exports to the sterling countries; placement of a higher proportion of government orders in the sterling area; lower tariffs and dumping duties on sterling-area imports; negotiation of long-term commodity agreements with credit arrangements if necessary.

LeMire's wound, behind his left ear, was not severe. The firing party was attending the military funeral of LAC. W. H. Waldron of Comox, Vancouver Island, who died in a plane crash.

Democracy's Roots Tender In Italy Election Reveals

By FRANK KELLEY
New York Herald-Tribune News Service

ROME.—The results of Italy's general elections gave proof to the free nations of the West—and particularly to the United States which has invested so much in this country—that Democracy still has very tender roots in Italy.

Prime Minister Alcide De Gasperi emerged from a bitter two-months' campaign with slim majorities of 16 in the Chamber of Deputies and 13 in the Senate. The strength of his centrist coalition was hacked by the left and the right.

In a sense, as one astute Western diplomat summed it up the other day, "the government was the victim of its own success."

By that the diplomat meant that Italy's post-war recovery had brought this country back to the point at which its 47,000,000 citizens felt secure enough to "splurge" on their prejudices and to express in ballots the rising nationalism that has been a feature of political life throughout Western Europe since the war.

The most significant aspect of Italy's second post-war parliamentary elections was that Italian youths went sharply left and sharply right in the voting.

About 4,000,000 youngsters had reached the voting age of 21 since the last general elections. Of these, the Communist Party and its left-wing ally, the Nenni Socialist Party, picked up together about 1,500,000 new adherents. The right-wing neo-Fascist movement and the Monarchist Party picked up a little more than 2,000,000 voters over five years ago, with the Monarchists the greatest gainers.

The four centre parties lost nearly 3,000,000 voters from 1948.

This was a sharp rebuff to the 72-year-old Mr. de Gasperi, but it did not daunt him. He said he would form a new and strictly centrist but reshuffled government after June 25 when the new Parliament will convene.

With his narrow but absolute margins in the 590-seat Chamber of Deputies and the 237-seat Senate he planned to continue his policy of friendship for the United States and of backing every sensible move toward the unity of Europe. This meant that he would do all in his power to push through the new parliament such measures as the proposed European political community and European defense treaty.

SEEK ADDED STRENGTH

The betting in Rome was that his centrist coalition might survive for a few months but that inevitable Mr. de Gasperi would have to seek new sources of strength from the Monarchists on the right.

It was believed that he might find a dozen or so Monarchists in the new chamber who were basically "independent" and who could be counted on in a crisis to swing to his support.

The premier will find the Monarchists led by Achille Lauro, mayor of Naples and a wealthy ship-owner, disposed to join the government and friendly — although somewhat cooler — to European unity.

Some of the possibilities canvassed in Rome at the weekend were that Italy would come up next fall with a government bloc consisting of Christian Democrats, Liberals and Monarchists for a total of 315 seats in the chamber and 133 in the Senate.

However, it was believed that Mr. de Gasperi would try to get through the intervening months either with a cabinet of Christian Democrats only, plus voting support from the Liberals, Republicans, and Social Democrats, or with a cabinet that would include some of the four present allies of the centre.

Arvida Still Largest Producer Of World's Aluminum Supply

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

With world-wide publicity being given the Aluminum Company of Canada's $500,000,000 construction project at Kitimat, B.C., there is a tendency to forget that Alcan's plant at Arvida, Que., remains the largest aluminum-producing plant in the world.

Hewn out of farmland in 1926, Arvida today boasts a population of 11,000, considerably more than the 7,000 persons expected to make up Kitimat by early next summer when the plant there starts production.

Capacity for aluminum production at the Arvida plant is 1,000 tons a day. At Kitimat, the first stages of production will see 90,000 tons a year roll from the plant, although with production extended to its maximum, some 550,000 tons would be produced.

The Alcan plant itself employs an average of slightly less than 7,000 workers, with a payroll in 1952 of $19,788,955. Last year the Aluminum Company spent approximately $5,700,000 on major additions and alterations at Arvida, largest single item being a new $2,500,000 sulphuric acid plant.

TOWN SPREADS OUT

The town of Arvida itself spreads out from the Alcan plant about three miles from Chicoutimi in northern Quebec. It has its own elected mayor and city councillors, fire department, schools, churches and independent stores.

An estimated one-third of the Alcan workers live in Arvida, the remainder commuting from Chicoutimi and Jonquiere, about five miles away.

Another major aspect of Arvida is the Shipshaw power development on the Saguenay river, which runs past the town.

The two sections of the development have an installed capacity of 1,500,000 horsepower — enough power to supply electricity for three cities the size of Montreal.

Suburban Areas MostPressingProblem

HAMILTON (CP) — Rapidly-expanding suburban communities present one of the most pressing problems the Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec will have to face during its four-day sessions at McMaster University.

President Sidney Johnson of Toronto Monday night told delegates attending the 65th annual convention that church extension work is not keeping pace with the increasing residential areas. The need for new churches in these areas and more recruits for the Christian ministry were urgent matters to be considered, he said.

Approximately 700 ministers and lay delegates representing 60,000 Baptists of Ontario and Quebec are attending the convention.

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP)—Mrs. Nora Arnold, chosen Canada's woman of the year by the Business and Professional Women's Club in 1950, died in hospital Sunday night. She was 62.

Former mayor of this northern city, she came here in 1920 to become a school teacher.

Canada Has No Voters For Election Yet

OTTAWA (CP)—It's just 55 days to the federal election, but right now Canada really has no voters.

The huge list of those who can cast ballots on Aug. 10—expected to be an all-time high of 8,500,000 or more—will be made up between now and election day.

For each general election, the previous list is scrapped and a new one is put together by an army of doorbell-ringers and others who check and revise their work.

This time, there will be around 50,000 enumerators—those who do the basic job of assembling the rolls of names in the 265 ridings across the country. They begin work June 22—49 days before election. The enumeration will take six days.

Sees Canadians Using More Table Wines

VINELAND (CP) — Philip M. Wagner, editor of the Baltimore Sun, said Monday that Canadians will drink more table wine in years to come.

Mr. Wagner, an amateur experimental grape grower and wine authority, told a meeting of the Canadian Wine Institute here that it has taken more than 1,000 years for European growers and wine-makers to reach their present stage of development.

He predicted a growing demand for fine table wines. Vineland is about 10 miles west of St. Catharines.

Blast Tons Of Concrete Into Dam Spillway

ORONO, Ont. (CP)—The 2nd Field Engineers Regiment of Toronto Sunday blasted 200 tons of concrete into the spillway of a defunct dam without scrapping the bridge spanning it.

Orono is 15 miles northeast of Oshawa.

50,000 STAGE REVOLT IN EAST BERLIN

IS THIS THE CAR THAT SENT HENRY CORBIN TO HIS DEATH CHRISTMAS EVE?

Car Found May Have Struck, Killed Corbin Christmas Eve

Who was the driver of the car stored in a Toronto garage Christmas Day, just hours after Henry Corbin was struck down on Western Ave., by a hit and run driver? Is this the vehicle involved in an accident responsible for widowing a mother of three children? How did that dent get in the fender of the car? It's bent from underneath on the right side, indicating the car ran over something . . . or someone. Peterborough residents had told police of a speeding car on Christmas Eve, a late model green car. It was Christmas Eve Corbin was struck down, later to die as a result of injuries.

Can this 1948 Oldsmobile two-tone green car be responsible for his death?

CALLED POLICE

The car was stored in Toronto on Christmas Day. Four months later, an irate garage owner called police about the vehicle; no one had been in to pick it up.

The ownership was traced back to the dealers in California. They had their complaints, too. Whoever bought it still owed them money.

There were no licence plates on the vehicle when police found it. The owner evidently didn't care to be identified.

And who would care to be identified in connection with the tragic Christmas Eve?

COMING HOME

Henry Corbin, 36, of 956 Western Ave., was coming home from a grocery store that night, carrying some soft drinks.

His children, Edward, four, Gerard, three, and Patrick, five months, and his wife were waiting for him to put up their Christmas tree.

Corbin was crossing the street when the car struck him. According to a witness, the car stopped momentarily and then drove off.

Police were alerted minutes later but the car slipped through their net to escape. At that time they alerted garages in the Peterborough area to watch for a car with frontal damages.

Nothing more was reported, however, even after city council posted a $500 reward for the driver.

The reward still stands. The car's picture might be just the key to unlock the door of someone's memory, memory that might bring a killer to justice.

Do you know this car?

Red Deputy Would Return To East Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—Otto Nuschke, deputy prime minister of East Germany, said tonight at West Berlin police headquarters he had been forced across the frontier by angry rioters and that he wants to return to the Soviet sector.

The 70-year-old chairman of the Soviet zone Christian Democratic party was first reported by the police to have come across voluntarily in search of political asylum.

MAKES STATEMENT

After interrogation by the police, Nuschke was permitted to make a written statement to the press. In it, he declared that he was in his covernment car en route to Treptow in the East sector when some rioters saw him.

The angry East Berliners took the key out of the car, shoved it across the frontier to the American sector and dragged Nuschke out of it. They punched him and kicked him, he said, until West Berlin police came to his rescue.

The CDU chief said he was accorded good treatment by the West Berlin police and had asked them to release him so he could return to the Soviet sector. There was no immediate decision from the authorities on this question.

Fighting Dies Along Front

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The fighting died abruptly early today (Thursday) on the Korean front in the wake of a reported agreement at Panmunjom on a cease-fire line.

The hills of eastern Korea, which had rocked for a week to the greatest Chinese Communist offensive in two years, were quiet except for the occasional clash of patrols and the crash of artillery.

On the bloody east-central front, where 2,400 Chinese had battled Republic of Korea troops all day Wednesday, the only action reported early Thursday was a single patrol clash.

It still is too early to say whether the fighting is dying to zero as the hour of armistice approaches, but another 24 hours probably will tell the story.

Bitter see-saw battles—at times hand-to-hand—raged earlier in fog and rain at each flang of two-mile bulge, however, even as the Peiping radio hinted broadly that negotiators have approved a cease-fire line.

A Chinese battalion shoved back Republic of Korea soldiers who had advanced more than 300 yards in a savage fight southeast of Red-held Finger ridge, western anchor of the bulge.

AP correspondent Milo Farneti reported from the front that a Minister Has Troubles But Wedding Legal

DALLAS, Texas (AP)—Rev. John Shanks, youth director at Cliff Temple Baptist Church here, was called on to substitute for the pastor at a wedding.

It was a busy night. Mr. Shanks arrived just in time to escort the couple to the office. he hadn't troubled to bring a Bible because there was always one on the minister's desk. This time there was not. He spied a book that looked like a Bible, grabbed it, went through the ceremony from memory.

After saying "I pronounce you man and wife" he looked down and saw he was holding "The Funeral Encyclopaedia."

Indefinite Execution Stay Granted To Rosenbergs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Supreme Court Justice William Douglas today granted an indefinite stay of execution to atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg. The U.S. government immediately appealed Douglas' decision to the full court. The court has been recessed until November but Chief Justice Fred Vinson could reconvene it at any time in order to hear the government's plea for reversal of Douglas' action.

Douglas said he has serious doubts whether the judge who sentenced the couple had the right to send them to the electric chair because they were not tried under the law dealing specifically with atomic espionage.

The husband and wife had been scheduled to die at 11 p. m. EDT Thursday in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison at Ossining, N. Y.

ON LEGAL GROUND

Douglas granted his stay on the purely legal ground of which law should prevail.

Defence lawyers claimed that the Atomic Energy Act superseded the espionage laws under which the Rosenbergs were convicted.

The Atomic Energy Act was passed in 1946. It provides that the death sentence can be imposed only on the specific recommendation of the jury and when it has been found that the offence was made with an attempt to injure the United States.

Douglas said neither of these requirements was fulfilled in the case of the Rosenbergs.

His order had the effect of sending the case back to the U. S. district court in New York for a decision on the legal point.

In his eight-page printed statement, Douglas wrote:

"I do not decide that the death penalty could have been imposed on the Rosenbergs only if the provisions of section 10 of the Atomic Energy Act were satisfied. I merely decide that the question is a substantial one which should be decided after full argument and deliberation.

"It is important that the country be protected against the nefarious plans of spies who would destroy us

"It is also important that before we allow human lives to be snuffed out we be sure—emphatically sure—that we act within the law. If we are not sure, there will be lingering doubts to plague the conscience after the event."

The Rosenbergs probably heard the news over a Sing Sing prison radio speaker.

Warden Wilfred L. Denno said his office would not notify the prisoners formally "until I receive official papers on the action."

Adenauer Calls Emergency Meet

BONN (Reuters)—Konrad Adenauer, West German chancellor, today called an emergency cabinet meeting to discuss the strikes and demonstrations in East Berlin.

A West German government statement today said the Berlin riot is proof of "unbearable" conditions and the "inhuman and bankrupt Communist system" in East Germany.

"The demonstrations should cause the real rulers of the Soviet zone to open the way to free all-German elections and to a lasting peace in Europe and the world," said the statement.

The West German press proclaimed "Open Rebellion in East Berlin" and "East Berlin Demonstrates Against the Regime."

The General-Anzeiger suggested that the demonstrations had been instigated by the Communists themselves but had got out of control.

Thousands Of Rodents Stage Mass Suicide Into Sea

POINT BARROW, Alaska (AP)—Hundreds of thousands of lemmings, said to face a "starve or drown" choice, are choosing drowning again in a mass migration into the Arctic Ocean's frigid waters.

The migration started here early this week and the little furry-footed rodents with the short tail and odd teeth have been pouring out from shore onto the sea ice in a continual stream since then.

There is no food on the ice either—just death by cold or drowning as they scamper off the floes into the water. Some have been observed as far as 25 miles from shore, still scampering over the sea ice.

CAN'T EXPLAIN IT

Dr. John Buckley, biologist for the University of Alaska in Fairbanks, said science can't fully explain the periodic suicide migrations of the lemmings in the Arctic.

But, he said, "when they exhaust their food, they haven't got much choice. They either starve on land or go out to sea and drown."

The lemmings feed on roots, and the scarcity of such forage in the bleak Arctic coastline seems to bear out Dr. Buckley's explanation.

They migrate to their death periodically. The last time was in 1949. Countless thousands of them perished that year in a mass migration out to sea. R. C. Hetherington of the U. S. Coast and geodetic survey who observed that mass suicide movement said the tiny animals were observed more than 20 miles from shore then, too.

He said they still were running full speed over floating ice in the general direction of the north pole.

Neither Hetherington or Doctor Buckley mentioned another popular theory about the lemming migration—that they are driven by some ancient instinct toward some mysterious land they once inhabited.

Lemmings are found in the cold, northern extremes of North America and Europe and in both places are noted for their self-eliminating mass migrations.

Bad Storm Strikes W. Ontario

Bridges, Rail Tracks Washed Out; Say Damage Heavy

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The heaviest rainstorms in years swept southwestern Ontario early today, washing out bridges and railroad tracks, flooding homes and industries and cutting hydro power. Damage was estimated in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Weather officials said conditions were similar to those in which tornados developed at Sarnia and Flint, Mich., during past weeks. However, no such twisters developed.

Rain washed out two highway bridges near Stratford, stranded cattle in turbulent waters and damaged basements and furniture in flooded homes.

BRIDGES WEAK

Other bridges and road supports in the area were weakened. Highway officials said the approach to a large bridge at Plattsville had washed out, leaving the structure in danger of collapse.

At St. Catharines more than two inches of rain fell in 75 minutes Power in surrounding districts was cut off for almost two hours. Telegraph and telephone communications to outside centres were disrupted.

At Clinton, 30 miles northwest of Stratford, lightning struck a hydro transformer. Power was cut off for some hours. At Seaforth in the same district, a big barn was destroyed when lightning hit.

Eighteen head of young cattle and 10 pigs were destroyed. Damage was estimated at $16,000.

TRACK WASHED OUT

Trains were held up as the Canadian National Railways reported two lengths of track washed out just west of New Hamburg. Three hundred feet of track were washed out east of Tavistock. Railway officials said service would be restored late today.

A bridge at Chesterfield, two miles east of Pattsville, was washed out.

Civic officials at Kitchener alone estimated storm damage in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Weather officials reported 2.86 inches of rain, the heaviest fall in 38 years.

Damage was high in the basements of Kitchener business firms where furniture, mattresses and rugs were stored.

Bad weather also brought trouble to Northern Ontario. At Sault Ste. Marie, fog in the upper St. Mary's river has stopped all down-bound passages through the locks for the last 12 hours. Twenty-four boats were delayed.

Ivy Lea Hotel Razed By Fire

IVY LEA (CP)—Fire destroyed the High Oakes Hotel here Tuesday night and loss was estimated at $35,000.

The building was owned by Joseph Diette of Montreal and was being prepared for the summer trade when the blaze broke out. Volunteer firemen were unable to check the flames.

Ivy Lea is a summer resort at the Canadian end of the Thousand Islands bridge, 22 miles west of Brockville.

Toronto Man Killed In Crash Near Oshawa

OSHAWA (CP)—James H. Robinson, 50, of Toronto, died in hospital here early today shortly after a car crashed into the rear of a transport truck on the No. 401 dual-lane highway about a mile west of here.

William J. Moddy, 50, of Toronto, driver of the car, is in hospital here suffering from shock, concussion and severe shoulder injuries.

Elmer Eslinger of Red Deer, Alta., driver of the transport, told police he had just pulled onto the highway from a cloverleaf when he felt the jar of the crash.

Not Worried About Books

Washington (AP)—President Eisenhower said today it is all right with him if the state department burns books which openly appeal for the Communist way of life.

The department can do as it pleases on that score, Eisenhower told a press conference.

Eisenhower declined to say whether his attack on book burning in a speech at Dartmouth College Sunday was aimed at Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) McCarthy has been criticizing the stat department for permitting books by Communist authors to be placed in libraries abroad operated by the U. S. information program.

State Secretary John Foster Dulles has admitted that a dozen books had been burned by the U. S. information offices at Singapore and Sydney, Australia.

Queen's Colt Wins Hunt Cup

ASCOT, England (AP) — The Queen saw her four-year-old colt, Choir Boy, a 100-to-6 outsider, win the Royal Hunt Cup at Ascot today.

Wild cheering broke out from the crowd as Doug Smith piloted Choir Boy to a two-length victory.

Lord Durham's Brunetto was second at 100 to 8 and Lady Zia Wernher's Hilltip third at 100 to 8. Choir Boy covered the seven furlongs, 155 yards in one minute, 43 2-5 seconds to win the £3,161 first prize.

Soviet Troops And Tanks Fire On Workers, Reds Impose Martial Law

BERLIN (CP)—Fifty thousand rioters exploded a four-hour revolt against Red rule in East Berlin today. Soviet troops, backed by tanks and armored cars, fired on the workers, and the Russian authorities declared martial law. The East Berliners hauled down and burned the Red flag, mauled German Communist officials and shouted "Ivan go home." But the drastic military action dispersed the crowds and ended the violence. No accurate account of casualties was available. At least two demonstrators were killed, crushed by Russian tanks. Reuters said 12 persons were wounded when Communist guards fired marchine-gun bursts into crowds demonstrating in Potsdam Square.

The revolt in Berlin, 100 miles inside the Soviet-occupied zone of Germany, started Tuesday as a stage-managed parade in which 5,000 workers marched to the East German government headquarters demanding lighter working schedules.

Apparently the government intended to show its new-found policy of freedom and democracy by allowing the workers to demonstrate. The movement got out of hand. Everybody with a gripe cast caution to the winds today and workers began calling a general strike.

After East Berlin police vainly battled to stem the tide of rioting, green-helmeted Soviet troops, amounting to a regimental combat team (3,000 men) were called in.

Tanks deployed against the workers. Gunfire echoed at several places where the biggest crowds were gathered. The people attacked tanks with stones, and disabled at least one with a log jammed into the treads. But the mobs had to give way. The core of the demonstration was scattered.

Finally, about 2 p. m. Maj.-Gen. P. T. Dibrova, military commander in the East sector, imposed martial law on East Berlin: The order forbids gatherings of more than three persons on the streets, and imposed a 9 p. m. to 5 a. m. curfew on all pedestrian and vehicle traffic.

The order in effect took authority out of the hands of the Russian puppets, the East Berlin government, and rolled the situation back to that of 1945 when the Russians ruled with their own iron hand.

West German and Allied authorities, surprised by the violent turn, predicted the Russians now would uncork some new dramatic move, perhaps even an approach to the West on unifying the city.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, before the West German Parliament in Bonn, said the rioting represented "a great demonstration of the East German people's will for freedom." He said Communist oppression can be cured only through

Czech Faints As Illegal Ruse Discovered

MONTREAL (CP) — The Star said today in a newspage story a Czech, who fainted when his daring gamble to get into the United States with forged papers and by wearing a U. S. Army sergeant's uniform "was wrecked by an improbable 164,000,000-to-1 coincidence," has escaped custody and is being hunted in Montreal.

The Star said U. S. authorities Tuesday were questioning the Czech, identified as Adolf Tlamicha, alias John Graham Davis, in order to learn how he obtained false papers, when he complained of being violently ill. He was allowed to go to a bathroom and has not been seen since.

American authorities here are said to feel that Tlamicha's papers were so good and his training for illegal entry so exhaustive, he may be the product of a gang making a business of getting persons into the U. S. illegally.

RCMP and local police are cooperating in the search for the 33-year-old Czech.

The Star said it has verified these circumstances:

Tlamicha, who speaks fluent English, got his forged papers and sergeant's uniform in Paris. For four months he drilled himself in U. S. Army terminology and procedure. Last week-end he boarded a plane in Paris for Montreal. His destination was Texas.

His seat-mate during the flight was a U. S. Army colonel. The two chatted, exchanging service anecdotes and recalling war-time incidents.

At Gander, Nfld., Tlamicha's papers passed immigration scrutiny easily. At Montreal he was told he could speed his entry into the U. S. by passing through the American immigration requirements at the Montreal airport, an official port of entry for the U. S.

When Tlamicha stepped up to an immigration officer's desk, the officer looked up, stared for a second and then asked "What are you doing wearing that uniform?"

The U. S. officer was the one person among North America's 164,000,000 people who had ever met Tlamicha before. The officer said he met Tlamicha several years ago in Germany, where Tlamicha had worked for him as an interpreter.

Tlamicha made his escape about 4:30 p. m. Tuesday after nearly seven hours of questioning.

Easy Conquest Thing Of Past

KINGSTON (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said Tuesday night that if the current Russian peace offensive could be pinned on any one cause "it was the realization by the men in the Kremlin that the date of easy conquest in Europe is gone."

He said the military might of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, plus the solidarity and unity of the Western nations, had deterred Soviet aggression. Canadians must not be responsible for either deeds or words for weakening that unity.

Mr. Pearson, who spoke to a Liberal party meeting, said he felt certain that the Russians were as much impressed by Western unity as they were by the military forces that backed up NATO.

Say Agreement Reached On Truce Line

WASHINGTON (AP)—United Nations and Communist negotiators have agreed on the truce line to divide the armies in Korea after an armistice, it was reported here today.

The agreement was made under secrecy restrictions covering the truce sessions at Panmunjom at this stage.

The state department had no comment on the information, and gave no details.

The demarcation line, laid out by military staff officers in several intensive sessions, was described as based upon the present battle line.

There was no immediate information, however, as to whether it took into account the impact of the latest Red offensive upon United Nations positions.

NO REAL DIFFERENCE

The impression of officials here was that the Communist assault had not made enough real difference in the battle position to affect the truce arrangements materially.

The line runs mostly north of the 38th parallel although it drops south of it in the extreme western area.

The agreement was understood here to have removed the last major item standing in the way of a final, full understanding on a truce.

Nonetheless, it was indicated that for reasons not fully apparent at the moment, it may be several days before a final truce agreement is signed.

Plans Impeach Justice Douglas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representative W. M. Wheeler (Dem. Ga.) told the House of Representatives today he would introduce a bill "within an hour" to impeach Supreme court Justice William Douglas who granted a stay of execution to atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg. Cheers and applause greeted Wheeler's statement.

Wheeler said: "I can not sit idly by without seking to do something about it." He was referring to Douglas' stay of execution.

Deny Pickersgill To Be Successor

OTTAWA—(CP)— Prime Minister St. Laurent Tuesday denied reports that he has chosen State Secretary John W. (Jack) Pickersgill to be his successor as prime minister and leader of the Liberal party.

He was commenting in an interview on recent newspaper speculations that he has already in his own mind chosen Mr. Pickersgill to follow him in the two offices.

In a letter written June 8 to the then state secretary, F. Gordon Bradley of Newfoundland, the prime minister described Mr. Pickersgill as "a junior minister to assist me." The letter was made public Friday when the prime minister announced the Aug. 10 general election date and Mr. Pickersgill's succession to Mr. Bradley. Mr. St. Laurent indicated he had no intention that the phrase 'junior minister' should be read "deputy prime minister." He pointed out that the Liberal party has a long-established tradition of electing its leaders at party national conventions.

Pass Order-In-Council For Cheese Subsidy

TORONTO CP—An order-in-council approving payment of $300,000 to subsidize Ontario cheese sales to Britain last year was passed by cabinet last week, government officials said today.

The government established a special fund of $300,000 from which payments may be made under an agreement made last July with the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association to guarantee payment of six cents a pound on all cheddar cheese.

Payments will be made to support the price of cheese sales made by Ontario producers to Britain in the last six months of 1952 The Ontario contribution is subsidiary to subsidization made by the federal government.

To Open Parliament?

U.K. Paper Says Queen Coming To Canada

LONDON (CP)—The Queen may fly to Canada this fall to open the new Parliament reassembling after the August federal election, a British newspaper suggested today.

The Daily Mail said the proposal was that the Queen should call at Ottawa on her way to Bermuda. Thus the trip could be fitted into the round-the-world Commonwealth tour scheduled to start in November.

The paper said the suggestion had been made "at the highest level" and that it was believed the Queen would be agreeable.

A spokesman at Canada House, commenting on the proposal, said information in London indicates a royal visit to Canada in the near future is "most unlikely." Buckingham Palace officials, too, said they had heard nothing of such a plan.

At the time of the royal visit to Canada in 1951, palace authorities spoke freely of the likelihood that royalty would increase its visits to Commonwealth countries, utilizing modern travel facilities to make more personal the link between the Crown and some of the more remote Commonwealth countries such as Canada, Australia and New Zealand. It is believed here, however, that the Queen's schedule is already tightly planned far into the future, and that any deviations are unlikely.

In Ottawa the prime minister's office said no indication has reached here that the Queen might visit Ottawa to open a fall session of Parliament. The 21st Parliament has just been dissolved and the 22nd, to be elected Aug. 10, is technically scheduled to meet Oct. 8 but that date really doesn't mean anything. There is no certainty that there will be a fall session at all.

'Floating Bomb' Beached Without Damaging Vancouver's Shoreline

VANCOUVER (CP)—The coastal tanker Argus, transformed by fire into a floating bomb, was scheduled to be drained today of her cargo of potential disaster. Fire which threatened to set off 18,000 gallons of high octane gasoline in the forward tanks broke out Monday night aboard the 517-ton vessel, injuring four men. Skipper Bill Boyce in a display of calm courage piloted the Argus out into Burrard Inlet, away from the Imperial Oil Company dock where she was being loaded.

But the menace of a savage explosion continued along Vancouver's waterways until after the vessel was beached some 16 hours later on the south shore of the inlet, 12 miles from the downtown district.

Plans are to tow the Argus to the Imperial Oil refinery where the gasoline, thought to be intact, will be pumped from her forward tanks.

What remains of the 20,000 gallons of diesel fuel stored aft also will be salvaged and, later, the Argus will be moved to drydock.

Although a major blast was avoided, about 30 minor explosions ripped through the craft. A pumping breakdown minutes before the initial explosion probably averted tragedy. No fuel was flowing when the flames began.

The start of the fire and his 500-yard voyage with flames licking toward the gas were described by the skipper.

"With Chief Engineer Walter Huska and the cook, I went for a walk up to a store for a Coke and some cigarettes," said Boyce.

"We hadn't been away for more than a minute or two when we heard the explosion. We began to run back, and then heard the alarm going, so we knew it was serious.

"The other seven members of the crew were still aboard, and when we got back two of those hurt had been taken ashore.

"The engine room was a solid mass of flame. But we dived down the ladder after playing hoses on the fire there, and switched off various valves before it got too hot.

"The fire kept getting worse. The carbon dioxide apparatus on the ship had been operating, but apparently an explosion put it out of action.

"By this time I could see the danger to the shore installations so I sent all my men ashore, made sure they had gone, then got the anchor ready, and the tug took up the tow.

"Before we got far enough out to be safe, I had managed to close the hatches over the load of gas and oil to try and prevent an explosion.

"Then I dropped anchor, and nipped over the side into the fireboat. I wasn't really sorry to be off."

Makes Economic Plans For India

OTTAWA — (CP) — R. G. Nik Cavell, Canada's Colombo Plan administrator, said Tuesday he is hammering out a new Canadian economic aid plan for India, Pakistan and Ceylon for presentation to the government.

Returning from a gruelling 50,000-mile Asian tour, Mr. Cavell said in an interview the confidential proposals he will make to the government are based on talks he had with the governments of the three Asian countries.

The proposals, he said, will be long-ranged and within the framework of Canada's $25,000,000-a-year contribution to the six-year, $5,000,000,000 Commonwealth plan to build up the Asian democracies as a bulwark against communist aggression.

The retired industrialist who gives his age as merely "over 60", said his inspection trip which began last February showed that the Colombo plan is making an "impact" on the economy of South and Southeast Asia.

He found:

1. No visible signs of any increasing activity by the Communists in the three countries.

2. "Valiant" efforts by India to improve her economy and to increase production to avert famine.

3. While India's situation was improved, Pakistan's had worsened. He found famine conditions in Pakistan and a crying need for food.

4. Ceylon was in "fair shape".

Canada is helping all three countries this year by allotting about $13,000,000 for aid to India; $10,000,000 to Pakistan and about $2,000,000 to Ceylon.

Fortune Hangs On Boy's Decision

TORONTO (CP)— An Ontario Supreme Court judgment Tuesday decreed that a six-year-old boy must decide when he becomes of age whether to become a Protestant and thus inherit some $23,000. The boy, now being raised as a Roman Catholic by his parents, was left the money by his grandmother, Mrs. Edith Mercer, who stipulated that the bulk of her estate was to go to him when he reached the age of 25 providing he is brought up as a Protestant.

Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven ruled Tuesday that this was a condition precedent. It has long been held in English law that where there is a condition precedent and the condition is not met then the gift fails. Mr. Justice Treleaven said there was no need for him to rule on whether it was valid or not.

The effect of the judgment is that Julian J. Empey will be able to decide for himself when he becomes of age whether he will meet the condition. If he does not, the will provides that money is to go to the Anglican synod of Toronto.

40 Europeans Expected In Plow Match

Forty plowmen from European countries and the United States are expected to give full reality to the International Plowing Match at Cobourg in October.

Ralph Banbury, Brighton, agricultural representative and local secretary of the match, mentions in a news letter that the district municipalities have been offering to help in the entertainment of visitors.

"The most recent invitation is from the city of Peterborough, through City Clerk Outram, suggesting that perhaps plowing visitors might like to look in on Peterborough, see some of its industries and be luncheon guests."

The Federation of Agriculture in Northumberland and Durham are joining hands in preparing a social affair for Oct. 5. Port Hope and Cobourg are prominent in the offers of district hospitality.

SHOW GOODWILL

"These pleasant communications showing the goodwill of the district are being forwarded to John A. Carroll, Toronto, secretary of the International Plowmen's Association, who is in charge of the itinerary and entertainment of the plowmen from other countries, including the United States. It is expected that the competitiors from Holland will be glad to be guests of their people who have come out to Canada and are settling into our way of life."

Mr. Banbury said Peterborough's interest in the success of the plowing match, particularly on the side of hospitality, would be much appreciated by the association.

Impaired Driver Chased By Police

Ronald Loucks, 28, of 518 O'Connell Rd., was fined $50 and $3.75 costs in Magistrate's Court today on a charge of impaired driving. He pleaded not guilty but was convicted following evidence of PC Edward Patterson and PC Donald Erskine.

The charge was laid May 23 after Loucks ran through a red light at the corner of George and Sherbrooke Sts. The two officers, who had the green light, were partially into the intersection when Loucks pulled around them in his truck.

They followed Loucks down George St. at speeds up to 50 miles per hour. On the way down to Perry St. where the accused stopped, his vehicle zig-zagged according to the officers' testimony. The action took place about 2 a.m.

ASSISTED INTO CRUISER

Once stopped, Loucks had to be assisted into the police cruiser. He staggered while walking and smelled strongly of alcohol.

The defendant and defence witnesses maintained he had only three bottles of beer the night before while attending a union dance at a downtown hotel.

He explained the light-running by saying he was only trying to beat the caution light, contrary to previous evidence that the light had been green some seconds before the accused went through the intersection.

Magistrate W. R. Philp felt, on the evidence, that the charge was proven, fining the accused a total of $53.75.

Farm Added To Land Assembly

Purchase of the R. S. Meiklejohn farm on the north side of the city for the Peterborough Land Assembly plan of housing appears to be confirmed from local sources.

The acquiring of this additional acreage for subdivisional purpose has been mentioned both at the City Hall, merely as news information, and also at Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

The property is bounded by Langton St. on the south, Water St. or the Lakefield Highway on the east, the Sidney Brown farm on the west, and the line between concessions No. 2 and 3 on the north.

Officials who were interested and engaged in the establishment of the Land Assembly plan report that arrangements for purchase have been proceeding.

It is bought through the Department of Planning and Development. The original purchase embraced 1,250 acres. The Meiklejohn property, which was included in the city's annexation from Smith township, has been mentioned as "rounding out" the Land Assembly area. Its acreage has been mentioned at 140, but some of the frontage has been sold off it.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP)—The U. S. dollar was at a discount of 7-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Tuesday's noon rate was 99 17-32. Pound sterling $2.80⅛, against $2.80.

U.S. Company Increases Steel Price $4 A Ton

PITTSBURG, Pa. (AP)—United States Steel Corporation boosted steel prices an average of $4 a ton today, presaging industry-wide increases which could send U.S. living costs higher. Big Steel's action came five days after it granted an 8½-cent hourly pay increase to 170,000 employees represented by the United Steelworkers CIO.

It is the first rise in basic steel prices since a 55-day strike last summer which ended after the union won a 21½-cent hourly pay package increase.

Other steel producers are expected to follow U. S. Steel's lead and raise prices. They probably will adhere to a similar scale. However, president C. M. White of Republic Steel Corp. says his firm plans an increase of $5 to $10 a ton.

Industry-wide steel price boosts may be reflected in higher price tags for the many thousands of items which are made of steel. It is unlikely that manufacturers will absorb any such increases, meaning the consumer ultimately may have to pay more for everything from pins to refrigerators.

AVERAGE ADVANCE

U. S. Steel, largest producer in the country, said over-all effect of the price changes represents an average advance of about 2-10 of a cent a pound for carbon steel products, which now will sell for six cents a pound or about $120 a ton. Along with this upturn, there are proportionate advances for alloy and stainless steel products.

Three more basic steel producers signed agreements with the USW Tuesday giving nearly 35,000 workers an 8½-cent-an-hour wage increase. They are Sharon Steel Corp., Wheeling Steel Corp. and Pittsburgh Steel Company.

This brought to 10 the number of firms signed up. About 420,000 of the union's estimated 600,000 members in basic steel now are under new wage pacts. They had been averaging from $2.06 to $2.16 an hour.

Soviet Troops

"the reunification of our country in freedom."

HEAR RIOTS SPREAD

There were indications the movement was spreading like wildfire to the Soviet east zone. Similar conditions of uprisings against Red rule were reported last week from Czechoslovakia and Bulgaria.

Fifteen Russian T-34 tanks, 20 armored cars and 30 truckloads of machine-gunners concentrated on the ugly mob threatening government headquarters after East Berlin Communist police had battled for hours to control the uprising.

The rioters were demanding that the Russians leave, the Communists go with them and that Germany be reunited by free secret elections.

As the tanks drove into the mob some of the enraged rioters were shot. It was impossible to tell immediately how many fell.

Troops fired repeatedly, most into the air, and drove the mob before them. But some of the shots sprayed into the crowd.

TUMULT CONTINUES

The core of the rioting was split, but the tumult against the Russians and Communists continued and angry workers still clustered in various areas.

Other Soviet troops dug trenches around the Russian embassy, government buildings and the sector border with West Berlin.

Russian occupation forces stepped in at noon after standing idly by since the demonstrations started Tuesday.

At 12:30 p.m. martial law was announced by Soviet authorities in a broadcast from Potsdam radio.

The bulk of the mob began converging on Unter den Linden in the direction of the Lustgarten, the old imperial square now called Marx-Engeles platz.

At Potsdamer platz a gang boldly forced wooden sticks into the gun of one tank and hurled big stones onto the tracks of other tanks. Soviet troops replied with a spray of machine-gun fire and the lumbering machines deployed on the square.

TANK TRACKS BROKEN

The tracks of one big tank were broken by a log the mob jammed into the cogs. It lay helpless on the grass with the crew inside.

The East German Communist regime, assaulted and insulted, barricaded itself in the government headquarters behind a Soviet cordon. It made a new effort to placate the workers it is supposed to favor. The loudspeaker system began blaring promises of lower prices and less work.

It was the same promise Prime Minisetr Otto Grotewohl made Tuesday night after a demonstration by 5,000 workers against Communist speed-up tactics and low living standards.

But this time the crowds did not appear inclined to believe the promises.

EAST BERLIN PARALYZED

All East Berlin was paralyzed by a general strike that had been called throughout the east zone.

By mid-morning 15,000 workers from Oranienburg in the Soviet zone had marched in and joined the East Berlin rioters. Three thousand more showed up from the Henningsdorf steel works.

Finally, Russian armored cars started to clear Leipziger strasse, the link between government headquarters and West Berlin's frontier Potsdamer platz. The cars, bristling with tommy-gunners, drove forward slowly.

Workers, knowing what they wanted but uncertain how to proceed, had to give way.

The phenomenal assault against the Red regime was staged by men who had been dragooned into many a Communist spectacle parade. It apparently started with little organization, but the effect on the population was startling. Everyone with a gripe cast aside all caution.

STAGED OWN PARADE

Inspired by eight years of terror, secret trials, Soviet bayonets and now new speed-up orders at the work benches, the people staged their own parade. Its very disorganization was effective for no one knew where it would converge next.

The Russians had to watch while the East Germans burned down a 30-foot high wooden sign proclaiming German-Soviet friendship.

When Soviet reinforcements finally were brought in from the surrounding zone, the Russians had on hand a force about the size of a regimental combat team.

POLICE JOIN STRIKERS

Many East German police joined the strikers. Soviet troops dug trenches around government headquarters.

The strikers broke down barricades, stoned police and Soviet stores, burned Red flags, smashed border signs and fired a wooden police barracks.

The riots centred around the office of the ministry of economy and reconstruction.

Police stood shoulder to shoulder round the building, while the crowd stoned them and the building, shouting: "Out with them—down with the government."

Police trucks charged into the crowd, injuring many.

DIGGING TRENCHES

Other Soviet troops were digging trenches in the Potsdamer Platz, where British, United States and Soviet sectors meet. Crowds in the square pulled down the sector signs, shouting: "So will all barriers go."

Rioters in the Taubenstrasse burned the Red flag and tore down posters of Communist "peace workers," including one of Britain's "Red dean" of Canterbury—Dr. Hewlett Johnson.

Thick smoke from a big fire near the centre of the sector covered a large part of the rioting area.

Many demonstrators were injured in clashes with the police. Most were dragged into the U. S. zone and taken to West Berlin hospitals.

Two truck-loads of Soviet soldiers were stationed on the East Berlin side of the Brandenburg gate to stop demonstrators from crossing the border there.

The West Berlin fire brigade joined in the job of transporting injured East Berliners to hospitals.

By mid-day a stream of West Berliners had begun to cross into East Berlin to join in the demonstrations.

A Potsdamer Platz rally was told by speakers that the workers of the entire eastern railway network have joined the rebellion and that general strike would be the order of the day through the Soviet occupation zone.

The subway and elevated train system halted completely.

At noon the freedom bell pealed out as usual from the tower of West Berin city hall. And at just about that moment, a Russian general riding a T-34 tank drew up to the embattled Communist regime's headquarters, once Goering's Luftwaffe centre.

The general waved his cap at the mob as the troops opened their lines to admit him to the entrance. He strode inside amid a chorus of catcalls.

A nervous policeman inside the government building fired three pistol shots from a window, but it was not established immediately if he hit anyone. Later, two men were seen in an apparently wounded state propped on bicycles by their comrades as they were being taken toward the west sector.

COME FROM INDUSTRY

The marching, jeering strikers came from nationalized factories, state railroad repair shops in the Lichtenberg district and the Stalin Allee housing project. The housing workers set off the demonstration with a march Tuesday protesting high prices and recent government decrees increasing production quotas.

SMASH CONTROL POINTS

Cries of "Ivan, go home," swelled through the streets. On the border, aroused workers smashed control points and burned police sentry boxes. Communist officials caught on the streets were beaten up.

In Bonn, the West German government was shocked by the calling out of Russian troops with tanks, armored cars and machine-guns.

There was concern that the demonstrations might get out of hand and swirl into West Berlin, where some of the demonstrators sought refuge after clashing with the Red police.

Jacob Kaiser, minister for all-German affairs, flew to Berlin to represent the Bonn government in any action that might be necessary in the divided city.

He pledged the East Germans the solidarity of west Germany "and the whole free world" in their efforts for political and economic freedom.

ALARMING SIGN

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democratic party said the East Berlin demonstrations "are an alarming sign for the world that the oppressed Germans in the east zone want freedom."

"Now there comes to light for all to see the bitter feelings of the people against the regime—a regime which never had any popular support," a party statement declared.

Red police cordoned off the government headquarters but had to repulse repeated drives by workers to charge through their lines and get at the main doors. Inside, the Red government of Premier Otto Grotewohl and Communist party secretary Walter Ulbricht faced an astonishing crisis.

The strike started as a means of protesting high prices and poor living conditions. It turned into a patriotic swell for German unity. Thousands of workers marched through the Brandenburg gate, turned left and down to Potsdamer Platz where the British, U.S. and Russian sectors meet.

West Berlin police braced for trouble and called up toughened "alert units" but found no East German interested in anything but the mess in his own sector.

West Berliners sped to the sector borders to peer across in wonderment at the East Germans trying to throw off the Communist yoke. Public loudspeakers urged the West Berliners to keep out of it.

Strike Paralyzes Ports In U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—A shipping tie-up gripped U. S. vessels in Atlantic and East coast ports today in a wage dispute.

"Nothing, but nothing, is moving and nothing will move until a contract is signed," said Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime Union (CIO).

Foreign vessels are not affected. American ships in foreign ports or on the high seas will be affected only after they reach ports in the U. S. In all, about 750 vessels are subject to the tie up.

The union, claiming about 40,000 members, traditionally follows a "no contract, no work" policy. Curran estimated that the stoppage immediately affected 20,000 to 24,000 union members.

Tent Caterpillars Strip N. Ontario

NEW LISKEARD (CP) — The worst invasion of tent caterpillars ever to pillage Northern Ontario is striping forestlands of foliage.

The lands and forests department says that the caterpillars have been coming every year, but the invasion has never been as serious as this.

"There's little we can do about it now," said one official. "If we had been prepared we might have been able to prevent some of the damage by spraying the trees."

Prices Edge Higher On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO (CP)—Prices edged higher in slow early afternoon stock market trading today.

Interest centred in a rising group of speculative mining issues as volume for the first three hours reached 1,409,000 shares.

Industrials were mixed in the narrow list of shares traded. Western oils turned upward today after four days of steady decline. Golds were mixed while base metals recovered from an early dip to show fair gains by 1 p.m.

Uraniums and New Brunswick base metals staged a modest rally with Anacon showing the way as it picked up 40 cents in active dealings. Included in the broad list of advancing issues were Chesterville, New Delhi, Nesbitt Labine, Graham Bousquet and Chimo. Gunnar added pennies.

Western oils moved ahead in two out of three issues traded with Britalta, Federated Petroleum, Jupiter and Pacific Petroleum leading. Gridoil and Peruvian eased.

In base metals, higher-priced issues continued weak from yesterday but lower-priced stocks showed a preponderance of gains. Among the winners were Eastern Metals, East Sullivan and Falconbridge, with gains running to 24 cents. Consolidated Smelters dropped to new low of $24.37 on a fractional loss.

Golds were bolstered by a rising group of holding companies. Inspiration led with a gain of 25 cents. Juniors traded somewhat lower.

Spring Grain Not All Planted Survey Shows

Approximately 15% of Ontario's spring grain area was unseeded at June 5 as reported in the monthly crop report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

"The seeding of spring grains has been spread over an exceptionally long period of intermittent rains. Fields vary greatly in appearance and crop prospects. Some early seedings went into the ground during the first week of April, but a considerable part of the intended acreage was still unseeded at June 5.

The percentage of completion of that work was only 60% in Grenville; Peterborough, York, Dundas, Lennox-Addington 75; Frontenac and Waterloo 80; Ontario, Hastings, Simcoe 85%; Bruce, Halton, Peel, Lanark, Leeds, Stormont 90; Norfolk 95%; Durham is practically 100% seeded.

A considerable acreage will now be sown to late crops, corn, soybeans, buckwheat and other emergency crops or will remain fallow for planting to fall wheat. In most counties rains have been delaying the planting of later crops. Here and there some farmers will be hard hit.

Over quite a large part of Old Ontario prospects at present point to a below average production. Rain today was discouraging.

CORN DELAYED

Even the planting of corn has been interrupted by wet weather. Early haying has been getting a setback from soft ground, grass of heavy moisture.

Farmers report wheat lodging in some fields caused by the lush growth and lack of stem vigor, all an effect of too much rain and too few sunny drying days.

Prospects indicate a big crop of hay and clover. Work has been hampered by fields being too wet to support the heavy machinery that is now used in harvesting. Pastures are excellent, but here again, some farmers have been cautious about letting herds into the fields, causing trampling damage to the grass and legumes.

tremendous Allied artillery barrage finally stopped cold the 1,000 fiercely counter-attacking Communists.

Southwest of Christmas hill, on the right flank of the front, the Koreans recaptured M-1 ridge and moved nearly 400 yards north of it, only to be pushed back to the ridge by a counter-attacking Communist battalion.

The Reds attacked savagely under cover of a massive artillery and mortar barrage and a driving rain storm which grounded Allied planes except radar-guided bombers.

BIGGEST AIR RAID

The new Red drive followed the biggest Communist air raid of the war on the Seoul area. Sixteen Americans were injured. Four Korean civilians were killed and 21 injured. Several buildings and more than 1,000,000 gallons of fuel were destroyed by 15 ancient Russian-built biplanes which raided Inchon, the capital city's port, Tuesday night.

The fighting raged on the western flank of South Korean lines which had been shoved southward as much as two miles by a powerful Communist week-end offensive.

Cephas Stinson

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—The funeral service for Cephas Stinson, who died at his residence, Burnham St. on Saturday, was held on Tuesday afternoon from the Anderson funeral home and was widely attended.

A resident of the village for the past nine years, he retired about six months ago from the C.G.E. where he was a member of the quarter century club.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. L. J. Delaney of the Church of St. John the Baptist and interment was in Lakefield cemetery.

Hope To Hold ORA Conference In City This Year

The Peterborough Recreation Committee decided Tuesday night that the committee would attempt to have the Ontario Recreation Association conference here this year. It was pointed out that the conference had been held in most other centres and that this city was more or less obliged to act as host soon.

Other topics on the agenda were not so decidedly dealt with. The question of whether or not the lighting of six junior baseball games should be subsidized was the main discussion of the evening. Bev. Goulding stated that the light bill was increased unnecessarily by inefficiency in turning them off immediately after a game and Alex Sinclair was asked if something couldn't be done to insure against wasted wattage. It was decided that at least two of the three switches at Riverside park could be turned off after the game and that enough light would still be present to help the crowd leave and to clear the diamond.

Ald. Harold Rehill moved that President Wilfred Langan go to Howard Powell, manager of the Utilities Commission and check on the normal cost for lighting a game, and also that he attend the city council meeting next week and find out if the commission has the authority to spend some of the money out of last year's Riverside lighting account. Official action will be limited until this report is in.

In discussing playgrounds and areas Mr. Goulding said that a city this size should have two sub-recreation centres, with the main committee existing as an advisory board. The areas suggested for these centres were Ashburnham and the district below Lansdowne St., both having very active home and school associations.

Mr. Rehill stated that it would be better if the areas already owned by the city were developed, rather than wasting time and energy searching for new locations. Mr. Langan suggested that all available areas for playgrounds be checked and marked on a map and that the areas already owned by the city be built up.

The committee members and their wives received an invitation to attend the handcraft supper being given at the summer home of G. K. Fraser on June 20. The members were very appreciative and decided to meet at the city hall at 5:00 p.m. and drive out together.

Bill Benton mentioned that he was pleased to see the UE, IUE and Allied Labor Council all contributing to minor ball and is sure success will follow.

The polio case was so mild that the ultimate diagnosis may be other than polio, it was pointed out.

Is Ontario Crazy As Well As Crooked?

There came to our desk this week the 85th annual report of the Ontario Mental Hospitals and mental health services of the Province of Ontario. It is compiled by the Department of Health of the Province, and is published by the Queen's Printer, Toronto. Its statistics presumably include some valuable information, but the date of that information jars us out of reading the blue book. Published this spring, its facts and figures are for the year 1951—nearly two years too late. It almost seems as if the Department of Health did not wish people to look into the booklet. Does it not wish its mental hospital statistics to be widely known: this, for instance, that at the end of the year 1951 19,643 patients were on the books of the Ontario Hospitals, and 2,282 had been discharged from them during the year; a total of 21,925 who had been under the care of institutions in 1951.

* * *

This is a terrible figure. When the statistics are boiled down, the fact emerges that during the year 1951 one person out of every 210 of the total Ontario population was confined in or under the care of a provincial mental hospital. Even at the end of the year 1951—deducting discharges and deaths in the institutions—19,643 patients were under their care, which means that on December 31st of that year one out of every 234 Ontario people (including in the total population infants and children) was in a public provincial asylum of one kind or another. The report states that this was the "highest crude rate" in the history of the Ontario (mental) Hospitals. The rate rises every year.

* * *

What is wrong with Ontario that one out of every 210 persons in the province was in a public mental institution during the year 1951, and one out of every 139 persons (a minimal average) was behind bars? Is Ontario crazy and crooked?

* * *

Ontario has the worst record of any of the Provinces both for mental derangement and for the number of people sent to jail or prison, but the Canadian average is generally bad, too. Few civilized countries in the world have as large a percentage of their populations behind bars for indictable crimes, and Canada has one of the highest rates of insanity—some believe, the highest. Obviously there is something very much wrong with the state of Canadian society that these things should be, and something grievously wrong with Ontario society, that its record is the worst in this dark picture.

Deeds, Not Words

For several years during the Cold War any Russian and Communist overtures towards easing relations between East and West were met—and quite properly—with the Western challenge to do, not to talk. Long experience has taught that smooth Communist words are propaganda, unless accompanied by actions fitting them. Until a couple of months ago, the traditional Western response to peaceable Russian words was "deeds, not words." But since then, the Communists have thrown the phrase at us. They have said: let us see what you do, not hear how you talk about peaceful intentions. And they have indeed acted.

There has been a complete volte face. First in Russia, then in Czechoslovakia, Austria, Poland, East Germany, have come really remarkable acts which must be considered deeds of peaceful and conciliatory intention. It may be propaganda, but it is propaganda in the right direction and with the right foundation. The deeds have followed the words so thick and fast that Western observers, first incredulous, are coming to believe that the Russians mean what they say now when they talk of settlement and easing of tension.

One of the surprises has been that the satellites have been accorded the new freedom to discuss, disagree and make peace with the West which the new Kremlin rulers allowed Russia. Nowhere is this new attitude more apparent than in East Germany. The whole recent policy of "Socialist construction" there has been thrown over. The collective movement—hated by the small farmers—has been halted, and church persecution has been abandoned. It seems as if Russia is preparing East Germany for possible union with West Germany.

Over the whole European—and even Asian picture of Communism there is a new illumination, and it is not red. It could be the light of reasonable diplomacy.

It seems time for the West to make some moves, too, to show that its deeds are as good as its words. The Bermuda conference could be a prelude to a conference between Communist and Western leaders, and out of this—with the ground adequately cultivated and tested beforehand, might come, piecemeal but in good order, the kind of neighbourliness among nations which people all over the world want. Why not? The East has given liberal proof of good faith. The West believes in its own good faith. Is this faith not enough to move the Iron Curtain?

Let's Keep It Reasonably Clean

The appointment of Mr. J. W. Pickersgill to the Dominion Cabinet has met with some disapprobation and some commendation, as was to be expected. The Toronto Globe and Mail, understandably, takes the line that a Toronto man might better have been appointed, and mentions Mr. David Croll as a candidate for Cabinet recognition. Again, this is entirely understandable and proper, for Mr. Croll is a man of proven ability. But in commenting on this aspect of the matter the Globe writes thus:

> Mr. Croll is distinctly superior to Mr. Pickersgill in ability and experience; but he apparently has a racial stigma that disqualifies him in Mr. Laurent's eyes.

In other words, Mr. Croll is a Jew, and Mr. St. Laurent is anti-Semitic.

Of course the Globe knows better than this. Canadian politics in its upper reaches has been remarkably free from anti-Semitism. We cannot think of an instance in which a Dominion or Provincial campaign has shown any sign of racial feeling. And the temper of the Canadian people in 1953 is not such that an appeal to racial or religious prejudice is likely to produce any effective result.

In the election fight hard knocks will be given and taken, and unquestionably base motives will be imputed to all the important figures in the contesting parties. But there is such a thing as fighting that is too dirty to be effective, and we think that imputing anti-Semitic prejudice to the Prime Minister comes into that category.

Let's keep the fight reasonably clean. Everything under the sun can be said about a man's political opinions and his political record. But let us leave his private character, his race and his religion out of the fight.

Aftermath Of The Everest Victory

It is impossible to please everybody, of course, but some groups of people are notoriously harder to please than others; mountain climbers must be granted a high place among the latter classification. We gather from the English press that many mountain-climbers are annoyed and disgusted by the publicity given to the conquest of Mount Everest. Crass, vulgar newspapermen have written about something which they do not understand (those fellows are always at it) and they have misreported and vulgarized a great feat which, it appears, only climbers are capable of understanding fully and appreciating intelligently.

That much of what has appeared in the papers about the conquest of Everest is inaccurate is certainly possible; very few men have been near enough to Everest to write with authority about it. But we must protest that Everest is not the private property of people whose hobby is mountain-climbing, and they must not be so snobbish about it. To them it is (this will irritate them) a sports ground, with overtones of the battle-field. To the public at large Everest symbolizes The Unattainable and The Impossible. That two men have conquered it—two men of our Commonwealth, and on Coronation Day—is a magnificent omen, and it appeals to the strain of superstition in all of us.

The actual climbing of Everest is a useless exploit. We have not seen any serious suggestion that it advances our knowledge of anything except the conformation and climate of a particular mountain one jot. The dyed-in-the-wool climbers may make as much technical fuss about it as they please, among themselves. But for most of us it is simply a heroic feat in which men have done what men have never done before. If the mountain climbers are offended because the press and the public have made a great stir, we are sorry, but nothing can be done about it now. Except, of course, that the next climber to scale a great peak can keep it under his hat, if he feels that way about it.

NOTES AND COMMENT

The Boston Post says that more people slip on apple sauce than on banana skins. Banana oil, however, is a very different matter.

Nineteen million sleeping tablets are consumed each night in the United States. A result of the national fear of being caught napping?

We learn from a new biography that Winston Churchill was born, unexpectedly, in a cloakroom during a ball at Marlborough House. Could the scene of his advent into this world have anything to do with his lifelong interest in variegated hats?

Dutch Van Gogh French Painter

By RAYMOND COGNIAT

ARTISTS are rather like prodigal sons: their parents and friends refuse to own them in the days of their first wild struggles, but if success crowns their adventurous lives those who formerly denied them make haste to reclaim their lost kinsman. French contemporary art, for over a century now, has welcomed innumerable deserters. It has offered artists from all countries an atmosphere of liberty and enthusiasm in which the most widely differing talents have been brought to full flower. It has succeeded, under the French flag, in harmonizing and coordinating the most varied aspirations, giving if not unity at least a minimum of structure to efforts that would otherwise result in a strange chaos. But as success crowns these efforts, each country claims her own sons and tries to show that they owe all to their orgins, to the examples of their youth and to their national tradition.

✧ ✧ ✧

IS FRANCE in the right when she considers Vincent Van Gogh as one of "her" greatest painters? For some years now a certain trend of thought has been tending to take him away from this country. It would perhaps be as well to get things straight. One could certainly not deny the part played by his birth in the work of Van Gogh. His love of bare landscapes with distant horizons and his dramatic intimacy with Nature may be considered as hereditary traits. But the personality of Van Gogh is not made up only of his innate qualities; it includes too a certain number of acquisitions that he certainly assimilated to the point that they became his own and the importance of which, in the formation of his genius, he himself has admitted.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT IS ENOUGH to compare his paintings before he came to Paris with that of a few months later to convince the most incredulous if they are honest with themselves. Up till 1886 his palette was very limited and his range of colouring extremely austere. In his Flemish interiors and his portraits of peasants we see how the browns predominate. His drawing is hard and rough and his painting rugged. It is the colour and the substance of the earth of his native country. His stay in France brought him the delicate iridescence of Parisian light and, above all, the teaching of the Impressionists which influenced him immediately. His art became lighter; he adopts a more minute touch and the contrast between one touch and another brings out the colours and gives them movement. We can feel the virbration of the atmosphere and the air moves less dramatically and less densely than in the works of the Dutch period.

✧ ✧ ✧

A LITTLE LATER his meeting with Gauguin introduced new factors into his development. He, too, returned to the method of bounding his colour with firm outlines and gave up the decomposition of the tones and the contrasting of complementary colours. He sometimes even adopts a harmony of tone upon tone, as Gauguin points out in one of his letters. The Arles sunshine revealed to him an intensity of light that was exactly the opposite to that which he found in his own country, and any dramatic change of manner takes the form of an explosion and not of a retreat into oneself.

✧ ✧ ✧

ADMITTEDLY, Van Gogh would have had all the passion that was in him just the same if he had remained in the Netherlands. He already showed it when, in Le Borinage, in his efforts to live the teachings of Christ, he adopted a way of life as simple as that of the men whom he was hoping to evangelize. But it was in France that he discovered the means by which he was to transmit this fervour; it was by contact with French painters and landscapes that he found the means of expressing himself in a technique so exactly in keeping with his own temperment that, when he returned to the milder climate of the Seine valley, he retained this technique and painted the skies and fields of the Ile de France with the same fire as the countryside round Arles.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR other reasons, it is impossible to separate Von Gogh from contemporary French painting. He is the indispensable link between Impressionism and Fauvism. He takes an inevitable place in the logical chain of events which, starting from Impressionism, resulted in the most revolutionary reactions of the late 19th century. He rediscovered firmness of outline and force of colour at a time when certain over-facile charms were threatening to load Impressionism and its followers into the most deplorable nonsense.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT, to overcome an implacable destiny, to resist discouragement for years and years and to persist continuously in a path which facts seemed to show was a wrong one since nobody was willing to buy his painting, he needed a strength that was far beyond his modesty and a conviction that could only be built up through the confidence of certain French artists who were struggling like him and, like him too, were misunderstood. In France he found an atmosphere of challenge in which, though he was alone, he felt less lost, for he was a fighter in it like some others just as defenceless, just as isolated, but just as full of conviction as he. And, of course, in addition to all that, he had his genius.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT IS RIGHT and just that in the name of that genius his native country should claim him, but this cannot diminish the part played by France, what she gave him, or what she received from him.

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS YEAR marks the hundredeth year since the birth of Van Gogh. He was destined to be one of the first "cursed" artists, one of those whose life becomes an example to show men what greatness and sacrifice there is in a work of art, a painting or a poem. For all of us his life and his work are a magnificent lesson, a lesson in courage for artists in the difficult times in which we live, and a lesson in prudence for the critics who could not guess at the dark peasant scenes of his origins and the sudden burst of light that was to follow— a lesson, too, in modesty for the public who ignored in his lifetime and let die of despair the man whom today they idolize.

FREE SPEECH

Henpeck, safely out of his wife's hearing for once, was letting himself go. To a friend who complained of some domestic difficulty he said, grandly: "My dear chap, we never have trouble of that sort in our house. If I say a thing is to be done, I insist upon it being done."

"And is it?"

"Of course—er—even if I have to do it myself."

PERE TANGUY, by Vincent Van Gogh. Painted by the artist in Paris in 1887. The canvas is now in the collection of the film star Edward G. Robinson, Beverly Hills, California. In our Third Column today is an essay by a French critic Raymond Cogniat, written for the centenary of the birth of Van Gogh. The artist was born in Holland in 1853.

250TH ANNIVERSARY OF BIRTH OF WESLEY

The Horseman of The Lord

By The Rev. E. M. HOWSE, S.T.M., Ph.D., D.D.

THROUGHOUT the world 'the people called Methodist' are celebrating today, the 250th anniversary of the birth of John Wesley. But the Methodists themselves are 'the least result of the Wesleyan revival.' The mark of John Wesley is on the modern world.

Long ago Macaulay ridiculed those writers of 'books called Histories of England' who failed to see Wesley's importance. Macaulay was saying only what Southey, Lecky, Green, Trevelyan and a host of others have said. In our own generation a great French historian, Elie Halevy has pointed out that the passing of time makes Wesley's stature not smaller but larger, and that he now appears as the most significant Englishman of the 18th Century.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE RECORD of his labours is in itself phenomenal. 'His industry was half his genius.' Gladstone's Midlothian campaign was regarded as the peak of his achievements, and it nearly exhausted him. Yet Gladstone's record of travelling and speaking in that tremendous conflict did not equal the average which Wesley maintained for fifty years. For all that time Wesley preached more than 800 sermons a year, mostly outdoors, the first for the day normally beginning at 5.30 in the morning before the miners went down to the pits. Following that service, Wesley took to saddle for the next. In his half century campaign as 'Horseman of the Lord' he rode more than a quarter of a million miles and in addition made 22 journeys to Scotland and 42 to Ireland.

His preaching was but an item in his toil. He mastered the art of reading on horseback and his reading was prodigious; but not more so than his writing. In the intervals of his travels he published 273 volumes. They included translations from Greek, Latin, Hebrew and German, editions of De Kempis, Bunyan, Baxter and Law, Biblical commentaries, educational treaties, 23 hymn books, a grammar, a book of medicine and a dictionary. He was himself the author of more than 100 of these books, including the grammar and the dictionary. His greatest literary work was an original translation of the New Testament in contemporary language. He made 12,000 corrections, the majority of which have been incorporated by later translators; and he anticipated the arrangement of the present Revised Standard Version. In addition he kept a diary, well described as 'the most amazing record of human exertion ever penned by man'.

✧ ✧

WESLEY was primarily a religious reformer. He brought to the 18th Century as St. Francis to the 12th, a fresh impact of vital Christianity. Like St. Francis he began when organized religion was in sorry estate. A Lord Bishop of his own church could airly explain that he was drunk 'as a lord but not as a Bishop.' And like many others reformers Wesley was loyal to his own church, but found his movement driven outside it. Indeed Wesley himself was virtually expelled. He was appointed to no charge; he was banned from Anglican pulpits; and in the church where his father had been rector he was refused the sacrament by a clergyman who was drunk at the service. He was, as he said, 'forbidden to go to Newgate for fear of making the prisoners wicked and to Bedlam for fear of making the inmates mad.' Moreover, during Wesley's ministry there was, says a high church historian, hardly a single Bishop's charge without explicit attacks upon Wesley and the Methodists. And clergymen at times egged on the mobs by which he was so often assailed.

Yet at his death the number of Methodists approached 100,000; and they kept on growing until now throughout the world they number more than 40,000,000.

✧ ✧ ✧

WESLEY insisted that religious conversion have social consequences. He taught masses of illiterate people how to read, how to work, how to save, how to organize. Wesley 'discovered the penny.' From pennies a week he collected thousands of pounds. With the pounds he fed and clothed the penniless; and provided them with fuel; medicine and tools. He set women to knitting and spinning. He started a Co-operaitve Society. He set up a Loan Association to save people from the hands of the pawnbrokers. Above all Wesley organized his extraordinary system of 'Class Meetings' which made one Methodist in every five an official. These classes were a new unit in society from which flowed all manner of influences. They taught men of ability to read and to speak. They became the model for many forms of social organization and they provided the leaders. They were in large part the secret of the difference, lasting to this day, between the character and course of labour reform in England and on the Continent. It is a commonplace among historians that Wesley saved England from the kind of revolution that came to France. Had he done nothing else he might still have merited the judgement of Augustine Birrell 'No other man did such a life's work for England'.

✧ ✧

FEW MEN have met more obloquy than Wesley or faced physical danger more frequently. Yet few men have been so vindicated in their own lifetime. In his final journeys, his head white with the snows of fourscore years, Wesley was welcomed with veneration everywhere. His visits became public holidays. 'I have come, I know not how' he wrote, 'to be an honoured man.'

Perhaps Wesley did not know but already England had begun to know, to recognize the little man of 120 pounds as its greatest citizen, and to realize that no other living Englishman had influenced so many minds, touched so many hearts, changed so many lives, left so rich a legacy for the days to come.

Wesley was born in 1703 and died in 1791. His life spanned the 18th Century. Halfway through the 20th his influence is still a power among men. He builded greater than he knew, and he spoke a truth greater than he realized when he said 'The World is My Parish.'

Why Did You Quit?

A New York department store asks all its applicants for jobs 'What happened to your last one."

Here are some of the answers:

"Just because I gained fifty pounds while packing candy, the boss insinuated I was eating too much."

"I was secretary to a big oil man, but his shoes squeaked and he always wore white socks and a red satin tie. I ask you, how much can a person stand?"

"I was driving a cab in Florida because my wife wanted to spend the winter on the beach— but she divorced me to marry a lifeguard. When they hailed me and got into my taxi to go to their wedding, I slammed the door and walked away."

"I asked the boss to lend me a dollar but he only gave me fifty cents."

Letter To The Editor

CHILDISH CITY FATHERS

Sir: As usual the Examiner is right on the beam, when our City Fathers get childish. Did it ever occur to the Council what our City would be like in a hot summer like 1952 if you tried to keep garbage seven days? Goodness, it was bad enough trying to keep it four days, and people with refrigerators wouldn't want to keep the garbage in there.

It would almost seem some of the Council had stock in some electrical concern and want to make everybody buy garbage disposal units. This would be rather difficult for the ordinary taxpayer at our present rate.

I suppose the people wouldn't bother to phone their Council or write a letter to the Examiner, but will kick hard when the garbage starts to smell. Compare our tax rate with other cities and don't let them tell you they haven't the money. Our only hope is our home town paper will keep this subject alive and it might be a good idea to read the Editorials once in a while as the Examiner does not miss much.

Yours,
DISGUSTED

Commission Declines To Rule On Discrimination

OTTAWA (CP) — An Ontario hardware retailer has accused General Steelwares Ltd. of Montreal and Toronto of practising price discrimination, but the restrictive trade practices commission has declined to state whether an offence has been committed, Justice Minister Garson announced today.

The accusation was made by Stan Richardson Hardware, a retail firm in competition with Richardson's Hardware at North Bay. The firm complained to combines investigators that General Steel Wares, a manufacturing firm, was giving its competitor more advantageous price discounts, contrary to section 498A of the Criminal Code.

The section provides that a supplier may not discriminate among competing customers by granting one of them a discount, rebate or other price concession not available to others who buy a similar volume of goods.

CAN'T EXPRESS OPINION

The three-man commission, in a 27-page report to the minister, said that, after appraising the evidence, it does not feel it should express an opinion as to whether an offence was committed. The commission did not feel that the evidence allowed it to draw general conclusions about the industry.

But it did find three trade practices of General Steel Wares which apparently did give the complainant's competitor a price advantage. Mr. Garson said he will decide later whether the case warrants court action.

The two North Bay stores stemmed from a parent firm, J. W. Richardson Hardware, which had been split in 1945. General Steel Wares, said the commission, treated Richardson's Hardware as the original customer and regarded the Stan Richardson firm as a "new and untried account."

Richardson's Hardware got discounts on current purchases. The Stan Richardson firm was offered only a rebate—not given until the end of the sale year or similar period.

MORE ADVENTAGEOUS

Even where the rates of discount and rebate are the same, said the commission, it is "obvious that a discount allowed on current purchases is considerably more advantageous to a retailer than a rebate deferred until the end of a business year."

In determining the discount available to Richardson's Hardware, General Steel Wares took into consideration not only the volume of goods on which the discount applied but also other goods purchased by the retailer.

The commission said that this practice gave a franchise dealer such as Richardson's an advantage on his purchases which was not available to the non-franchise dealer—notwithstanding that the latter was prepared to buy wares in like quantities—and this advantage in some circumstances might be considerable.

The commission said some question was raised by the evidence as to the extent to which the company advised retailers on price allowance policy.

"A volume rebate which is not made known to all customers in like manner can hardly be said . . . to be available equally to all even though there are no distinctions among customers in the terms on which the rebate is granted once a claim has been established.

TPT Team Falls To Revoy's In Keen Game

Revoy Motors displayed some of the form early expected of them, at the East City Bowl Tuesday night, when they handed TPT Petes a 7-4 defeat before the largest crowd of the young season. The Lakefield boys earned the verdict with a display of pep and hustle throughout that thrilled hundreds of rabid fans — who cheered good plays by either team in a sparkling contest.

The late-starting Revoys are now only two games back of the triple league-leaders with two wins against four apiece for their rivals and two extra defeats.

Dick McCracken toed the slab for Cam Wasson's gang and twirled a neat game for eight frames; he scattered three singles, struck out two, walked but two and was nicked for just one run, despite a few minor fielding lapses by his mates. Dick West hurled the final frame, after McCracken walked Don Bigford and Eakins singled as Petes made a final desperate effort to rally. Their efforts came close enough; as a walk filled the sacks and after two had fanned, Mackness' fielder's choice, an error and a walk enabled the Bennett boys to tally thrice. A force-out at second ended further damage; but TPT went down battling.

LOOSE PLAY

Revoys smote the offerings of starting pitcher Ken Guilfoyle for six runs on four hits in less than two before Eakins took over; but in fairness to the veteran Ken, his mates were largely responsible for most of his early downfall. Eakins fared better, though he yielded six hits and one run to the "hot" Revoy gang.

Leading the attack for Revoys were McCracken with two RBI's; Gord Henry, Dean Wasson and Cam Wasson with one. Red Wasson and Henry each hit two for four, the former a triple; Greenlaw, Neil Wasson, Chum Fryia, Red Wasson and Dean Wasson supplied fielding features.

Broadhurst hit a triple and two singles for the victors, as Gordonier clouted three singles. Corrigan homered in the big third. Wiechorek and Coughlin had two hits each for Woollens. The latter team booted five to one for Marines. Teams:

UEW Squad Gets A 13-5 Win Over Seabrooke

UEW outslugged Seabrooke Motors Tuesday night at the East City Bowl to smash out a 13-5 verdict over the city champs and this forced a three-way tie for first place in the men's senior city softball league standing. TPT, Seabrooke Motors and UEW have all won four and lost three.

Jack Crowley took the hill for Reggie Leether's hustling UE Union lads, and twirled effectively for five innings; limiting the hard-hitting East City crew to two hits and three runs while fanning one. Meanwhile his mates hammered Jim Driscoll for eight hits and seven runs. A slight tendency to wildness evidently prompted manager Leether to remove his speedy ace when he walked his fifth man to open the sixth; and fireman Howie Dalton took over. The madcaps from over the river took kindly to Dalton's relief slants to rap in two runs on hits by Buster Jensen and Spinner Spencer and Scriver's walk. But thereafter they were unable to hurdle UE's defences.

TWO HOMERS

Bernie Robson proved a thorn in the side of Seabrooke's pitchers all night as he led the shop crew's offensive with two long homers —one a terrific liner over the left field fence—to drive in five runs. His first came in the third with White aboard, and his second was a long drive to deep left to drive in Kotowski and White ahead of him.

UE staged a strong late attack to sew up the ball game in the eighth with further runs as Leether's triple, hit by Jerry McGillis (who hit three for five and ran all over centerfield to snare flies). Tony Kotowski, White and Taylor's walk along with Robson's drive, made life miserable for the motor boys.

Red Sullivan, home-run king, drove his fourth homer of the campaign over the right field fence in the fifth for one of the loser's five hits on a lean night; and Tony Kotowski tripled off the scoreboard in the fourth, played well at short, hit two for five and batted in a pair of runs.

Professional Golfers Can Become Amateurs

TORONTO (CP) — The Royal Canadian Golf Association announced Tuesday night that professional golfers now can be reinstated as amateurs after a two-year period of non-pro playing. Formerly a five-year period was necessary before reinstatement could be considered.

The change, along with others, was made to conform with rules of the United States Golf Association and the Royal and Ancient Golf Club in Britain, the association said.

However, the rule still will be that a golfer serving five years as a professional normally will not be eligible to return to amateur status.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

June, the month when blushing brides with a man in tow hustle up the bridal path. (No, Elmer, we aren't at the races. Put your money away.)

June, the month when students cram for exams, write their papers and exit from school for two months of holidays.

Already the high school students have said goodbye to another year. For some their collegiate days are over; others will return after two months of swimming, golfing, boating, and, yes, perhaps working.

They all have left their mark in some way at PCVS, Kenner and St. Peter's. These marks have been made in the academic field, on the athletic field or just on lockers, walls and desks.

The academic standings won't be known for sometime yet, but throughout the year we have recorded the athletic marks.

Looking back over the past nine months we see a sports picture with only a few championships in it but a picture which holds many promises for the future in secondary school sports.

GOOD YEAR AT ST. PETER'S

Coaches John Lynch and Mary Scanlin presented St. Peter's with the best athletic year in St. Peter's High School history. In basketball and football their teams indicated that St. Peter's is rapidly reaching the point where it will be on a par with the best of the district schools.

In football the Saints' seniors with only a dozen players came back in the second game of a best of two series to win the Ontario Catholic Conference "B" title. The juniors, jumping from "B" competition to the stronger "A" grouping lost out in a disappointing series with Oshawa Central.

With their new gym the Saints made a strong bid in basketball leagues. Paced by Doug Galvin, Dave and Dan Quinlan, the Saints kept the hoops working, but they lacked depth, the result of no gym during previous seasons. Another year will likely see the Saints in final contests.

Mary Scanlin was content to practise with her girls this season, giving them a firm foundation in fundamentals. Several exhibition games with city schools and then later against Kingston teams gave promise for the future.

The school excelled in the track and field competitions, especially those for girls, intermediate and senior boys. They worked hard preparing for the meets and their work paid off in many honors for the schools and the athletes such as Terry Fitzpatrick, Joanne Kearns, Ruth Hickey and others.

SPORTS FOR EVERYONE AT KENNER

Down at Kenner collegiate Dr. Eldon P. Ray's program, sports for everyone, helped the school develop a sound school spirit. This "work and play together" plan made the students proud of their new school and they banded together to place Kenner above all other schools.

Apart from intra-mural games of soccer, softball and track and field, Kenner this year entered teams in "B" basketball. Under coaches, Jack Cullis, Gord Johnston, Norm Erskine and Ann Morrison, the teams gave the students something to cheer about before losing out.

Kenner's bantam cage team was one of the year's biggest promises. Lads such as Bob Hollingsworth and Bob Drury composed the quartet which could easily be the team to beat Niagara Falls, perennial holders in COSSA basketball.

Miss Morrison's girls had their first taste of basketball. Bitter that taste was for these girls, but they'll be back next season, aiming for victories, not wishing to let the boys bring all the glory to the school.

PCVS REMAINED STRONG IN EVERY LINE

Bev Goulding's football lads just kept rolling along, trampling opposition as they went. The season highlight was the great victory, their first, in Ontario Red Feather tournament play, but it was also their bitterest disappointment. They weren't even named in the running.

But the Garnet and Grey made up for that when they marched again to the COSSA football title which has the habit of returning to PCVS.

Al MacQuarrie's junior Garnet and Greys didn't make out so well. Practically all green material the boys were just learning the fundamentals but like the Kenner cage bantams, the MacQuarrie lads this year may come into their own.

In basketball the collegians under Zoltan Temesy and Goulding rolled along in high gear. Other schools continually were on the losing end until the COSSA finals, then as usual Niagara Falls and St. Catharines took over with winning side.

School may be closed, the exams forgotten but the sports are still remembered. In fact the students are even talking about next term, the possibility of a strong junior football team for Kenner, whether Bev Goulding will come up with another championship team and whether the Saints will grow stronger and stronger in football and basketball.

Petes Turn Back Mounties In 17-6 Senior Tilt To Tie Toronto For Second

Rusty Slater put on a one-man show and at the same time garnered himself a bushel of points as Peterborough defeated Mimico Mounties 17-6 at Drummond St. Bowl last night in a senior OLA contest which saw the final quarter played in a torrential downpour. Slater opened and closed the scoring for the Petes, notching six goals in the process, and also got himself a couple of assists to make him an eight-pointer on the night.

Up until the final quarter the game wasn't quite as much of a cakewalk as the defending Mann Cup champions had figured, as they held a 10-6 lead and it wasn't until the fourth stanza that they displayed their true form, scoring seven times without a reply.

RUSTY HOT

Slater scored three times in the first quarter as the Petes jumped into a 5-1 lead and opened the scoring in the second stanza where the Petes still held an 8-4 margin.

Pop Chard was the top man in a losing cause, scoring four times as he endeavored to emulate the memories of Don McPhail, that of getting away from a standstill at centre and trying to rush the opponents. While his tactics didn't get him too far his bullet-like shot fooled Wootton six times. Jim McNeil and Ross Kelly were the other Mimico Scorers.

For Peterborough; Lou Nickle scored twice while every other player in the lineup with the exception of Moon Wootton scored once and Wootton, not to be outdone, assisted on Don Ashbee's goal in the third quarter.

Petes: Wootton, O'Hearn, Fitzgerald, Mason, Slater, Powless, Smith, Nickle, Thorpe, Ashbee, Vitarelli, Wipper, Hickson.

Ottawa Hands Royals 3-2 Setback

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The worm turned in at least two International Baseball League games Tuesday night as the sixth-place Ottawa Athletic handed the pace-setting Montreal Royals a 3-2 setback and the fifth-place Baltimore Orioles blanked the second-place Rochester Redwings 2-0.

In other games, the third-place Buffalo Bisons downed Toronto Maple Leafs 4-3 and the cellar-dwelling Springfield Cubs defeated Syracuse Chiefs 5-3.

At Ottawa, Hal Bevan's two-run homer and a single by Alf Pinkston in the ninth gave the Athletics their victory.

The final-inning rally snapped the A's three-game losing streak and gave reliefer Ed Hrabscak, who came on in the ninth, his third win against two losses. Bob Ludwick went the route for the Royals.

PITCHED TO VICTORY

Ken Heintzelman vitched Baltimore to victory while Jack Faszholz, who opposed him, went seven innings before leaving for a pinch hitter. He gave up only five hits and a run, but Baltimore hopped on reliefer Jack Crimian for four straight hits in the eighth for another run.

Buffalo staged a fourth-inning scoring spree to bag all the runs they needed for their second straight over Toronto. Bill Voiselle provided a brilliant rescue performance to protect Milt Jordan's sixth victory against one defeat.

Springfield's Gen Tarabilda gave up 10 hits but was tight in the pinches and turned in his third mound triumph against two defeats.

Dreyer Wins 34th Tilt, Downs Vic Cardell

BROOKLYN (AP)—Gerry Dreyer, 23-year-old British Empire welterweight champion from South Africa, Tuesday night won his 34th fight in 36 outings with a 10-round unanimous decision over Vic Cardell, Hartford, Conn., at Ridgewood Grove. Dreyer weighed 147, Cardell, 145.

Dreyer, who now has a 2-1 record on his current trip to the states, dropped Cardell for a count of eight in the seventh round and had the Connecticut fighter on the verge of a knockout with another two-fisted attack near the end of the round.

Dr. Francis Candia, New York state athletic commission physician, examined Cardell after the seventh and permitted the fight to go on. The jefeat was Cardell's 20th in 89 fights.

4 Players Advance Into 3rd Tennis Round

LONDON (AC) — Australia's Ken Rosewall and three Americans advanced Tuesday into the third round of the Queens Club lawn tennis tournament—the major test leading to the Wimbledon championships June-July 4.

Although Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., top U.S. entry, withdrew because of a swollen elbow, Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., John Ager of Atlanta and Hugh Stewart of Los Angeles won their matches.

Mulloy disposed of Holland's A. E. Denhert, 6-2, 6-3.

The P-W cricket team dropped a 78-26 exhibition friendly match to Port Hope TCS, a team comprised of members of the staff and employees at Trinity College School. Good batting by J. Spring 24, W. Meares 16 and G. Timothy 13 helped take the total to 76 as the locals used seven bowlers. T. Clarke had four for 11 and Rollwagon 2 for 9.

The visitors fared poorly at bat against Port Hope bowling with Captain Eric Cotton best with 11 not out. The other 10 got but 15 among them. Of these, E. Bedford accounted for 7, H. Dibben 2, W. England Robbed Of Chance To Beat Aussies

NOTTINGHAM, England (CP)— Rain robbed England of a great chance to beat Australia in the first test cricket match at Trent Bridge. The five-day game petered out in a draw Tuesday after a continued drizzle limited play to two hours on the last two days.

England, with nine wickets to fall, needed 187 to beat Australia when Len Hutton and Reg Simpson went into bat on a sodden pitch for the last two hours. They took the score for 42 for one to 120 for one but the match ended with England still needing 109 to win

As a reckless pursuit of guns might have spelled defeat, Hutton, 60 not out, and Simpson, 28 not out, stalled for time.

It was a dreary finish to a game that had been sparked with the bowling record and courage of Alec Bedser.

Final scores were: Australia 249 and 123. England 144 and 120 for one Match drawn.

England will have four more games in which to vie for the Ashes.

Other final scores Tuesday:

Nottingham 143, Northamptonshire 218 for five. Match drawn.

Gloucestershire 319, Warwickshire 219 for nine. Match drawn, no decision.

Winning Streak Ends For Yanks Bow To Browns 3-1

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

Maybe there's still some hope for the American League. New York Yankees finally lost. St. Louis Browns finally won. The two longest streaks of the season ran slam-bang into each other at Yankee Stadium Tuesday night and today both are broken, along with several other auxiliary ones. The Yankees won 18 in a row—one shy of the American League record—before bowing to the Browns 3-1 before 30,362 New York fans.

For the Browns it was their first victory in 15 games, an all-time record losing streak for the club. St. Louis also ended Whitey Ford's winning run as a starting Yankee pitcher and snapped Joe Collins' 14-game hitting streak.

Ford, a brilliant young southpaw, had won 16 games since coming to the Yankees in 1950, all as a starter. He lost once in relief in his first year.

BAFFLE SLUGGERS

Duane Pillette, once Yankee property, combined with old Satch Paige to baffle the Yankee sluggers on six hits. Vic Wertz, whom the Yankees turned down in a proposed deal last week, homered in the fifth inning with Jim Byck on base.

The Yankee half of that fifth inning provided the only joy for the home folks. With two men on big Johnny Mize stepped up as a pinch hitter looking for his 2,000th major hit. He cracked a single into right field, driving in the only Yankee tally.

Milwaukee Braves bounced back into the National League lead by 1½ games.

The Braves won a pair from Philadelphia Tuesday night, 6-5 in 10 innings and 3-2, while St. Louis Cardinals were disposing of Brooklyn Dodgers 6-5.

As a result the Dodgers were replaced at the top by Milwaukee and the Phillies lost third place to the Cardinals.

SLIPT TWIN BILL

Pittsburgh split a daylight doubleheader with Chicago, winning 6-5 and losing 3-2, and New York Giants divided a twilight-night pair at Cincinnati. The Giants took the first game 7-5 but lost the second, 12-5.

In the other American League action, all at night, Chicago defeated Washington 7-3 in 11 innings; Detroit surprised Boston 5-3 and Philadelphia won its seventh straight at the expense of Cleveland Indians 9-7.

Trailing by five runs after five innings of the first game the Braves picked up a pair in the sixth on Eddie Mathews' 20th home run of the year and tied it with three in the eighth off Karl Drews and Robin Roberts, who was working in relief. The winning run came home in the 10th when rookie Thornton Kipper, the sixth Philadelphia pitcher, walked Bill Bruton with the bases loaded.

In the second game Max Surkont celebrated his 31st birthday by edging Jim Konstanty in a pitching duel for his ninth victory against a single loss.

At St. Louis Rip Repulski, rookie outfielder, singled home the winning run in the seventh inning against Brooklyn.

Ray Boone, just acquired from Cleveland Indians, sparked the Detroit victory by clouting a home run and two singles.

Havelock Airman Reports On Coronation Festivities

HAVELOCK (ENS)—F/L R. Carleton Longmuir, stationed at Gros Tenquin, France, who was one of 45 officers from his station to attend the coronation ceremonies of Queen Elizabeth II, described his visit to London for that event in a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Longmuir, written from Pirbright Camp, Woking, England.

The highlights of his visit commenced on May 28 when he attended a garden party at Buckingham Palace. He wrote as follows:

On the 28th, the weather was perfect. There were clear blue skies and it was just cool enough that it was quite pleasant in our blue uniforms.

We left Woking around 2 p.m. by bus, arriving at the palace a little after 3 o'clock. We entered the front entrance of the palace, proceeded through to an inner courtyard, through two beautiful drawing rooms and then out into the palace gardens. I believe some 6,000 people were present and even then the lawn wasn't too crowded, so you can imagine the size of the grounds.

Uniforms of all the three services of all Commonwealth and Colonial countries were in abundance and created a nice contrast to the morning suits and top hats of the civilian guests. Needless to say all the ladies were dressed in their Sunday best.

Shortly after 4 o'clock, the "Queen" was played as Queen Elizabeth came out into the gardens. Next the "Gentlemen at Arms" opened up three corridors through the crowd. Queen Elizabeth went down one corridor, the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret another and the Duke of Edinburgh, the third. The "Gentlemen at Arms" picked at random individuals from the crowd and presented them to the royal personage who was coming down the corridor. At one time, three Canadian officers I was talking to were picked out, but not me. I had a very close view of the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret however, so I was satisfied. Princess Margaret is very petite and very charming. After they had moved on I struggled through the crowd until I was close to Queen Elizabeth's line. I had a fairly close view of her also and as usual she was quite radiant. I didn't see Prince Philip then but I had seen him two days earlier at his inspection here, so I didn't have to do any more pushing through the crowd.

Tea, sandwiches and cakes were then served to the crowd while at the same time the Royal Family went into the Royal enclosure, a roped-off area on one corner of the lawn. In that area were admitted only diplomatic personnel and the titled gentry. These people had tea in that area and then were introduced to the Royal Family who had formed a receiving line under a canopy in the middle of the enclosure. Prime Minister St. Laurent and George Drew were two who were presented at this time.

After this the Royal Family quickly walked through the crowd and into the palace. The National Anthem was played as the Queen entered the castle and the party was finished.

After leaving the palace six of us went out for dinner and then went dancing, a fitting finale to a wonderful day.

Last Saturday morning (May 30) we left for Kensington Gardens, London. We arrived there shortly after 12 o'clock noon and were shown to our tents, had lunch and then were given freedom until Sunday morning. On Sunday morning we had a short march, then a short church service after which we were again free for the remainder of the day. That afternoon I went to the Tower of London for a short while and then back to camp. After dinner three of us went to a concert at the Royal Albert Hall to hear the London Philharmonic Orchestra.

Monday morning we practised our street-lining drill and then had the remainder of the day to get our uniforms and equipment into shape for the big day on Tuesday.

Tuesday morning saw us on parade at 8 o'clock. Sorry we were that morning to wake up and find it raining but the show had to go on regardless.

At 8:50 a.m. we moved off and marched some four miles to our positions, arriving there shortly after 10. At this time the streets were packed all along the route. What a crowd! Shortly after 11 o'clock we were all issued with a lunch which we ate on the spot. During our wait until 2 o'clock, we were allowed a five-minute break every hour, so we didn't get too bored with nothing to do.

A few minutes after 2, the head of the procession started past. It kept passing for some 30 or 40 minutes and then halted for approximately 15 minutes. The Royal procession was then in position and the parade started moving again. During the times the parade was on the move we were standing at attention. No one fainted but some were very close at times, myself included. We had our raincoats off at this time, and in no time at all our backs were soaked through.

The procession itself was terrific. I don't imagine that I shall ever see such a huge parade again. The marching troops seemed to just keep on coming. Finally the carriages arrived with the Queen and the Duke in the last one. What a happy smile she has! After the procession passed we were allowed to stand easy for 10 minutes or so before the parade started past us for the second time. Finally it was over and we were wet and cold. We reformed and marched back to Kensington Gardens to a cold, damp tent. We were then dismissed from parade just before 6 o'clock, which meant we had been on parade for just under 10 hours. Our feet and legs were tired and as well most of us had aching shoulders. For a couple of days after, it hurt me to move my left shoulder but that has disappeared now.

That evening two of us went back to the heart of the city to find the area still packed. We waited around to see the lights turned on and then to watch the fireworks along the south side of the Thames. Traffic at this time was practically at a standstill. Pedestrians filled the road from side to side. Peoples' spirits hadn't been dampened by the rain at all. That evening I crawled into bed, and I mean crawled, a few minutes after 12 o'clock. It had been a hard day but I was not sorry that I had taken part in the occasion.

On Wednesday morning (June 3) we marched to Buckingham Palace Gardens where we were presented with the coronation medal. The Queen presented senior officers with their medals and the rest of us had ours handed to us by other senior officers.

Prince Charles and Princess Anne came out on the balcony immediately in front of us. So I can say now that I have seen all the Royal Family.

On Thursday we paraded to the Horse Guards Parade Square to see a rehearsal of the trooping of the colors by the Royal Brigade of Guards. This show was the best I have ever seen. The drill was perfect and all the scarlet uniforms, horse cavalry, and a massed band of some 400 men worked together to put on a colorful pageant.

After this was over and we had a package lunch we marched to Waterloo Station where we entrained for Woking.

Tourist Booth Busy First Day

LAKEFIELD—(ENS)—The Information Booth, operated by the Lakefield Chamber of Commerce, opened for the season on Monday and had a much busier day than was anticipated.

"I was amazed at the number of telephone inquiries I received", said Mrs. William O'Brien, booth attendant, "and at the number of tourists already here so early in the season".

This is the sixth year for the C of C booth and Mrs. O'Brien, who is also secretary of the Chamber is once again in charge. Last year was the busiest season to date, but it is expected that, as this booth service becomes better known from year to year by our visitors, this season will be tops.

The maps of the Kawartha Lakes area are ready and in the booth for distribution.

Lakefield residents were delighted to receive, last week detailed maps, printed on linen and suitable for framing, of the village of Lakefield, with the streets all named, as a gift from the Chamber of Commerce. It is expected that before too long name plates will be on all streets, and it is the desire of the Chamber that, in giving directions, the names of the streets will be used rather than a vague description of a location.

Labor Party Outlines New Policy

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON—(CP)—Britain's opposition Labor party Tuesday night outlined a comprehensive new policy aimed broadly at reshaping the country's industrial and economic life to meet the challenge of a changing world.

In a 20,000-word statement, covering virtually every phase of domestic activity, the party's national executive committee forecasts some new nationalization, promises a vigorous attack on dollar markets, "particularly" those of Canada, and bluntly says recovery plans may involve sacrifices of material benefits and cherished traditions.

The policy statement, entitled "Challenge to Britain," is subject to approval by the Labor party's annual conference this fall. It is designed primarily as a program in event of a Labor government being elected, although there is no clear sign that Prime Minister Churchill's Conservative administration plans to go to the country in the near future.

On the controversial question of nationalization, the statement says empirically that although "the general case for nationalization is compelling, we advocate nationalization here only for those industries where the immediate national need makes the case overwhelming."

Specifically, the manifesto says, Labor would take over "key" machine tool companies, water supplies, some sections of the engineering industry, aircraft factories deemed inefficient, the beet sugar industry and, if necessary, some farm land. Steel would be renationalized and road haulage brought back into public ownership.

Throughout, the theme is not necessarily nationalization, but nationalization if necessary.

Thus the statement affirms that a "substantial degree" of public control is necessary in the chemical industry, but final decisions as to the "boundaries" of control would depend on technical and administrative considerations.

In a section on Britain's economic problems, the party document stresses the change in Britain's position in the world and the need to recast "the whole emphasis of our production and export effort" to concentrate on dollarsaving and dollar-earning. One sentence reads:

"We must also make a more vigorous attack on dollar markets outside the United States— particularly in Canada, where a new age of expansion offers excellent opportunities for our capital equipment."

The statement forecasts a 10-year program for British agriculture, deisgned to increase production by one-third in the first five years.

Work Continues To Progress In New N.B. Mining Area

BATHURST, N.B.—(CP)—Production of ore at one mine and exploration work at other sites are continuing in the wake of last January's announcements of major base mineral finds near Bathurst.

A recent development has been the reported discovery of a large lead-zinc-silver mine controlled by Brunswick Mining and Smelting Corporation.

A 2-mile paved highway from the mining area to Bathurst is planned. Preliminary work is to start early next month.

About 27,000 claims have been staked in northern New Brunswick, mostly last winter when news of the discoveries, coupled with a boom in uranium stocks, sparked the Toronto stock market to record-breaking activity. Staking continues on a greatly reduced scale. Most of the well-known mining companies in Eastern Canada and some in the United States have interests in the area.

GENERAL PATTERN

C. S. Clements, director of mines for New Brunswick, says the general pattern is following the three stages common to such developments: Rapid staking, exploration work, and consideration of how to handle and process the ore. In this case, the latter phases apply. Geophysical surveys and diamond drilling comprise the greatest activity.

At one mine, however—Keymet—28 workers are producing and stockpiling ore in preparation for mill building. They have "drifted" 800 feet in ore on three levels—150 feet, 300 and 400: Plans call for deepening the shaft two more levels to 750 feet. Of 28 claims on the Keymet property, only one has been worked.

Earlier this year Mr. Clements said that drilling at the biggest base metal find, 16 miles south of Bathurst, had indicated an ore body of 30,000,000 tons—"comparable in size and value of metals with deposits like those at Noranda, Que., and Flin Flon, Man."

Bathurst, the only large community near the mining area, has more transients these days. That's the main visible difference now, compared with last summer, but it's quieter than when prospectors overran the town a few months ago.

Two British Dependencies In Africa Rapidly Nearing Self-Rule Goal

BY A. T. STEELE
NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

Two British dependencies on the west coast of Africa are within sight of self-rule. This is a matter of profound significance for the rest of Africa.

Unquestionably the is coming when both the Gold Coast and Nigeria will be governed by men of black skins. The Gold Coast, with an African prime minister and an African majority in its cabinet, is already pretty well along.

No time table for full self-rule has yet been laid down by the British for either country, but impatient nationalists are trying hard to force the pace. This led recently to bloody rioting in Kano, northern Nigeria. The trouble grew out of factional differences between hot-blooded nationalists and Moslem conservatives.

COUNSEL PATIENCE

The British for their part, are counselling patience until the groundwork for self-rule is more firmly laid. They are anxious too, that when the two territories become masters of their own destiny they should wish to retain a close association with the British Commonwealth. Most African politicians and tribal chiefs seem to favor the idea.

When the British in 1952 set up Kwame Nkrumah, an American educated firebrand politician felt throughout Africa. South as prime minister of the Gold Coast the resultant political tremors were African whites and white settlers elsewhere were, for the most part, dismayed at what they considered a premature and even dangerous political experiment.

GOING TOO FAST

French, Belgian and Portuguese colonials shared this perturbation. The consensus was that the British were pushing their wards along too fast. The Gold Coast splash, it was claimed, would stir up African nationalism elsewhere.

Nkrumah, though no world-beater, hasn't done badly as prime minister. The responsibilities of office seem to have cooled him off considerably. But he remains first of all a politician and admits readily that he has still a lot to learn about the intricacies of running a government.

Neither Nkrumah nor his African colleaugues are satisfied with the constitution that brought them into power. They realize that in many ways their authority is more nominal than real.

Though they hold a majority of ministerial posts, such key ministries as finance, justice and defense are still in British hands. The British governor retains the right of veto and certain other reserve powers.

QUALIFIED MEN SCARCE

Moreover the governor controls the civil service, which does most of the real work of administration. Africanization of the civil service is officially encouraged but is retarded by the scarcity of qualified Africans. In the Gold Coast more than two-thirds of the senior civil service posts are still held by whites.

Demands for new political concessions are sure to be heard when the Legislative Assembly meets this summer.

The British are hopeful that Nkrumah's Convention People's Party, which controls an overwhelming majority of the seats, will settle something short of complete independence. The opposition, which is numerically very weak, demands self-rule immediately.

If Nkrumah's party comes up with a self-rule-now platform, the Gold Coast situation might turn bad. While British policy envisages eventual self-rule for the Gold Coast, it does not envisage it immediately.

30 MILLION PEOPLE

The Gold Coast—or Ghana, as the Africans call it—is a small and fairly homogeneous country. Nigeria, with a population of more than 30,000,000, is vastly more complicated.

Regionally the territory is split three ways. In Nigeria's northern half live 17,000,000 people—mostly Moslems, but with a sizeable mixture of pagans. The southern half is divided into two regions, Western and Eastern, and the people are pagans and Christians. The Yoruba tribe which dominates the western region is a proud people whose womenfolk are shrewd traders.

Political leader of the Western region is Obafeni Awolowo, whose party, the Action Group, recently launched a campaign for self-rule in Nigeria by 1956.

The Eastern region is also a stronghold of ardent nationalism, with the volatile Ibo tribe taking the leading role. Dominant party of the Eastern region is the National Council of Nigeria and the Cameroons (NCNC), headed by the dynamic Nnamde Azikawe.

"Zik" and Awolowo disagree more often than they agree, but they created a political sensation recently when they both gave their backing to the self-rule-by-1956 proposal.

If the Moslem north were also in favor of this proposition, the pressure on the British would be well nigh irresistible. But the north lags behind the East and West in education and modern political practiees. It fears being swamped if Briish protection is too suddenly removed.

Consequently northern politicians refuse to accept a fixed date for self-rule, preferring the phrase "self-rule when practicable." First they want to catch up with the south.

DANGER OF COMPLICATIONS

As recent disorders have shown there is danger of serious complications in Nigeria if the three regions fail to get together on a common program. Both Awolowo and Azikawe have said that nothing can deflect them from their objective of self-rule by 1956. In fixing a target date they have set themselves at odds not only with the British but also with their Moslem neighbors in the north.

They talk of drastic measures, possibly even passive resistance, should the British prove difficult. Meanwhile, northern leaders, fearful of southern dominance, argue for greater regional autonomy.

Nigeria has come a long way constitutionally since the war but is a little behind the Gold Coast in political development. And as in the Gold Coast there are not yet enough qualified Africans for the many administrative openings. Africans occupy only about 700 of the 4,500 posts in Nigeria's senior civil service.

This shortage of experienced personnel does not worry the politicians much. "You cannot learn to swim by sitting on the river bank," they tell you.

Librarians Who Deal In Facts, Figures For Use In Business And Industry

By JEAN THOMPSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Behind-the-scenes librarians whose work channels facts and figures for use in business and industry will meet here from many parts of Canada and the United States for their 44th annual convention, June 22-25.

Members of Special Libraries Association, they organize the masses of printed matter and records tapped daily by executives in banking, mining, newspaper, insurance and other fields.

Canadian members represent more than 300 libraries as far apart as Trail, B.C., and Halifax. American members in 25 chapters help to make up the total membership of approximately 5,000.

President of SLA is Elizabeth Ferguson, librarian of the Institute of Life Insurance, New York Convention chairman is Pauline Hutchison, librarian of the Canada Life Assurance Company, Toronto.

TO ADDRESS DELEGATES

Prominent figures in Canadian public life will speak at the convention. A. D. Dunton, chairman of the board of governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, is to addgess the convention banquet. Dr. R. C. Wallace, president-emeritus of Queen's University, Earl S. Neal, a director of Imperial Oil Limited, and Mrs. Adelaide Sinclair from the department of national health and welfare among others will speak to convention divisions.

The stock in trade of member libraries presents an amazing variety. The library of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company at Trail is the outstanding mining library in Canada. There, collected for quick reference or study, are books and periodicals on the industry and its latest developments. Engineers and geologists keep up to date on technical aspects of one of Canada's fast-growing basic industries.

The International Nickel Company library in Toronto keeps up a collection of laboratory reports on corrosion problems in connection with metals, as well as a picture collection and films.

SLA PRESIDENT—Librarians from all parts of Canada and the United States will meet in Toronto June 22-25 for the 44th annual convention of the Special Libraries Association. Canadian members represent more than 300 libraries from the fields of banking, mining, newspapers and insurance. SLA president is Elizabeth Ferguson, librarian of the Institute of Life Insurance, New York.

Research workers in Prairie agriculture can draw on a well-rounded collection of books and technical magazines from the Prairie regional laboratory at Saskatoon, while the Ontario Agricultural College library at Guelph, Ont., houses a collection of books second in its field only to the department of agriculture library in Ottawa.

MILLIONS OF CLIPPINGS

Backbone of the three Toronto daily newspaper libraries is a total collection of millions of classified clippings added to daily. Meat-packing company libraries provide information on food and biochemistry and on the industry's byproducts used in modern medicine.

The library of the Law Society of Upper Canada at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, has more than 100,000 volumes, the largest strictly law library in Canada. Largest military library in the country is at the Royal Canadian Military Institute which houses 12,600 strictly naval, military and air force volumes.

The hydro-electric power commission of Ontario carries a current subscription list of 400 periodicals, while the Chinese library at the Royal Ontario Museum has 30,000 volumes in the department of East Asiatic studies.

Librarians who supervise collections of such diversified information differ from public librarians in that each works in a specialized field, organizing it as an effective tool to meet the needs of business, science and the arts.

The Greatest Gasoline Development in 31 Years

Shell Premium with TCP boosts power up to 15%*

increases spark plug life 150%... gives you extra mileage, too

Today it is possible for you to enjoy the effect of an engine tune-up simply by changing from your present brand of gasoline to Shell Premium with TCP! You'll feel that increase in power by the time you've finished the second tankful, and as long as you continue to use Shell Premium with TCP.

Here's why. The biggest cause of both fuel and power loss affecting the majority of cars on the road today has been overcome.

In the average car, certain combustion by-products are constantly accumulating both on spark plugs and in combustion chambers. These deposits actually "short-circuit" the spark plugs and cause pre-ignition of the fuel-air mixture in the combustion chamber—especially when you accelerate, when you climb a hill, when you tour the open highway.

To overcome the power-wasting, fuel-wasting effect of these deposits, Shell Research developed a fuel additive—TCP. This remarkable ingredient, now blended into Shell Premium Gasoline, actually renders these deposits harmless. Your spark plugs spark as they should, combustion chamber pre-ignition is controlled and your engine takes on new life.

Shell Premium with TCP is indeed the greatest fuel advance since the introduction of tetraethyl lead in 1922.

All cars benefit

Shell Premium with TCP is essential if you have a car with one of the new high compression engines and want it to keep on delivering its original power for the normal life of your spark plugs. But even if you drive an older car with 30,000 or more miles on the speedometer, Shell Premium with TCP will "bring back" much of the performance you're missing.

Now in Canada but only at your Shell Dealer's

TCP was originally developed by Shell Research for aviation fuels and until now has been largely restricted to military aircraft.

Today, Shell Premium with TCP is available in this area, but only from your Shell Dealer.

Rosenbergs Scheduled to Die On 14 Wedding Anniversary

This is the last in a three-part series giving the background of the spy conspiracy case against Julius and Ethel Rosenberg who are to die in Sing Sing's electric chair June 18.

By ARTHUR EVERETT

NEW YORK (AP)—There are 27 cells in the death house at Sing Sing prison and three of them are in a wing reserved for women.

The cells are slightly larger than the average prison cell, being eight feet wide, 12 feet long and nine feet high. But they are furnished the same as any other cell, with little more than a bed and a lavatory.

Into one of these cells on April 11, 1951, vanished Ethel Rosenberg, a tiny mother of two sons. She now is 37 years old. She was the first woman spy Sing Sing had ever seen. In fact, she was the first federal prisoner ever to enter the death house.

Mrs. Rosenberg, her husband, Julius, and their friend, Morton Sobell, had been convicted the previous March 29 on charges of conspiring in time of war to hand over atomic secrets to Soviet Russia.

Julius Rosenberg followed his wife to Sing Sing's death house on May 15, 1951.

Mrs. Rosenberg and her husband had been sentenced to death by Judge Irving R. Kaufman, who branded theirs a "crime worse than murder." Sobell, a lesser member of the conspiracy, got off with 30 years.

As Mrs. Rosenberg entered the death house that day two years ago, her last remark to the outside world came in a denunciation of her prosecution as "a political frame-up."

Until the sentences of death were pronounced, the Rosenbergs' case had not aroused unusual interest. But the unprecedented sentence changed all that.

Some said the Rosenbergs were condemned to die because they were Communist sympathizers, and because they were Jews.

Judge Kaufman, the sentencing judge, is Jewish. He had spent time in prayer in his synagogue before he passed sentence. Irving H. Saypol prosecuted the Rosenbergs for the federal government and he is Jewish.

Communists had other propaganda tunes to offer, and they were sung again and again to the marching rhythm of pickets' feet here and abroad in the next two years, in repeated demands to "save the Rosenbergs."

RECALLED 1920

It was public drama of a sort that recalled the mass demonstrations throughout the world in the 1920s, when two radicals, Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, were executed for murder by the state of Massachusetts.

The Rosenbergs have been allowed to see each other twice a week. There have been occasional visits from their two sons, Michael 10, and Robert, 6. Most of the time the couple spent apart, reading and listening to the radio loudspeaker. When weather permitted, the Rosenbergs were allowed outside for exercise, although not together.

It was not until Feb. 25, 1952, that the U.S. circuit court of appeals was ready to act on the first appeal from the Rosenbergs' conviction. The court refused to interfere with the death sentences.

On Oct. 13, 1952, the U. S. Supreme Court refused for the first time to review the conviction. Only justice Hugo Black dissented. Again Nov. 21, Black was the sole dissenter as the Supreme Court refused for a second time to intervene.

Judge Kaufman scheduled the execution of the Rosenbergs for the week of Jan. 12, 1953. Leftists stepped up their demonstrations. Pickets marched outside the White House in Washington.

NOT ALL COMMUNISTS

Not all the protests are Communist inspired. Many sincere persons took issue, not so much with the verdict as with the sentence. Albert Einstein was among those who urged clemency.

Late in 1952, the Pope intervened. The head of the Roman Catholic church, without entering into the merits of the case, informed the justice department of the many appeals he received for intercession on behalf of the Rosenbergs.

On Jan. 2, 1953, Judge Kaufman denied the clemency of his court to the Rosenbergs with the words: "They chose martyrdom and to keep their lips sealed . . . I still feel that their crime was worse than murder."

His statement strengthened the belief the government might commute the death sentences if the Rosenbergs would confess and name other spies who had escaped detection.

REASSERTS INNOCENCE

But from Sing Sing, the husband and wife reasserted "innocence before God and man."

On Jan. 9, five days before the scheduled execution, a stay of execution was served on warden Denno at Sing Sing so the Rosenbergs could appeal to the White House for clemency. President Truman failed to act on the plea and left office Jan. 20.

However, Feb. 11 President Eisenhower refused clemency, saying he was satisfied the Rosenbergs had been "accorded their full measure of justice."

Still a third time, the case went to the Supreme Court. But May 25, 1953, the high court again refused to intervene. Justice Black again dissented and this time was joined by justice William O. Douglas.

A new execution date was set for Thursday night, June 18—and by a grim coincidence it fell upon the 14th wedding anniversary of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

NEW CAR FERRY—This is an artist's conception of how the Canadain Pacific Railway's newly-ordered train ferry will appear when she goes into operation between Vancouver and Nanaimo in May, 1955. Contract for building the ship has been let to Alexander Stephen & Sons Ltd. of Glasgow, Scotland.

Cancer Institute Plans Approved

TORONTO (CP)—Final approval has been given plans for the proposed $4,200,000 cancer institute building to be erected adjoining the Wellesley division of the Toronto General Hospital, it was announced Tuesday night.

Officials said the institute will be the most modern research and treatment centre for cancer on the continent when completed. Equipment worth about $1,500,000 will be installed, including two cobalt bombs.

Toronto's first cobalt bomb was due to have arrived and to be housed temporarily in the old Hospital for Sick Children by June 1. However, the breakdown of the atomic pile at Chalk River has held up delivery. Health Minister Philips said delivery is expected shortly.

Saved By Fly Rod

HINTON, W.Va. (AP) — James Ellis Thomas is alive today because of a friend's skill with a fishing rod and reel. Thomas and Hugh Garrett were fishing from a platform below the Bluestone dam. Thomas slipped and fell 20 feet into a weir, an area staked out for fishing. Garret started casting with his fly rod. He hooked Thomas' clothing, reeled his limp body ashore and administered artificial respiration. Thomas revived.

Life For Years Directed To Climbing Mount Everest

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—Friends of Sir Edmund Hillary, the New Zealander who reached the top of Mount Everest, know of many incidents in his career which show the kind of man he is.

He's tall—six feet, one inch—lean and quiet. He always says just what he means. And it's some years now since he first told a friend that "some day I'm going to climb Everest."

Everything in his life since he first took a mountain holiday as a schoolboy has been directed to one goal. He conquered all the great New Zealand peaks, saving all his money to hire the best guide to teach him the perfect technique.

Then he went to Switzerland, learning more mountain wisdom. Finally in 1951 he was ready for the Himalayas. During the last three years he made no fewer than four Himalayan expeditions, all the time building up for the ultimate goal.

MOUNTAIN RESCUE

Friends recall how he saved a girl climber's life after an accident in New Zealand's southern Alps. She fell 200 feet, breaking an arm and suffering concussion.

Hillary turned back from a climb he was making, wrapped the girl in his clothes and cared for her for three bitterly cold nights in an ice cave until help arrived. There followed a terrible four-day journey to civilization, with the injured girl strapped to a stretcher. Hillary's drive and experience sustained the team of mountaineers as they fought their way through snow, ice and jagged mountains with their burden.

Air force friends recall how Hillary was badly burned when a launch caught fire in the Solomon Islands during the Second World War. Despite severe injuries he swam nearly a mile to shore. He was not expected to live, but sheer determination restored him to fitness and as soon as he was out of the forces he was back in the mountains.

L. V. Bryant, a New Zealander who climbed with Eric Shipton on Everest in 1935, recognized Hillary as an Everest man when he first met him.

"I saw in Ed the same spirit of high adventure that Mallory, Shipton, Tilman and other Himalayan climbers possessed," he said. "He has the physical fitness, the enthusiasm, and the right philosophy."

HONEY GIVES STAMINA

Arch Lowe, father of George Lowe, the other New Zealand climber in the Everest party, got the extra stamina needed for big climbs from honey. Hillary is a beekeeper and he and Lowe both eat quantities of honey when training for climbs.

The people of Papakura, the township near Auckland where Hillary's apiary is located, have opened a fund to erect a monument to the district's most famous son.

Sir Edmund's father, P. A. Hillary, said the knighthood awarded his son after the Everest exploit would not be likely to alter his career. "Edmund is the best beekeeper in New Zealand," he said, "and he loves the outdoor life which beekeeping gives him. There is a challenge to him all the time and that is what he likes."

The elder Hillary said he wished there could have been 14 knighthoods—one for each member of the party. "The essence of success in the expedition was team work," he said.

Though he has conquered the highest mountain, the Himalayas will see more of Edmund Hillary. He has undertaken to lead a New Zealand expedition to the little-known Barun valley in Nepal next year. He and Lowe made a preliminary exploration of it in 1951 and think there may be high adventure yet unsuspected among the terrific peaks which surround it.

The Barun expedition will consist of six New Zealanders and probably several other climbers. The New Zealand Alpine Club is calling for applications from alpinists between 24 and 38 who are able to contribute $900 toward the cost of the expedition.

Urges Toll Highways

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Warden S. McKillop said Tuesday in opening the June sessions of Elgin county council that millions of dollars are being spent on provincial highways largely for the benefit of American tourists. He suggested that both the Ontario and federal governments give serious consideration to a toll system for superhighways.

LACROSSE RECEIPTS DOWN

Have the people of Peterborough grown tired of lacross or has the past record of the team created a type of lazy satisfaction in the fans that keeps them from the games? This year two games have been below the thousand dollar gate mark which is unprecedented in Peterborough. The team's budget is based on a minimum of $1,700.00 a game.

ENUMERATORS MEET

The main committee room at the City Hall has been reserved for a meeting of the city electoral enumerators Friday night at 7:30. A ROBIN IS RESCUED

Two members of the Peterborough Nature Club armed with a net rushed to Confederation Park on Sunday evening to capture a robin that had received a broken wing after being hit by a passing car. The robin was taken to a veterinary who treated the broken limb and is boarding it until the bird is able to fly again. Any costs will be born by the nature club.

REALISTIC EXERCISE

A realistic demonstration of a disaster and how the St. John Ambulance Corps handles it will feature the annual inspection of the city's three St. John Ambulance Corps tonight at 8 o'clock in the armouries. "Bombs" will be exploded and casualties that look like casualties will be treated by members of the Peterborough, Kawartha and Nursing corps. A party of provincial officials from Toronto will inspect the demonstration.

THE CIRCUS CAME TO TOWN and marched right up George St. today in the first circus parade seen in the city in some 20 years. A line of elephants diminished the size of cars and trucks along the route and overawed the youngsters. Some could not wait and visited the Exhibition grounds to get a preview. Young Susan Downing, held by Mrs. A. Hood, was delighted to watch a young racoon take his breakfast from a bottle held by circus worker Rickie Richiardi. Elephants are not only performers. As shown in the lower photo they lend a hand to raise the big top.

First Circus Parade In 20 Yrs. Appears

Today was kid's day in Peterborough. And kids—ranging in age from eight years to 80—stood three and four deep on George and Water Sts. to see the first circus parade in Peterborough in at least 20 years. Not even a 45-minute delay in the parade or a last-minute shower of rain could stifle their enthusiasm. As they heard the cheerful piping of calliopes, laughed at the clowns, and ogled the caged jungle beasts as they were trundled along in their stout cages, the kids felt it was worth the wait.

Next stop: The King Bros. and Cristiani Combined Circus whose afternoon performance at the Exhibition Grounds was 2 p.m. The second show begins tonight at 8 p.m. It is being sponsored by the Peterborough Kiwanis Club.

Circus fans were treated to a real old-fashioned street parade, a spectable that few of the present generation have seen. As they stood waiting for the van of the parade old-timers chatted together, arguing good-humoredly about how long ago it was since they saw their last parade.

The youngsters—intent on the present spectacle, not history—craned their necks impatiently waiting for the appearance of the leadoff performers: two pretty cowgirls on piebald horses—one carrying the Stars and Stripes, the other the Union Jack.

Hawkers selling gas-inflated balloons and toy monkeys had a field day as they sold their wares to the waiting crowd. From time to time though youthful joy was turned to dismay when the prize balloon would escape from the owner and sail away, hundreds of feet above the city.

CROWDS ON GROUNDS

At noon the circus started up George St. from the Exhibition Grounds where a crowd of several hundred had already gathered watching the circus help put up the "big top" and get the grounds ready for the afternoon performance.

Following the two cowgirls came circus officials and the traditional heavy bandwagon, painted a striking gold and red, drawn by six horses. On top the blue-uniformed bandsmen kept up lively tunes for the entertainment of the spectators.

On another float were performers dressed as Indians, side show girls hardly dressed at all, acrobats doing flips and nip-ups, and clowns trying anything for a laugh.

But the "ohs" and "ahs" from the small children began when the wild animals, secure in their cages came into view.

Among the captives were a restless polar bear, a bored but massive hippopotamus, and an anteater. Another wagon-cage bore a negro quartet in uniform who sat on top beating out jazz. Inside were two hyenas, a watchful tiger, and Leo the lion with his mate, both of them listening to the jungle music.

There was also a leopard. And in one cage was a trim and pretty lion tamer who sat beside her charge, keeping a watchful eye on him.

Perhaps the thing that drew the most cheers from the children was the parade of 12 elephants at the rear of the parade. Grasping each other's tails they lumbered along in single file. They were piped from behind by another calliope organ that enveloped the players in a mass of steam when the keys were sounded.

The King Bros. and Christiani circus stars include the world-famous Cristiani family who perform somersaulting and bareback riding feats; the Hermanos Rodrys Brothers, aerialists from France; Hugo Zacchini who is shot from a huge silver cannon to land in a net; teeterboard stars including Ortans Christiani; the Aerial Bellet, and other events.

The circus is a one-day stand: one performance in the afternoon and the final one tonight.

Young Couple Wed In Court House Just Before Groom Placed On Trial

LINDSAY (ENS)—A Hamilton man with a criminal record that goes back 13 years was married in Victoria County Jail today, an hour before he was sentenced to three years in penitentiary.

Groom in the "June wedding" behind bars was John Mandris, 31, of Hamilton who later pleaded guilty to three charges of forging and three charges of uttering cheques in the Lindsay district.

Another ironic twist: the man who married Mandris and his bride was Magistrate E. A. Gee. An hour after the wedding ceremony Magistrate Gee, Victoria County magistrate, handed out the three-year sentence.

Mandris took as his bride in the civil ceremony, the former Emma Gottlieb of Hamilton. The couple had been going together for some six months. Mrs. Mandris is 24.

Mrs. Thelma Thompson, wife of Mandris' lawyer, David Thomson, and Jasper Forman, county sheriff, were witnesses to the ceremony. Interviewed in the courtroom before Mandris' trial, the couple said that they thought that whatever the result of the hearing, the marriage would be best for both of them. They planned originally to be married in a Hamilton church this month. Mrs. Mandris is a member of the United Church, while Mandris is Greek Orthodox. Mandris was to appear on eight charges of forging and uttering. First he was charged with only two offences, against a Woodville man, Herbert Morgan. Six other charges were laid later. Mandris is a general contractor who has been doing chimney vacuum cleaning work.

Truck And Car Tires Taken In Omemee

LINDSAY (ENS)— Provincial and local police are on the lookout for thieves who have started an epidemic of stealing truck and car tires. Two weeks ago a garage at Omemee was entered and a number of truck tires stolen. Thieves returned to the Smith Nurse garage two nights ago and carried off 20 more new tires. The Kawartha Motors on Lindsay St. in Lindsay was also entered and another batch of tires stolen. This dealer reports the theft of tires from a Ford dealer at Uxbridge. Last night thieves were scared away at the Devon garage on the Bobcaygeon road. occupants of the apartment over the garage heard strange noises and called the police but the birds had flown.

Two Youths Charged With Manslaughter

HAMILTON (CP)—Two youths were charged with manslaughter Tuesday night in connection with the death of a 31-year-old telephone operator who was struck by a brick on Hamilton mountain Friday. They were remanded to June 30 on $1,000 bail.

The woman, Grace McPherson, died Sunday from head injuries. Police said Douglas Hamilton, 16, and Raymond Speziale, 17, were apparently standing on a ledge above Miss McPherson. A stone was believed to have been dropped as the woman walked up the mountain roadway.

Ambassador R. D. Stuart

Worked In City For 17½ Cents An Hour

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA (CP)—A 67-year-old diplomatic novice who once worked in a Canadian factory for 17½ cents an hour is coming back to Canada to work as American ambassador, a job which pays somewhat more than that. And work, says Robert Douglas Stuart, is just what he intends to do in this country where his father was born and his grandfather was shipwrecked.

He met the press Tuesday during a brief visit to prepare for his arrival to stay in July, and he impressed them, not so much by what he said but his plan and pleasant manner and his absence of facade.

The reporters tried hard to draw him out on such contentious matters as the St. Lawrence seaway and the possibility of an upsurge of tariffs under a Republican administration he actively helped elect as party treasurer. They didn't get far.

On the seaway, Mr. Stuart said "all I can say is that generally I believe in the development of waterways all over this continent."

NOT RIGHT TIME

On the tariff question, he found them coming at him from the front and both flanks. As a Republican or as an ambassador or as a business man—president of Quaker Oats Co. — what did he think of the tariff situation? This, said Mr. Stuart, is no time for him to start talking about that.

His connections with Canada are lifelong and intimate. His grandfather, a Scot, was shipwrecked on the coast of Newfoundland years ago and made his way eventually to Embro, Ont., near Woodstock. Douglas Stuart's father was born there and migrated from there to Glencoe, Ill., where the ambassador was born.

When he started out with Quaker Oats in 1906 they sent him to Canada to work in the Peterborough plant for 17½ cents an hour. After six months he got a raise and then went to Saskatoon.

IUE Drops Appeal Against Vote

Union Defeated By Two Votes At Raybestos Plant

The Internationel Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CIO-CCL) have withdrawn their appeal against the vote held April 29 at the Canadian Raybestos Co. plant in which they were defeated 63 to 62 by the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (Indep.).

Today was the date of the hearing set by the Ontario Labor Relations Board to hear the IUE appeal. But on Tuesday they were informed by David Lewis, IUE legal counsel, that it had been withdrawn.

The application of the IUE to become bargaining agents for 126 production workers has therefore been dismissed by the OLRB.

Immediately after the election Joe Wirtz, Canadian IUE co-ordinator, said that the IUE would appeal the vote. He accused the rival UE of electioneering during the 72-hour blackout on propaganda.

NOT WORRIED

Ralph Sullivan, UE area representative, said at the time that his union weren't taking the IUE claim very seriously. Both he and John Whalen, president of Local 527, UE, accused IUE members of trying to upset contract negotiations at the plant.

In the OLRB-conducted vote 63 Raybestos workers voted for their existing bargaining agents, the UE; 62 voted IUE; one worker at the plant refused to cast a ballot for either side; and still another man was ill in hospital.

Fire Discovered In Nick Of Time In Elevator Shaft

A "fortunate co-incidence" resulted in a fire that had broken out in an elevator shaft of the Conger Lehigh Fuels Ltd., 266 Charlotte St., being discovered early Tuesday night just in the nick of time.

It was successfully doused after a fire extinguisher was used and a dozen pails of water were thrown on it.

Murray Hartley, a CNR employee, was the man who saw the fire just in time. Then with Harold Davis of the Davis Service Station he put it out.

"I was walking along Charlotte St., going to my mother's home, when I saw smoke coming from the elevator shaft," said Mr. Hartley. "When I investigated I saw there was a fire in the pit and it was just getting going nicely. Another five minutes and it would have been too late. The old building is like tinder."

With Mr. Davis, whose service station is next door, he put out the blaze. When firemen arrived it was all over.

Damage was mainly to the woodwork at the base of the elevator shaft and is estimated at $15. Cause of the fire has not been determined.

Cars Collide On Twp. Road

Damage of $375 was caused late Tuesday afternoon when two cars collided at the junction of a county and township road in North Monaghan township, two miles east of Springville.

Carl Jorgenson, 38, of 501 Aylmer St. was driving his 1947-model car east on the Springville Line, on his way into Peterborough, when he came into collision with a southbound car driven by Donald C. Anderson, 19, of RR 5, Peterborough. The intersection is commonly known as the Windmill Corner.

Jorgenson's car got $300 damage, mostly to the left side. Anderson's 1935-model car got $75 damage.

Neither driver was injured in the accident which was investigated by OPP Constable Harold Armstrong.

Two Phone Lines Added To City Hall

City Hall's telephone lines have been increased from five to seven at a cost of $20 a month as reported to the council Monday by City Clerk Outram.

"The five were not sufficient to carry the increased volume of calls. Delays in connecting with the office caused some criticism. We had the Bell company check on our needs and they recommended the two extra lines which will increase the service 40%."

Man Tossed Against Wall Not Injured

Riding Motorcycle In Collision With Car At Corner

A motorcyclist was hurled through the air against a brick wall after being struck by a car Tuesday, but walked away uninjured. He was William G. Douglas of 677 Frank St., hit by a car driven by Gordon Runnett of 49 Edgewater Blvd.

Runnett was driving north on Water St. and making a left turn onto Brock when the accident occured. Douglas was riding his cycle south on Water.

The impact threw Douglas over the curb into the LCBO store at the corner but he regained his feet and walked away.

His motorcycle sustained damages estimated at $100 while the car escaped with only $3 damage.

Sergeant Andre Dalton investigated.

Howe Predicts Prosperity At Warkworth

WARKWORTH (CP) — Trade Minister Howe said Tuesday night that another boom year for investment in Canada is in progress, giving promise of continued prosperity.

He told a Liberal nomination convention for Northumberland riding in this village 20 miles southeast of Peterborough that investment during the first quarter of 1953 was "17 per cent higher than we thought it would be."

He predicted investment this year would be near the $6,000,000,000 mark. "Next year, when the fruits of that investment are pumped into the economy, will be another good year."

Dr. Fred Robertson of Cobourg, sitting member for Northumberland, was nominated as Liberal candidate in the Aug. 10 general election. He has held the seat since 1949.

Blame One Pig For Outbreak Of Epidemic

SUDBURY (CP)—Doctors said here Tuesday that the latest trichinosis epidemic that struck 22 persons has been licked. They blmoed one pigfor the whole outbreak.

The lone hog was thought to have been butchered early in May and most of its meat used in making smoked sausages. The insufficiently cooked sausages provided a perfect medium for the transfer of the trichinosis parasite to humans.

Trichinosis, a fairly common disease among certain types of hogs, is rare among humans in Canada, except in the Sudbury district where some 63 cases have been reported in the last six years.

TINY PARASITE

Cause of the disease is a tiny parasite living in the infected pig's muscles. Doing little harm to the animal, it is sometimes fatal and causes fever, muscular pains and eye swelling when transferred to humans through uncooked or insufficiently cooked pork.

Dr. J. B. Cook, Sudbury medical health officer, said Tuesday there has been no sign of the disease here in the last three weeks.

Dr. Cook said two weeks ago that the lack of an abattoir where animals could be killed under supervision was responsible for the spread of trichinosis in Sudbury.

First indications of human infection here were noted in 1947 when one person was infected. In 1949 eight persons were stricken and in 1550, some 20 cases reported. There were four cases in 1951 and another eight last year.

FOLLOW MOSLEM CUSTOM—The ancient Moslem custom of embracing after prayers at the end of the month-long fast and observance of the feast of Ramzan is followed in Ottawa by R. S. Chhatari, (left) first secretary to the Pakistan High Commissioner and M. Ibrahaim, Pakistan resident at Ottawa. About 80 Moslems from Ottawa attended the ceremony held on the lawn in front of the Pakiston High Commissioner's officé.

Youth Convicted Second Time For Robbery

TORONTO (CP)—An epileptic Toronto youth, who said that he had his "hopes built every night" while serving a four-year penitentiary sentence that his innocence could be proved, Tuesday night was convictedby a jury for the second time on an armed robbery charge.

The second trial of Paul Cachia on the charge was ordered by federal Justice Minister Garson in an almost unprecedented legal move after an investigation initiated by Cliff Magone, Ontario's deputy attorney-general.

Cachia was sentenced to two years less a day in reformatory after Crown counsel reminded judge Samuel Facor that Cachia had spent almost two years in jail and ater defence ounsel had pleaded for leniency.

Cachia was described by both counsel and the judge as a youth "obviously mentally retarded."

Cachia's defence hinged on his testimony that he was at his home at the time of the robbery committed Sept. 20, 1951.

Union Accuses Police Commission Of Sloppy, Archaic Thinking

WINDSOR — (CP) — Union officials Tuesday accused the police commission of "sloppy and archaic thinking" in considering union and non-union manufacturers as equals in dealing with bids for the supply of police uniforms.

This was the latest comment on the dispute which has split city council during the last few weeks and seen the police commission take an opposite view to that of council and board of control.

A joint statement issued by the presidents of three locals of United Automobile Workers (CIO) said they "protested against" the commission's actions" vigorously.

It was signed by president Charles McDonald of local 200, Earle Watson, local 195, and Joe B. Kenny, local 240.

They said they spoke on behalf of 25,000 members in the Windsor district.

START OF CONTROVERSY

The controversy arose when Mayor Arthur J. Reaume cast the deciding vote to award five city trucks from a union firm despite a lower tender from a non-union firm. The non-union company was awarded a contract to supply two of the seven trucks needed.

Later, board of control recommended city council buy fire department uniforms from Tip Top Tailors, Ltd., a union company which had submitted a higher tender than Bond Clothes Shops, Ltd., a company the board said did not employ union help.

Last Friday the police commission awarded a contract for police uniforms to Bond Clothes Stores, Ltd. which submitted the lowest of five tenders.

Second Comet Jet Beats Sister Ship

OTTAWA (CV)—The RCAF's second Comet jet ended its 3,545-mile flight from London at 3:32 p.m. EDT Tuesday, beating its sister ship, which flew the Atlantic recently, by almost an hour. Its flying time from London to Ottawa was nine hours 23 minutes compared with 10 hours 20 minutes for the first Comet.

The plane stopped en route here at Keflavik, Iceland and Goose Bay. The flight was the fastest Atlantic crossing by a jet transport although other jets have made the trip in considerably less time.

Tire Rim Smashes Panes

BRANTFORD (CP)—A 35-pound steel tire rim from the wheel of a 10-ton truck sailed 30 feet across the main street Tuesday "like a guided missile" and smashed two big plate glas windows in A. G. Goldie's hardware store. The steel rim was propelled by a tire blowout on a truck loaded with seven tons of gravel and driven by Bertram Stevenson of Vineland.

Critically Burned

TORONTO (CP)—John Pettinger, an 84-year-old watchman, was taken to hospital in critical condition with second-degree burns suffered when a highly-explosive liquid used in the commercial laboratory where he was working exploded and showered him with flames Tuesday.

Kin of Town Founder

CHESLEY (CP)—Mrs. Jane Moffat, granddaughter of the late Adam Scott Elliot, founder of this Bruce county town, died Tuesday. She was 93. Born in Lanark county, Mrs. Moffat had resided at Sault Ste. Marie' Ont; Joliet, Ill., and Detroit before coming here.

Grace United WA Close Season With Supper

From a kitchen shelf deep-piled with tasty salads, spicy cold meats, delicious pies, cakes and tarts the ladies of the Woman's Association of Grace United Church and their guests supped "to the fullest" Tuesday evening in the church basement. The pot luck supper preceded the regular meeting this time as it was the closing until the fall session.

When they meet again in September the ladies would like to have another such supper, but it may not be possible for by then the present Grace Church may be entirely torn down to make way for the new, modern design church which is to take its place at the corner of Howden Ave. and Monaghan Road.

Their minister, the Rev. I. G. Pollock, referred to the forthcoming building program in his brief address to the ladies. "Will you all get behind me and the others who are in leading positions in this effort, and I'm sure we will have a place of Christian faith of which we can all be proud" he asked.

Congratulations on the accomplishments of the ladies the past year were extended by Mr. Pollock. "I know it represents a tremendous amount of enthusiasm, work and love" he added. The work of the WA is to keep up the church and the parsonage and so this particular organization must make money. A recent tea netted well over $100 and the next project, to operate a booth during the one-day convention of the Black Knights of Eastern Ontario on August 8th at the Exhibition Grounds, is expected to bring greater returns.

Mr. Pollock referred to the gloominess which some people seem to attach to their religious activities, and he said "I challenge all of you to have a happy Chrsitian outlook and to keep freshness and ability to look brightly at things." He added: "The Christian faith has always been a triumphant one—knowing that the end is good."

A greeting from the Presbyterial WA was brought by the new president, Mrs. T. E. Rath of Lakefield. Her message to the branch was "Never be satisfied with half-best; go a step further and see what you can do" and she closed with a fitting poem titled "Do It."

Mrs. Verda Montgomery was in charge of the worship service, assisted by Mrs. George Close who read the scripture selection containing the Beatitudes, and Mrs. H. Glover who read a meditation on these and led in prayer. Mrs. Harold Pickell was pianist for the hymns.

President Mrs. Eric McKinstry led the discussion of the operation of the booth and a committee to make arrangements was appointed, to include Mrs. McKinstry, Mrs. B. Hooey, Mrs. W. J. Waldie, Mrs. Close and Mrs. I. G. Pollock.

Treasurer Mrs J. B Jackson gave the financial situation at this date included a detailed report on the tea, and the president added a word of thanks particularly to Mrs Waldie and her committee for the success of the tea.

Popular Marriage Preparing Course

By KEN STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—An idea conceived about 10 years ago by two priests at the University of Ottawa has resulted in a popular marriage-preparation course in Quebec.

The course, designed to instruct prospective brides and grooms in the fundamental problems of marriage, was started in 1946 and since then more than 75,000 persons, young and old, have followed it with what Roman Catholic Church officials were described as "remarkable results."

The course, based mainly on Catholic principles, has spread through Canada, the United States and European countries. It was first published in French and English, and now is also available in German, Spanish and Portuguese.

COVERS WIDE RANGE

It deals with marriage problems in general and delves into such topics as masculine and feminine psychology, masculine and feminine anatomy, canon law, civil laws concerning marriage, financial problems and others with which young couples may be faced.

Lectures are given by doctors, priests, notaries and financial economic experts. Following the lectures forums are usually held during which various problems may be discussed. Groups of from 50 to 200 persons attend these lectures, depending on the size of the parish.

Quebec churchmen have voiced the opinion that the course, usually given in each parish every spring, may be looked upon as a means of protecting marriages and reducing the number of cases of divorce and separations.

Rev. Leonard Murphy, who introduced the course here four years ago, thinks it's "just wonderful."

FOR NON-CATHOLICS TOO

"It has really worked wonders," he said, "for those who have taken it here. It doesn't matter if a person is a Catholic or non-Catholic, it is designed to help anyone contemplating marriage.

"What men must realize," said Father Murphy, "when they enter marriage—and too often do not—is that they are marrying a woman, not another man. They must try to understand their mate, study her make-up. The same applies to the woman.

"The marriage preparation course tries to accomplish just that."

Ballet Class Enjoys Picnic

Children of Miss C. Littlefield's Ballet Class were entertained at at a picnic Monday afternoon at Jackson's Park as the final event in the classes for the summer.

Races and games were enjoyed by the children.

Mr. Douglas Anderson, on behalf of the Lions Club presented coronation dolls to the winners in the ballet ticket selling contest, Miss Karen Kitney and Miss Janice Crary. Miss Marina Zakos and Miss Daphne Hayward, winners in the junior and intermediate groups, were presented with season tickets to the Lions Club swimming pool.

Mrs. A. Maudsley was convener for refreshments. Assistants for the picnic were Mrs. John Kitney, Mrs. Adam Sands, Mrs. H. Bletcher, Mrs. B. Holloway, Mrs. Ralph Clark, Mrs. J. McNeill, Mrs. T. Roger, Mrs. J. Laidlaw, Mrs. C. Worrall, Mrs. A. B. Collis, Mrs. J. Young and Mrs. Max Comstock.

The race winners were: under three, Sandra Currie, Katherine Arden, Barbara Collis; four to five, Janice Crary; six to seven, Jacqueline Smith; eight to nine, Patsy Hutton; 10, Kathleen Hutton; 11 and over, Gloria Collison. Balloon contest, Ruth Quinlan.

Shearer-Leith

The marriage took place quietly at St. Paul's manse, Port Hope, the Rev. L. Fowler officiating, of Agnes Janet (Nancy), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stroyan Leith of Peterborough, to Walter John Shearer, only son of Mrs. George Shearer and the late Mr. Shearer of Edinburgh, Scotland.

The bride wore a white linen suit with navy accessories and a corsage of Briarcliffe roses. She was attended by Miss Shirley Hyslop of Toronto who wore a light blue suit, navy and white accessories and a corsage of Rapture roses.

Groomsman was Mr. Theo Gordon of Oshawa, formerly of this city.

After a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bradley, Port Hope, the couple left on a wedding trip to the United States.

They will live at 467 Downie Street, Peterborough.

Three On Staff Feted At Havelock

HAVELOCK (ENS) — A very enjoyable surprise party was held at the home of Mrs. A. Russell, Monday evening, by the local Bell Telephone staff to say "farewell" to their chief operator, Mrs. R. E. Collington, who is being transferred to the Lombard office of the company in Toronto.

The party was also for two members of the staff, Miss Beverley Bennett and Miss Ruby Buckland, on their approaching marriages. An address was read by Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Collington was presented with a rhinestone necklace and the brides-elect were each presented with a wool blanket.

Two contests were conducted with the prizes being won by Mrs. Collington and Mrs. G. Fairman.

Plan Cleaning Bee

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Boiled-Pickled Tongue On Special-Purpose Menu

Boiled Pickled Tongue
Raisin Sauce
Quick-cooked Cabbage Wedges
Parsleyed New Potatoes
Rabbit Food Salad
Kay's Mother's Dessert Coffee

DIRECTIONS:

The dessert for today's little banquet is one that Kay's mother used to make when they were all at home and guests were coming for dinner. You will never find this in a cookbook and you will find it delicious—vouched for by some select and discriminating tasters.

The boiled tongue is pickled. Try to choose one weighing at least 3 lbs. (preferably 4 lbs.) to obtain the best value for your money. A pickled tongue is an economical buy.

Bring the tongue to boiling in unsalted water to cover. Reduce heat to simmer and cook covered for 3¼ hours or until tongue is tender. One hour at 12 to 15 lbs. pressure is sufficient if tongue is cooked in pressure cooker.

When ready to serve place the tongue on the platter on its side, and slice along the length of the tone—not down crosswise. If you have a large oxtongue you will notice the fine webbing of creamy fat at the centre, which makes the meat tender and delicious.

NOTE TO ECONOMIZERS: Save the liquid in which you boiled the tongue for two things: the raisin sauce (see below) and for making soup. It will be oversalty so do not add salt when you make your vegetable soup until you have tasted it.

RAISIN SAUCE:

Mix together 2 tablespoons cornstarch and 1 tablespoon sugar and ⅛ teaspoon paprika. Stir into them 2 cups hot liquid from cooking tongue. (Water may be used if this sauce is to be used for another purpose.) Stil until thick. Add 6 tablespoons raisins and cook over boiling water, covered, for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add 1½ tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar, and reheat. This is delicious with boiled or baked ham or picnic shoulder.

RABBIT FOOD SALAD

One-half head lettuce coarsely chopped, ¼ cup each chopped or sliced cucumber with skin on, green pepper, celery, parsley, 1 coarsely cut tomato. If you have peppercress or chives in the garden add some of them too. Serve with mayonnaise or French dressing. If you would like to extend this we think 1 cup of finely shredded cabbage is a delicious addition.

Baked Chocolate Pudding: One-quarter cup butter and shortening (Kay says make this scant, and that it is tenderer than with all butter); ½ cup brown sugar, ¾ cup milk, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons cocoa, 1½ cups flour. Kay did not give directions for mixing this but you know as well as I that you cream the sugar and shortening; sift the flour, baking powder, cocoa and salt together, and stir them in alternately with the milk. Bake in a greased loaf pan at between 325 deg. Fahr. and 350 deg. Fahr. "until when you poke it with your finger it is done."

Sauce: (This is the very special part.) Separate the whites from the yolks of 2 eggs. Beat the yolks with ⅓ cup sugar until good and stiff—add a litle more sugar, Kay says, if not stiff enough. Beat whites until stiff and fold in. Chill until thoroughly cold. Spoon this lovely creamy sauce over the cake-pudding at table—icy cold.

DOROTHY DIX:

Widow Make Demands On Friends

DEAR MISS DIX: I know several women in the category I am about to describe, though one in particular is especially irksome. She has plenty of money, no responsibilities, and flits from one committee to another in search of something to occupy her time. The trouble is that she expects all her friends to cater to her, particularly in the matter of transportation. Though she has money for taxicabs and lives near a bus line, she calls one friend or another every time she wants to go shopping, to the movies, or to a new committee meeting. We're all getting fed up with it, and if we refuse her requests, a nasty comment results. This widow has relatives living in a suburb of our city, and they rarely bother with her. I guess they learned their lesson, while the friends still are tolerant.

VIOLA M.

ANSWER: Your friend presents a most pathetic spectacle, and someone should set her straight, not so much on her attitude toward favors rendered as to the necessity for finding something worthwhile in life. Women in her position, with plenty of time and money, have such a wonderful opportunity to be of real service, that it's a sin for them to ignore it. Aren't any of her committees concerned wih charitable projects that would inspire her to a little self-sacrifice? If not, perhaps you could point some out to her. Take her through the children's ward of a large hospital. Your city has many institutions for the care of neglected, ill, crippled youngsters. The sight of these needy children should give her a different outlook on life. I'm sure if her trips were to hospitals, transportation would be cheerfully provided. However, if she remains hardhearted and demanding, you and her other friend should simply refuse to be available.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you have a prescription for falling out of love or winning an old love back? About three months ago I broke off with the boy I loved dearly. I've tried everything to get him back, but he doesn't seem to care for me any more. I'm 17 and he's 18. H. B.

ANSWER: The best way to get over a broken romance is substitution. Fill your time, thoughts, and emotions with something else. New friends make the perfect prescription for your trouble. The time you have spent chasing the boy has been completely wasted, and should have been put to better advantage. Nothing is quite as dead as a dead love, and nothing is more exhilarating than a new one.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: A boy I used to like has fallen in love with a 28-year-old married woman. He says he intends to wait until she is divorced, then marry her, though he is only 17. Everyone has talked to him, but in vain.

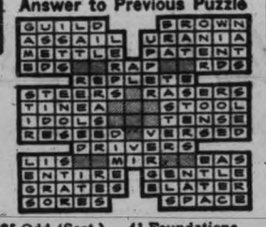
CONCERNED

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your friend's problem will solve itself, leaving him slightly battered, it's true, but wiser. The lady involved will never divorce her husband to marry the boy, and will, in fact, lose interest in him when someone of greater charms appears upon the scene.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: One of my closest friends has been receiving anonymous letters containing false statements. These letters are causing a great deal of trouble between him and his family. What can be done to trace them, and what can be done to the person who wrote them?



PAUL D.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your friend can take the letters to the District Attorney's office, or to a Postal Inspector. It's very difficult to trace anonymous letters, but not impossible.

Scots Leaving Isle Of Soay To The English

ISLE OF SOAY, Scotland (CP) —The English are driving the Scots away from this tiny island off Scotland's west coast.

Tex and Jeanne Geddes and their three-year-old son Duncan shortly will have the island all to themselves. All 27 Scots will have left for the Isle of Mull, 50 miles to the south, where they will be resettled with government aid.

The feud has been going on since the Geddes family bought the Island for £200 a year ago from the Duke of Hamilton and became the Scots' landlords.

To start things off, the English family picknicked on Sunday. They did other "English" things, minor in themselves, but extremely irritating to the Scots.

One day, the Geddes' private pew in Soay's tiny church was pulled out. Nobody knew who did it, but the Scots seemed happy about it.

In the Scots' cottages at the end of the day, the talk was always about the Geddes' "transgressions."

FEWER LOBSTERS CAUGHT

Lobster catches, the island's main industry, began to fall. Farmers suffered crop failures. The superstitious Scots decided whose fault it all was: The "English had placed a jinx on the isle. isle.

Soay's only school was closed for lack of enough children to keep it going. The islanders suddenly became alarmed that the nearest doctor was on the Isle of Skye, a few miles across the sea.

They took their troubles to James Stewart, secretary of state for Scotland. He gave them permission to resettle in state-owned cottages on Mull. Next, the Scots asked compensation from the Geddes for "forcing" them to leave their homes.

Stewart promised to look into the claim, based on an act of 1886. One Scot asked $2,500 damages.

HAVE NO MONEY

Jean Geddes, the "queen of Soay," said they couldn't pay any claims.

"We haven't a bean left," she said. "We spent our savings on buying the island."

her English friends would be glad

Some said she doesn't mind the islanders leaving because some of to settle here. So far, she claims to have 100 applications from would-be islanders.

Tex, a wartime commando and experienced shark hunter, said Soay could support 150 people through fishing and farming.

It will have nine empty cottages worth $11,000 when the Scots leave. But there are no cars, telephones or stores. The only link with the outside world is a steamer which calls once a week.

The Geddes claim these shortages are nothing compared to the bracing ocean winds which sweep across the island, the magnificent sunsets and the bluish outline of hills on the Isle of Skye in the far distance.

Hastings Women Entertain Groups

HASTINGS (ENS).—Miss Lillion Humphries was hostess to the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Hastings, Tuesday for their monthly meeting. The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. Max Humphries. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Gordon Dickie and Mrs. T. E. Kennedy led the group in prayer. A reading was given by Mrs. Charles Dodd entitled, Be Careful What You Say. Mrs. Bernice Humphries and Miss Shirley Humphries sang a duet. It was decided to have a bake sale in Hastings, July 18. The group also planned a picnic for the congregation at Riverside Park, August 5. The meetings for July and August are cancelled and Mrs. Kennedy invited the ladies to her home for the September meeting. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess and she was thanked by Mrs. Charles Dodd.

Living Cost Drops

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The government announced today that President Peron's drive against food profiteering has brought the cost of living in Buenos Aires to the lowest level in a year. It said the cost-of-living index, which reached 719 in February in comparison with the base or normal figure of 100 in 1943, dropped to 626 last month.

Interpreter Dead

GENEVA (AP)—Humbert Denis, Parodi, 75, chief interpreter of the League of Nations between the two world wars, was found dead in his bath here Tuesday night. Police said he apparently was asphyxiated by a water heater.

Sarnia Player Hurt In 30-Foot Fall

SARNIA (CP)—Jack Soper, a player with Sarnia Imperials of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, was injured severely Tuesday when he fell 30 feet to the ground from the top of a hydro pole.

Hospital authorities today reported his condition as "fairly good."

Doctors Blast Penicillin Lozenge Use

WINNIPEG (CP) — A critical blast at the use of penicilin lozenges and the news that Trans-Canada Medical Plans now offers medical services anywhere in Canada marked the end of the sessions in camera of the general council of the Canadian Medical Association Tuesday.

The association's five-day 86th annual convention ends Friday. Today the more than 1,000 delegates move into scientific sessions.

The annual general meeting of the association is scheduled tonight. Five visiting American physicians are to speak and fraternal delegates and senior members will be introduced.

The council, in its final session, received a reply to its request that the federal government prohibit sale of penicillin in any form without a prescription.

Dr. G. D. W. Cameron, deputy minister of health and welfare, said since cures can be effected by the lozenges of certain minor throat and mouth ailments without harm to most persons, the government would not prohibit the open sale. As a compromise, advertising of the lozenges in any form was prohibited after June 1.

DEVELOP SENSITIVITY

Dr. Bram Rose of Montreal said the lozenges develop a sensitivity which amounts to an allergy in some people. This can be very serious, he said.

The CMA-sponsored Trans-Canada Medical Plans can now provide Canadians with medical service in any part of Canada, the council learned in an earlier session. A report presented by Dr. Roy W. Richardson of Winnipeg, chairman of the committee on economics, said the addition of two new plans to the group brings the total number to 10 and makes complete coverage available.

The two new plans are Blue Cross Medical Service in Quebec and Maritime Medical Services. These include about 800,000 members and bring estimated coverage to 1,900,000.

Dr. Richardson said that while coverage is not entirely uniform from province to province at the moment, the TCMP allows a person to transfer from one province to another without losing coverage entirely.

The plan is not designed to forestall a government plan, said the doctor, but will operate on a cheaper basis and at less administrative cost.

Predicts Record Yield For Kent Crops

CHATHAM (CP)—Agricultural representative Ken Lantz today predicted crop yields "equal, if not greater" than last year's record output of 11,487,000 bushels in Kent county.

Although damp weather had delayed spring seeding, he said there was every indication of a bumper year. The final yield would be determined by weather during the rest of the summer.

Harvesting is under way in hay and clover with fall wheat making great gains. Corn and soya beans are well ahead of schedule.

Reduced acreages in sugar beets and tobacco may reduce the cash output in the county, but planted beets and tobacco are showing exceptional growth.

High potato yields are predicted.

Convention Passes Bylaws

HAMILTON (CP) — Bylaws of the newly-formed property board were approved by delegates to the 65th annual Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec this morning.

To make the work of the board possible, the convention will apply to the Ontario legislature to extend the rights to hold land to boards created under the authority of federal statutes.

It will seek a further amendment to allow property of a convention church, which has ceased to function for one year, to be vested in the property board. In the future properties of churches wishing it may be vested in the convention through the board.

A proposed home for retired ministers and missionaries may also be vested in the board. It has already taken over management of Church House in Toronto.

Officers named to the board for the coming year are: Fred W. Kemp, of Willowdale and Gordon C. McEwen, of Toronto.

U.K. Pub System No Good For Canada

VANCOUVER (CP)—The "pub" system of Britain is not always suitable in Canada, Dalton J. Caswell of Sundridge, Ont., board chairman of the Hotel Association of Canada, said Tuesday.

Adressing delegates to the association's annual convention here, Mr. Caswell said public houses or taverns "haven't worked out"

"The owner of the public house has no obligation to his customer other than to sell beer. His hours of sale are limited and he consequently operates on a smaller staff, spends less on decoration and improving standard of service.

Mr. Caswell said experience has proved that hotels are the "most logical place" to have lounges.

"Hand in hand with the lounges go improved service and a better atmosphere for the social drink."

Drizzle Aids Firefighters

EDMONTON (CP)—Light drizzling rain fell in northeastern Alberta and northwestern Manitoba Monday night and early today, reducing hazards of a series of forest fires burning through thousands of acres in the Prairie provinces.

McMurray and Waterways, twin Alberta towns 300 miles northeast of Edmonton, reported rain has almost completely subdued fires which last week threatened destruction of the towns from three sides.

Saskatchewan's Prince Albert region, where fires almost spread to the Prince Albert national park forest, had .20 inches of rain in 24 hours. More than 200 men are fighting to control blazes in the area.

IN LABOR HOT SPOT—Three of the five members of the political action committee of the influential Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor meet in Montreal. The committee maps out CCCL political policies although it has no political party of its own and maintains it has no intention of founding one.

Quebec Labor Being Forced To Enter Political Scene Against Duplessis

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec's Catholic labor unions, in their effort to apply pressure in Quebec's political field, have come to a head-on collision with Premier Duplessis.

The Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor, officially supported by Quebec's Roman Catholic clergy in labor matters, has no political party of its own and maintains it has no intention of founding one. But in last summer's Quebec election campaign the CCCL officially backed four Liberal candidates. Three were elected. In most of the province's other ridings, the CCCL urged workers to vote for the Liberal party.

It was the first time that labor actively took part in a Quebec provincial campaign and qualified observers believe at least half of the 22 Liberal members in the Quebec Legislature were elected as a result of labor support.

AGAINST DUPLESSIS

While CCCL leadership made no bones about its anti-Duplessis feelings, some of the membership secretly murmured disagreement with official union policy Some members felt labor could only injure its cause by throwing its weight openly behind one party or another.

Relations had been strained for years between the Catholic labor organization and Mr. Duplessis, but last summer's election campaign brought a smouldering situation to a head.

In the legislature session following the election, Mr. Duplessis bluntly termed CCCL leaders "agents of disorder." He accused Gaston Ledoux, former president of the Textile Federation (CCCL) and now a Liberal member, of dragging out a bitter textile strike at Louiseville for political purposes.

When the CCCL threatened to call a general work stoppage if the Louiseville trouble were not settled, Mr. Duplessis let CCCL leaders know he would recommend the severest penalties under the law if the plan was carried out. Mr. Duplessis is Quebec's attorney-general and in that capacity has charge of the administration of justice.

The CCCL retaliated through its elected spokesmen in the legislalature, charging police brutality against workers in industrial conflicts and accusing Mr. Duplessis of behaving like a dictator.

FORMED IN 1949

The CCCL's Political Action Committee was founded in 1949 shortly after a long asbestos strike in Quebec's Eastern Townships.

The committee conducted its anti - Union Nationale campaign openly through radio and newspapers. Mass meetings of workers were organized in the industrial towns of Asbestos, Jonquiere, Shawinigan, Thetford Mines, Louiseville and St. Joseph d'Alma. The CCCL organ with a circulation of 36,000 carried columns of political campaign matter directed against the government.

The CCCL, at its 31st annual convention last fall, reported it was satisfied with the result of its campaign. It reiterated that the CCCL supports no party as such but only candidates sympathetic to labor.

It says the purpose of action in the political field has been to put power behind its demands for legislative reforms.

One of the reforms sought, for instance, is greater representation in the legislature for urban constituencies. Scores of reforms are sought in the field of labor legislation alone.

POLITICAL ACTION

In a report to the CCCL last fall, the committee's secretary Andre Roy, former editorial writer for the Quebec newspaper L'Action Catholique, said:

"The workers in their daily activity ceaselessly clash against this alliance of the forces of state and finance. That is why they must fight, on the political scene, to return to the state its full and entire freedom . . ."

Mr. Duplessis has often termed labor's demands as efforts to set up government of the people by one class.

Labor groups who visit his office seeking various legislative changes have heard him repeatedly say that government must look after the needs of all classes. He has stressed his belief that the welfare of the farming class is basic to Quebec's economy.

Catholic labor's decision to push its views in political action has only served to accent widely-differing views held by government and labor.

Labor's partial success in the last provincial election is an indication that its influence is real in urban sections.

Allot $2,000,000 To End Level Crossings

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario department of highways said Tuesday $2,000,000 is provided in the 1953 provincial budget for elimination of level crossings in the province.

The department's statement was made before the board of transport commissioners here. A highways spokesman said the department recommends that the $2,000,000 figure be increased in future years.

The department was prepared to accept a proportionately higher share of the costs than the railways. The highways department suggestion was made contingent on the board's consideration of this proposal and others.

Consider Resolution To Relax Intolerance

HAMILTON (CP) — Baptists from Ontario and Quebec will consider a resolution calling for relaxation of "intolerance" in Quebec towards Protestant groups.

Meeting at the group's 65th annual convention, some 600 pastors and laymen will hear the resolution, one of 10 to be moved at the sessions in McMaster University's Convocation Hall.

The resolution urged Baptists to use "all their resources to challenge the religious intolerance practised from time to time in the province of Quebec toward various Protestant groups."

In Ontario, signs pointed to a united stand against liquor and Sunday sports by the Baptist and United Churches.

CLEMENCY PICKETS—Advocates of clemency for convicted atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg begin a 24-hour vigil for mercy in front of the White House in Washington. The picketing was marked by a prayer meeting and an appearance of the Rosenberg's children. The condemned pair are scheduled to die on their eighteenth wedding anniversary.

Coldwell Launching Campaign July 13

OTTAWA (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, will launch his national election campaign in the Maritimes July 13 and travel through to the west coast in the succeeding four weeks.

Details of his national campaign were announced Tuesday by CCF party headquarters here. He will make four speeches in Ontario; Hamilton, July 20; Windsor, July 21; Toronto July 22; Fort William, July 23.

4,000 Workers Idle In Progressive Layoffs

TORONTO (CP)—Union officials said Tuesday that progressive layoffs in the agricultural implements industry in Toronto, Brantford, Hamilton and Woodstock have left some 4,000 workers idle.

The Farm Implement Workers Council (CCL) of which the United Auto Workers and the United Steelworkers are the largest participants, announced its plans to meet with government officials to discuss the problem.

Plants affected are Massey-and Cockshutt.

RHEE'S DEFIANCE MAY BLOCK TRUCE

PROSPECTS FOR A CCF CANDIDATE in the August 10 general election were being discussed Wednesday night when the camerman caught these five members of the Peterborough CCF Association in conference. CCF To Enter Candidate In Election Race

A nomination meeting of the Peterborough CCF Association has been called for June 26 to pick a candidate for the coming federal election.

This was decided Wednesday night at a meeting of the association in the Peterborough Labor Centre. The nomination meeting will also be held in the Labor Centre at 8.30 p.m.

Fred Young, CCF organizer and candidate in the Toronto Davenport riding, will be here for the meeting; and the executive are trying to line up another top CCF-er to speak.

It is understood that the association is having some difficulty finding a suitable candidate. If they run one the odds are that he will be a trade union man who will be able to draw a substantial labor vote.

Wednesday night a motion was passed at the meeting asking that the political action committees of the CIO-CCL unions be invited to attend the nomination meeting. An invitation is also being extended to the AFL-TLC unions.

The CCF have been endorsed as the political arm of the CCL who have some 3,000 affiliated unions in Canada with a total membership of 530,000. The TLC do not endorse any political party.

In the 1949 general election the CCF candidate, Howard Miles, polled 2,804 votes. He was last in the three-man race, Gordon K. Fraser, MP, polling 10,981 votes and the runner up, Aubrey (Dit) Clapper polling 10,738 votes.

Opposes Seaway

WASHINGTON (CP)—A present and a former member of Congress today strongly opposed legislation to authorize United States participation in the huge St. Lawrence seaway project and one said Canada should be encouraged to build it alone.

Huge Airliner's Crash Claims Lives Of 128 Near Tokyo

TOKYO (AP)—A giant C-124 Globemaster pinwheeled out of the murky sky near Tokyo today and crashed in flames carrying 128 Americans to their deaths in the world's worst air disaster. The U.S. Air Force said 60 bodies had been identified and the death toll established at 128. The huge doubledeck transport was carrying 121 Army engineers and airmen back to battle stations in Korea. The plane had a crew of seven. There were no survivors. The four-engined Globemaster crashed seconds after taking off from the U.S. air base at Tachikiwa, 25 miles west of Tokyo. An eyewitness said the giant plane "somersaulted like a bird and plummeted to the ground."

A Japanese farmer, Masayasu Kinoshita, said "the huge plane came skimming over the trees by the highway. Two of its four propellers were not turning. Then it circled and crashed and exploded."

The plane was a special flight for soldiers, not one of the regular courier runs between Japan and Korea.

The worst previous air disaster was the crash of another Globemaster near Larson air force base at Moses Lake, Wash., which killed 87 last Dec. 20.

AP correspondent Stan Carter, reporting from the scene, said sickened air force medics toiled under searchlights carrying broken bodies to ambulances across 100 yards of deep mud.

"The scene was like something out of hell," Carter said.

"There was the terrible smell of burned oil and burned human flesh intermingled.

"The bodies were terribly mangled.

"One medic tried to pick up one body and put it on a stretcher. The head fell off.

"The wreckage was all tangled into one concentrated spot—the plane must have come straight down and exploded. There were balls of crumpled metal 30 feet high."

Names of the dead will not be released until next of kin are notified.

Spy Drama Moves To Climax As Court Gathers Hurriedly

WASHINGTON (AP)—The taut drama of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg built to a climax today before the hurriedly-assembled U.S. Supreme Court just 11 hours before the time fixed for the couple's execution as atom spies. At Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson's summons, the justices interrupted their summer recess to consider once again the case of the man and wife sentenced to die in the electric chair because, a jury found, they conspired to pass atomic secrets to Russia.

Justice William O. Douglas, who decided Wednesday that a legal point of sufficient substance to merit an indefinite stay of execution had been raised, first heard of the unusual session over a motel radio in Pennsylvania. He arranged to fly back to Washington this morning.

SEVEN NEAR CAPITAL

Assuming the weather permitted Douglas' flight from Pittsburgh, at least seven of the nine justices were known to be in Washington or close enough to return in time for the session, called for noon, EDT.

Six constitutes a quorum entitled to conduct business.

Douglas' grant of a stay of execution touched off a rapid sequence of events Wednesday.

The justice department moved for a reversal, "as expeditiously as possible" but without "unseemly haste," of what Attorney-General Herbert Brownell termed an "unprecedented" action by the justice.

Vinson, in calling the justices back from the recess they had started Monday, said counsel for the government and the Rosenbergs could argue the case in open court.

The unofficial legal consensus was that if the justices who assembled today should overturn Douglas' decision, the effect would be as if nothing had happened since Monday, when the court refused for a fourth time to review the case.

It was thought possible that, if that was the court's decision, the execution might go on tonight as scheduled.

Release Of PoWs Shocks Churchill

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today he was "shocked and grieved" over South Korea's release of 25,000 anti-Communist prisoners of war but that he still held hope for a truce.

Churchill appealed to the House, however, not to press him to "try to say anything" more until he had more information on the release of the prisoners, ordered by President Syngnam Rhee.

The prime minister said he had nothing to add to the statement issued by United Nations headquarters in Tokyo.

Herbert Morrison, deputy leader of the Labor party, suggested Churchill "give some indications of the regret of the government that action should have been taken by the president of South Korea which is liable to complicate and make indefinitely difficult the truce negotiations."

Churchill replied:

"I was both shocked and grieved to read this report. I think that is felt in every part of the House, but I still think there may be hope that the truce which is so nearly arranged will not be prevented."

Churchill agreed to make another statement on the issue Friday, "if there is any necessity" for one.

Reds To Release Four More Wives

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has told U. S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen that it will let four more Russian wives of Americans living in Moscow leave Russia for the United States.

Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov informed Bohlen exit visas would be issued to the wives of Thomas P. Whitney, a correspondent for The Associated Press; Henry Shapiro, United Press correspondent; Andrew Steiger, Reuters correspondent; and George Atkins, building manager of the American embassy here.

The embassy announced last week the Russians had agreed to permit two other Russian wives of Americans and the two children of an American-born divorced wife of a Soviet citizen to leave for the U. S.

Among this first group was Mrs. Eddy Gilmore, wife of the AP's chief of bureau in the Soviet capital.

Canada Can't Support Rhee Action—Pearson

BELLEVILLE (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson said today Canada cannot support the "very serious" action of Syngman Rhee, South Korea's president, in freeing 25,000 North Korean prisoners.

He said Rhee's reason for releasing the prisoners was not "too obvious to explain" as Rhee had stated. Mr. Pearson said it was "certainly not obvious."

"Another Revolution"

East Berlin Rioters Roar As Russian Flag Trampled

By PETER PERNYES

EAST BERLIN (Reuters) — A crowd of about 12,000 gave a hoarse roar when two men tore down the Red flag from over the Brandenburg Gate, where the Soviet sector of Berlin meets the British zone.

Soviet soldiers in three armored cars and five trucks watched in silence.

The crowd got hold of the flag, trampled it and ripped it to shreds.

Then, picking up hundreds more adherents, the throng swept down the broad tree-lined Unter den Linden, occasionally booing or whistling at soldiers along the way.

They smashed a propaganda stall, one of the many dotting the Communist sector of Berlin, and Red propaganda pamphlets and books lay scattered on the rain-wet streets in a welter of broken glass.

The man leading the crowd, which by now had grown to more than 20,000, said: "We are going to mobilize the workers. There is going to be another revolution, such as there never has been."

Then a squadron of 13 Soviet T-34 tanks rolled three abreast down the Unter Den Linden, scattering the crowd. Behind came 12 armored cars and 25 truckloads of infantry armed with pistols.

The first tank's gun turret was open, and the head and shoulders of a Soviet officer could be seen. The crowd surprisingly cheered him. He received the acclamation with friendly waves.

But the cheering died away by the time the first six tanks had passed. When the infantry sped by, the crowd was again whistling and booing.

One man who was not quick enough was run over by the leading armored car.

At Karl Marx Square, where most Communist-organized demonstrations are held, a speaker told the crowd: "We have three demands—free elections, the immediate resignation of the government, and a united Germany."

Reds Execute German Riot Leader

Announcement Claims Accused Acted For Foreign Country

BERLIN (CP)—A Russian firing squad today executed a German accused by the Soviet army command of organizing Wednesday's anti-Communist riots in East Berlin.

Maj.-Gen. P. T. Dibrova, now ruling East Berlin under a state of siege, announced the execution.

The Soviet general described the dead man, Willi Goettling, as "a resident of West Berlin, who worked on order of a foreign intelligence service, was one of the active organizers of provocations and disturbances in the Soviet sector of Berlin, and participated in the violent banditry against the organs of power and the population."

"Goettling was sentenced to death by shooting. The sentence was carried out," the announcement concluded.

EXTEND MARTIAL LAW

The Russians extended martial law to areas bordering East Berlin and began a series of mass arrests in an effort to stamp out the unrest which exploded in the sector Wednesday and resulted in at least 16 fatalities.

More than 100 Germans were reported under arrest today in East Berlin. Flying squads of People's Police and Communist party officials raided workers' homes, hunting suspects.

West Germany wondered if the Soviet army would stop its firing squad after the one execution as a terror example.

Most of the arrested Germans were, by Communist admission, residents of East Berlin, not the Allied sectors. But Red propaganda continued to harp on the charge that "Western provocateurs" instigated the anti-Communist rebellion.

SEIZE EMPLOYEES

Some of the oldest employees of nationalized plants and factories were seized. They were pointed out by Communist informers as men who had led the march of 50,000 workers against the government headquarters Wednesday.

Unconfirmed reports said from 2 to 38 persons had been killed in half-a-dozen cities and East Berlin.

The Communist police radio announced the martial law edict for Potsdam, where the Soviet army has its headquarters in East Germany, and Babelsberg, where the Soviet military commander, Col. Gen. A. A. Gretchko, has his residence. A 10 p. m. to 6 a. m. curfew was imposed on the two suburbs.

Flash Flood Damages Stratford District

STRATFORD (CP)—This district today is taking stock of hundreds of thousands of dollars of damage which a flash flood following 45-minute torrential downpour caused in the Avon river watershed Tuesday night and early Wednesday.

Today as the flood water recedes, travel conditions are returning to normal and businessmen and home owners are clearing up debris.

Temporary repairs have been effected on district highways and damage along Stratford division railway lines has been repaired.

Swiss May Quit PoW Commission

BERN, Switzerland (AP)—Swiss Foreign Minister Max Petitpierre said today "new difficulties" in Korea may force Switzerland to reconsider her willingness to serve on the neutral nations prisoner-of-war and armistice commissions in Korea.

In a statement to the upper house of the Swiss Parliament, Petitpierre said that the release of 25,000 anti-Communist prisoners of war in South Korea, ordered this morning by President Syngman Rhee, "considerably changes the situation."

Petitpierre said Switzerland had agreed to serve on the five-country PoW commission on the understanding that all the prisoners in South Korea were under the complete control of the United Nations command.

He made no direct reference to the immediate attitude of the Swiss government in the new situation, but said "it now appears . . . a change of circumstances occurred this morning."

RoK President's Order Given In Opposition To Agreed Armistice Terms

MUNSAN (AP)—The draft of a Korean truce apparently was completed today but its fate might hinge on President Syngman Rhee's open defiance of his allies in arbitrarily releasing 25,000 anti-Red prisoners of war. Rhee's order opening the gates of four PoW camps in this morning's darkness was in direct opposition to the armistice terms. Even as the prisoners scattered, it appeared that all details of an armistice agreement had been wrapped up and the final text was being rushed to completion. Preparations for exchanging thousands of war prisoners were hurried by both sides. UN officials speculated on whether Rhee's action might delay the return of some 13,000 UN prisoners held by the Reds. At least 18 are Canadians.

Official UN sources in Tokyo said they did not expect Rhee's move to wreck the armistice, but a delay was anticipated. The Reds might demand delivery of the escaped prisoners before signing a truce.

Staff officers who have been putting the finishing touches on the armistice wound up their sessions at 12:30 p. m. and translators went to work immediately. They presumably were putting the document into English, Korean and Chinese.

INDEFINITE RECESS

The staff officers recessed indefinitely.

There was no announcement as to when the senior negotiators would meet to approve the text.

Some observers said it was possible the armistice agreement would have to be sent to Washington and UN headquarters in New York for approval. This would take several days.

Meanwhile, both Red and UN officials reacted as though a truce were still no more than a few days away.

Communist work crews tore down mud huts in Panmunjom and began construction of what appeared to be a large permanent building. This may be the site of the official signing and could serve as headquarters for the military armistice commission.

SPEED UP JOB

UN officials stepped up the job of clearing sites for exchanging prisoners and senior officers who will serve on the military armistice commission flew to Korea.

The senior Allied member of the proposed armistice commission,

U.S. Troops Replace RoKs Guarding Camps After Rhee Frees 25,000

TOKYO (AP)—About 25,000 militant, anti-Red North Koreans fled Allied prison camps today as South Korean guards turned their backs in open revolt against the United Nations command. A few hours later the UN command handed the Reds a letter at Panmunjom reporting the Republic of Korea guards had been replaced by U.S. troops and that every effort is being made to recapture the 24,000 prisoners still loose. President Syngman Rhee ordered the prisoners freed in an unprecedented move that caught his allies flat-footed and left them resentful. Rhee's arbitrary order for the first time turned South Korea's vociferous anti-truce threats into direct action.

No official source would speculate whether that would delay or block an armistice that had seemed only an arm's reach away.

First reaction from observers was that Rhee's move would not keep the Allies from signing an armistice agreement.

REDS MIGHT BALK

However, some sources said the Reds might balk and demand delivery of the prisoners. They were part of 46,380 anti-Red North Koreans and Chinese who refused to go home and thus became a problem that was resolved only last week after months of negotiations.

Rhee's order came Wednesday night. By 5 a.m. 25,000 prisoners had slipped away in the darkness and scattered through South Korea.

With most of the 16,000 South Korean guards standing by idly, small numbers of surprised U.S. soldiers tried to stop the flight with rifle fire, but they were too few.

Nine prisoners were killed and 16 were wounded.

RECAPTURE 971

UN troops recaptured 971 prisoners, even as Lt.-Gen. Won Yong Duk, South Korean provost marshal, warned that anyone who tried to arrest them—"regardless of nationality"—would be dealt with severely. He said Rhee had ordered them freed.

As the news became known, the 8th army cancelled all leaves for Allied troops.

The problem of rounding up the prisoners appeared almost impossible—many were South Koreans who had been impressed into the North Korean Army. All could blend into the mass of other South Koreans unmarked by language or physical differences.

The UN command was relying almost entirely on radio broadcasts asking the prisoners to return, even SEOUL (AP).—Four hundred anti-Communist North Korean prisoners broke from an Allied prison camp near Inchon early today (Friday) after a bloody clash with U.S. Marine guards. Camp authorities said 10 prisoners were killed and 93 were wounded in a wild clash in the dark with the U.S. guards.

Marie Proposes NATO Pay Cost In Indo-China

PARIS (AP)—Asking the National Assembly to confirm him as the head of France's 19th post-war government, Andre Marie proposed today that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization put up the $1,500,000,000 France now is spending annually to fight Communist-led rebels in Indo-China.

If NATO wouldn't shoulder the load, Marie told the assembly, "exceptional measures" would have to be taken to keep up the seven-year fight in the jungles and rice fields.

The candidate for the premiership who held the job for 35 days in 1948, was not specific about what these measures might be, but indicated France could find the money for Indo-China only by reductions in what she is spending on European rearmament.

If NATO would take over the financial burden in Indo-China, Marie said, France then would share in the costs proportionally with the other members of the Atlantic alliance; as she now does in supporting European rearmament.

Marie, a leader of the (Moderate) Radical Socialists, was the third prospect to go before the assembly in an effort to end France's current cabinet crisis, now in its 29th day—a post-war record.

It was not known when the assembly would reach a vote on Marie's bid to head the government. If accepted, he then must form a coalition cabinet also acceptable to 314 members—an absolute majority—of the 627-member assembly.

Because, That's Why

OTTAWA (CP)—Why do women buy? At the convention of the Canadian Dietetic Association here on Wednesday, Mrs. W. R. Walton, Jr., national president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, quoted a big retailer who gave nine reasons: Because hubby says they mustn't. Because nobody has one like it. Because everybody has one. Because it makes them look thin. Because it's imported—it must be good. Because it's going to be scarce. Because it's pretty. Because it's a bargain. Just because.

Rumor Malenkov Assassinated

BALTIMORE (AP)—Col. Julius L. Amoss, who heads what is described as a private, world-wide intelligence service, said last night that rumors are spreading in the satellite countries that Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov has been slain.

Amoss stressed that the reports were only rumor, but told the Baltimore Sun that "it is a verified fact that Malenkov has been incommunicado for more than a month."

Amoss was chief of the East European division of the U. S. office of strategic services during the Second World War.

Col. Amoss said that the Russian premier has "not been heard, seen or heard from in the last 30 days."

Information from his agents in Eastern Europe indicate, Amoss said, that rumors of Malenkov's death are based on unverified reports that the successor to Joseph Stalin was slain in a struggle for power among top Russian leaders.

He added that his reports indicate also that Stalin "did not die a natural death."

Blow To Red Propaganda

Anti-Communist Rioting Certain To Have Profound Effect On East-West Relations

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—East Berlin's anti-Communist riots seem certain to have a profound effect on relations between Western powers and the Soviet bloc.

That view was voiced today by U. S. officials who said there will be intensive consultations among the British, American, French and West German governments on the full significance of the unprecedented outburst and what steps are called for.

First estimates made by authorities here concentrated on these points:

1. Russia appears to have suffered a severe propaganda blow through the demonstration that workers under Red rule do not consider it the workers' paradise. This must be related to the fact that in Korea the Communists have agreed to a prisoner-of-war repatriation formula recognizing that thousands of Red Chinese and North Koreans do not want to go home.

2. Pressures for unification of Germany probably will become much more acute. A review of the whole Western approach to this critical issue is considered certain in the light of the new situation.

3. The extent and violence of anti-Communist sentiment shows that the Reds do not hold all the aces.

4. The unrest in East Berlin, coupled with various reports of discontent elsewhere in East Germany and in Czechoslovakia, raises the possibility that Russia's hold on Eastern Europe may be more vulnerable than had been supposed. For the Eisenhower administration, with its objective of liberation for the satellite peoples, the possibility is one to be considered with great care and interest.

Britain Denies Ships Carry Red Arms, Troops

LONDON (Reuters)—The British government Wednesday night denied that British ships carried Chinese troops and strategic materials to Communist China.

"All information indicates these allegations are completely unfounded," foreign under-secretary Anthony Nutting told the House of Commons in a written answer to a question.

Britain, he added, is carrying out "with rigor" the United Nations resolution embargoing the supply of strategic goods to China.

"If any of our ships were to contravene these regulations they would be liable to be hunted down on the high seas by British naval vessels and their managers and masters would become liable to severe penalties."

ANSWERS McCARTHY

Nutting was replying to charges made by U.S. Senator Joseph McCarthy's Senate investigating committee. He said the United States government has made no representations to Britain on the matter.

But Britain will continue to trade in non-strategic goods with China, Nutting said. He added: "We cannot live without trade, and we consider that this trade in non-strategic goods is to the advantage of the free world."

Two Panamanian - registered ships said to have carried Chinese troops were not subject to British laws, he said.

'Fainting Czech' Disappears For Second Time

MONTREAL (CP)—The Czech who carried forged documents and escaped from offices in the American consulate Tuesday merely walked across the street and stayed at the central YMCA, it was established today. He has disappeared again.

A man who flew from Paris to Montreal with the phoney U. S. Army sergeant said he saw the Czech, identified as Adolf Tlamicha alias Sgt. John Graham Davis, coming out of an elevator in the YMCA building and was told the stranger had a room on the sixth floor.

The man asked that his name not be used. YMCA authorities said the person who stayed there apparently was the Czech.

Tlamicha arrived at Montreal airport Tuesday. By mere coincidence an American immigration officer, who had worked in Germany, recognized him. Tlamicha was taken to immigration offices in the U. S. consulate building downtown. He claimed he was ill, was allowed to go to the bathroom and disappeared.

Tlamicha had changed to civilian clothes before he escaped from the consulate building late Tuesday afternoon. Since then police and U. S. and Canadian immigration officers have been searching for him.

RIOT ELSEWHERE

Truckers plying the international highway between Berlin and West Germany reported anti-Red rioting broke out Wednesday in Magdeburg, Chemnitz, Dresden, Leipzig, Gera and other cities simultaneously with the cyclonic outburst here.

REDS IN FULL STRENGTH

The truckers relayed one rumor that seven or eight had been killed in Magdeburg and another that the death toll had reached 22.

At least 16 were killed in East Berlin.

Another report said rioters stormed a concentration camp in the East zone and freed some of the 13,000 political prisoners before Russian troops got control.

Russian steel sealed off East Berlin completely today. A full armored division deployed along the 27-mile frontier and let no one in or out except physicians. The Iron Curtain was more complete than ever in the bizarre history of this quartered city.

MORE

The Soviet army was reported to have poured out from its compounds in full combat strength from the Elbe to the Oder to put a firm lid on the East zone.

Underneath the mailed fist, the German population was in virtual hiding. There were hints some of it was deliberate, a kind of stay-at-home strike.

The Communist radio tried to spike such hints by declaring all "patriotic" workers were back on the job. But the broadcast revealed that "saboteurs" had been caught damaging the output of a factory in the Soviet sector.

Ten thousand Soviet armored troops encircled Berlin's Russian-occupied sector, some pointing their guns westward, others directing their ominous attention toward the East Germans.

HEAR GUN FIRE

Machine - gun fire that ripped along the East-West zonal frontier in the heart of the city from Wednesday noon into the night was heard again early today.

Martial law, slapped on East Berlin Wednesday at the peak of bloody street fighting, was extended today to other cities of East Germany.

East German police said Russian authorities had placed the city of Potsdam (130,000 population 10 miles outside Berlin) and Babelsberg (15,000 population) under the edict. It bans all public gatherings and imposes a night-long curfew.

REDS BLAME WEST

The Communists' Radio Berlin repeated over and over that the outburst of 50,000 workers against the Red regime—put down only by Soviet intervention—was teamed up by "Western agents."

The same charge was hurled by Moscow's Communist party newspaper, Pravda, and Red organs elsewhere.

Western anti-Communist reaction to the riots also was generally uniform. In Washington, Bonn, and other Western capitals the outbreak was viewed generally as a damaging blow to Soviet claims of creating a workers' paradise, a monkey wrench in the new Red peace offensive, and a powerful spur to pressure for unification of Germany.

YOUTHS ARRESTED

The Red Berlin radio announced the names of 18 youngsters under 20 who it said had been arrested in connection with the demonstrations. The broadcast identified the youths as Western agents—and listed all but two as Soviet zone residents.

The Reds also contended that the general strike which paralyzed the eastern sector of the city Wednesday had ended. "All patriotic workers are back on their jobs."

Apparently Russian riflemen shot down several hundred Germans, but the exact casualty toll was impossible to pin down. The German Red Cross identified 16 bodies in West Berlin hospitals as riot gunshot victims. There, also, were 119 wounded, some in serious condition.

How many lay dead or wounded in the Soviet zone could not be determined.

BLOCK FRONTIER

Uncompromising Russian sentries blocked every main frontier point. Behind them stood tanks, armored cars and mobile guns.

The Russians rushed a full tank division into the sector, with the last elements bivouacking in East Berlin about 4 a.m. today. Soviet officials clamped a blockade on the highway linking West Berlin with West Germany to keep the roads clear for the fast-moving Soviet division. The blockade was lifted at 5 a.m.

The Russians booted into obscurity the East Berlin Communist police who so signally failed to keep order Wednesday. Soviet authorities blanketed the eastern sector with their own gunners, teamed up with Red German armed units brought in from deep in the East zone.

ALLIES AT ALERT

In the western sectors of the divided city British, U.S. and French troops were held at top alert in the background, ready to jump into any emergency too big for the West Berlin police to handle. The latter maintained cordons at the sector border to keep their people from the potentially-dangerous Soviet boundary.

The Russians resorted to a symbol to declare themselves on top of their bubbling cauldron. In the early daylight, a crew clambered on top the Brandenburg Gate, on the border, and hoisted a Red flag. The banner's predecessor had been ripped down and burned by rioters Wednesday.

HELD IN WEST

All but one of Premier Otto Grotewohl's East German government travelled with armed bodyguards. The exception was deputy Prime Minister Otto Nuschke, head of the fellow-travelling East zone Christian Democrats, who said he was kicked across the border into the West zone by rioters Wednesday. West Berlin police said he wanted to go back east—but they turned him over to American intelligence agents for questioning.

The unprecedented wild rioting drew top West German officials to Berlin, along with opposition Socialist chairman Erich Ollenhauer.

Top Allied commanders were silent about the virtual blockade of the Soviet border. A spokesman pointed out that the Russians had declared a state of siege, which is their right, and until this is lifted it would be pointless to demand an open border in the four-power city.

Martial law stretched restricting fingers into the west sectors. All elevated train traffic in Berlin, controlled from the east, stopped.

The city subway functioned in both the East and West sectors, however, but was halted for checks at the frontier. The 1,000,000 West Berliners who ride the elevated trains daily were hard put to get to work on the overloaded buses and streetcars.

Some East Berlin workers began to return to work today after Wednesday's general strike but there were reports that thousands were remaining out.

Russian Claims "Feeble Lie" Says W. Germany

BONN (AP)—West German authorities today branded as "A feeble lie" claims by Moscow's Pravda and the East German Communist government that the bloody anti-Communist riots in Soviet East Berlin were provoked by "Western agents."

"That is complete nonsense," a government spokesman added, "it has been unequivocally established that at least 100,000 persons participated in Wednesday's demonstrations in East Berlin. It has also been definitely established that the demonstrations were spontaneous. Their motives are clear and obvious—it was a demonstration against the Soviet system of oppression which can be maintained only with Soviet bayonets."

The Berlin revolt filled newspapers in free West Germany as no story in years.

Politicians, press and public denounced the Russians for shooting unarmed German civilians.

URGE OPEN ZONE

With rare unanimity West Germans of all political complexions, except Communists and their fellow-travellers, demanded that the Russians now scrap their stooge East German government and open their zone to free elections which would dismantle the whole Communist system.

There were demands that the Western allies take advantage of this smashing blow to Russian prestige and seize the diplomatic initiative to obtain real concessions from the Kremlin.

The wrath of the West Germans over the Red army's intervention in support of a discredited puppet government howed how severe was the blow to the Russians and their new European peace offensive, which recently had been rolling in high gear and spreading disunity in the free world.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's hand was suddenly strengthened. His supporters were able to proclaim that he had been right all along in insisting that the Russians be required to prove their good faith with real deeds before the West agrees to a Big Four parley.

In any event, U.S. District Judge Irving R. Kaufman of New York had fixed the execution for the current week, and his mandate could be carried out by officials of Sing Sing prison at Ossining, N.Y., anytime before midnight Saturday.

Should no decision be forthcoming this week, and if the eventual decision should go against the Rosenbergs, a new date would have to be set by Judge Kaufman.

A 24-hour police guard was thrown around the New York apartment building where Judge Kaufman lives because, police said a second threat had been received that the place would be bombed. The judge and his family, however, were reported not at home.

Douglas acted under a 1925 law which allows any Supreme Court justice to stay an execution.

St. Kitts Man Jumps To Death From Bridge

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—A man, identified as William Skrodzki, 49, jumped to his death from the downtown Burgoyne bridge over 12 Mile creek at noon today.

A woman pushing a baby carriage across the bridge said he tossed $3.75 in bills and coins into the carriage before climbing over the railing and dropping 150 feet into the fast-flowing water. He told her he "wouldn't be needing" the money.

His body was recovered 20 minutes later near a weir about a mile downstream.

Yugoslavia Lets Russia Move Landlocked Ships

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslavia today granted Russia the right to move 26 long landlocked Soviet warships down the Danube river through Yugoslav territory from Vienna to the Black Sea.

In a terse announcement, the Belgrade radio disclosed that Russia had presented the request for the ships' transit in a note to the foreign ministry here four days ago.

The note asked for permission for the 26 ships to move through Yugoslavia's waters in five groups between June 22 and July 13.

S. Korean Action Violates UN Authority: Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary John Foster Dulles said today the South Korean government's release of many thousands of anti-Communist prisoners of war "was in violation of the authority of the United Nations command."

Dulles made the statement to newspaper men after discussing the Korean situation with President Eisenhower and other members of the national security council.

The secretary dictated this statement:

"I have been in conference with the president regarding the unilateral action taken by the Republic of Korea to release prematurely North Korean prisoners of war.

"This action was in violation of the authority of the United Nations command to which the Republic of Korea had agreed.

"On behalf of the United Nations we have conducted our negotiations for an armistice in good faith and we have acted and are acting in good faith.

"President Eisenhower is communicating with President Rhee (of South Korea) in this sense."

Earlier the president had discussed the Korean prisoner situation with Congress members.

as South Korea's Radio Pusan broadcast a message from Rhee urging civilians to house and feed them.

VOW NO REPRISALS

The UN broadcasts told the prisoners they had made a mistake in leaving the prison camps They promised no reprisals and assured the prisoners they would be set free after an armistice is signed.

Meanwhile, Maj.-Gen. Thomas W. Herren, U.S. commander of PoW camps, conferred with Gen. Sun Yup Paik, South Korean Army chief of staff, without reaching any solution.

"Paik was non-committal," Herren said, "and he made it clear that it was all in the hands of President Rhee."

Allied soldiers at UN headquarters in Tokyo voiced resentment against Rhee and his followers.

Pte. Bill Nadolske of Akron, O., said: "We gave him everything. We do everything for him and now he turns around and kicks us in the teeth."

CHARGES COLLUSION

In Tokyo, a spokesman at Gen. Mark Clark's headquarters issued a statement accusing the South Koreans of collusion with the anti-Red prisoners, saying:

"Between midnight and dawn today, approximately 25,000 militantly anti - Communist North Korean prisoners of war broke out of United Nations command prisoner of war camps at Pusan, Pasan, Mansan, and Sang-Mudai, Korea.

"Statements attributed to high officials of the republic of Korea now make it clear that the action had been secretly planned and carefully co-ordinated at top levels in the Korean government and that outside assistance was furnished the PoWs in their mass breakout.

"Republic of Korea Army Security units assigned as guards at the PoW camps did little to prevent the breakouts and there is every evidence of actual collusion between the RoK guards and the prisoners.

Before the mass escape, the UN held just under 125,000 prisoners but nearly 47,000 of them refused to go back. The 25,000 who escaped were among the 47,000.

Rhee went into closed session with his cabinet.

U. S. Ambassador Ellis O. Briggs in Seoul and other diplomatic officials declined to comment But they were known to be gravely concerned.

NO COMMENT

At Munsan, the allied armistice camp near the Panmunjom truce site, there was no official comment. But AP Correspondent George McArthur said the general attitude around the camp was "what now?"

The South Koreans long had wanted the anti-Communist Korean prisoners turned loose as civilians. They have threatened to ignore any truce that left the Communists holding North Korea and Red Chinese troops on Korean soil.

They also have threatened to fire on any troops sent into South Korea to explain about return to their homelands to Chinese and North Koreans who refuse repatriation.

Aside from the mass exodus from the four camps there was no other report of trouble at any of the other 10 PoW camps in South Korea.

PoW command officials revealed earlier that about 2,500 prisoners demonstrated Tuesday at camps near Pusan but guards quieted them.

RoK President

Maj.-Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, landed in Munsan after a flight from Tokyo. Bryan's appointment was announced Wednesday by Far East commander Gen. Mark Clark.

Although there was no official comment on the release of anti-Communist prisoners, there was a general air of optimism here.

Along the battle front Communist loudspeakers blared that a truce had been signed "and the war is over." But the Reds were wrong. UN and Red commanders must sign the truce and none visited Panmunjom, site of the armistice negotiations.

OBSERVERS HOPEFUL

Armistice talk observers ere felt the surprise "prisoner coup" by Rhee would set off a long and loud Communist propaganda tirade but might not seriously affect the formal signing of a truce. Both sides have gone ahead with plans for a truce although the opposition of the South Korean president was well known to the Reds.

Apparently the negotiators are operating on the theory that enforcement of the truce is the responsibility of the side concerned and the Rhee action on prisoners is an allied problem.

The armistice document allows the UN command 60 days to turn over prisoners unwilling to return to communism to a five-nation neutral commission. By then, the UN command may have rounded up many of the captives freed by the Rhee action. If not, the armistice might hit a roadblock should the Reds insist on return of prisoners already named on lists given the Reds.

Huge Airliner

The air force said there was some light rain and fog as the plane left Tachikawa but the weather was not bad enough to ground aircraft.

It said there was a ceiling of about 1,000 feet and visibility of about one mile.

Japanese firemen were the first to reach the blazing plane.

PULLED OUT SEVEN

"Seven of us rushed to the burning wreckage and pulled out seven dying men," one of them said. "All the others were trapped in the flames and we could no nothing."

Hiroji Kato, a 35-year-old farmer, was slightly burned when the big craft exploded.

"I heard a tremendous sound of engines," he told the newspaper Asahi. "I looked up from the field and saw this huge plane falling on me. I almost fainted. Then it crashed and exploded. The blast burned me in several places, but my wife and son, who were working with me about 35 feet away, were not hurt."

WERE GROUNDED

Last Friday the air force briefly grounded all Globemasters after the failure of small generator parts had caused fires in the engines of two planes. Most of the planes were out of service only a few hours.

Witnesses agreed that the Globemaster which crashed today was not afire when it hit the ground.

An air force board which investigated last December's crash at Moses Lake found that the big plane crashed because someone had failed to unlock control surfaces before the takeoff. The air force ordered special pre-takeoff check routine as a result, and work was speeded up on devices to prevent such occurrences.

Won't Use Video For Campaigning

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's four major political parties have agreed not to use television in the current election campaign, A. D. Dunton, chairman of the CBC board of governors, announced Wednesday.

He said the CBC had offered free television time for campaign broadcasting, but the parties decided among themselves not to use the new medium in this election.

The announcement said the CBC has divided a total of 16 hours, 10 minutes of free-time political broadcasts on English - language networks among the four parties after they were unable to agree on the proportions of time for each.

The division will give the Liberal party 33 per cent of the time, the Progressive Conservatives 30 per cent, CCF 20 per cent and Social Credit 17 per cent.

Mr. Dunton said the broadcasts, worked out with the political parties Tuesday, will run from June 22 to Aug. 7. They will open June 22 with a half-hour of Liberal time on the Trans-Canada network and a half-hour of Progressive Conservative time on the Dominion network.

Prices Hold Steady As Trading Active

TORONTO (CP) — Prices held steady today in active early afternoon stock market trading.

Base metals sparked a general advance as higher-priced issues rose sharply. Consolidated Smelters, Noranda, Quemont Hudson Bay and International Nickel picked up between ¼ and ¾. Uraniums moved ahead smartly as Gunnar Graham Bousquet and Nesbitt Labine added as much as 25 cents.

Industrials traded higher in most sections with strength concentrated in utilities, refining oils, and banks. Manufacturing companies were the only group to weaken. Algoma Steel, Imperial Oil and Bank of Nova Scotia had 50-cent gains.

In western oils Sweet Grass, Federated Petroleum and Del Rio were ahead.

Golds were dominated by Donalda, with a 21-cent gain, and Preston East Dome, which added 25 cents on news that it had large stakes in the uranium rush in the Blind River area near Sault St. Marie, Ont.

127 Death Toll In C-124 Crash Worst In History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Today's death toll in the crash of a C-124 Globemaster transport near Tachikawa air base, Tokyo, is by far the worst in aviation history—military or civilian.

The previous worst disaster occurred Dec. 20, 1952. Eighty-six died in another C-124 taking off from Larson air force base, state of Washington. The 87th person died in hospital later. There were 30 survivors.

The worst commercial plane wreck was near Cardiff, Wales, on March 12, 1950, when 80 were killed and three survived during a return trip from Dublin with soccer fans.

The worst disaster involving Canadians occurred Nov. 13, 1950, when the air liner Canadian Pilgrim, carrying holy-year pilgrims home from Rome, crashed into Mont L'Obiou in the French alps. All 58 persons aboard—nearly all of them Canadians—were killed.

June 24, 1950, 58 lives were lost when an airliner bound from New York for Minneapolis crashed into Lake Michigan.

Dec. 16, 1951, a C-46 non-scheduled transport crashed in Elizabeth, N. J., a few minutes after take-off from Newark airport bound for Florida. The death toll was 56.

All 55 passengers of an airliner were killed near Washington, D. C., Nov. 1, 1949, when the aircraft collided with a P-38 fighter plane. The fighter plane pilot was injured.

June 7, 1949, 53 died in the Atlantic Ocean off San Juan, Puerto Rico, when a transport plane crashed shortly after taking off for Miami.

Outside San Juan harbor on April 11, 1952, 52 persons died in a crash shortly after taking off for New York.

Near Decota, Calif., in August, 1951, 50 were killed in the crash of a commercial airliner.

The worst jet plane disaster occurred last May 2, when a British passenger plane crashed in a heavy storm near Calcutta, India, killing 43.

Two Find Body In Burned Mill

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP)—The badly decomposed body of a man wearing bush clothing was found Wednesday in the root cellar of a burned-out sawmill near Swan lake, 20 miles northeast of here.

The discovery was made by two Swastika men who were inspecting the site with a view to buying scrap machinery.

Dr. G. Edis, the county coroner, today said he believed the body had been in the cellar for more than three months and might even have been there since last fall. He said the body showed no signs of violence and he thought the man died of natural causes.

Provincial police said there was no identification on the body and they knew of no persons reported missing throughout the district.

Historical Society Re-organized Following Tour

The Peterborough Historical Society took a bus ride Wednesday evening and then incorporated itself.

The ride was a tour around the city to look at the exteriors of old and memorable houses.

The society was formally constituted at a meeting in the Public Library following the tour and the re-born society voted then for legal incorporation, which was done through affiliation with the Ontario Historical Society. This affiliation was accomplished by unanimous vote.

The largest bus of the Peterboroug bus company's fleet was made available to accommodate the 42 members and other interested persons who made the tour. Imposing, handsome or piquant residences built between 1840 and 1870 were inspected in Ashburnham, the north ward and the west and central wards.

Some sites where such edifices had formerly stood were also viewed. Some less pretentious places were included in the itinerary, among them the frame house on the north side of Sherbrooke street immediately west of the creek, now a double house (Nos. 192 and 194). This, apart from its two wings, is said to be the oldest house in Peterborough now standing. It was reported built in 1829, by Dan Griffith. In the house W. A. Scott, mayor of Peterborough from 1866-74 died in 1876.

Narrator was W. L. Graff.

SOCIETY FORMED

The bus returned to the library at 9.20 after a two-hour tour and debouched its occupants, most of whom withdrew to the upstairs assembly room to consider the constitutional documents drawn up by Dr. G. S. Cameron, F. D. Kerr, QC, and Magistrate W. R. Philp, Q.C. Mr. Graff presided at the meeting.

The constitution was adopted as presented, with some minor amendments, and thus the Historical Society of Peterborough City and County was re-formed, following the demise of the earlier society in the first years of this century, and the abortive attempt of 1950 and 1951 to reorganize it. One general and several committee meetings this year had previously been held.

Honorary presidents are the incumbent Mayor of Peterborough and the Warden of Peterborough County. The society has, by constitution, 12 directors, five of whom are the executive committee. These five are, for the calendar year: President, John Londerville; first vice, the Rev. L. J. Delaney; second vice, George Cobb; treasurer, Miss Margaret Battersby; secretary, Miss Anne L. Heideman. The rest of the board of directors are: T. J. Allen, Dr. G. S. Cameron, William Graff, Mrs. F. D. Kerr, Mrs. Gordon Maniece, W. R. Philp, QC, Miss Genevieve Sullivan. Four of the 12 directors are to be replaced each year.

Thanks were voted to Dr. Cameron and his committee for their work in preparing the constitution, to the nominating committee whose report was presented by Miss Heideman, and to Mr. Graff for his guidance and energy in promoting the re-establishment of the historical society.

STORM BEFORE LULL—This newsmap shows the mounting fury in Korea where Reds are trying to push the line of battle southward into UN-held territory before any signing of an armistice. An estimated 20 to 25 thousand Reds (represented by four soldiers) are lashing out in their heaviest attack in two years. They have already pushed the RoKs two miles backward toward the 38th Parallel. More than 1600 UN air sorties joined the naval power (upper right) in heavy shelling of Korea's east coast. The armistice, according to observers, will freeze the battle line at the time of signing.

Youth Absolved Of Blame In Fatal Accident

LINDSAY (ENS)—A coroner's jury under Dr. W. R. Crowe, absolved a 16-year-old Gooderham youth of blame in the highway death of Angus Graham, 68, also of Gooderham, some weeks ago. It added a recommendation to the department of highways that "in future more rigid tests be given to applicants for drivers' licenses."

According to evidence presented, Graham was walking on highway north of the village of Gooderham at the time of the mishap, when 16-year-old James Dewey, a licensed driver for only about a month and driving a newly-acquired car, came over the brow of a small hill behind him.

Graham was about 100 yards from the car at the time, according to police, and tried to swerve to miss the man, but failed to do so. Graham suffered a badly mangled leg and other injuries, and was rushed to the Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay, where he died that night. Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan, QC, conducted the inquest.

Rosenberg Decision Routine, Declares Justice Douglas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas said today his decision ordering a stay of the execution of atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, far from being unprecedented, was a matter of legal routine.

Douglas who flew back to Washington for a special court session on his order, told reporters it is perfectly normal for any Supreme Court justice to stay an execution when he is presented "substantial new questions that have never been decided."

Douglas had headed west by auto when he heard the special meeting had been called to review his action.

He joshed with photographers but had a stern "no comment" on a move by Representative Dan Wheeler (Dem. Ga.) to impeach him.

Douglas said there probably are half-a-dozen cases a year in which executions are postponed by a single justice because he believes new questions have been brought into the case.

He said he would sit with the court today. In answer to questions, he said there was no reason why he should disqualify himself from participating in the full court's action.

The Importance Of Our Unions

A glance at the local news pages of any issue of the Examiner will reveal a great difference from the local news of twenty years ago. We refer to the topics, not to typographical and pictorial improvements which have been made. Twenty years ago there was no mention of labour unions in Peterborough. Last Tuesday's issue, as an example of the present day, had three headlined stories on one page having to do with union matters. There are two causes of this change; one is, of course, that industry in Peterborough has expanded greatly in the last two decades and industrial news affects a majority of Peterborough readers. The other reason is that twenty years ago no industrial labour union, as we now know them, existed in Peterborough. There were craft unions and Labour Councils, but no union such as the CCL and the TLC encompass now.

* * *

When the first such union was being organized in Peterborough during the Depression only a handful of workers concerned themselves at all about the matter. So little was the general interest that the Examiner was accused of giving the tiny union meetings and early tentative efforts too much publicity and too much support. We are still accused, in some quarters, of being too union-conscious in the space we devote to their activities.

* * *

The present importance of the unions in Peterborough life cannot be gainsaid. We are glad to note, too, that with the importance has slowly developed a sense of union responsibility towards the community, as well as to the union members who make up the community. Even the early concentration of union leaders on acquisitiveness—the single theme of more pay—has been moderated. They know, as every one else knows, the significance in the series of recent moves which have taken place in the Pittsburg steel industry. A 55-day strike occurred there yast year, with great loss of pay and production. Six days ago the industry agreed to an 8½-cent hourly pay increase to all workers. Yesterday the U.S. Steel Corporation increased its price of steel by four dollars a ton. Tomorrow—that is, in a few weeks—the retail price of goods and machines which serve the public, will rise. And so the cost of living of the workers will rise.

* * *

The importance in Peterborough of unions has, as we have said, been accompanied by a growing realization of the responsibility of unions. We are happy from time to time to report instances of this in our news columns. One piece of recent evidence is the progress being made, in conciliation, to settle the eight-weeks-old strike at the Quaker Oats plant, and the willingness of the union leaders to try to find a compromise. Company officials have already made plain their willingness to negotiate.

Unhealthy Hoarding Of Garbage

Since the discussion arose as to whether the city should have one collection of garbage a week, instead of two collections as at present, many opinions on the matter have been expressed publicly and privately. Two schools of housekeeping appear to exist in Peterborough: one school produces plenty of garbage and needs it carted away at least twice a week; the other school—by some means which we do not understand and have been unable to enquire into—produces virtually no garbage and thinks fewer collections would mean lower taxes.

The Medical Officer of Health has expressed a decided opinion in favour of two collections weekly, and we think that great importance should be given to his opinion. Hoarding garbage must necessarily be unhealthy; garbage is well advanced in decomposition after three days in warm weather; after a week there can be no doubt that it would be offensive and dangerous—and most dangerous of all to the men who collect it.

We do not think that the question is one of a minimum service, but of the best service. The fact that some cities now have only one garbage collection a week seems irrelevant; there are some cities which are short of sidewalks and sewage service, too. Such underprivileged cities will doubtless struggle up to Peterborough's level as soon as they can. But if hoarding garbage is a threat to public health nothing can be said in its favour to overweigh that one important point.

A Canadian Victory

Of course we are agreed that Canadian television did a remarkable job in making pictures of the Coronation available in this country very soon after the great event. It beat the large U.S. networks hollow. This has been discounted in some quarters by people who say that our interest in the Coronation was understandably greater than that of the U.S., and that the U.S. networks were not trying their hardest. We take this with a grain of salt.

The following comment, written in The New Yorker by its TV critic Philip Hamburger, seems to us to express a generous American opinion:

The Canadians had clearly won the race. Royal Air Force planes flying to Goose Bay and Royal Canadian Air Force planes flying from Goose Bay to Montreal had brought the first pictures from London. They were the BBC pictures the British had seen that morning on their television sets, and they were the real thing.

For several hours, I watched the ancient service, and my admiration for the cameramen and commentators of the BBC is unbounded. We have a great deal to learn from them, technically and aesthetically. The British had set up their cameras at strategic points along the procession route, and at strategic points in the Abbey. The commentary had dignity and beauty. Every step of the ceremony was explained, every picture was part of the drama and the cumulative effect was wonderful.

As far as I was concerned, this was the Coronation, and when, later in the evening, both CBS and NBC came along with their competitive souped-up versions, complete with exhausted commentators and rude and intrusive commercials, I soon switched them off, drank a Black Velvet to the Queen, and went to bed.

H. S. Southam Retires

After 56 years on the Ottawa Citizen—the last 33 of them as its publisher—Mr. H. S. Southam has decided to retire. We do not for an instant suppose that retirement to him means inactivity; we suspect that he has given up the direction of his newspaper only in order that he may have more time to devote to the many pursuits which have held his attention and exercised his lively mind all through life. Mr. Southam is keenly interested in sport, in education, in painting (and the National Gallery of Canada in particular), in the theatre and we do not know how many other things. Nor is his interest that of a bystander; he has been active in advancing all of the many causes which are near to his heart. We think that he will continue to do so, and we wish him well. He has done much for Ottawa and much for Canada, quite apart from publishing an excellent newspaper.

To his son, R. W. Southam, who takes his place, we offer congratulations. The best we can say of him is that he is a fitting man to take his father's place. That is high praise.

Informing Mr. Turnbull

Some sharp things have been said about past issues of Canadian stamps, but we have never seen anything to equal the protests in the press, from editors and newspaper readers, against the wretched stamps which have been issued with the head of Queen Elizabeth on them.

In answer to this criticism Mr. Walter Turnbull, the deputy postmaster-general, has said that engraving is a difficult art, likely to give disappointing results; he also says that photogravure reproduction of the type which has produced the beautiful British stamps is not available in Canada.

We wonder what makes Mr. Turnbull think that? We can give him the address of one large Canadian firm which is equipped to do just such work, and has been doing it for years. Doubtless this firm has competitors equally well provided with machinery and skill.

The Post Office Department should acquaint itself with what can be done by Canadian printers and lithographers. It is obviously living in the past.

Speaking Tour For The P.M.

Politicians are now taking to wheels, rails and air waves. The election campaign has begun. Mr. St. Laurent will be one of the principal travellers. We were interested in a Canadian Press report of his itinerary which includes five days in Ontario, but none in Peterborough, as so far announced, and none in Toronto, as yet scheduled. Our interest was piqued by this sequence of sentences:

"Much of the Prime Minister's travelling, it was understood, will be by air. In the 1949 general election, he moved mainly by train.

"His object in the new campaign, he said, will be 'to see as many Canadians as possible'."

"He has scheduled many station platform appearances."

Must we expect, therefore, to see the distinguished air traveller dropping off from his plane by parachute to address wayside station groups, and then to see him hoisted aloft to his plane again by helicopter?

NOTE AND COMMENT

Senator Taft is in hospital, under an assumed name. Perhaps because he doesn't feel like himself.

In Melbourne, Australia, there is a shop which has a lingerie department for men only, which it calls the "buy without blushes department." Yes, but does this take care of the neighbour who passes by and clearly wonders if you are buying those things for your wife?

Frightened Of Peace

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN (in Korea)

SOUTH KOREA has the free world at the point of a gun, and the gun may well be loaded. It is the sort of predicament that never faces Communist Powers. It is possible that this small Republic—ruined, hungry and dependent—may either prevent implementation of the truce or else destroy it subsequently.

At first sight, Seoul appears to be a p ical madhouse. The President, of great uncertain age, and a handful of Ministers who have lost interest in their Ministries 300 miles away in Pusan, now devote themselves to heroic threats, to pleas and to rejections of compromise.

They have threatened war on India; they have given warning of violence on the personnel of neutral truce teams; they have vowed to fight on whatever happens, to achieve unity either by victory or defeat. Senior officers under training in America have been recalled. And all this at the prospect of an end to a war that offers little real hope of victory.

✧ ✧

IT WOULD be easy to set down this as the irresponsible ravings of a gallant old man who should long ago have received the Korean equivalent of a dukedom and a State pension. But on closer inspection it is quite clear that the statements—and organised perfervid demonstrations—are in fact as near as is possible in Korea to an expression of popular will. The people are frightened of peace here. They have had Communists before, and now they expect them again. Without fighting and winning, they believe unification under any but a Communist Government is now impossible.

But more than that, from a Korean view the attitude and actions of the Korean Government are sagacious, even statesmanlike. Already they have wrung concessions from the United States Government that were not contemplated three weeks ago. In his letter designed to calm President Syngman Rhee, President Eisenhower offered them inclusion in a Pacific defence pact that will guarantee the "territory now or hereafter brought peacefully under the administration of the Republic of Korea." The Koreans have something to win from their present behaviour, and nothing to lose.

✧ ✧ ✧

THEY MAY still be able to prevent the arrival of truce teams by persuading nervous or high-minded neutral Powers that they are infringing Korean sovereignty. Their actions could lend strength and respectable countenance to those sections of the Western world which do not desire a compromise settlement in the Far East. And if, despite their threats, the truce is somehow implemented they at least leave the free world hopelessly in their debt, with a not undeserved sense of guilt for a war that should long ago have been won or stopped.

There are several further avenues of mischief open to the Government of Korea. They could withdraw their troops from under United Nations command, and so leave the Far East Command unable to give even the appearance of guaranteeing their future behaviour. They may cause incidents during the screening of prisoners-of-war that could cause the Communists to cry "foul" and reject the whole settlement. They may even release those non-Communist prisoners who are in the charge of Korean guards. Nothing is predictable, and nothing is quite impossible.

✧ ✧

BUT IF once the prisoners are exchanged, the fighting stopped and the opposing troops withdrawn to the truce lines, the dangers inherent in the Korean stand are considerably reduced. I have met no one in Korea who expects much more than an uneasy truce, and a permanent political settlement as present seems scarcely a practical possibility. We cannot hope for much more than a semi-permanent armistice shot through with distrust, and it is unlikely that the South Koreans can or will greatly worsen that situation.

They cannot fight alone and survive. True, they have sixteen divisions and 100,000 men training—nearly 300,000 under arms. It is believed that they have for long been secreting weapons and ammunition and have a small unofficial reserve of petrol. But certainly not enough of either for an effective private war as long as the Chinese remain anywhere near the Yalu.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE REPUBLIC of Korea Army is a superb one for Asia, and in its brief history it has never been so devoted to the President or so passionately sympathetic to his policies. But this courage and confidence are largely based on the certainty of United Nations support, and for independent and violent action that support would scarcely be forthcoming.

This is cold comfort, and this is no comic opera. It is hard to see how immediate pressure can be put on the South Koreans. Admiral Radford has been firm and General Clark impatient; Rhee has become more intransigent and less contradictory in his demands.

Probably our only course is to go ahead and call his bluff—if the neutrals will agree. And a great deal of it is bluff, because if the South Koreans do finally alienate the United Nations they commit national suicide, and almost literally their leaders present for signature their death warrants or committals to exile. The fact that the United Nations would be left discredited and disgraced—however reasonable its position—is beside the point.

✧ ✧ ✧

TO-DAY THE South Koreans are a brave and bewildered people. I think that all of us here are a little sick at heart at what we are doing, and touched with admiration for these difficult men. This is the sort of Asian friend we have always wanted. Asian nationalism is here emotionally wholly on our side for the first time.

The United Nations cannot escape blame for its weakness during Rhee's coup d'etat over his Assembly last year, which gave him the confidence and power to behave in this way, or for its vacillating policy at Panmunjom, which has sharpened the disappointment of the South Koreans. Now we are in sad trouble, and extrication will not be easy.

Letters To The Editor

DISGUSTING EXHIBITION

Sir: The letter by Onlooker in last night's Examiner about poor sportsmanship in soccer was only too true. It was a disgusting exhibition by grown men. If a team cannot lose they had by far better never play. Cheered on by the "ladies" such as when one player was injured she shouted "Pity they did not kill him". Believe me they did their best.

ANOTHER ONLOOKER

BAD SPORTSMANSHIP

Sir: I too was a spectator at Friday's "soccer" game. I heard the screams for blood and witnessed the atrocious tactics performed on the field of play.

I, however, blame the referee more than the players. At least three members of one team should have been ordered off the field, not for a two minute ice hockey penalty, but permanently.

I have seen many robust games in the old country, but never an exhibition of poor sportsmanship such as this.

Yours, etc.,
DISGUSTED

EXIT MacDUFF

Sir: Having been taken to task by my friends and cross-questioned by acquaintances, friendly and otherwise, regarding a recent letter to the Examiner, I would like to make the position clear.

In a democracy such as ours, MacDuffs of all shapes and sizes and thoughts and opinions, sensible or otherwise, are allowed to flourish.

Having gained a certain amount of fame (or infamy) through my frequent outbursts in this column, under the name of MacDuff, I have decided, in order to avoid confusion with others of that clan, to adopt in future the name of one of my more disreputable ancestors, and will henceforth sign myself—
MacTAVISH

THE SORROWS OF SCOTLAND

Sir: In your reply to 'What, No English?' you betray the fact that either your own teacher was an Englishman or that you yourself are a Welshman.

As the Welsh people are aware it doesn't take much realistic thinking to remind them that their "nation" was smitten hip and thigh by the English and was annexed to England many hundreds of years ago.

Scotland, on the other hand, fought and defeated England and made the terms of the Treaty of Northampton which guaranteed their independence forever.

"Disillusioned Parent" is quite correct in saying that Ontario has more self government than Scotland's 5,000,000 people.

The solemn acts of the voluntary union which Scotland entered in 1707 have, despite the protests of the Scottish members, been flagrantly violated time and again by the huge English majority.

Truly, the Welsh gave up their idea of a separate Celtic kingdom when they were completely and utterly licked by the English. Realists? Well, maybe!

SUAS ALBA!

(Ed Note: The Welsh were certainly beaten, in a reasonably fair fight. The Scots, according to our history books, were sold out by their leaders to the English. The Welsh, being realists, have admitted that the English are better fighters and diplomats than they, and have been content with their world-wide renown as linguists, poets, musicians, miners, dairymen and preachers. This has saved them the trouble of staying mad for 300 years about defeats which were their own fault, like the Scots.)

TRAINING IN CITIZENSHIP

Sir: I read with interest your editorial "Who Picks Up Broken Glass" dated June 16. What you said needed saying.

I wish, however, to add a note of hope to your editorial. Last Thursday or Friday, I passed, in my car, the intersection of Clonsilla and Sherbrooke Streets. In the centre of the road were several broken bottles which gave every appearance of having fallen from a junk or garbage truck. All the motorists were passing by on the other side or in some way circumventing the mess. I did so too. I returned fifteen minutes later and was pleased to note that several pupils from the Prince of Wales School, under the direction of one of the school guards, were picking up the pieces of broken glass and placing them in a cardboard carton. I feel that such spontaneous evidence of citizenship training deserves a "mention in despatches".

Yours truly,
JOHN D. LONDERVILLE

PROTEST AGAINST BLANKET DESCRIPTIONS

Sir: In an article entitled "Church Dominates Quebec Labor Union" and written by Richard Daignault appearing in the issue of June 16, a photo appears of Gerard Picard and the CP caption reads: "Small of stature and looking more like a school teacher than a labor leader . . . etc.".

I realize we cannot hold the Examiner responsible for CP captions, but I would like to raise a mild protest that such generic classifications as "like a school teacher" are unfair and misleading. Most of us can recall many well-built school teachers, as strong physically (or more so) as they were mentally. I equally protest the epithet, frequently used now—"Teen-agers" as if all children of that age group fell into one pattern of gang-age hoodlumism. As well say, "like a newspaper editor"—when even the editors on you own staff would give the lie to such overall classification.

Because my protest is mild it is none the less sincere. It is only a short step from such careless and shallow thinking to such undesirable facets of national life as McCarthyism and race hatred.

Yours very truly,
"JAY DEYELL"

(Ed. Note: We also dislike "teen-ager", and similar unfair blanket terms, and shall try to be more vigilant in banning them from our reports.)

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Now there is at Jerusalem by the sheep market a pool, which is called in the Hebrew tongue Bethesda, having five porches.

In these lay a great multitude of impotent folk, of blind, halt, withered, waiting for the moving of the water. For an angel went down at a certain season into the pool, and troubled the water: whosover then first after the troubling of the water stepped in was made whole of whatsoever disease he had.

And a certain man was there, which had an infirmity thirty and eight years. When Jesus saw him lie, and knew that he had been now a long time in that case, he saith unto him, Wilt thou be made whole?

The impotent man answered him, Sir, I have no man, when the water is troubled, to put me into the pool: but while I am coming, another steppeth down before me.

Jesus saith unto him, Rise, take up thy bed, and walk.

And immediately the man was made whole, and took up his bed, and walked: and on the same day was the sabbath . . .

And therefore did the Jews persecute Jesus, and sought to slay him, because he had done these things on the sabbath day. But Jesus answered them, My Father worketh hitherto, and I work. (John 5:2-9, 16,17.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed and many others, and cast them down at Jesus' feet; and he healed them: insomuch that the multitude wondered, when they saw the dumb to speak, the maimed to be whole, the lame to walk, and the blind to see: and they glorified the God of Israel. (Matt. 15:30,31.)

Plenty Of Tolerance

(Windsor Star)

Those who are prone to magnify incidents of intolerance in Canada often are too slow to admit the very wide degree of understanding which exists. Indeed, examples of generous and friendly tolerance are so numerous they are taken for granted.

One of these examples occurred in Toronto, when Lieut-Col. Dave Croll was again nominated as Liberal candidate in Toronto-Spadina. The meeting was held in an Orange Hall. The candidate is a Jew. His nominator was Mr. Leo McLaughlin, formerly of Windsor, a Roman Catholic of Irish extraction, and the principal speaker was Hon. Paul Martin, a Roman Catholic mainly of French extraction. And there was complete goodwill.

We know of one devout French-speaking Roman Catholic member of the Commons, for a Northern Ontario constituency, who for years had as a right-hand man in political campaigns the equally devout head of the Orange Order in the area. While differing in religion and race, they had a fine reciprocal respect for one another.

EVEN GILES . . . HE CAN'T ESCAPE THAT RACE

"It's like this, Mother. I thought I'd step up the travel allowance by running a book on the Derby. Unfortunately they all seem to have backed Pinza."

THESE ARE NAGUIB'S TROOPERS, lined up for inspection. Mostly young, only partially equipped, they are now in heavy training for Naguib's goal: "Liberation of the Suez Canal."

AT KASR-EL-NIL BARRACKS, also on Naguib's politicking tour, he has smile and handshake for regimental officers.

MINGLING WITH "LITTLE PEOPLE" in schoolyard, Naguib hands out piasters while students in foreground form pyramid . . . .

UNSMILING NOW, Naguib takes to microphone to needle Churchill in talk to troops before returning to his palace GHQ.

A Dictator Starts Politicking Early

By FRED SPARKS

CAIRO — Five a.m. Ancient Cairo stirs. The bare legs of the sleeping millions (in homes, on sidewalks, on lawns) twitch as advance batallions of flies start their buzzings.

A cannon blasts. Bells ring A very timeless prayer is wailed from a minaret. The sun floods everything, the Nile, the Pyramids, suddenly, like a tidal wave.

The awful heat of the Cairo day races in across the desert sands. Even as you step out of your shower, before you dress, you feel soggy.

There is already much activity in and around the simple home of Mohamed Naguib, General of the Egyptian Army, Premier, Boss. His five room house is ringed with barbed wire, machine gun dugouts, troopers on guard. An old brown man with a horse-hair fly whisk circulates with a portable cola container.

Dispatch riders, rearing their motors, race down the dusty lanes, shaking mongrel dogs snoozing in the shade. Inside a battery of phones jingle, politicians confer. After four hours rest Mohamed Naguib is already hard at labor. In the tenth month of his revolution there is hardly time to ponder the Koran, five times daily, the obligation of all Muselmen.

Last summer, with brother officers, Mohamed Naguib seized all power in a brilliant coup d'etat, and sent fat King Farouk into playboy exile aboard the royal yacht.

As the Arab world studies his every move, Mohamed Naguib trades threats with Sir Winston, whose forces— under lease—occupy vast bases along the Suez Canal.

Naguib calls the British an unwanted tenant and demands their eviction— by force if need be.

Despite broad support, many inside Egypt question the wisdom of complete army rule, of censorship, including those who profited under the former King and members of the Moslem Brotherhood, religious extremists.

Today to further his case, Mohamed Naguib goes whistle-stopping, not unlike campaigning in the United States.

Our convoy, led by tommy gunners in polished, jazzed up jeeps, tears through Cairo, startling pedestrain as well as camel and water buffalo traffic. But Mohamed Naguib— who Sir Winston calls a "dictator"— stops for every red light.

First is a school for learning the words of the Prophet. Barefoot boys in striped pajama gowns form a gymnastic pyramid in greeting to the Premier-General who hands out a wad of piasters.

A teacher, in semi-hysterical state, waves his prayer beads and tells me: "This is the first time perhaps in all the history of Egypt that a ruler comes among us. Farouk, curse him, played cards and other things and never left his palace."

Some more schools visited, a hospital, a building project, then a surprise pop into the huge Kasr-el Nil Barracks, home of a regiment guarding Cairo against possible British "counter-action."

The soldiers, in tan shorts, leggings and berets, tumble into the quadrangle in response to a nervous trumpet. They are generally thin, small-boned boys, products of a thousand years of vitamin

MULLOY BEATEN, MIFFED

LONDON (AP)—Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla., first-ranking tennis player in the United States, angrily stormed off the court of the swank Queen's Club Wednesday after being beaten by an unseeded Australian in the third round of the London tennis tournament.

"I should have won. I was robbed" Mulloy complained as he railed against the officiating.

Mulloy, 40, was beaten 6-8, 7-5, 8-6, by Rex Hartwig, 23-year-old Australian.

As soon as Hartwig gained the winning point, Mulloy threw his racquet in the direction of the one linesman on the court.

Mulloy complained about a number of decisions in the match, which was umpired by a woman official.

Hartwig had no complaints about the officiating. "I enjoyed the exchanges," he commented.

Out At The Kawartha

With a number of the club competitions now getting under way we have a few results to report. In the matches played so far the following have been successful over their opponents. Kawarath Cup Play: D. Menzies over R. Burns; R. Reed over M. Metcalfe; F. Smith over E. Naish; R. Shadgett over R Bennett; P. Thomas over A. L'Heureux; E. Biokell over F. Clemens.

MacGregor Cup: W. Beggs came out on top over J. Slaughter.

Now for the balance of the club news of interest. George Abbott scoring a beautiful birdie on the 4th hole entitled himself to a case of a currently popular soft drink donated by the local representative for everyone obtaining a birdie on this hole. George is the first Kawartha member to have such a score since this offer was made last weekend.

Coming events: This is a reminder to all that Doug. Burrows and Lex Robson's golf by radio will continue this Saturday at 6:05 p.m over the local station. Also the entertainment committee will put on another of the club's Saturday night dances commencing at 9 o'clock.

This weekend, too, starting at noon will see just about all of the low handicap boys getting into the qualifying round for the club championship competition.

Belleville Rink Captures The Stratton Trophy In Keen Bowling Playoff

By HERB MARTIN

Playing under weather conditions that could hardly be termed "lawn bowling weather," the Lawn Bowling Club held their annual Stratton Trophy tournament yesterday afternoon and evening—and, although the starting of the tournament was delayed for about an hour, all rinks entered stayed right through and played their three games.

And so keen was the competition that the winner was only declared after J. Davison's Belleville rink and L. E. Ross's Agincourt rink at the end of regulation play were tied and were ordered by the committee to play four ends for the trophy, the Belleville rink winning out.

CAME THIRD

Walter Wiggins, Campbellford, was the third three-game winner. The same thing happened when all the scores were handed in; there were three rinks tied for high two-game winner—W. Livingstone, Canningfon, H. Freeman Peterborough, W. W. Jeffries, Peterborough. The committee once again ordered a playoff. Freeman won from Livingston and then Jeffries defeated Freeman, but only after an extra end. Just offhand we can not recall when there were so many playoffs at the end of the day's play.

So completely did the visitors dominate the play that only one local rink reached the charmed circle. There may be bigger tournaments, but we doubt if ever any competition will be keener.

DID FINE JOB

Aaron Black, Ron Knox, and other members of the committee deserve great praise. Under very trying circumstances they did an excellent job.

Adding it all up and taking into consideration everything, it was a good tournament, and was all over around 11 p.m.

Down at Port Hope, on the half-holiday, the local ladies came home with two prizes:

High two wins—Mrs H Wilson, Mrs F. Dawe, Mrs. H. Beatty, skip.

High one win—Mrs R. Penrose, Mrs. N. Killingbeck, Mrs. L. Bearne, skip.

WINNERS

First: Stratton Trophy and each a Gruen wrist watch — Belleville: B. Miller, G. Vince, G. Edwards, J. Davison, skip.

Second, and each a Wittnauer wrist watch — Agincourt: R. Shodlock, F. Bennett, G. Hillson, L. E. Ross, skip.

Third: Each a suede jacket— Campbellford: J. Archer, F. Rutherford, D. Bennett, W. Wiggins, skip.

Fourth: Each a silver cream and sugar and tray — Peterborough: G. Braund, W. Lewis, H. R. Martin, W. W. Jeffries, skip.

Fifth: Each a silver tray—Brighton: G. Coling, L. Lockwood, M. Simpson, F. Thorne, skip.

Lindsay Takes A Close One From Liflocs

LINDSAY — (ENS) — Lindsay yanked out a 2-1 Lakeshore Baseball League victory over Peterborough Liflocs in a fine fixture here last night. Doug Loucks hurled two-hit ball and fanned eight in the seven-inning twilight tilt, as his mates booted but one behind him. Jim McGrath pitched steady ball also for the young visitors to keep seven hits scattered and he had good support, just one miscue being committed behind him, though it figured in a run.

Lindsay scored in the fifth and got the winning tally in the last stanza. Liflocs counted their lone marker in the sixth inning. On two other occasions, they had runners on third but couldn't score them in the grand struggle. Kearns, MacSporran and Foley had a stolen base each, while Lowrey stole two for the winners. Dubois had two single and Stewart a double for Lindsay. Teams:

Liflocs: Kearns, 2b; Byrne, 3b; Lingard, 1b; MacSporran, cf; Young, lf; Foley, rf; Ferguson, ss; Pammett, c; McGrath, p.

Lindsay: Lowrey, cf; Edger, 1b; Garvey, 2b; Menzies, c; Huntley, rf; Stewart, 3b; Dubois, ss; Truax, lf; Loucks, p.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

In years on the job of scoring ball games, we have found that there are few more unreasonable creatures than a ball player. He is barely satisfied when given credit for four hits in four times to bat, and a flawless fielding performance each game. Anything less and he blames everyone but himself. The official scorer is usually on the pan. It is true that scorers make the odd slip, but not nearly as many as the players themselves. The scorer often leans over backward to omit charging a fielder with an error, but one must also be fair to the pitcher, to the opposing batter and to the observant ball fan. The scorer like the umpire can only call them as he sees them.

* * * * * * *

Perhaps this player down in Jackson, Tenn., had a legitimate beef. Item says: "Sportswriter John Graham of the Sun say the incident happened recently here. A rookie from a visiting ball club smashed a single down the third-base line. Next day he picked up the newspaper and found he hadn't been credited with a hit. That night the rookie walked up to the official scorer and demanded why. 'Don't worry about it,' the scorer assured him, 'it was just a typographical error.'. 'Whaddaya mean, typographical error!' screamed the player; 'nobody never laid a hand on the ball and you know it'!" When Knotty Lee was here, he used to tell one of his dumber players: "Try not to think when you're out there on the field — it just weakens the team!"

Leading The OLA Pack

A recent OLA senior bulletin to hand from Chuck Brown, but it doesn't include the last few nights' games. Showed St. Kitts up with 18 points and Yorks next with 14. Since Petes beat Mimico the other night, they're now tied with Yorks, and these clubs clash here Friday. Fergus is either tied also with 'em or two points behind — we're not sure at the moment as the standing shifts almost nightly. Brampton, Mimico and Hamilton are back of the field. Junior setup has Long Branch and Brampton atop with three wins each in as many starts. Local Pats are tied next with a couple of clubs each with two wins and two losses, while Dundas trails the pack. Junior Pats trek to Oakville to meet the Gaels on the morrow.

* * * * * * *

Revised scoring figures in the senior OLA show Ike Hildebrand of Petes credited with 44 points before the Tuesday tilt. However, Jim McNulty of Yorks is well out in front with 52, Don Gear of Fergus has 48, Doug Smith of A's 47 and Ken Croft of Yorks 46. After Ike comes Teatro 40, Campbell 39, Davies 38 and Dobbie 37. Rusty Slater fattened his batting average in Mimico with a rash of points in a nifty showing, and it's nice to see Russ starting to hit his stride. A fine player as the season progresses. All the Petes will have to be in peak form to hold their own again the scrappy and classy West Yorks in the Friday eve number here. A natural.

* * * * * * *

Liflocs Come Close

Doug Loucks had to pitch two-hit ball to give the Lindsay intermediate ballsters (with some good senior Petes aboard) a 2-1 win at home last eve o'er the local junior Liflocs. A fine fray with Jim McGrath twirling steady ball and having near-perfect support afield. The leading Oshawa team had a no-hit hurling chore by Ted Stone recently in downing the Dalton-Mein lads, and the scribe there remarked: "It was a case of Oshawa trying to buy something off Jerry Frizzelle who kept this curves tight and was scattering his hits very nicely over the nine innings." The Liflocs are getting excellent experience in the loop this year. A meeting tonight in Port Hope to deal with the Cec. Hall case, to arrange categories, and to fix loop standings either by points or by percentage. Locals go to Bowmanville on Saturday aft.

* * * * * * *

Minor baseball appears on the comeback trail here with four service clubs and three labor groups taking an active interest in the present PMBA setup. Recreation director Alex Sinclair, saying they now have the money to proceed, has called a meeting for Friday eve at seven in the city hall. Open to managers, coaches, fathers of players and others interested. They'll deal with schedules, the four playing fields and final arrangements ere play commences. From 12 to 15 teams expected in the three brackets: peewees, bantams and the midget-juves. Coaches have been obtained and most of the teams already have seen several practise sessions. Catching equipment will be supplied along with bats, balls and perhaps T-shirts with names on' em. Good stuff.

Ti-Cat Prexy Charges Big 4 Discrimination

HAMILTON (CP)—Frank Bliss, president of the Hamilton Tiger-Cat Football Club, charged Wednesday that the Big Four Football Union is discriminating against the Tiger-Cats in favor of Toronto Argonauts and might be permitting Ottawa Rough Riders "to back into the Big Four playoffs."

Bliss said Tiger-Cats must play Argos six times while Montreal and Ottawa meet Toronto only four times. He said that while Hamilton and Toronto were "beating each other's brains out" Ottawa could back into the playoffs through six games with Montreal.

He objected to the classification by the Big Four of Argos' Billy Bass as a Canadian.

ALS SIGN THREE PLAYERS

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football League announced Wednesday night signing of three former McGill players, all with the Als last season. They are tackles Dave Tomlinson and Marvin Meirowitz and flying wing Jim Mitchener.

Bill's Triumphs Over Posties In Keen Tussle

Bill's Iunch defeated Post Office 12-10 Wednesday night at the East City Bowl, in the nightcap of a thrilling doubleheader of men's civic softball. The win strengthened Bill's hold on second place in the league standing with three wins against one defeat, to date.

A dispute arising out of failure to properly comply with the 8.30 p.m. curfew law ruled out the first game—a stirring struggle between the league-leading IOF squad and Seabrook Electric. The latter held the lead before the start of the final inning of play, and IOF the advantage when the game was called before the full frame had been completed. League manager Fred Maybee has ordered the contest replayed.

A CLOSE ONE

The afterpiece found Bill's Lunch and the Postman deadlocked after the regulation seven innings of play at 10-all; the Posties staging a six-run rally to even the score. Bill's (Monaghan Road) team had the necessary punch to score two in the ninth to eke out a close victory in a sizzling struggle. Hewie and Peters scored for the victors in the finale.

Games Monday night find Police opposing Fairviews; and Busmen the Bell Telephone squad. Teams:

Bill's Lunch: Pagett, Bradley, Sanderson, Evans, Brierley, Elliott, Bridges, Tully, Hewie, Peters, p.

Post Office: Smith, Harrison, Willshaw, Loucks, Heffernan, Wallwork, Taylor, Smith, Reid, p. Umpires: Stew Richardson, plate; Ralph Mason, bases.

P.G. & C.C. CHIPSHOTS

The past week has been a busy one for golfers of the Peterborough Club. Saturday saw some of the boys at Port Hope for Midland League play, an interesting afternoon trying to outguess the wind and tricky little greens. Some of the scores were: Joe Watson 79, Gord Whatman 84, Don Vyse 85 and Jim Clarkson 86. Gord Whatman won a shirt for second low gross in the second flight.

Qualifying rounds for the club championship have been completed and the draw is: Les Reid vs. Cec. Campbell, Stan Payne vs. Stu Williamson, Joe Watson vs. Mac Campbell, Mike O'Leary vs. Herb Bradburn, Fred Hollowell vs. Jim Clarkson, Howard David vs. Moon Wootton, Jack Hardill vs. Ossie Anderson, Ross Forgrave vs. Gord Whatman.

In the Westclox Trophy, the first round matches were played with these men winning: Moon Wootton, Stu Williamson, Jim Clarkson, Joe Watson, Mike O'Leary, Mac Campbell, Joe Frost, Hip Hardill, Cec. Campbell, Jack Hardill, J. Armstrong and Dave Schellenburg respectively over Slim Pearson, Ted Flumerfelt, Ed Dixon, Don Vyse, Dude Brady, Ted Cragg, H. Chown, Gord Gutsell, Ross Forgrave, Ira Dundas, J. Murray and Ian Blaiklock.

PLAY PROGRESSES

The round robin is progressing and some results will be in next week. This is a long running competition and golfers are asked to play as many matches as possible before the holiday season to avoid rushing to catch up later.

The 18-hole ladies' competition for this week has not been computed as some members are playing in Belleville. The nine-hole was for nearest to par on three holes and was won by Mrs. H. Inman. Mrs. C. L. Upper had low net and low gross. Playing in Belleville were Mrs. S. Williamson, Mrs. H. Baptie, Mrs. S. Pearson, Mrs. J. A. Hall and Mrs. O. M. Steer.

Business girls of the Peterborough Club played Tuesday, having fine weather and a good turnout. Winners in the nine-hole section were Dorothy Langley, the ball; and Norma Harrison, the spoon. Betty Castle took the ball in the 18-hole section.

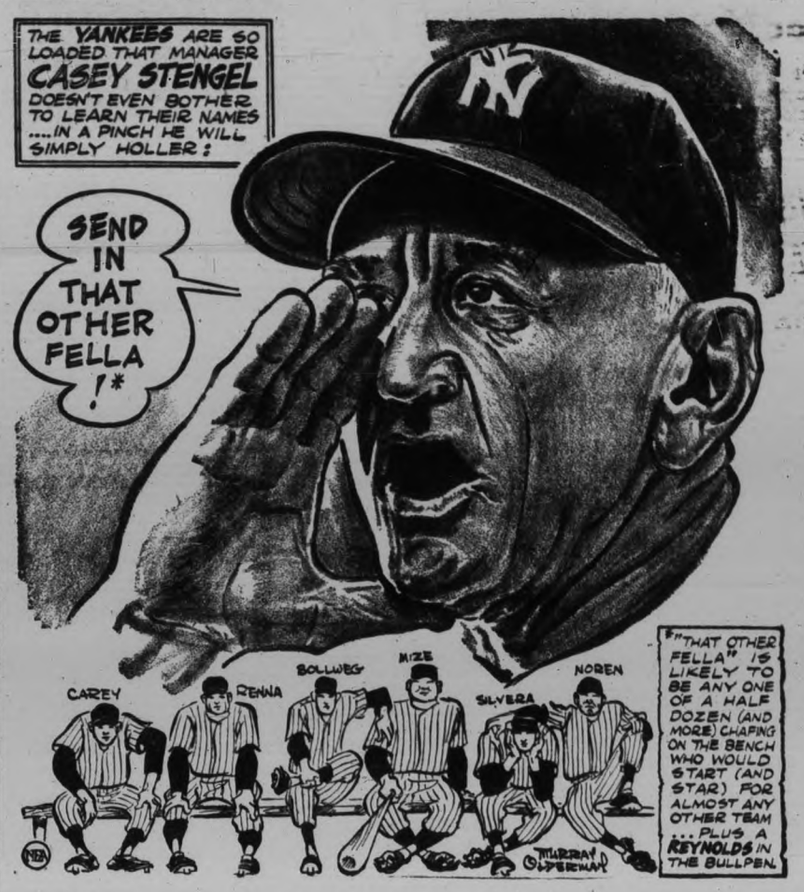
Kawartha Club girls have invited the Peterborough BGs to golf on June 25, the invitation being reported herewith.

Next Tuesday, business girls' night, an interesting film will be shown and it is hoped there will be a good attendance.

Bunty's Sons Win Clarendon Plate

TORONTO (CP) — Beau Bunty, owned by Bill Chris of Kitchener and Heptad, owned by the Armstrong Brothers of Brampton, won the two divisions of the Clarendon Plate for two-year-old Canadian-breds at Woodbine Wednesday.

Each division of the race carried a purse of $5,000.



The track was slow after heavy rain Tuesday night. Beau Bunty ran the five furlongs in 1.00 as he nosed out Trochanter in the final strides. Heptad, which had an easier time in disposing of Sgt. Vince by two lengths, coasted home in 1.00 1-5.

Both winners are sons of Bunty Lawless, one of the old heroes of Canadian thoroughbred racing.

Rain Hampers English Cricket

LONDON (Reuters)—Rain Wednesday continued to dampen English cricket, hampering every first-class match.

The Australian tourists, who ended their first Test match in a rain-caused draw with England Tuesday, were near disaster in their match with Derbyshire. Sussex 70 for no wicket vs Worcestershire. Rain restricted play.

Castellani Wins Close Decision

CLEVELAND (AP) — Granite-jawed Rocky Castellani, filling the air with counter punching lefts, avenged a February defeat by Pierre Langlois in winning a close, split decision over the hard-to-hit Frenchman Wednesday night.

Castellani weighed 158 and Langlois 160 for a bout that drew loud boos when the decision was announced.

Referee Jackie Davis scored it six for Castellani and four for Langlois. Judge Herb Williams had it four for Castellani, five for Langlois and one even and judge Charlie Bill called it six, three, one in favor of Castellani.

The bout often lapsed into a boring, tugging match.

Braves 'Club 'Em To Death', Lead National League By 2½

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

Maybe those hit-happy Milwaukee Braves made a secret excursion to Yankee Stadium on their last trip east. Somewhere along the line they certainly stole a copy of the New Yorkers' private book on how to win pennants. Applying the techniques described in the chapter "club 'em to death," the Braves mopped up their new stadium with Philadelphia Phillies 9-6 Wednesday night and pulled 2½ games out in front of the rest of the National League.

The Braves came home Tuesday only a half game off Brooklyn's pace after a 22-game road trip. They remedied this by winning two from the Phils Tuesday night while the Dodgers bowed to St. Louis.

THUMP DODGERS

Wednesday night's victory came as the Cards again obliged by thumping Brooklyn 9-3.

The Braves play 18 of their next 21 games at home where they have a spectacular 16-4 record. With second-place Brooklyn on the road and the third-place Cardinals still 6½ games behind, this could be the Braves' big chance to blow the race apart.

Chicago defeated Pittsburgh 5-4 in 16 innings—longest game of the season in either league—and New York Giants beat Cincinnati 4-3.

New York Yankees hit the winning trail again at the expense of St. Louis Browns, who broke the New Yorkers' 18-game victory streak Tuesday night. The Yankees won 5-3 Wednesday with Allie Reynolds back on the starting line after a siege of bullpen duty.

INDIANS WIN

Cleveland Indians outlasted Philadelphia Athletics 9-6 to end a six-game losing run. The Athletics had won seven straight. Bob Avila drove in four runs with a home run and a double.

Boston smothered Detroit Tigers 17-1 and Walt Masterson threw a sparkling two-hitter for Chicago White Sox to give Washington a 1-0 decision.

The Braves jumped to a 7-0 lead over the Phils in the first three innings with an attack which included home runs by Joe Adcock and Del Crandall in the third, let the Phils get within striking distance at 7-6, then pulled it out with a final two runs in the eighth.

The Cardinals, aided by a pair of doubles by Stan Musial and Steve Bilko's eighth homer, scored all their runs after two were out. The Cards pushed five runs across in the seventh.

ENDS MARATHON

The marathon at Chicago ended when Randy Jackson singled with the bases loaded in the 16th off Johnny Hetki.

Rookie Ruben Gomez, with help from Hoyt Wilhelm, won his second game in a starting role for the Giants. He gave up six hits in eight innigs. Rookie Gilbert homered for New York.

Billy Martin sparked the Yankees' return to form against the Browns with a perfect day at bat—three singies in three times up, driving in a pair of runs.

Willard Nixon celebrated his 25th birthday in high style at Boston where he gave up only five hits and contributed a pair of his own to the Red Sox' 20-hit assault on four Detroit pitchers. Dick Gernert homered twice for the Red Sox, driving in three runs.

Royals Stunned On 4-Hitter Hurled By Rookie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ottawa's Robert Lee Trice, a roduct of the class C Provincial aseball League, is proving himelf one of the best rookies to raduate this season into triple A all.

Trice, a righthander who played big part in leading St. Hyacinthe thletics to the Provincial League ennant last year, currently is eading the International League oster of pitchers.

The 24-year-old hurler from eorgia practically won his own ame Wednesday night as the thletics dropped Montreal Royals 1-0.

A happy Ottawa crowd saw Trice un the Royals with a brilliant our-hitter, besides batting in five uns. It was eighth victory gainst three defeats.

CUBS NIP CHIEFS

The tail-end Springfield Cubs deeated the seventh-place Syracuse hiefs 3-1 at Springfield for their fth straight win, behind John 'yecha's five-hit performance. This 'as Pyecha's first League victory.

Rochester Red Wings, who now ail Montreal by 3½ games, bowed Baltimore Orioles 4-3 in the pener of doubleheader, but ounced back to spray 18 hits all ver Baltimore's Memorial Staium and clobber the Orioles 10-0 n the nightcap.

Cot Deal held Baltimore to six its in the Rochester victory, aidng his cause with two safeties and pair of runs batted in. Tom urgess rapped an inside-the-park omer for Rochester.

Jocko Thompson and Ron Mrozaski pitched eight-hit ball for the rioles in the first game, Thompon getting the nod.
